PRESS OF COUNTRY PRAISED

Officers of Anti-Tuberculosis Association Acknowledge Debt in Fight Against Dread Disease.

Publicity in newspapers and magazine to the amount of 1,500,000 inches a year on tuberculosis and its prevention is being given by the press of the United States, according to an estimate issued recently by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. If all the publicity on tuberculosis given by the press of this country gathered in one paper, the National Association estimates it would make a paper of over 6,250 pages. In the last four years, during which time an active publicity campaign has been carried on, the National Association estimates that over 5,000,000 inches, or over 90 miles, of press notices on tuberculosis have been published.

"Publicity is the very heart of the educational campaign against tuberculosis," says Dr. Livingston Farrand, the executive secretary of the national association. "Largely because of the intelligent co-operation of the press has the anti-tuberculosis movement in this country been able to become, as it is, the greatest organized movement of its kind in the world. When tuberculosis shall have become a rare disease the American press may justly claim a large share in this gigantic achievement."

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week in Condensed Form.

Faribault.—Judge John C. Turner, a pioneer resident of this city is dead.

Hibbing.—Unless some better means can be found to combat trachoma at the mining locations, foreigners afflicted with the disease in advanced stages may be deported.

St. Paul. — Governor A. O. Eberhart will not call a special session of the legislature, as requested by the state managers of the Roosevelt and La Follette presidential moves.

Crookston. — "Dude" Holberg was arrested here by Deputy Sheriff Kelly and Chief Eck, charged with blowing the safe in Albert Jance's saloon on December 9 last, when $200 was obtained.

Cannon Falls.—The badly decomposed body of an unknown man was found near Stanton. The body lay face downward in a clump of underbrush and was partly inbedded in snow and ice.

Moorhead.—A. J. Rustad, known as the "Norwegian Prince," took his life. He had been in bad health for two years and especially despondent recently. He leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter.

Mankato. — On complaint of E. B. Helberg, state dairy and food inspector, Henry Hanson, a Lake Crystal meat dealer, pleaded guilty to adulterating bologna sausage with coal tar dye, and paid a fine of $25.

St. Paul. — Miss Ada M. Cox, aged 25, stenographer of Chicago, recovered a verdict of $15,208 in her suit for $25,000 damages against William R. Edwards, millionaire, head of the Edwards Lumber company, for breach of promise.

Duluth. — E. J. Fillatrault, president of the Duluth Rotary club, has received word that the national convention of Rotary clubs of America will be held in Duluth the latter part of July or the first week of August.

Mora.—Eugene Thomas, the sixteen-year-old Minneapolis boy who confessed to shooting and killing R. N. Winters in a lonely cabin near here ten days or more ago, pleaded guilty before Judge Stolberg to murder in the second degree and was immediately condemned to a sentence without limit as to time, and also at hard labor in the state reformatory at St. Cloud.

Winona.—Spring and the approach of the seeding season is being heralded with optimistic expressions by the farmers of Southern Minnesota. The winter's heavy snow has been of inestimable value in preparing the soil for the 1912 crops. Everywhere the belief prevails that this season is to establish a record. Fortified with this feeling, farmers are planning their work, which is to be actively begun within the next two or three weeks. Plowing will begin within a few days, it is believed.

Duluth.—Mayor John A. McCuen said that he will approve the resolution passed by the city council opening negotiations with the Duluth Edison Electric company for the purchase of its plant. The resolution states that the council is unalterably opposed to entering into any contract with the Edison company, and asks the company to submit to the council the lowest price which it will accept for the property. It appears that several of the aldermen in the council did not fully appreciate the significance of the resolution at the time it was read by the city clerk. Some of them since have said they are not desirous of going on record as being unalterably opposed to entering into any contract with the local light company.

Duluth.—To make Duluth a "city of homes" and to procure a population of 100,000 by January 1, 1914, is the purpose of the Greater Duluth club, organized at a gathering of business and professional men. The new club will work for the interests of Duluth and its surrounding territory, and its slogan will be, "I am for Duluth." To this end those at the head of the Greater Duluth club already have procured the signatures of 400 business and professional men as members of the club, and it is planned to have a membership of 500 at the banquet April 23 in honor of Edmund Pennington, president of the Soo railroad, to celebrate the opening of the Frederic extension, which will give a new line from Duluth to the Twin City.

Washington.—Representative Steenerson introduced a bill which seeks to prevent the federal courts from taking jurisdiction in cases where the sum involved is less than $10,000 instead of $3,000, as at present, and which will deny defendant corporations the right to remove suits brought against them from the county in which process is served or where the cause of the action arose. Mr. Steenerson's measure is aimed principally at railroads, lumber and other corporations composed principally or entirely of Minnesota men, but incorporated under the laws of Wisconsin or other states, which permits them to force damage suits against them into federal courts hundreds of miles away from the cause of the action.

Arson Laid to Realty Man.

Duluth. — Vernon G. Bell, a real estate man, is in custody charged with attempting to burn a house he owned. He hired a man to do the job, the police say, and the man happening to be a detective connected with the city force, let Mr. Bell go as far as he liked with the details. When Bell had finished the plot, it is alleged, and had turned over part of the insurance policy to the sleuth, he was arrested. An ex-convict, whom he is said to have first approached, is alleged to have notified the police.

Sheriff Stops Prize Fight.

Duluth. — The scheduled prize fight between Art Godfrey, of Minneapolis, and George Perkins, of Milwaukee, at a local hall was stopped by Sheriff Meining. The authorities arrested the principals. The men were about to shake hands and begin the fight when the sheriff and several deputies entered the ring and made the arrests. After his arrest, by a ruse at the jail, Perkins made his escape and hurried across the bay to Superior. He is outside the jurisdiction of the sheriff now.

BACKACHE A SIGNAL OF DISTRESS

Pain in the back is the kidneys' signal of distress. If this timely warning is ignored, there is grave danger of dropsy, gravel, uric poisoning, or Bright's disease.

When you have reason to suspect your kidneys, use a special kidney medicine.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve weak, congested kidneys—cure backache—regulate the urine. Good proof in the following statement.

A DOCTOR'S TESTIMONY

Dr. H. Green, 216 N. 9th Street, North Yakima, Wash. says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills in my practice for years and they have given satisfaction. I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills personally and pronounce them the best remedy I have prescribed in my long career as a physician and surgeon."

Bathetic.

General Marion Maus has a keen and delicate taste in literature, and at a recent dinner at Vancouver Barracks, discussing a popular novel of little worth, General Maus said:

"The pathos of the book is really bathos. It reminds me of a private's widow. The good woman was about to sell her household furniture, her rugs, plated ware and what not. As she was going over these articles her eyes filled with tears, a host of memories rose to her mind, and, laying aside a half-dozen knives, she said:

"'Oh, dear! I can't let these go! They've been in poor George's mouth too often!'"

When to Call the Doctor.

When to summon the doctor is a point which has probably puzzled most people at one time or another, but in the case of throat and intestinal troubles there should be no uncertainty, says a medical authority. The doctor should be summoned at once, for the sore throat may be diphtheria, and the intestinal symptoms may mean peritonitis, appendicitis or any one of a dozen complications of serious character. Valuable time and the golden opportunity may be wasted by waiting for symptoms that are severe enough to justify calling the doctor.

SHE QUIT COFFEE
And Much Good Came From It.

It is hard to believe that coffee will put a person in such a condition as it did a woman of Apple Creek, O. She tells her own story:

"I did not believe coffee caused my trouble, and frequently said I liked it so well I would not quit drinking it, even if it took my life, but I was a miserable sufferer from heart trouble and nervous prostration for four years.

"I was scarcely able to go around at all. Had no energy, and did not care for anything. Was emaciated and had a constant pain around my heart until I thought I could not endure it. I felt as though I was liable to die any time.

"Frequently I had nervous chills and the least excitement would drive sleep away, and any little noise would upset me terribly. I was gradually getting worse until finally one day, it came over me, and I asked myself what is the use of being sick all the time and buying medicine so that I can indulge myself in coffee?

"So I thought I would see if I could quit drinking coffee, and got some Postum to help me quit. I made it strictly according to directions, and I want to tell you that change was the greatest step in my life. It was easy to quit coffee because I had the Postum which I like better than I liked the old coffee. One by one the old troubles left, until now I am in splendid health, nerves steady, heart all right, and the pain all gone. Never have any more nervous chills, don't take any medicine, can do all my housework, and have done a great deal besides.

"My sister-in-law, who visited me this summer had been an invalid for some time, much as I was. I got her to quit coffee and drink Postum. She gained five pounds in three weeks, and I never saw such a change in anyone's health."

"There's a reason."

Preparing the Eggs for Easter

HOME-MADE Easter eggs frequently fall in effect because they are not properly prepared.

Look over each egg carefully to see that it is not cracked or all work is wasted, then wash off with warm water to remove soil. Put aside such eggs as are to be boiled hard and colored and in a separate mound put those with most perfect surface for painting or other decorations. Make very sure there is no mixing, as a broken raw egg is not pleasing.

Colored eggs can be made any tint with special dyes, or if these are unobtainable cheap ribbon can be boiled in a little water and the boiled egg submerged in it until the right tone is acquired.

The old-fashioned calico egg will be pleasing to this generation of youngsters. Tie each egg in a piece of cheap figured chintz of high color and it will leave its design on the egg when put in boiling water.

If you have nothing else for coloring boil the egg after tying up in the red skins of onions.

Quaint designs can be boiled into the egg by tracing figures on the shell of the raw egg with a hard tallow candle to make a white surface, then color the rest of the egg in dyed water.

When eggs are to be painted for place cards or caricatures, they need more careful treatment. Wipe the washed egg in powdered pumice to remove gloss of shell and make painting take better.

The blowing must be carefully done or the shell will crack. Prick both ends with a coarse needle. The hole should be just large enough to permit the contents being expelled. Too large an opening is disfiguring, besides making a crack more probable.

Put the egg to the mouth and blow gently at first, then hard and steadily until nothing more comes. Rinse with warm water and blow out several times again. Dry carefully so all water will run out.

To paint the egg trace the outlines with a hard pencil, then color with good water colors, as they dry most quickly. If the egg is to be filled with candy one hole may be made big enough to hold tiny candied drops. When the shell is filled paste the hole with thin paper.

Any one can paint some sort of face on an egg shell, and if further decorations in the way of hat, hair, or stock are added great delight will be given.

A girl with artistic ability can make fascinating place cards from egg shells in the forms of rabbits, owls, pigs, cupid heads, old ladies, or gay belles. These are pasted to flat cards on which a name or Easter greeting is written in gilt letters.

When the egg represents an entire figure the feet are painted on the card; when only the head, it can be set on a short tube to represent a neck, and this can be draped with stock or collar.

Use a good glue in pasting the eggs to the card, as paste or mucilage will not hold well.

Great fun for an Easter party is to supply the blank cards, blown egg shells, scissors, paints, and colored papers and set the guests to evolving their own egg ornaments. Prizes can be offered for the most successful.

EASTER STYLES ON THE RESERVATION.

Madam Bucket-of-Water, wife of Big Chief Standon-His-Head, has imported from Paris her spring costume, consisting of a hand-made coffee sack and a tube of ultra-marine blue from one of the leading studios.

Miss Sun-in-Her-Eyes, the bewitching daughter of Hog Bristle Pete, appeared in a new riding habit Tuesday. It is made of a blanket from a Pullman car, tied at the waist with barbwire.

Miss Moonlight-on-the-Mountain is wearing a fetching headdress composed of the tail feathers of the chicken that was mysteriously lost by one of the palefaces last week.

The modistes are getting in their spring stocks of paint. Economical women are buying it by the gallon, but those who wish variety of costume are taking several pint cans of different colors.

Among our young men much interest is manifested in the new dancing coat, consisting of a priming color of yellow ocher, over which is applied two coats of oxide of iron, with trimmings of Nile green.

LOOK AFTER YOUR HEALTH

If Your System Is Kept Toned Up You Will Escape Many Diseases That Find Easy Victims Among Pale People.

Enough disease germs enter the average human body every day to cause death if the healthful organism did not combat these germs and render them harmless.

Let the human system become run down, or debilitated, and this power of resistance to disease is weakened. Soon the disease germs get the upper hand, an acute sickness follows or the patient becomes a chronic invalid.

It is in the blood that the battle to maintain the health is fought. Keep the blood toned up, the bowels open and observe ordinary care as regards food and rest and you will avoid much sickness.

Debility is not a recognized disease but is a condition in which the sufferer cannot get a good night's sleep, wakes up all tired out, has no strength or ambition, is nervous, has a poor appetite, has trouble with the stomach, and is subject to headaches and backaches. It is most commonly met with in people who have to work hard, are confined indoors, eat improper food or have worries and grief.

The case of Mrs. M. V. McCaslin, of No. 202 South 27th Street, Lincoln, Neb., shows the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic for all run-down conditions of health. She says:

"I gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People a trial for general debility from which I had been suffering about three years. I was thoroughly tired and worn out and had no ambition for anything. I became very weak and kept losing strength. My appetite was poor and I was nervous and had severe headaches.

"I needed a tonic treatment and tried several tonic remedies but none seemed to help me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I was soon much improved in health and able to get around and do my work. I took the pills until cured and am pleased to recommend them to anyone who is run down in health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

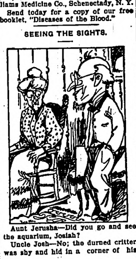
SEEING THE SIGHTS.



Aunt Jerusha—Did you go and see the aquarium, Josiah?

Uncle Josh—No; the durned critter was shy and hid in a corner of his cage.

"ECZEMA ITCHED SO BADLY I COULDN'T STAND IT."

"I suffered with eczema on my neck for about six months, beginning by little pimples breaking out. I kept scratching till the blood came. It kept getting worse, I couldn't sleep nights any more. It kept itching for about a month, then I went to a doctor and got some liquid to take. It seemed as if I was going to get better. The itching stopped for about three days, but when it started again, was even worse than before. The eczema itched so badly I couldn't stand it any more.

"I went to a doctor and he gave me some medicine, but didn't do any good. We have been having Cuticura Remedies in the house, so I decided to try them. I had been using Cuticura Soap, so I got me a box of Cuticura Ointment, and washed off the affected part with Cuticura Soap three times a day, and then put the Cuticura Ointment on. The first day I put it on, it relieved me of itching so I could sleep all that night. It took about a week, then I could see the scab come off. I kept the treatment up for three weeks, and my eczema was cured.

"My brother got his face burned with gun-powder, and he used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. The people all thought he would have scars, but you can't see that he ever had his face burned. It was simply awful to look at before the Cuticura Remedies (Soap and Ointment) cured it." (Signed) Miss Elizabeth Gehrki, Forrest City, Ark., Oct. 16, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Women to Wear Mantillas in Church.

Women of St. Francis De Sales Cathedral will introduce into this country the custom of wearing in church the graceful lace headdress of the Spanish women in place of hats. The innovation was suggested by Rev. Dr. O'Connor to the members of the Altar society and at the general communion of the society the scarfs will be worn.

"The hats of today have become a monstrosity," says Rev. Dr. O'Connor, addressing the society.—Toledo correspondence Cleveland Leader.

Sure Does.

"The pen is mightier than the sword."

"But the typewriter put it all over the pen."

For Constipation, Biliousness, Liver and Kidney Troubles, take Garfield Tea.

There are two things calculated to make a man's head swim—a merry-go-round and a merry widow.

Baking Economy.

By the use of perfect baking powder the housewife can derive as much economy as from any other article used in baking and cooking. In selecting a baking powder, therefore, care should be exercised to purchase one that retains its original strength and always remains the same, thus making the food sweet and wholesome and producing sufficient leavening gas to make the baking light.

Very little of this leavening gas is produced by the cheap baking powders, making it necessary to use double the quantity ordinarily required to secure good results.

You cannot experiment every time you make a cake or biscuits, or test the strength of your baking powder to find out how much of it you should use; yet with most baking powders you should do this, for they are put together so carelessly they are never uniform, the quality and strength varying with each can purchased.

Calumet Baking Powder is made of chemically pure ingredients of tested strength. Experienced chemists put it up. The proportions of the different materials remain always the same. Sealed in airtight cans Calumet Baking Powder does not alter in strength and is not affected by atmospheric changes.

In using Calumet you are bound to have uniform bread, cake or biscuits, as Calumet does not contain any cheap, useless or adulterating ingredients so commonly used to increase the weight. Further, it produces pure, wholesome food and is a baking powder of rare merit; therefore is recommended by leading physicians and chemists. It complies with all the pure food laws, both STATE and NATIONAL. The goods are moderate in price, and any lady purchasing Calumet from her grocer, if not satisfied with it can return it and have her money refunded.

LYNCH LAW.

The Reason.

"Yes," replied the composer. "They wouldn't have any vogue among people who live in flats if I had them played softly."

There is nothing heavenly about war,—or Dyspepsia. The world is outgrowing the first, and Garfield Tea will conquer Dyspepsia.

The Farmer's Son's Great Opportunity

Why wait for the old farm to become your inheritance? Begin now to prepare for your future prosperity and independence. A great opportunity awaits you in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta, where you can secure a Free Homestead or buy land at reasonable prices.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

Now's the Time —not a year from now, when land will be higher. The profits secured from the abundant crops of Wheat, Oats and Barley, as well as cattle raising, are causing a steady advance in price. Government returns show that the number of settlers in Western Canada from the U. S. was 50 per cent larger in 1910 than the previous year.

Many farmers have paid for their land out of the proceeds of one crop.

Free Homesteads of 160 acres and pre-emptions of 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. Fine climate, good schools, excellent railway facilities, low freight rates; wood, water and lumber easily obtained.

For pamphlet "Last Best West," particulars as to suitable location and low settlers' rate, apply to Sup't of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or to Canadian Gov't Agent.

THE HEART

If the blood is poor and filled with the poisons from diseased kidneys or inactive liver, the heart is not only starved but poisoned as well. There are many conditions due to impure blood—such as dropsy, fainting spells, nervous debility or the many scrofulous conditions, ulcers, "fever sores," white swellings, etc. All can be overcome and cured by

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

This supplies pure blood—by aiding digestion, increasing assimilation and imparting tone to the whole circulatory system. It's a heart tonic and a great deal more, having an alterative action on the liver and kidneys, it helps to eliminate the poisons from the blood.

To enrich the blood and increase the red blood corpuscles, thereby feeding the nerves on rich red blood and doing away with nervous irritability, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and do not permit a dishonest dealer to insult your intelligence with the "just as good kind." The "Discovery" has 40 years of cures behind it and contains no alcohol or narcotics. Ingredients plainly printed on wrapper.

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of wrapping and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for the French cloth-bound book. Address: Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N.Y.

AINSWORTH REPORT SCORES STIMSON

SECRETARY IS CHARGED WITH HAVING COMMITTED AN "IRREPARABLE WRONG."

PRESIDENT IS CRITICISED

Prejudice Toward Army Man Charged.—General Is Exonerated.—Alleged the Truth Has Been Suppressed.

Washington, April 10.—President Taft and Secretary Stimson are severely arraigned in a sensational report on the Ainsworth case presented to the house by the military affairs committee.

Secretary Stimson is charged with having committed a "great and irreparable wrong" and a "flagrant misuse of official authority" when last February he suspended General Ainsworth from his duties as adjutant general of the army and charged him with insubordination. That the president and Secretary Stimson prejudiced the case, that the accusations against the general were based upon prejudice and that the secretary of war has an "erroneous idea" of his relation to congress, are some of the conclusions reached by a majority of the committee, of which Representative Hayes of Virginia is chairman.

Following General Ainsworth's relief from duty and when a courtmartial seemed probable, the president permitted him to retire from the army because of his long service. The report follows an investigation of General Ainsworth's relief from duty, set afoot by a resolution by Representative Watkins of Louisiana.

Criticising the relief of General Ainsworth the report declares the "worst feature of it was that this officer of long and distinguished service had no tribunal to which he could appeal with any hope of justice or fair treatment."

The majority of the committee conclude that General Ainsworth had been guilty of no act which justified the letter of suspension from Secretary Stimson and "that the charges had origin in a determination to drive General Ainsworth from active service and have nothing to support them but bare assertion, coupled with misrepresentation and suppression of the truth."

Indian Appropriation Bill Passed.

The Indian bill, carrying approximately $7,500,000, was passed by the house. It now goes to the senate where five other general appropriation bills are pending.

Grain Man Has Remedy.

Washington, April 10.—Government supervision of grain and cotton exchanges as the relief from violent fluctuation in prices of commodities and the safeguard against universal speculation and gambling, was proposed by W. B. Thompson, former president of the New Orleans stock exchange who appeared before the house committee on agriculture in opposition to the anti-option bills.

Chas. B. Pierce of the Chicago Board of Trade declared that speculation in the grain exchange was no more than the speculation a man dealt in when he bought a grocery store.

In concluding the testimony, W. J. McCabe, a Duluth broker, assailed the bucket shop, which he said did not come into competition with brokers' offices, and which, in his opinion, carried on business illegally.

A charge that Wall street and the big corporations are controlling the house "money trust" inquiry was made by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, Republican, in a resolution which would compel every member to disclose his business and corporation affiliations.

Each member of the house would have to file his own bank holdings and those of his family. Names of members who failed to do so would be published in a congressional record "blacklist."

In a statement explaining the purpose of his resolution Mr. Lindbergh declared some committee members are controlled by persons whose personal work is hostile to the public interest. He said most of the "money trust" committee were interested in banks and that Wall street had the power to intimidate bankers.

Titanic on Her Maiden Voyage.

London, April 10.—Carrying many prominent persons, the liner Titanic of the White Star Line, than which there is no larger vessel afloat, sailed from Southampton today on her maiden voyage bound for New York. The Titantic, which is of 45,000 tons displacement, is sister ship to the Olympic.

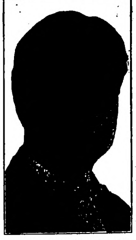
Taft Condemns Lynching.

Washington, April 10. — President Taft condemned lynching in vigorous terms in an address before the alumni of Howard university, the largest negro institution of higher learning in this country.

Milwaukee After Auto Race.

Milwaukee, April 10.—At a meeting of the Milwaukee Automobile association, it was announced that the Vanderbilt cup race has been finally awarded to Milwaukee, and that the grand prix is probably to come here.

SENATOR W. E. BORAH.



Senator Borah is the author of the bill, just passed by congress, creating a federal bureau to look after the welfare of the nation's children.

WEATHER FINE, SEEDING IS ON

FARMERS AWARE THAT EVERY MOMENT IS PRECIOUS.

Operations Prevalent Throughout State—Red River Prospects Good.

Fargo, April 10.—During the last two days North Dakota farmers have seeded thousands of acres. The weather has been ideal, the government thermometer registering 80 degrees throughout the day. Farmers, aware that every moment is precious, have put every available team in the field and are rushing work in order to get all their seeding done before the rain, which prophets say is almost due, owing to the extremely warm weather.

The weather bureau predicts a continuation of the warm weather.

Reports from over the state indicate that every effort is being made to get in as much grain as possible each day in anticipation of a rain.

Crop conditions were never better in any section of the state, say reports. Through the Red River valley crop prospects are said to be the best in history. Similar conditions prevail in the Golden valley on the Montana state line in the western part of the state.

The slope country, just west of the Golden valley, is busy putting in the crop. Gas tractor plows broke many hundreds of acres in that section last fall and the state's grain acreage will be materially increased this year as a result.

Seventy-five gas tractor outfits have worked in the southwestern part of the state, breaking land for two years. Much of this was planted to flax a year ago and this land will be put into diversified crops this season.

PARADE AT BELFAST

150,000 Pass in Review Before A. Bonar Law, Unionist Leader.

Belfast, April 9.—That the opposition of the province of Ulster, on which the Irish Unionists mainly base their hopes of ultimately defeating the forthcoming home rule bill, remains as virile as in 1886 and 1893, the years in which William E. Gladstone introduced his two home rule bills for Ireland, seems to have been fairly demonstrated by the vast throngs of Orangemen and Unionists, who today again registered their "unaltered and unalterable opposition to a separate parliament for Ireland in any form."

A demonstration of 150,000 enthusiasts passed in procession before Andrew Bonar Law and other prominent Unionist leaders at the Royal Ulster Agricultural society's grounds.

REHEAR REBATE SUIT

Action of Iowa Company Involves Thousands of Dollars.

Des Moines, April 10.—The famous rebate suit brought against the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad company by the Agar Packing Co., involving many thousands of dollars, must be heard again in the Polk county district court, according to a decision of the Iowa supreme court.

Because of alleged discriminations in favor of agents for eastern packers at Valley Junction, Iowa, the Agar company claims to have been driven into bankruptcy.

The court held that the railroad company did not make a proper plea to claim the benefits of the statute of limitations and ordered a rehearing.

Man Weighing 850 Pounds Dies.

Boston, April 10.—The abnormal weight of 850 pounds attained by Abraham Sodekson caused his death from fatty degeneration of the heart. He was 26 years old. Four weeks ago, when taken ill, Sodekson weighed 434 pounds. During his sickness he gained 20 pounds a day.

Child Bureau Bill Signed.

OCEAN STEAMER BURNS ON REEF

THE ONTARIO CATCHES FIRE OFF MONTAUK POINT, LONG ISLAND.

PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF

Wireless Sends Warning All Along North Atlantic and Life Saving Crew Use the Breeches Buoy Apparatus.

Montauk Point, L. I., Apr. 9.—Twenty-nine women and children were taken from the burning steamer Ontario of the Merchants & Miners' line off Montauk Point by the tug Tasco from London, Conn. A 8:30 a. m. Captain Reed sent word ashore that the fire was under control. The vessel was then hard aground and apparently in no danger of breaking. The tug landed the passengers at New London, Conn.

A breeches buoy was shot to the vessel from the shore when she first went on the rocks at 3 a. m., but the captain, after transferring the passengers to a tug, sent word by life savers that his crew would remain aboard. Long before daylight they had chopped a dozen holes through the pilot house and water was pumped by the vessel's engines into the hold.

The fire broke out during the night and became so threatening that shortly before 2 a. m. Captain Reed ordered the wireless operator to send "S. O. S." distress signals. An hour later he turned back upon his course and drove the vessel full speed ahead for the reefs off Montauk Point.

Through the early hours the wireless sputtered along the entire north Atlantic coast with news of the vessel's danger. Ten minutes later the men at this station saw the ship on the rocks, hurried off with a breeches buoy apparatus and, later, dragged their surf boat on its truck three miles over the beach to the burning steamer.

The live savers, reinforced by a crew from the Hither Plain station, two miles away, transferred the passengers in small boats to a tug and stood off at readiness to take the crew ashore if need be. Although the flames could not be seen, a great cloud of steam and smoke arose from the burning ship and spread a haze along the waterfront for miles. Captain Reed told the life savers that the fire was confined entirely to the hold.

The Ontario is a vessel of 1,987 tons net. She is 290 feet long, of steel, and was built in 1904. She left Baltimore Saturday.

WILL BE REARGUED.

Supreme Court Orders Rehearing of the Intermountain Cases.

Washington, April 9.—Reargument of the so-called "intermountain rate cases" was ordered by the supreme court of the United States. Chief Justice White gave no reason for the reargument, merely stating that they would be "restored for argument before a full bench."

The reargument will permit Justice Pitney to participate in the decision of the cases. All the other justices heard the cases when they were argued in February.

The cases involve the constitutionality of the "long and short haul" provisions of the interstate commerce law and the power of the interstate commerce commission to make "blanket" rates over a large zone of territory instead of acting merely on rates from specific points.

DR. MAYO TO EUROPE.

Rochester Party Will Sail From New York on Thursday.

Rochester, Minn., April 7.—Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Mayo, Miss Phoebe Mayo, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Balfour, Dr. and Mrs. Christopher Graham, Miss Elizabeth Graham and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kahler of this city, and Mrs. George Parmelee of Minneapolis constitute a party bound for Europe, Germany being the main point of interest. They will sail on the Amerika of the Hamburg-American line, returning about June 1.

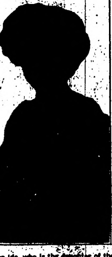
Ore Loading to Begin.

Superior, Wis., April 9.—Iron ore mines on the western Mesaba range served by the Great Northern railway will be brought to the docks at Superior immediately to be in readiness for shipment down the lakes when navigation opens. The Great Northern has contracted to move 12,000 tons of iron ore this season.

General Bragg's Pension Raised.

Washington, April 9. — The tendency toward liberality by congress in pension matters was illustrated by an order passed in the committee on pensions of the United States senate to pay a pension of $100 a month to General Edward S. Bragg of Fond du Lac, Wis. General Bragg was one of the commanders of the Iron Brigade during the Civil war, and when he served in congress 25 years ago was one of the most vigorous opponents of liberal pension legislation that ever served in congress.

MISS MARJORIE IDE



Miss Ide, who is the daughter of the American minister to Spain, is to marry Mr. Shane Leslie of Glaslough, Ireland, in June.

SOUTHERN DIKES HOLD FIRM

LEVEES GUARD RICHEST COTTON COUNTRY IN WORLD.

Vicksburg, April 10.—Long leads of reinforced dikes guarding the delta country's rich shores and numerous villages from the stress of the Mississippi flood hold strong. The day's hardest strife came at Miller's Bend, a few miles above Greenville, where the yellow tide topped the crown of the levee several times.

Hundreds of men were fighting the flood in the reaches above Greenville last night. The battle has been under way for the last three days. A breach in the levee at this point means the inundation of the central and southern portions of the world's most fertile cotton country.

Apparently the break near Golden Lake, Ark., north of Memphis, has exerted no effect on the flood of the lower river reaches. This break will tend to hold back the crest in the delta and Yazoo districts, but eventually all this water must come down the valley.

The situation along the river stretches south of Vicksburg last night practically is unchanged. Armed patrols march up and down the levees at intervals, prepared to head off any attempt to cut the dikes. The possibility being that persons living in the threatened reaches might cut the embankments miles above their territory, thus relieving the pressure on the lower levee.

New Orleans Flood Stage Reached.

New Orleans.—The Mississippi river reached the flood stage of 18 feet at New Orleans, showing two-tenths of a foot rise in one day. The crest was not scheduled to reach this city until May 1, when the weather bureau predicts the gauge here will register 21.5 feet, nearly one foot above the previous high record. State and federal engineers in charge of the work said the chances were more than even that the levees would hold at points apparently weak. There is no feeling of uneasiness in New Orleans.

Steamer Sinks; 200 are Drowned.

Cairo, April 10.—Over 200 passengers are believed to have been drowned by the sinking of a Nile excursion steamer after a collision with another steamer in the vicinity of the great dam on the river about fifteen miles to the northwest of Cairo and a few miles from Kalyub.

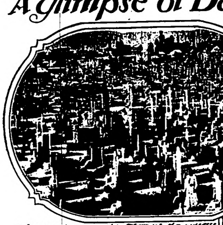
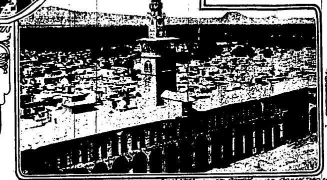
It is hoped and expected that the placing of these houses will induce a number of the purple martins to make their homes in Winona the coming summer.

The Mother City of the World
A glimpse of Damascus



THE CEMETERY OF THE MAIDAN AT DAMASCUS

ONE OF THE BUSIEST BAZARS



DAMASCUS AND THE COURT OF THE GREAT MOSQUE

COURT AND GUEST CHAMBER OF A JEWISH HOME IN DAMASCUS

"GO BACK," wrote the late Mark Twain, "as far as you will into the vague past, there is always a Damascus. To her years are only moments, decades only flitting trifles of time; she measures time not by days, months, and years, but by the empires she has seen rise and prosper and then crumble into ruin. She is a type of immortality."

Indeed Damascus is the oldest of cities and for that reason is often referred to as the mother city of the world. When Abraham crossed the desert from Haran, four thousand years ago, Damascus was already standing on the banks of the Abana, in Syria, and no one knows how long it stood there before that time, for its origin is lost in mists of antiquity. "Babylon is a heap in the desert and Tyre a ruin on the shore," but Damascus still remains. Rome has been called the Eternal City, but Damascus is twice as old as Rome. Its history runs back to the beginning of the world and bids fair to go on to its end.

It has lived through all these long centuries and no historian has yet had the opportunity to write its decline and fall. This is remarkable when it is remembered that not less than twelve times it has been pillaged and burned, yet it has always arisen with new beauty from its ashes. It has been ruled by Syrians, Persians, Greeks, Romans and Turks and it has lived and flourished under them all.

Damascus is now and has always been a rich and prosperous city. It was so in Bible times. Isaiah writes of the "riches of Damascus" and the traveler today may see long trains of camels laden with all kinds of merchandise, leaving Damascus going down to Egypt or out to Beirout, where they are shipped to other shores. Its bazars are the most famous in the world. These bazars are a series of shops for the sale of articles and in some cases for the manufacture of them. Each bazar is devoted to a particular class of goods. They are famous for their treasures of silk, carpets, saddles, silver and gold ornaments, slippers, sword blades, rare woods and almost everything required in the general life of the east. People of many races, men and women in all picturesque costumes, strings of camels, donkeys, with cradle saddles, Arabian horses, dig through the streets. Then Damuscus is destined to play an important part in the history of the east. It is the center of a network of railroads. It already boasts of three railroad stations and when the Bagdad line has advanced to the Euphrates, as it is expected to do early this year, Damascus will be in railroad communication with Constantinople and Europe, as well as with Palestine, Arabia and eventually Persia. Then Damascus was the first city in the Bible lands to have electric trams and electric light.

It is certainly one of the most beautiful cities in its situation. Imagine a magnificent plain, well watered, and fertile in the midst of a desert, covering an area of more than 30 miles in circumference, surrounded on nearly all sides by high hills—imagine this vast plain in a high state of cultivation, one vast garden, of fruit trees of almost every species, fields of grain, nearly every variety of flowers and the ever present murmur of running waters. Situated about the middle of this plain and buried in this forest of grass, grain and trees and sparkling streams, a city of 150,000 people, with its hundreds of white minarets, gilded domes and crowned bazaars, that is Damascus, beautiful indeed for situation.

It undoubtedly owes its beauty, vitality and wealth to the River Abana, which rises in the Lebanons some twenty miles away. Before it reaches Damascus it is divided into six artificial channels, through the heart of the city. Pipes are led from it to every part, so that every mosque and house and court has its fountain and everywhere you go amid groves or gardens or public resorts or retired nooks, you may see and hear the murmur of the swiftly flowing and sparkling streams and this abundance of clear, cold water is one of the charms of the city. This is the river of which Naaman spoke with such pride, when he said: "Are not the Abana and Pharpar rivers of Damascus better than all the waters of Israel?" and he was right so far as beauty and usefulness are concerned.

Damascus is mentioned many times in the Bible, both in the Old and the New Testament. In the latter it comes before us in connection with the conversion of St. Paul. Tradition has localized every event connected with the apostle. Outside, on the Damascus road, five miles from the city, is pointed out the place where St. Paul had the vision which so changed the course of his life. There is the gate still standing where he entered the Roman road into the city. This street is today the most principal, being about a mile long, beginning at one end of the city and running right across it from east to west. Damascus is a city of mosques, baths and fountains. Climb on to the roof of any dwelling and you are in a sea of tall minarets, while all around you are rows of what looks like saucers turned upside down. These are the Arab baths. There are 250 mosques in the city, the most important being the great Mosque, great in size and great reputation. The ground upon which it stands has a great history. On this spot stood the church which was erected by Constantine, dedicated to John the Baptist. Then, when the city fell into the hands of the Turks, they converted it into a mosque, obliterating everything that had a trace of Christianity. They closed the door by which the Christians entered and closed up other buildings in front of it.

Some few years ago, however, the Great Mosque, to the whole regret of the civilized world, was burned down in a single day. Strange to say, the old door escaped the fire and no one was more surprised than the moslems to read over its portal these words from the Psalms: "Thy kingdom O Christ is a kingdom of all ages and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."

The mosque was rebuilt, but the moslems, being superstitious, feared to tamper with the old door and its sacred inscription and so left it and it can be seen to this day, a reminder that Mohammedan rule has not always been supreme in the Mother City of the World.

Midshipmen Now and Then

Something more than a hundred years ago the midshipman was, indeed, the "midshipmite" that he was popularly called, for he was but a mite of a lad, usually receiving his appointment before he reached his teens. Admirals Farragut and Porter were midshipmen, afloat and in pitched battles, at twelve years of age, and Goldborough was appointed when only seven years old. Nowadays, however, the midshipman is quite a different person. He cannot enter the naval academy under fifteen, and is therefore, when on a regular cruising ship, after completing his four years' academic course, usually a well-developed man, physically mature and athletic, and with a trained mind. He is far better equipped mentally than the lieutenants and many of the captains of even seventy years ago.

The old-time middies were mere school boys. All the warships of any size carried in their regular complements a schoolmaster, whose duty it was to give the lads as liberal an education as possible in the odd periods between strictly professional duties. This rating of schoolmaster was abolished, in fact, only about twenty years ago; but after the establishment of the naval academy, in 1841, these officials devoted their energies to the sailor apprentices only, the enlisted boys of the forecastle. Even these now obtain their education on shore.

There is a tradition that the three brass buttons the midshipman wears on the sleeve of his full dress coat during his four years at Annapolis originated a century or more ago, when their presence was needed to discourage the youngsters from brushing their noses with their sleeves. This is probably a base slander, modern research indicating that the buttons are relics of the days when there was a cuff-flap on the sleeve.

At all events, the extreme youth of the midshipmite used to be his most conspicuous characteristic. Instead of the full-sized regulation officer's sword that he now carries, he wore a little straight-bladed dirk about a foot long. He was to a large extent a messenger for carrying orders about the ship, but he also took charge of boats and commanded men, despite his youth. He was frequently placed in charge of a prize captured in war, taking her into port, and not infrequently suppressing mutinies among the prisoners on board. Farragut was a prize-master at the age of twelve, and got his prize safely in.

The title "midshipman" is an ancient one. He is above the seamen and the petty officers forward, and below the commissioned officers in the wardroom aft—hence "midship-man." There was formerly a higher grade called passed midshipman, but this was abolished before the Civil war. Then, about forty years ago, the grade was restored, but called midshipman, the former midshipman being designated as a cadet-midshipman. In 1882 the title of the latter was changed to naval cadet, which it still remains, and the midshipmen were merged with the ensigns. Accordingly, the time-honored title of midshipman no longer exists officially in the United States navy.

While officially a naval cadet, that young officer is still regarded, and often referred to verbally, as a midshipman, for he is the same creature as of old, as far as his duties go. But by the side of his earlier prototype the twentieth century "middy" is a savant. Trigonometry was about as high up in mathematics as the old-timer ever went. The twentieth century lad goes far beyond. He goes through analytical geometry of three dimensions, differential and integral calculus, applied mechanics.

Gunnery a hundred years ago was little more than loading, aiming and firing at short ranges. It now involves metallurgy, theory of the combustion of powder gases, stress and strain, mechanical engineering, manufacture and preservation of complex explosives, and other abstruse subjects, in all of which the midshipman of the present day must be proficient.

Midshipmen were conspicuous in all our early wars, notably those with the Barbary States, with the West Indian pirates and with the British in 1812. They were equally conspicuous during our conflicts with the Spanish and Filipinos. Midshipmen, naval cadets, had charge of the extremely hazardous picket duty in the Santiago blockade, close under the Spanish batteries, and often under musketry fire from shore. Cadet Powell ran his open launch right into the harbor of Santiago, after the Merrimac, remained all night under the menacing guns of the inner batteries, and steamed out again under their fire in the morning.

In One Ton of Coal.

From one ton of ordinary gas coal may be produced 1,500 pounds of coke, 20 gallons of ammonia water and 140 pounds of coal tar. By distillation the coal tar will yield 69.6 pounds of pitch, 17 pounds of creosote, 14 pounds of heavy oils, 9.5 pounds of naphtha yellow, 6.3 pounds of naphthaline, 4.75 pounds naphthol, 2.25 pounds alazarin, 2.4 pounds solvent naphtha, 1.5 pounds phenol, 1.2 pounds aurine, 1.1 pounds benzine, 1.1 pounds analine, 0.77 of a pound toluidine, 0.46 of a pound anthracite and 0.9 of a pound toluene. From the latter is obtained the substance known as saccharin, which is 230 times as sweet as the best cane sugar, one part of it giving a very sweet taste to 1,000 parts of water.

If a ton of coal be used in this way there is a bigger profit in it than if it be sold for burning in a range.

In the Haunts of the Osprey

The most wonderful colony of ospreys in North America, and probably in the world, is on Gardiner's island, New York, where there are not less than 200 nests. The birds apparently mate for life and certainly have a deep attachment for their home. Undoubtedly the same pair returns year after year to the same abode, and each spring the hawks repair the nest or increase the size of it by adding more sticks and debris, until, when it is eight or a dozen years old, it is tremendously bulky and weighs upward of half a ton. As the nest ages, the branches on which it rests seem gradually to die, perhaps from lack of ventilation due to the decaying materials next the bark, and occasionally a limb or a whole treetop gives way and the entire mass of sticks, representing the labor of seasons, crashes to the ground. It would be hard to imagine a more pathetic spectacle in birddom than a pair of faithful ospreys, after hundreds of miles of travel, arriving at the home tree, only to discover that, during their absence of five months, the elements had dislodged the cherished dwelling and hurled it and its support to earth.

Picture Fiends.

According to the Motion Picture Story Magazine, 15,000,000 persons attend the moving picture theaters every day. There are 13,000 theaters in this country in which motion pictures are displayed, exclusive of halls, churches and clubs, where they are displayed occasionally. More than $100,000,000 is invested in the motion picture industry in the United States. There are about 3,500,000 motion picture enthusiasts known as "fans," who are just as interested in the personalities of the photo players as the patrons of the regular drama are of the legitimate actors.

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM
By William Pitt

Keep nothing but pure breds.

Peat soils need potassium (potash).

Be careful of caked udders in the ewes.

The natural color of butter is that found in June.

A deep bed will often cause the loss of a number of pigs.

A collar that fits is the best preventive for sore shoulders.

Never whip a horse when he shies. It will increase his fear.

Give the sows plenty of clean water to drink. Take the chill off.

If the fodder is getting scarce, better buy than stint the cows.

A good agitator on the spray pump is as important as a good pump.

Save all the hog manure. You have none on the farm that is richer.

In choosing eggs for hatching, try to get those from the best hens you have.

With three cows you need a cream separator; with ten, you must have a silo.

File the crosscut saw yourself; you will thus soon save enough to buy a new saw.

The churn should be thoroughly scalded and then cooled before cream is put in.

It is a losing proposition to try to raise 200 chicks where there is room for only 50.

A little oil meal or a few potatoes will help the horses get rid of their winter hair.

Before you start your incubator, get out the manufacturers' directions and re-read carefully.

Do not use any ill-formed eggs for hatching, nor any that are unnaturally long, or nearly round.

Keep your fowls on the same footing that you keep your cattle, and you will surely be rewarded.

Most anyone can have a small flock and keep from eight to a dozen hens and feed on table scraps.

Be sure the fenders are in position in the farrowing pens to prevent the sows laying on the young pigs.

Cold, raw winds make chapped teats all the worse. Have a small jar of vaseline handy at milking time and use it.

It costs a good deal of money to buy a satisfactory team. In most cases this can be avoided by the farmer raising his own.

"It is hard for an empty sack to stand straight, but it is still harder for a lazy man to succeed in the dairy business."

Every four years 1,000 pounds of rock phosphate is needed to keep up the phosphorous content of average corn belt soil.

An occasional colt or young horse to sell, even when one is not making a business of raising horses, is a help to any farmer.

Get after the San Jose scale. What a melliferous name this little beast sails under! But cover him with Bordeaux all the same.

The time to plant grape cuttings is in early spring, as soon as the ground can be worked. Slant the cuttings a little and leave only one bud above ground.

If you are a beginner with sheep go slow until you have mastered the industry. As in poultrying or any other like business, experience is the safe, sure teacher.

Sheep that are well kept and fed during the fall season so that they enter the winter quarters in thrifty and vigorous condition will keep easily over winter.

Early peas may be followed by celery or cabbage or potatoes, followed by late beans or corn, thereby getting several crops from the same ground each year.

Young currant canes may be bent over in spring, and the middle covered with earth. Roots will start at these points and in a short time you will have currant plants.

Horticultural inspectors in Washington, Oregon and Idaho report that there are 16,000,000 growing fruit trees in those states—5,744,257 of them bore fruit last year.

If you allow the young stock to rough it with the older and stronger stock, they'll be rough looking creatures when they come through in the spring, and they may be lost entirely.

In preparing land for a new orchard take time to plow it all very deeply before a tree is set, and if there is a hard "plow sole," or a tight sub-soil, loosen it up with dynamite.

Don't forget the water.

Clean out feed troughs daily.

Pekins lay from 120 to 170 eggs per year.

Alsike clover helps out the stand of red clover.

A purplish red comb indicates bad health in a fowl.

Test out infertile eggs on tenth and seventeenth days.

A quart of mixed feed is about right for twelve hens.

If you wish to succeed, know that your hens are comfortable.

Do not make too violent crosses. Select a type and stick to it.

It is not so much the make of incubator as the man who runs it.

Air-slaked lime is a valuable disinfectant in the poultry house.

Variety is always good, but sudden and abrupt changes are dangerous.

It pays in more ways than one to be on friendly terms with the heifers.

The sort of seed corn to select is the kind that produces bushels per acre.

Correct sour or acid soil with one to five tons per acre of crushed limestone.

To maintain normal soil fertility the supply of humus must be conserved.

The business hen is the hen that puts her daily credits in the egg basket.

The only proper way to replenish the flock is to save the best lambs each year.

A common cause of slow churning is an overfilled churn. Half full is about right.

Dirty collars are probably as responsible for sore shoulders as ill-fitting ones.

Keep the horses well cleaned, but remember that you can be cruel with the curry comb.

The hopper system of feeding is a good one, but put only one kind of feed in one hopper.

The fault of too many dairy farmers is failure to make the cows produce up to their limit.

Too much corn has caused the loss of many a fine litter of pigs, and often the loss of the sow as well.

In raising horses for one's own use it should be done as intelligently as if it were to be a regular business.

Spraying is one of the unavoidable tasks of the farmer who would keep his orchard in desirable condition.

Place the bee hives on string supports about eight inches from the ground to prevent dampness and cold.

The man who is producing milk for the city trade should have a clear mind, clean hands and a pure heart.

Arsenate of lead which is held over from the year before will be good if it has not dried out and become a hard lump.

When turkeys are penned up to fatten for market, good results are not obtained if they are cramped for room.

Now and then put a little brine on the straw. It acts as an appetizer, and the sheep clean up the straw better.

A heifer may give as much milk in proportion to the food eaten as a mature cow, and make some growth in addition.

A paint brush that has become hardened with paint can be made soft and pliable by immersing it in boiling vinegar.

It is just as easy to multiply defects in breeding as it is to strengthen good points, and many people are doing the former.

The colt crop on the general farm may be made a by-product that will cost very little, but swell the bank account considerably.

Seed corn? Of course you have it all in good shape and ready for the germination test. Do not plant a grain unless you know it comes from sound stock.

The best medicine in the world for poultry are dry, clean quarters and lots of sunshine. Better lose every other poultry recipe known than to forget this.

The great need of the day is educated dairymen, men who understand the care and feeding of the cow as well as the successful marketing of her products.

Now is the time to set a shallow box of earth in the window and start some cabbage and tomato seeds for early planting, first in the hotbed and then in open ground.

If the dairymen could come into direct contact with the people who eat their butter there would be less need of discussing the subject of making a better grade of butter.

Government reports state that during the last year more up-to-date and modern machinery has been purchased and installed on the farms than during any previous ten years.

Thousands of acres of pasture land in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa are devoted to feeding cows to supply Chicago consumers with milk and cream and other dairy products.

BEST DEFENCE AGAINST DISEASE

Is a Supply of Rich, Red Blood and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are the Tonic to Use When the Blood Is Thin and Weak.

Thin, impure blood is an invitation to sickness. The blood is at work, day and night, to maintain the health and any lack of strength or purity in the blood is a weakness in the defense against disease. Anaemia is the doctor's name for lack of blood. There may be an actual loss in the quantity of the blood or one or more of its constituents may be lacking. Its surest symptom is pallor. Anaemia is particularly common in young girls from 14 to 17 years of age. It is not confined to them for it is this same lack of blood that prevents full recovery after the grip, fevers, malaria and operations and is present in old age and in persons who have been under an unusual physical or mental strain.

Mrs. Morgan Bowen, of No. 2631 Fillmore street, N. E. Minneapolis, Minn., says:

"When I was 15 years old I went into a decline and my parents feared I was going into consumption. I was sick for a year and was not able to do much of anything. The sickness came on me gradually. I was pale and seemed to lose my strength. I was attending school at Winona at the time and became so nervous that I had to give up my studies. My parents were alarmed about my condition as there had been consumption in the family.

"A friend advised my mother to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and before I used them long I was much improved. I gave the pills a thorough trial and was fully restored to health. My health has been good since, but I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the house and take them when I feel I need a tonic."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood so that it can nourish and strengthen the weakened system has made hundreds of cures in the most severe disorders.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People should be used in anaemia, chlorosis or green sickness, sick headache, nervousness and for a general run-down condition of the health.

Send for free booklet, "Diseases of the Blood."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

RASH ALL OVER BABY'S BODY

Itched So He Could Not Sleep

"On July 27, 1909, we left Boston for a trip to England and Ireland, taking baby with us. After being in Ireland a few days a nasty rash came out all over his body. We took him to a doctor who gave us medicine for him. The trouble started in the form of a rash and was all over baby's body, head and face, at different times. It irritated, and he would scratch it with all his might. The consequence was it developed into sores, and we were afraid it would leave nasty scars on his face.

"When we reached England we took baby to another doctor, who said his condition was due to change of food and climate, and gave more medicine. The rash got no better, and it used to itch and burn at night so bad that the child could not sleep. He was completely covered with it at different times. It was at this time that my mother advised us to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment for about nine months the places disappeared. There are not any scars, or other kind of disfigurement, and baby is completely cured by the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. We have no further trouble with baby's skin. Nothing stopped the itching, and allowed baby to sleep but Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Gunn, 29 Burrell St., Roxbury, Mass., March 12, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

"You?" she answered with a smile. "Oh, you are—let me see—one, two, three—you are Chap Seventeen."—Harper's Weekly.

ISLAND THAT IS DREADED ALIKE BY THE SAILOR AND KEEPER

MONTREAL, QUEBEC.—That was a thrilling story which came from Halifax concerning the heroism of Mrs. Peter Borque, widow of the keeper of the lighthouse on Bird Rock in the Magdalen islands in the Gulf of St. Lawrence; but it is only one of the many tales of death and disaster that can be told of this barren and isolated bit of land.

After her husband had been washed overboard and drowned during a storm that threatened the demolition of the lighthouse Mrs. Borque kept the beacon burning for ten days, and thus probably saved several vessels from piling up on the rocks. Both she and her young baby suffered severely from exposure and hunger and she was so weak when rescued by the government steamship Seal that it was necessary to carry her on board. The authorities say that the courage of this woman is unsurpassed in the history of the Canadian lighthouse service.

"For a time I thought I would go mad," said Mrs. Borque after her rescue, "but I knew I had to do my duty. My baby suffered terribly from the cold, but I held it as tight as I could. It was a terrible task to crawl with her into the light chamber to keep the lamps trimmed, filled and burning. There was food, but you couldn't cook, and the baby cried constantly. Many times I heard the whistles, but they went away when they heard the bell ringing and saw the light."

The Magdalens are a group of 13 or 14 islands that lie almost in the center of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Their position makes them dangerous to vessels and so many are the wrecks thereabout that they have been styled by sailormen the graveyard of the gulf.

Inaccessible Bird Rock.

Bird Rock is the most northerly island of the group and is little more than a huge rock rising abruptly out of the sea to a height of 140 feet, on which the Canadian government maintains one of the most inaccessible lighthouse stations of the Atlantic coast. Thousands of gannets, murres, kittiwakes and other sea fowl hover over it at all times, while beneath on its rocky ledges they have built myriads of nests in a series of tiers. The sides of the rock are very precipitous, and until a few years ago, when a roadway was blasted out of the solid rock leading to the top, all visitors and supplies were taken ashore by a cage lowered to the water and hoisted up by means of a windlass. The waves that generally break upon it are so tremendous that it is only possible to effect a landing in calm weather.

But it is such a wild and desolate spot that the man in charge of the lighthouse must make it his home during the entire year. Jean Quette, the first keeper, remained one summer with two assistants. Then the solitude preyed so upon his mind that he went insane. He recovered his reason only when he returned to civilization.

Keeper Perished With Son.

Pierre Wealen, the next keeper, managed to hold out for nine years. He came to a tragic end in 1880. In the spring of that year he, his son and an assistant ventured out on the ice surrounding the Bird Rock during a blinding snowstorm and lost their way. The assistant succeeded in returning to the lighthouse in safety. Wealen and his son perished.

Charles Chaisson, the third keeper of the lighthouse, was killed on August 12, 1881, by the premature discharge of a signal gun he was preparing to fire. His son and an assistant were badly injured in the same accident.

Telesphore Turbide, the next keeper, remained in charge of the lighthouse for over 16 years, but even he did not escape the dangers of his calling. On June 24, 1891, he was putting home a charge in a signal gun when it exploded and blew off part of his right hand.

Another tragedy of Bird Rock occurred in March, 1897. In the spring of the year the hooded and harp seals come down on the ice from Labrador and Anticosti, and hundreds of men and boys from the Magdalens go out to hunt them for their pelts and oil. These seal hunts are attended by many dangers. A storm is liable to come up and drive the hunters out to sea on the moving ice. Snow covered fissures may mean death in case of a misstep. The danger of drowning is ever present.

Fatal Seal Hunt.

In March, 1897, Damien Cormier, an assistant keeper of the lighthouse, started out on a seal hunt accompanied by Charles Turbide, a lad of 17, and Arsene Turbide, cousin of the latter. Cormier's wife was left in charge of the lighthouse during his absence. They had noticed a large number of hair seals lying on the ice to the eastward, and proceeded in that direction, dragging behind them a small boat for use on the open glades of water.

The hunters reached the seals and made many killings. Finding night approaching they stowed their spoils in the boat and headed homeward. But they had not noticed the threatening look of the sky nor the increasing wind while engaged in the hunt, and a furious snowstorm from the northwest struck down upon them suddenly.

Bending their heads lower the men plunged onward aimlessly. But there was no use in attempting to force their way through that endless drift. So Cormier and his companions determined to fight the blizzard just where they were. They halted and overturned the boat and made a sort of shelter.

Two Die in Storm.

The storm raged more violently. The cold became intense. An icy numbness seized the feet of Cormier and his two companions. In agony the men jumped up and down on the ice, beating their arms across their chests and pounding together their frozen hands. At length Cormier tumbled over in a heap. Charles Turbide fell unconscious at his side. Before daybreak both were dead.

Then Arsene Turbide went out into the snowy waste and looked about him. The storm had abated by this time. The snow had ceased to fall. He could see clearly now and quickly realized that it was impossible to return by the route he had come, as the north wind had forced his ice floe far out in the gulf.

In the hazy direction of his home a rough sea tossed, piled up with ragged fragments of ice. No boat could live in such waters. His only chance for salvation lay in the hard, frozen gulf toward the shore of Cape Breton, even though that shore was 70 miles away.

Arsene buried the bodies of his comrades underneath the upturned boat. Grasping the bludgeon he had used in the slaughter of seals, he turned his face in the direction of Cape Breton and started on his long journey.

Made Brave Fight for Life.

All that cold day Arsene trudged over the rough ice with neither food nor drink. Sometimes he plunged through deep drifts, sometimes he glided more easily over windswept surfaces. As the day wore on he was assailed by frequent spells of drowsiness. But he was determined to fight and struggled to the end. When night fell he dozed as best he could, but always standing, for he knew that once he stretched himself upon the ice it would mean his last sleep.

The next morning he crept up on a seal and clubbed it to death, drank the warm blood. He did not know that his garments, his face and his hands were smeared with blood, but he did realize that he had secured renewed strength and courage to continue his journey. Late that afternoon he reached Meat Cove at Cape Breton, and scarcely able to drag himself along, staggered to the first house in sight. Opening the door, he entered, not knowing the appearance he presented to the inmates. They questioned him, but he could not speak. So thinking him either insane or a murderer, they thrust him out and slammed the door behind him.

Found Refuge Too Late.

Arsene struggled on again. When the door was opened to him at the next house, he rushed in headlong, flung himself down before a fire and at once fell into a sound slumber. When he awoke he narrated his story, and then word was telegraphed to Grindstone island, one of the Magdalen group, to send speedy relief to the woman who had been left alone at the lighthouse on Bird Rock.

Arsene did not recover from his experience and within a fortnight died from its effects.

Many stories might be told of the other Magdalen islands. For many years they have been inhabited by a few thousand natives who are descended from the Acadians who settled in New France under the leadership of Champlain and De Mont. Since the first settlement in 1763 generations of the same families have raised meager crops in the valleys and fed sheep and cattle on the high cone-shaped hills which form a prominent feature of an insular landscape. Year after year fathers and sons have gone out upon the white capped waters of the gulf for the cod, mackerel and lobster on which their livelihood depends. Ancient language and customs prevail among these people, and the spinning wheel and hand loom still provide homespun for both men and women.

Hard and Precarious Existence.

In seasons when the fishing is good the average Magdalener makes sufficient money to supply his wants. In poor years they sometimes suffer dire distress. During the "Great Misery" in the winter of 1883, and again in 1897, food became so scarce that the Canadian government was obliged to send supplies to the islands to prevent a famine.

The inhabitants of the Magdalens are completely isolated from the world for six months in the year. In the summer a small steamer subsidized by the government plies semi-weekly between the islands and the mainland of Nova Scotia. During the long winters this service must be abandoned, and persons on the island remain there until the boat resumes its trips in the spring.

The telegraph gives them the news that is going on in the world during their isolation, but of course there can be no exchange of letters. Sometimes this mode of communication fails, as in 1910, when the cable to the mainland broke and could not be repaired for weeks. The natives in this instance resorted to very ancient methods. A heavy barrel containing 30 or 40 letters sealed in cans was dropped overboard in the waters of the gulf and trusted to fate. Ten days afterward the tide carried it to the mainland 60 miles away and the letters were sent to their addresses. Unfortunately the southern drift of the gulf prevented any answers from being sent in reply.

British Consumption of Fish.

It is a question whether John Bull is not more deserving of the name of fish eater than he is of beef eater, for during the past year fish valued at $35,000,000 was landed on his shores for food.

FISH MAKES SWEET SOUNDS

Scientists Know There Is Such a Specimen of the Finny Tribe, but Cannot Name It.

In no class of the animal kingdom are there so many curious examples as that which comprehends the finny tribes of sea, lake and river. Of these there is none more remarkable than the so-called musical fish.

If there is one common characteristic of all marine animals more noteworthy than another it is their absolute silence, or voicelessness. The only exception to this is the fish that sings. Its music is only heard at night, or in the evening after the sun has set, and particular places appear to be frequented by the fish, for on sailing away from them the sound becomes inaudible, and on returning it is heard again. In long notes, low and clear and perfectly distinct, the sounds always seem to come up from the surface of the water.

At one locality, Chilka lake, an inlet of the sea on the east coast of Ceylon, the musical fish gives forth sounds like the gentle thrills of a musical chord, or the faint vibrations of a wineglass when its rim is rubbed by a wet fingertip—a multitude of tiny sounds, each clear and distinct in itself, the sweetest treble mingling with the lowest bass. The fish appear to abound off the Cingalese coast, and they have been met with out at sea in deep soundings, at least 100 miles from Ceylon.

Their strange music has also been heard in the muddy creeks near Bombay and Salsette, and at Vizagapatam and along the Coromandel coast. It is audible on a calm night among the islands of the Mergui Archipelago, off the coast of Burma, and, too, in the fresh water of the Sarumoth river to Borneo; and the notes have been compared to the rising and falling of an Aeolian harp, or to music borne on the wind from a distant shore.

What manner of fish it is that produces the sounds has, as yet, not been definitely ascertained. American naturalists generally postulate that the musical fish of their coasts and of the West Indies, in especial of the Bacos islands, near Trinidad, where it abounds, is a large fish known to zoologists as the Pagonias chromis, growing to five feet in length, and swimming about in shoals. In the gullet of the fish are three movable plates, covered with large teeth, and it is supposed that it is the action of these that produces the sounds. As, of course, sound travels a great way under water, the slightest note is distinctly heard by any one on the surface.

The fishermen of the Bay of Pallon say that it is a white fish with bluish spots on the back, and about ten inches long, which they catch on the spot while it is singing. But as regards their statement the great difficulty is that the mere hooking of such a fish near the surface is no proof that it is the fish which is a melodist, for the first might have been swimming near the surface, while the second, the real performer, is feeling quietly at the bottom. Anyhow, it has been conclusively ascertained that there is a fish which sings.

The Ways of the Beaver

By S. N. LEEK

COPYRIGHT BY OUTDOOR LIFE

WHILE on a camping trip at the headwaters of Atlantic and Thoroughfare Creeks, northeast of the Jackson's Hole country in Wyoming, during the summer of 1911, I had some great opportunities of studying the habits of beaver. I have always been an interested student of this clever little animal's ways, but while in the hills I had never before had the leisure to stay among them that I enjoyed on this outing. At that time the following gentlemen were with me: F. L. Cuthbert and son of Lima, Ohio; J. M. Hill of Fond du Lac, Wis., and Fred Lovejoy. We were on a fishing and general pleasure trip over Idaho and Wyoming, camping wherever the feed and fishing were good, and resting when, how and where we felt like it.

In the country above mentioned we found many beaver; in fact, wherever there was sufficient water, beaver had taken possession of it. All small streams were dammed up by them, and in one place we saw a beaver industriously fixing up the dam, while five ducks were near him looking on. In another place we saw a beaver, probably the old daddy, swimming in a pond, who, on seeing us, slapped the water with its broad, flat tail, making a sound much like a rifle shot. The other beaver, curious to be doing something, were out on the bank cutting willows, but on hearing the danger signal, which probably said, "Hey, you kids, out of there!" came tumbling into the water till six were swimming before us.

Beaver live in families, the two old beavers, two yearlings and two kits. The young, two in number, are born about April and stay at home until about two years of age, when they set up housekeeping on their own account. They move to some other locality. If a small stream, they proceed to build a dam to get greater depth of water. If the banks are rocks or not suitable for holes, they build a house. The water must be of sufficient depth so it will not freeze solid in winter, as the entrance to the house or hole in bank is under water. The floor of their living room is about three inches above water, and is carpeted with white sticks slit up a little coarser than excelsior. There is always an opening above the living room for fresh air. This is partly closed or concealed by sticks laid across it.

As the pond freezes over in the winter, the beaver must provide themselves with sustenance to last them through the long winter. This is called their cache and is always situated near where they live and consists of willows, quaking aspen or cottonwood anchored under water. They cut these late in the fall and place them in this cache, so when the pond freezes over they can get to them. Cutting off a small piece, they take it to their living room and peel it, eating the bark only. This is their winter's food. The sticks after being peeled are taken away where they lie on the bottom of the pond. In putting up the cache they all work. If small willows are used the old ones cut and place them in little piles (armfuls), the young beaver carrying them to the water and then running with them to the cache. And if cottonwood or trees, they first cut them down by cutting all around them, if of large size, letting them fall where they may. They then cut off all limbs and cut the trunks up into suitable lengths to handle, and drag all to the water and then float them to their cache. From my observation the limit in size that a beaver can cut is about 24 inches. They can cut out a chip about four inches long, cutting it off at bottom and top and splitting it out very much as a man does with an ax. In this way they can cut a scarf about 12 inches in height and back into the trunk of the tree about 12 inches, all the way around. Then if the tree leans considerably, it will of course break some, or when the wind comes up it will blow down, but I have seen trees with so much center left that they remained standing, though cut into to the beavers' limit.

A WELL-BUILT BEAVERHOUSE

CUTTINGS MADE BEFORE AND AFTER THE SNOW

In building a dam they first place coarse brush in the stream, allowing the water to run through till a good lot of brush is in place clear across the stream. They then begin working in finer brush, and lastly mud, till the structure is water-tight. And another peculiar fact about the work of these animals: If a beaver places the branch of a tree or willow in the water it sinks, if he so wishes, while if you should place it there, it floats. This is a secret apparently known only to the beaver.

I believe the beaver live more like humans in their domestic life than any other animal, and though there may be no marriage ceremony, their domestic life is just as sacred. And yet, with all their wisdom, they are easily trapped, for by taking advantage of their weakness or customs, by placing a handful of soft mud from the bottom of the pond upon the bank and placing a few drops of a certain kind of scent upon it, every beaver that passes near will go to it, and if the trap is well placed, they are sure to get caught.

For some years there has been a closed season on beaver in the state of Wyoming.

They are multiplying very fast and reappearing in all their old haunts, and I am glad to see it; but I deplore the fact that the law is not more strictly enforced. I hate to see a law to conserve the game abused—a law that the honest man will recognize and obey, but so poorly enforced that the poacher and unlawful party get all the benefit.

Art and Its Rivalries.

"I don't believe that story about Nero fiddling while Rome burned."

"Why?"

"Any true musician would have known better than to try to hold an audience while the fire department was turning out."

One.

"He is one of the most conceited men I have ever met."

"I don't doubt it. There is a certain conceited man that it will never be possible for you to meet."

Liquidated.

In and Out.

"So Brown has it in for me, has he. What would you advise me to do?"

"Have it out with him."

The Same Is True Today.

Diogenes upon his quest
An honest man could never find;
Although still hoping for the best,
Great was the scarc'ty of that kind.

Saying Nothing.

"There is a rumor afloat that Old Goldrox is dead," said the editor.

"Yes," replied the reporter; "I was just down to the house."

"Is it so?"

"Well, his wife said that her husband would neither confirm nor deny the rumor."

Meaning Mrs. Lot.

I know this joke is rather old
And you'll think me a dubber,
Before she turned to salt, we're told,
She first had turned to rubber.

Changed Circumstances.

"I can remember when you had to work eight hours a day," said the old-time friend.

"Yes," replied Dustin Stax; "things are different. Now I have to worry sixteen hours a day."

Hard to Excite.

"Jibble must have nerves like iron."

"Why do you think so?"

"He had the rare privilege yesterday of looking at a dozen yard eggs and he did so without so much as a quiver of his eyelid."

It Does.

It takes a guy
Whose purse is fat
To occupy
A city flat.

Consistent Enough.

"But," protested the stage manager, "don't you think it looks odd for you to wear your diamonds in the character of the deserted wife?"

"Oh, no," replied the actress, "you must have observed that I had selected for that purpose the very smallest and plainest diamonds I own."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Where the Power Lies.

"My dear, sir," said the visiting Englishman, "you people in this country don't know what a real republic is. Your president has vastly more power than we permit our king to exercise."

"Oh, we all realize that, but you seem to forget the power your queen is permitted to exercise."

Entertaining a Customer.

"I notice you always patronize the same barber. Is he a good workman?"

"Not especially so."

"He seems to talk a great deal, besides."

"Yes, but I don't mind that. You see, my barber is a well read man, and every day he tells me a story from Boccaccio."

A Dreary Fate.

How sad is life
For one who sees
His carping wife
He cannot please.

He Knew Him When.

"Why do you hate him so? Has he ever done anything or said anything to injure you?"

"No, but, confound him, I can remember when he had nowhere near as much as I had—when, as a matter of fact, I didn't always care to recognize him."

The Optimist.

Cheer up; if no one saw you act
You're lucky, just the same;
Teh people who do well, in fact,
So oft get only blame.

Progress.

"Women are now making great strides," remarked Mrs. Baring-Banners.

"Yes," replied the husband; "only you can't notice it when you see one of 'em in a hobble skirt going after a street car."

Proof Positive.

"She was the most beautifully gowned woman at the ball!"

"You seem very positive about it."

"I am. Even the woman who was gowned second best admitted it."

Their Growth.

Those hailstones bigger get with each
Tale which to tell, aspires:
From stones they grow as big as eggs,
Then stretch to rubber tires.

Squelched.

"Say, can't you read the sign?" asked the elevator boy.

"I beg your pardon," replied the man with the cigar, "were you speaking to me?"

"It says: 'No Smokin' in the Car.'"

"Does it? Where does it say that?"

"There. Can't you see?"

"But it doesn't say: 'No Smokin' in the Car' there."

"G'wan, you highbrow."

Mental Discretion.

The Nice Boy—H-have you forgotten that cent you borrowed of me?

The Hard Case—Yes! Haven't you?

The Nice Boy—Y-yes! Now that you r-remind me of it!—Puck.

Not Flattering.

"Does death end all?" asked the solemn boarder.

"Not for a week or so in case of a turkey," answered the cheerful boarder.

Just in Time.

"George says he loves that little curl over your right ear."

"I'm glad to know that. I was just about to hang it on the other side."

A Fine Day.

So fair is all the world without
So brightly shines the sun,
'Twould seem all cares are put to rout
And Trouble's on the run.

Bows and Beaux.

Bella—Is she musical?

Beulah—Not a bit.

Bella—But I heard somebody say she had had experience in handling a bow?

Beulah—Oh, they meant she had been engaged to be married several times.

A Mean Trick.

There was a man in our town
And he was wondrous wise.
He gave each tramp that came around
One of his wifey's pies.

Obliging.

"I think," said Mrs. Crumrox, who was arranging a musical program, "that we will have a mezzo-soprano."

"All right," replied her husband. "Don't bother me about it. Go ahead and see an architect."

One Satisfaction.

"He married his stenographer."

"And I suppose she's doing the dictating now?"

"Yes, but he says he doesn't mind that much; he doesn't have to take it down."

YOUNG WIFE SAVED FROM HOSPITAL

Tells How Sick She Was And What Saved Her From An Operation.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to housekeeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, my sides ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so, when I saw your advertizement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health.

Something the Matter, Anyhow.

Little Harold lives in Broad Ripple. His mother got him ready for bed one cold night, and to be sure he would be warm enough during the night she took extra precautions, relates the Indianapolis News. After she had put on his little fuzzy pajamas she tucked him carefully in between the wool blankets. Then, to make doubly sure, she got a hot water bottle for him—and the youngster was apparently as snug as could be, with only his little nose sticking out from beneath the covers.

When his mother had finished the tucking-in job she turned down the light. Soon the entire family was in bed. But Harold is like most youngsters. He loves his mother, and wishes lots of attention. So in his child mind he figured out a way to get her to his bed.

"Mamma," he wailed, "I'm cold!"

"Nonsense, son!" replied his mother, and she never made a move to go to his rescue.

The little boy tried the opposite.

"Well, I'm too hot, then!" he yelled.

Convenient Code.

Frank I. Cobb used to be a reporter in Detroit, and knew intimately a former governor of the state of Michigan, who was renowned, among other things, for his ability as a free-hand swearer.

One night Cobb was dining with the ex-governor and his family. A messenger came in to tell the host that one of his pet political schemes had just been defeated through the bungling of a lieutenant. The old man ripped out a string of dark blue ones.

"Now, pa," said his wife, "you promised me you would quit cursing."

"Marie," said the ex-governor, "I'm not cussing—this is just the way I talk!"—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Method With Disadvantages.

"Will you make any rear platform speeches next summer?"

"I don't know," replied the candidate. "It's kind of embarrassing to have an engineer blow the whistle, ring the bell and pull out just as you get to the grand climax on which you relied for applause."

Saving His Money.

Owens—Say, lend me a fiver, old man.

Bowens—If you'd save your own money you wouldn't have to borrow from your friends.

Owens—But it's because I want to save my own money that I borrow from my friends.

The increase in number of "dry" towns is due, in part at least, to disgust with brewery manipulation of politics. Many citizens who like a glass of beer occasionally object strenuously to a brewery owning and controlling a legislature or a governor.

The republican national convention will be held in Chicago June 18; the Ninth district convention will be held in Thief River Falls May 15, and the county convention May 13. The official call is published in another column. There will be no presidential primaries in this state.

Third ticket talk is becoming more frequent in both parties. If either of the great parties nominates a candidate who stands for executive efficiency, freedom from special interests, and courageous progress toward the destruction of economic and industrial despotism, no third ticket can figure largely in the campaign. If, however, both parties nominate candidates of Tory proclivities, a third ticket might poll a heavy vote. If Wilson leads the democrats, a third ticket will have no sufficient purpose; nor will it if the republicans are led by Roosevelt, Hughes, or any one of several less likely to be nominated, such as LaFollette, Borah, and Cummins.—Collier's.

Northeast Experiment Farm, Grand Rapids, Minnesota, April 1, 1912.

The three most important crops in northeastern Minnesota are clover, fodder corn, and potatoes. The seed for each of these crops this spring is scarce and high priced, but no farmer should change his plan for seeding them on account of the high price of seed. One dollar invested in seed for any of these crops may be made to return $10 and more in the crop.

Clover seeded on the experiment farm in 1911 cost $1.60 per acre for seed. In October this clover seeded in the spring (with a grain crop) was pastured with dairy cows. It provided pasture at the rate of one acre for thirty cows for one day without injury to the next year's hay crop. It produced twenty-two pounds of butter for each acre pastured, worth $5.50. This alone was more than three times the value of the clover seed, not counting the 1912 hay crop.

Fodder corn on the experiment farm in 1911 yielded from ten to fifteen tons of green fodder per acre. One bushel of seed was used for seed for three acres. This spring Minnesota grown seed corn is very high priced, but varieties grown farther south may be used for fodder corn, and this seed may be purchased from the large seed houses at from $1.50 to $2.50 per bushel.

The dairy herd on the experiment farm, consisting of 31 cows, averaged in 1911 6,356 pounds of milk per cow and 253 pounds of butter per cow. These cows are only representatives of such cows as the average farmer may have. They were fed largely on clover and fodder corn, most of the fodder corn in the form of ensilage. The value of the butter at the local market price was $77.90 per cow. The cost of feed was $31.24 per cow, leaving a profit above the cost of feed of $26.65. Dairying can be made a very profitable business for the farmers of northeastern Minnesota who will regularly grow the two above mentioned crops—clover and fodder corn.

Potatoes on the experiment farm in 1911 yielded 250 bushels per acre—Carmen variety. 500 bushels have been sold on the local market at 75 cts. per bushel. 1,000 bushels are still on hand which will probably bring one dollar per bushel. The cost of growing the potato crop, including seed, labor, and rent of land, was about $25 per acre. Potatoes are the cash crop for the farmers of northwestern Minnesota. Farmers should not rush in this spring, because they are high priced, but should start out to annually grow as many acres as can be given proper attention and care. The potato market is moving north, and the farmer who will grow potatoes regularly, will profit thereby.

Republican District Convention

The republican district convention for the Ninth congressional district of the state of Minnesota will be held at the armory in the city of Thief River Falls on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing two delegates and two alternates to the republican national convention to be held at Chicago on June 18, 1912, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for president and vice president, and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the convention.

The county conventions to elect delegates thereto will be held in the respective counties on Monday, May 13, A. D. 1912, at places to be designated by the several county committees.

Representation in this convention will be made upon the following basis: Each county shall be entitled to one delegate for each two hundred and fifty votes, or major fraction thereof, cast for state officers in the year 1910 in such county, and each county shall be allowed in addition thereto five delegates at large. The several counties in the district will be entitled to the following number of delegates in said convention:

Becker	12
Beltrami	11
Clearwater	8
Clay	13
Kittson	8
Marshall	12
Mahnomen	6
Norman	10
Otter Tail	18

The Easter Program

Seldom are the people of St. Hilaire afforded the opportunity of enjoying so impressively interesting an Easter program as that rendered by the Sunday school of the M. E. church at the Imperial hall last Sunday evening. To say that any one number was good would be to exclude all the other equally good numbers. The work of the Sunday school children in rendering the program reflects great credit upon themselves as well as those having the entertainment in charge and will be of lasting benefit to those who filled the hall. The following program was rendered:

Russian Engineer visits Minnesota

A representative of the Russian government traveled half way around the earth to inspect the plant of the Northwestern Drainage company of Thief River Falls. He is Chief Engineer Peter Stakle of Blogovestchensk, Siberia, who is in charge of a vast drainage works in Eastern Siberia, some 500 miles from the coast and on the Amur river. He is endeavoring to reclaim about 16,000,000 acres of level rich prairie land which at times is too wet for agricultural purposes.

Mr. Stackle had heard of the great ditching proposition in this state and came directly from Siberia to Thief River Falls to learn of the methods and machinery used at first hand. A. M. Arpin, president of the Northwestern Drainage company, spent two days with the foreigner, and he left Saturday loaded with profiles, estimates, plans and photos of the work. He also had an opportunity of viewing some machines of various forms at work for his especial benefit and was amazed at the rapidity and ease with which the ponderous machines were operated. He immediately offered to close a bargain for the purchase of several of the machines, which was out of the question, and insisted that the local concern promise to take up work with his government in the far away land. He will sail from New York on the 13th for St. Petersburg with a vast fund of information of Minnesota drainage.

The University School for Nurses

Three years ago the University of Minnesota organized the first school for nurses under direct University control in this country or, indeed, in any other country. The first class has just completed the three years' course of instruction; and a reception was given to the graduates at Shevlin Hall early in March. Members of the faculty of the College of Medicine and Surgery were present and friends of the graduating class were invited. The class pins, which serve as the symbol of graduation from the university school for nurses, were conferred upon them by Dean Westbrook.

Although the period of graduation does not correspond with the university commencement, it has been arranged that diplomas will be conferred upon graduates of the school when other degrees are given at the commencement occasion in June.

SPOILS SYSTEM USED FOR TAFT

Tactics in Indiana.

In the first Indiana district, where former Senator Hemenway directed the Taft forces, the Roosevelt men had fifty-two out of ninety-seven members of the convention. But here again the organization controlled the district chairman and the district committee proceeded to organize the convention in behalf of Taft, seating arbitrarily and without permitting a vote by the convention, a number of contesting Taft delegates. The Roosevelt men could not obtain recognition and could not make themselves effective except by resorting to physical force. Under these conditions they withdrew from the convention and organized one of their own and elected their delegates. Although holding a clear majority of the convention, they were forced to assume the attitude of bolters in order to escape the Taft steam roller, and the delegates they have chosen are also classed as contestants. The same methods have been pursued in other districts.

Elected by Corruption.

The plain and obvious result of these outrageous proceedings is that of the total number of delegates claimed for Taft in states where the Republican party has a fighting chance in the election, nearly all of them, if not quite all, have been illegally elected by the exercise of the worst form of corruption, that which deprives the voters themselves of any voice in the selection of men who will assume to represent them in naming a candidate for the presidency of the United States. The continuance of these methods will in a short time disclose general political conditions in the United States more startling and more abhorrent than was ever known before. It cannot fail to become evident that conscienceless men controlled by patronage, by their own greed for power and by the particular special interests they represent are engaged in a great conspiracy to steal from the American people their right of self-government. They are pursuing a rule or ruin policy, the effect of which cannot be limited to the disaster it will certainly bring to the Republican party, but will extend to the nation itself, destroying, as nothing else has done, confidence in public men, in the great business institutions of the country, and in the government itself. Nothing can stop this but the aroused conscience of the voters themselves and their determination to prevent mere political manipulators, backed by money and government influence, from setting aside and overriding the real sentiment of the public.

Taft Approves Methods.

Showing how thoroughly in sympathy with these methods are the Taft managers and the president himself, the former recently made public a dispatch from E. L. Morse, one of the Taft managers in Missouri, respecting the situation in one congressional district of that state. The dispatch says: "Congressional committee which makes roll of convention is evenly divided, we controlling chairman and secretary, which will enable us to elect two Taft delegates."

Here the proposition is so plainly put that it illuminates the whole situation. The control of the chairman and secretary of the district committee, two men out of several hundred, is relied upon by the Taft forces to give them the two delegates from that district of Missouri. The Taft managers attempt no concealment of the purpose in view. They are simply determined that representative government in the United States so far as the naming of a candidate for president is concerned shall be destroyed.

To a Poet.

To learn poetry "for recreation" is doubtless a means of cultivating a knowledge of literature; but schoolboys sometimes regard the authors of poems learned as task-masters and personal enemies. This view is amusingly expressed in a letter found among the papers of the venerable German poet Geibel. It was written to him by some schoolboys of Lubeck, and signed, "Karl Beckmann, II. Klasse."

After stating that two boys had been flogged because they could not learn Herr Geibel's "Hope of Spring," the letter reads:

"We suppose that you did not think of such things when you wrote the poem. The Herr Lehrer says it is a very beautiful poem; but there are so many beautiful poems, and we are obliged to learn them. Therefore we beg and entreat you, esteemed Herr Geibel, make no more beautiful poems. And to make it worse we have to learn the biography of every poet, what year he was born in, and what year he died in. We write to you because you are the only poet still living, and we wish you a very long life."—The Sunday Magazine.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Default having been made in the conditions of that certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by Charles P. Quist and Sophia J. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the 14th day of December, 1910, and with a power of sale therein contained, duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on the 17th day of December, A. D. 1910, at 2:30 o'clock p. m., in book 5 of mortgages on page 22;

Which said mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby, was duly assigned by the said Johnson Van Sant Co., mortgagee, to F. Hall, by written assignment dated the 16th day of February, 1912, and recorded in the said office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, on the 26th day of February A. D. 1912, at 8 o'clock a. m., in book 11 of mortgages on page 521; and

Whereas, under the terms and conditions of said mortgage and the power of sale therein contained, the said assignee or holder of said mortgage has duly elected and does hereby elect to declare and does hereby declare the whole principal sum of said mortgage due and payable at the date of this notice; and

Whereas, there is actually due and claimed to be due thereon at the date of this notice the sum of one hundred eighty-nine and 29-100 ($189.29) dollars, together with the further sum of one hundred fifty [illegible] dollars, interest due on a prior mortgage, which was paid by the assignee on the first day of January, 1912, pursuant to the terms and stipulations in said mortgage contained which said payment bears interest at the rate of six per cent per annum from the first day of January, 1912, making the total amount due on said mortgage at the date hereof the sum of three hundred forty and 72-100 ($340.72) dollars, and the power of sale having become operative and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt remaining secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, namely: The east half of section thirty-three (33), township one hundred fifty-four (154), of range forty (40), containing three hundred twenty (320) acres more or less according to the government survey thereof, in the county of Pennington and state of Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Pennington county at the front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls in said county and state, on the 22nd day of April, A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, at public vendue, to the highest bidder for cash; to pay said debt of three hundred forty and 72-100 ($340.72) dollars, and interest and taxes if any, on said premises, and twenty-five ($25.00) dollars, attorney's fees allowed by statute in case of foreclosure and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the date of sale, as provided by law.

Dated February 28, 1912.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of thirty six ($36.00) dollars interest, which became due October 1st 1911, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by David W. Clayton and Mary E. Clayton, mortgagors, to Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of April, 1907, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota on the 8th day of April, 1907, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book 31 of mortgages on page 441, and now on record in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in said state, in book 24 of mortgages on page 117;

Which mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby was duly assigned by said Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., mortgagee, to David Rosenberg by written assignment, dated the 10th day of April, 1907, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April, 1907, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., in book 32 of mortgages on page 406 and now of record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 42 of mortgages, page 22.

And whereas, the said David Rosenberg, assignee thereafter died testate, and by the provisions of his will, which has been duly admitted to probate, assigned and conveyed said mortgage by his said written will to Amalia Rosenberg, and the said will having been duly admitted to probate in the probate court of the county of Swift, in the state of Minnesota, on the 24th day of May, 1910, the said probate court did thereafter make and enter its final degree, in writing, in the estate of David Rosenberg, deceased, dated on the 27th day of February, 1911, and thereby assigned and conveyed the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby to Amalia Rosenberg, which said final decree assigning said mortgage, pursuant to the provisions of the will aforesaid, was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 a. m., in book A of Miscellaneous on Page 170, and the letters testamentary issued in said estate to Myron Rosenberg, executor of the will of said David Rosenberg, deceased, was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said Pennington county on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 o'clock in book A of Miscellaneous on page 169.

And Whereas, The premises described in said mortgage are now included in the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, which county was created and organized on the 23rd day of November, 1910, out of a part of the former Red Lake county.

And Whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of the default in the payment of said interest, the whole principal sum of said mortgage did on the second day of October, 1911, become immediately due and payable and was so declared by the said Amalia Rosenberg, assignee of said mortgage, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon said mortgage the sum of twelve hundred seventy-three and 8-100 ($1273.08) dollars; and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in said conveyed by said mortgage, towit: The east half (e½) of the southwest quarter (sw¼) and lots number six (6) and seven (7) in section six (6) of township one hundred fifty-two (152) north of range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian for Minnesota, now in Pennington county, Minnesota, the same formerly being in Red Lake county Minnesota with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Pennington county at the front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on the 20th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of twelve hundred seventy-three and 08-100 ($1273.08) dollars and interest, and the taxes (if any), on said premises, and fifty ($50.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 30, A. D. 1912.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

The HOME DEPARTMENT

HAND-PAINTED SLIPPER

DAINTY FASHION WORTHY OF ITS POPULARITY.

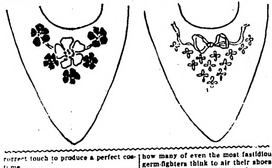
Not at All Hard to Decorate, and Makes a Most Welcome Gift at Any Time—Two Designs That May be Copied.

One of the daintiest fashions introduced this season was the hand-painted slippers for evening wear.

Can you imagine a more attractive gift for the graduate or bride than a pair of these?

The slippers are satin, white or any delicate tint, and the design may be of any favorite flower.

With filmy gowns of chiffon, lace or net, these lovely slippers add just the correct touch to produce a perfect costume.



Any woman with the slightest artistic ability can paint these slippers and find it a delightful pastime.

Two cleverly arranged designs are given here, which you may transfer to the slipper in this manner:

Over the slipper place a small piece of carbon paper and on top of this the design. Carefully trace each flower with a sharply pointed pencil. You will find an exact duplicate of the design on the slipper.

Use watercolors to tint the flowers.

Wild roses are used for one design. These are always effective on account of their delicate shading. The coloring should range from the faintest pink to a deep rose.

A daisy design is especially lovely. Daisies, in their simple beauty, make an appropriate decoration for the white slipper of the bride or the "sweet girl graduate."

Violets in an effective arrangement are good. Shades and tints of violet should be used to color these lovely blossoms.

A design of forget-me-nots is exceedingly pretty. They should be tinted palest blue, with yelow centers. The bowknot may be any color desired; however, pale pink with the blue always makes an effective combination.

If you desire to purchase the hand-painted slippers, you will find them rather expensive. When decorated at home they cost comparatively little.

They are the most acceptable of gifts, delighting any one fortunate enough to receive them.

SHOES NEED THE FRESH AIR

Care In This Respect Will Add to Life and Assure Comfort to the Wearer.

Fresh air is good for most things, including shoes. But in this instance as in many others the value of fresh air is not rightly estimated. At night the least-thoughtful shake out their clothes, brush off the day's dust and slip each garment over a hanger; and many garments are thrown over a chair before an open window. But how many of even the most fastidious germ-fighters think to air their shoes? Clickety-click, into a close closet, or closed shoe box, they go, instead of being brushed, pulled into shape and placed where the air can play freely about and through them.

A windowsill is an excellent shoe-airing rack and is convenient for all. Shoes placed there for an hour or so after wearing each day, will not only prove refreshing to the feet, but will harbor no foot odors, and the dampness from feet warmth and weather conditions will evaporate, leaving leather and lining renewed to resist the day's dear.

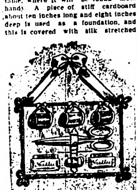
RATINE LINING.

White ratine, as a lining for black or colored faille or satin coats, is one of the smart things in handsome suits. The white cloth comes out in collar and cuffs, with big buttons covered with silk or satin. Black gowns of the kind are used in half mourning.

USEFUL LITTLE WORK BOARD

Takes Up Only a Small Amount of Space and Is Extremely Handy When Wanted.

This useful little board is intended to hang on the wall near a dressing table, where it will be found most handy. A piece of stiff cardboard about ten inches long and eight inches deep is used as a foundation, and this is covered with silk stretched smoothly across and sewn together at the edges.



Down the center a strap of broad elastic is sewn so that it forms a series of loops under which scissors, bodkin and thimble may be slipped and held in their places. On either side of this, small pockets are arranged capable of holding packets of needles.

Along the upper edge and suspended with little loops of narrow ribbon are three reels of cotton, from which the thread may be drawn off without removing them from the board.

The board is edged all round with a silk cord, carried into three little loops at each corner, and a loop of ribbon with a smart bow at the top is attached to the back by which the workboard may be suspended from a nail in the wall.

New Parasols.

A handsome new parasol of green silk has a four-inch border of a heavy plush or long piled velvet of a gray and white mixture. At a distance the border quite resembles fur. Another style parasol is of changeable taffeta with a pinked ruffle of the same outlining the edge. The shirring of the ruffle is defined with a cord.

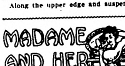
Gathers in Skirts.

Gathered backs are appearing in many of the new skirts of soft materials. This is contrary to the present fashion of the panel and plain habit, but the gathers are so cleverly held in place that the lines are just as slender.

HIGH COLLARS.

Collars of ear-tickling height and daytime decolletage effects are two extremes of the present styles. The stock has returned with all its altitude, and the low transparent yokes are again revived.

MADAME AND HER TOILET



Dampen the hair with cologne water before winding it on the curlers, and it will help to keep the curl in. Hair should be left on the curlers until dry. Anything containing gum arabic leaves an ugly white powder on the hair which is anything but pretty.

With the chilly winds of early spring come many aches and pains. One of the worst of these is earache. This may be effectively relieved by applying sponges, wrung out of hot water, over and behind the ear. Drop a few drops of heated oil mixed with laudanum into the ear. This should bring instant relief.

Physical culture exercises must be taken regularly if good results are expected. Ten minutes devoted to exercise should be taken every morning. Exercise combined with deep breathing and plenty of water drinking is nature's own materia medica, but it costs so little that it is not regarded as "worth while."

When the sedentary worker eats her luncheon she generally reads something or sits or lies down, because she is "so tired." The thing to do is to take a brisk walk, putting in all the time she can spare, and if she would be free from headache she should eschew pickles and pastry at lunch time. Plain, wholesome food is what she requires.

Economical Device.

Experience has shown that metal embroideries have a fatal effect on bodice linings. However little gold or platinum thread may be used on a gown, the doublure is certain to require renewal before the freshness of the work is in the least impaired or the rest of the lining worn out.

A careful dressmaker, however, places a firm linen background on work of this description, this being interposed between the metal threads and the rich lining which is de rigueur nowadays

WHY PEOPLE GO TO CANADA

Those who are wondering why the number of Americans going to Canada year by year increases in the rates that it does, would not be so surprised were they to accompany one of the numerous excursions that are being run under the auspices of the Government from several of the states, and remain with the settler until he gets onto the free homesteads, which, as stated by Speaker Champ Clark, in the U. S. senate the other day, comprises 160 acres of the most fertile soil and with remarkably easy settlement conditions. Then watch the results, whether it be on this free homestead of 160 acres or on land which he may purchase at from $15. to $20. per acre, fully as good as the $100. and $150. per acre land of his native state, and which his means will not permit his purchasing. On the part of the members of the U. S. Senate and Congress there is nothing but praise for Canada. Canadian laws and Canadian lands although the reasonable desire is shown in their remarks, that they pass legislation, (which is very praiseworthy) that will make the land laws of the United States much easier.

It is the success of the American settler in Canada that attracts others, and when experiences such as the following are related to the friend "back home" is it any wonder that increased interest is aroused and a determination arrived at, to participate in the new-found way up in Canada that means wealth and health and all that accompanies it.

William Johnston, who formerly lived at Alexandria, Minn., settled in the Alberg District near Battle River and in writing to one of the Canadian Government agents, located in the United States says: "We have had no failures of crops during our nine years in Canada. I threshed 1208 bushels of wheat and 1083 bushels of oats in 1911, off my 160 acres. This is a beautiful country. I keep six good work horses and milk seven cows, getting good prices for butter and eggs. We get our coal for $2.00 per ton at the mine, about one mile from the farm. Am about one and a half miles from a fine school. As for the cold weather it is much milder here than in Minnesota, where I lived for 21 years. Our well is 35 feet deep and we have fine water. Wild land is selling for $18. to $25. per acre. Improved farms are much higher. I am well satisfied with the country, and would not sell unless I got a big price, as we have all done well here."

Good reasons to account for the number going to Canada.

Two Smiles.

Ezra Pound, the poet, was talking at the Authors' club, in New York, about Shelley's cremation.

"Cremation, although beautiful," he said, "lends itself to ribald jest in a way that sepulture doesn't.

"Who can forbear a smile at the thought of that devoted young matron, who, her front steps being covered with sleet, sprinkled her first husband's ashes over them in order that her second husband might descend in safety?"

Smiling himself, Mr. Pound resumed:

"And who could forbear another smile at the thought of the young widow on the blustery March morning who entered her drawing room to find that the wind had overturned the vase which contained her husband's remains?

"'Pshaw,' she said, 'now isn't it just like George to throw his ashes all over my new Kirmanshah rug!'"

Nothing Lost.

"Mr. Chairman," said the orator, who had already occupied the platform for twenty minutes, amid many interjections from the audience. "Mr. Chairman! May I appeal on a point of order? There is really so much desultory conversation going on in parts of the hall that it is impossible for me to hear a word I am saying."

Voice from the Back of the Hall—Don't be downhearted; you're not missing much!

Some Are So by Nature.

A certain young man, who prided himself on a brusqueness that he mistook for wit, met an eminent, but touchy, sculptor at a studio supper.

"So you're the chap," he said, on being introduced, "that makes mud heads?"

"Not all of them," the sculptor replied, quietly.—Youth's Companion.

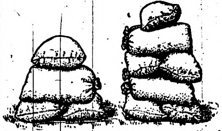
Greater Farm Efficiency

Better Crops by Better Fertilizing

By PROF. A. R. WHITSON, Wisconsin College of Agriculture



Manure vs. Manure With Rock Phosphate on potatoes. The Use of Rock Phosphate in Addition to the Manure increased the yield 47 per Cent.

The development of the use of fertilizers in the United States has increased at a very rapid rate within the last two or thre decades. Their use in the eastern and southern states is extensive. Within this period, however, Wisconsin agriculture has gone largely in the direction of dairying and in this system of farming the fertility of the soil, as is well known, is more generally conserved than in systems where a large part of the product of the farm is sold in the form of vegetables or grain. For this reason, in part, the use of commercial fertilizers in this state has been very limited. Moreover, the agricultural press of the state and the teaching of the Agricultural college has been opposed to the use of commercial fertilizers largely because the emphasis was placed on the advantages of dairying in the conservation of soil fertility. The time has come, however, when it is not profitable for farmers of the state to longer overlook the advantages which may come from the proper use of commercial fertilizers. There is much land in the state not adapted to dairying, such as large areas of sandy and marsh soil, and some sections of clay loam where the topography is so rough that the necessary amount of corn for silage cannot be grown to advantage. On lands of this class, other products must be grown for the market and it is in the growing of such crops as cabbage, potatoes, sugar beets, peas and corn for canning purposes, and other special crops that the use of commercial fertilizers is needed.

The large yields of practically all farm crops produced in such European countries as England, Germany and France, are frequently mentioned in agricultural papers as an evidence of the possibilities of intensive cultivation. By far the most important factor making possible such increases is the use of commercial fertilizers. It would be a difficult matter to find a farm of any importance in any of these countries on which a considerable amount of commercial fertilizers is not used. Nearly one-half of the immense output of our own phosphate mines is shipped abroad and in addition to that, enormous quantities of phosphate are mined in Europe and produced in the form of Thomas slag in the reduction of British iron ore which runs high in that element. Germany possesses practically the world's supply of potash fertilizer and this is drawn on heavily by that and adjacent countries. In addition to this, the growth of green manuring crops, practically always of the legume family, adds to the nitrogen supply, although enormous quantities of special nitrogen fertilizers are also used.

Without desiring in the least to underestimate the importance of dairy or other stock farming in its effect on the fertility of the soil, we feel that we can no longer afford to neglect the use of commercial fertilizers where they are called for.

Contrary to a rather common opinion, the kind of commercial fertilizers called for depends more on the character of the soil to be treated than on the crops to be grown. The amount to be used will depend to some extent on the kind of crop grown since some crops remove much larger quantities of the mineral elements from the soil than do others, but the particular kind of fertilizer needed is determined almost exclusively by the character of the soil. Much can be learned regarding the feeding of crops from experience gained in the feeding of animals. Just as it is well known that a certain balance among the ingredients of feed for stock should be maintained, so should there be a balance in the different elements of fertility available to growing crops. When crops are to be grown on marsh land which is extremely high in nitrogen but just as extremely low in phosphorus, and often in potash, these deficiencies must be made good in some way. Sandy soils, on account of their coarse texture and generally low content of all the essential elements, must frequently be supplied with practically all the essential elements for plant growth. The nitrogen may be added either directly in artificial fertilizers or indirectly through the growth of leguminous plants which have the power of fixing that element from the atmosphere. The nitrogen can be gathered in this way much more cheaply than it can be purchased and moreover, when added in the form of vegetable matter it decomposes and becomes available to growing crops slowly so that there is little danger of its loss by leaching from the soil, while nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia are extremely soluble and apt to be largely lost in the case of heavy rains falling on the sandy soils. However, there are frequently cases where the use of a light dressing even of nitrogen salts is profitable. This would ordinarily be in the growing of certain special crops that have a high gross return per acre. It is along this line that there is considerable possibility in the development of the various forms of nitrogen containing fertilizers. The new form of cokeing oven makes possible the saving of practically all of the nitrogen in coal undergoing the cokeing process and this by-product is being put on the market in increasingly large amounts. The manufacture of nitrogen-containing salts by electrolytic methods is also increasing. A number of plants for this purpose have been installed recently in European countries and one or two in this country.

Clay soils are ordinarily abundantly supplied with potassium and on account of their good water-holding capacity, grasses and other plants which will add organic matter can be grown for supplying this substance and consequently nitrogen, and the only direct fertilizing element usually needed is phosphorus, but probably more than half of the clay loam soils of this country under crop could be fertilized with phosphate fertilizers profitably under present conditions. Heavy clay soils in the northern part of Wisconsin which have been under crop but a few years have shown increases in yield running from 15 per cent. to 50 per cent. as a result of supplementing barnyard manure with rock phosphate.

But even on farms where practically all of the crops grown are fed, there is a possibility of considerable loss in fertility. Only where large amounts of concentrated feed stuffs are fed is the supply of phosphorus maintained. Probably the greatest loss on such farms takes place in the leaching of barnyard manure and there is certainly a great possibility in the direction of conserving fertility by protecting barnyard manures from leaching and also from too rapid heating in the process of composting. It is just as important that a thoroughly good practicable system of housing and hauling the manure on the farm be worked out as that the stock be properly housed and cared for. The use of peat for bedding, by which its nitrogen is added to that of the manure, is another method which may add greatly to the nitrogen in use on the farm. This material contains in the condition in which it would be used for bedding from two to three per cent. of nitrogen or more than clover or alfalfa hay would contain, and twice as much as barnyard manure. It occurs in enormous quantities in this state and it only needs a little encouragement in its use to develop the industry to the extent to which it exists in European countries.

Another matter which ought to be recognized at once in the development of agriculture is that it is very much easier to maintain the fertility of soil than it is to reproduce it after it has once been lost by an exhaustive system of farming. This applies particularly to the sandy soils, but is also true in the case of the clay loam soils. Sandy soils frequently show good producing power for the first two or three years and no special care is given to maintain the fertility until the farmer suddenly finds that his crops have become very much less and it is then very much more difficult to reproduce the fertility than it would have been to adopt proper methods at the start. This will also be found true in the case of the clay loam soils of the north-central part of the state, especially with reference to the supply of organic matter which is ordinarily low. The small amount which they do contain is largely in the form of leaf mold near the surface and disappears quickly with a few years cropping. These are matters connected with the maintenance of fertility, though not with the use of commercial fertilizers directly.

Those who are planning to use commercial fertilizers should make it a point to become thoroughly familiar with the different forms of fertilizers containing the elements which they desire to add to their soil and with the basis on which the price for the same is figured. It is customary for the fertilizer manufacturers to prepare mixed fertilizers containing all the essential elements in varying proportions. These are recommended to the farmer under trade names such as Tobacco Special, Potato Special, Corn Special, etc., thus implying that they have some particular advantage for those particular crops. As previously stated, this is not the case and the farmer is usually obliged to buy in such mixed fertilizers elements which he does not need and is often obliged to pay higher prices for those he does want than if he were to buy them in a pure form. Buying a fertilizer containing a single element is to be recommended. It will occasionally be desirable to mix phosphate and potash fertilizers, but this can be done on the farm to good advantage.

A very general interest in the use of some form of lime for correcting acidity is developing throughout the state and this matter is frequently discussed in the agricultural press. No full discussion will be attempted here, but we do wish to point out the fact that ground limestone is being put on the market in very different condition. In some cases it is ground almost as fine as flour, while in others a considerable portion is as coarse as coarse sand. This difference in degree of fineness is a large part of the difference in price asked. The coarser material should be used in larger quantities, but will last longer than the fine material.

The More Sensible Plan.

Men do not die for women in real life; they prefer to live for them.

THE PEEVISH CHILD NEEDS TREATMENT

When a child sulks drowsily, or is fretful, it is usually due to some slight disorder of the digestive organs, and a mild laxative is very often all that is necessary to restore cheerfulness and buoyancy of spirits.

In cases where the use of a gentle, effective laxative stimulant is indicated, many of the best physicians are now prescribing Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This preparation is admittedly the perfect laxative, being mild, yet positive in its action on the bowels, and far preferable to violent cathartics and purgative waters. It is very pleasant to the taste and is an ideal remedy to regulate and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels. Its easy, natural action makes it especially desirable in the case of children, a dose at bed-time being sure to have the desired result next morning, with no attendant unpleasantness or discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this splendid remedy, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., for a sample. He will be very glad to send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

Rheumatic Pains quickly relieved

Sloan's Liniment is good for pain of any sort. It penetrates, without rubbing, through the muscular tissue right to the bone—relieves the congestion and gives permanent as well as temporary relief.

Here's Proof.

A. W. LAY of Lafayette, Ala., writes:—"I had rheumatism for five years. I tried doctors and several different remedies but they did not help me. I obtained a bottle of Sloan's Liniment which did me so much good that I would not do without it for anything."

THOMAS L. RICE of Easton, Pa., writes: "I have used Sloan's Liniment and find it first-class for rheumatic pains."

Mr. G. G. JONES of Baldwins, L. I., writes:—"I have found Sloan's Liniment par excellence. I have used it for broken sinews above the knee cap caused by a fall, and to my great satisfaction I was able to resume my duties in less than three weeks after the accident."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is an excellent remedy for sprains, bruises, sore throat, asthma. No rubbing necessary—you can apply with a brush.

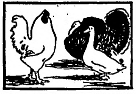
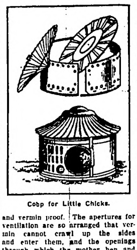
POULTRY



COOP FOR YOUNG CHICKENS

Illinois Man Arranges Device of Galvanized Iron, Which Is Rain, Rat and Vermin Proof.

A coop that provides a safe and sanitary home for young chickens has been invented by an Illinois man. It is made of galvanized iron, with a circular body and a peaked roof, with over-hanging eaves. It is rain, rat and vermin proof. The apertures for ventilation are so arranged that vermin cannot crawl up the sides and enter them, and the openings through which the mother hen and the little chicks pass in and out are in a slidable section, so that the egress of both, or of the hen only, can be cut off at will. Even when closed, however, the ventilation is such that the air is always pure. Another advantage of this coop is that the top, bottom and sides are detachable, and the whole affair can be knocked down in an instant.



Coop for Little Chicks.

GOOD FOOD FOR POULTRY

There Should be a Variety and While Some Grains Are Favored Others Are Not—Grit Needed.

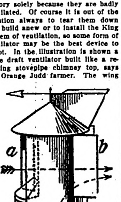
Poultry food should be palatable. Some grains are the favorite food of chickens, while others are not. Rye may be fed, but it is not generally liked by poultry, and should never be made the principal feed. It may be used in a mixture with other grains, and will be eaten by the flock. Relish is one of the factors of proper feeding.

Food should be varied. The best commercial poultry-foods on the market are combinations of the common farm grains. There are varying amounts of each, according to nutritive value and cheapness—wheat, oats, corn, barley, rye, millet-seed, caneseed, field peas, buckwheat, sunflowerseeds, and grass-seeds. With these are combined grit, shells and charcoal. These foods produce good results, mainly because of the variety. With a little instruction, one could make such a combination, for the flock, of grains on the farm.

VENTILATOR FOR HEN HOUSE

Many Buildings Prove Quite Unsatisfactory Because They Are Not Properly Ventilated.

Poultry houses are often unsatisfactory solely because they are badly ventilated. Of course it is out of the question always to tear them down and build anew or to install the King system of ventilation, so some form of ventilator may be the best device to adopt. In the illustration is shown a force draft ventilator built like a revolving stovepipe chimney top, says the Orange Judd farmer. The wing with the arrow on top turns the top so the opening, a, always faces the wind. Some of the wind passes through this opening and out of the top at b. It thus creates a draft up the flue, c, and thus ventilates the poultry house below. The principle is the same as that used in the atomizer.



Novel Ventilator

Good Egg Food.

Dry bran is good egg food and should be kept before the hens practically all the time. Keep it in a dry place and give it to the hens in a narrow trough slatted over the top so they can pick it out, but not tramp in and spoilt it.

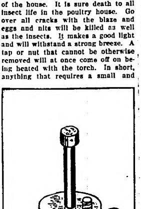
Feed for Hens.

Clover leaves and heads break off in handling clover hay. These should be saved and fed to the hens. They may be fed dry or placed in a pail and steamed by pouring on boiling water and covering tightly.

SURE DEATH TO ALL INSECTS

Home-Made Torch Shown in Illustration Should Find Place on Every Farm—Used for Many Things.

The home-made torch herewith illustrated, or one similar in construction, should find a place on every farm, says the Homestead. Such torches are for sale in hardware stores, but the prices asked for them seem rather high, and then they are mostly used by painters and the average farmer seldom if ever gets sight of one of them. To make the torch shown in the cut, secure any stout can that will hold a pint or more, preferably an old oil can with a handle, drill a hole in the center and place a short piece of one-fourth-inch iron pipe in the hole as shown. It should extend to within half an inch of the bottom of the can and project above the top about three or four inches. Place a cap on the top and drill several very small holes in same. There should be about five holes, with one in the top of the can. Make the holes one-thirty-second or one-sixteenth of an inch in diameter. Fill the pipe with candle wicking and fasten tightly in place. It should be soldered. Fill can about four-fifths full of gasoline and light same by heating the top of can and pipe with a small blaze. If the weather is not too cold this can be done with matches. The heat forms a gas in the can which forces itself up through the wicking, and when lighted makes a strong light and a very hot blaze. This can be used for many things on the farm. For instance, no better device has been invented for cleaning old paint from any surface, such as buggies, wagons, or the walls of the house. It is sure death to all insect life in the poultry house. Go over all cracks with the blaze and eggs and nits will be killed as well as the insects. It makes a good light and will withstand a strong breeze. A tap or nut that cannot be otherwise removed will at once come off on being heated with the torch. In short, anything that requires a small and safe heat can be heated or burned with this torch. Any tinner will make the torch for 25 cents if you cannot make one yourself. It is perfectly safe and cannot explode.



A Handy Torch.

Feed Suggested by Prof. Graham of Ontario, Is Objectionable Account Color Resulting.

Prof. W. R. Graham of the Ontario Agricultural college, says he finds that the following ration will produce flesh economically, but is objectionable because it makes the flesh yellow. This ration is cornmeal, five parts; shorts, four parts; pearloat dust, one part; animal meal, one part; cost $1.10 per cwt.

He finds that a ration made up of two parts cornmeal, ground buckwheat, two parts, and pearl-oat dust, one part; at a cost of $1.23 cwt., is one that makes nice, white flesh at a very moderate cost.

Birds should be fed lightly at the beginning—a very important point—and the amount gradually increased until the birds refuse to eat all that is given them. No food should be left in front of the birds longer than ten minutes after it is placed in the trough.

Sweet skim-milk does not have a feeding value for grown chickens equal to sour milk, but whey is a better food than is generally considered, as it aids digestion.

Pork-scrap and beef-scrap at not more than two cents per pound, give good value, but will make the flesh yellow.

Chickens can be fattened more economically when fed in crates than when allowed to run at large, even in a good-sized yard.

All fowls should be fasted from 24 to 36 hours before killing. When the is not done the food decomposes in the crops and intestines, the result being that the flesh becomes tainted and does not keep well.

POULTRY NOTES

Mongrel fowls should not be kept for egg production because the eggs will be uniform neither in color nor size.

Where there is no other chance for early green picking a patch of oats sown now will answer the purpose well.

It is better to go slow and heat up the eggs in an incubator in 24 hours than to get in a hurry and do it in two hours.

February hatched chickens are apt to molt in the fall, and will not be worth anything for egg production in winter.

Any sharp stones will answer for grit, if they are smaller than a grain of corn, and larger than a grain of wheat.

A good, well-balanced, laying ration: Two parts bran, one part corn meal, one part alfalfa meal, and one part beef scrap.

Ducks that are hatched in an incubator can be cared for the same as those hatched by hens or ducks in the natural way.

FIFE COAL MINERS

Are Religious, Devoted to Their Homes and Families.

Husbands Take Pride in Seeing Their Wives Well Dressed—Accident Will Cause Entire Town to Mourn.

Broughty Ferry, Scotland.—Having a relative engaged in one of the pits at Bowhill, a busy mining district, the writer has been privileged to learn by living among them much of the daily life of the Fife miner. Taking the first shift, the miner leaves home in time to reach his work at six o'clock. He does not return till he knocks off at two.

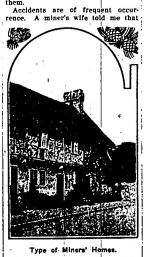
The wife of the miner has a long day to get her household duties attended to. She is not an early riser, and getting the children off to school occupies her morning to the full. They pop into each other's houses at any time and are dependent on each other in cases of sickness. A washerwoman is difficult to obtain. Wages are good and the miner does not care to see his wife going out to work. The husbands take great pride in seeing their wives stylishly dressed, and it is a sight to see them out for church on a Sunday. The women will send far to get their millinery up to date. Their taste is good on the whole, though it is largely initiative.

The houses are built in rows, and in the end house perhaps a clerk or overseer has his abode; his wife is usually from the city and has smart tastes. She is closely watched, and whatever she gets new to wear is generally what is worn by the whole row in a few weeks.

Miners' families are adepts at banking up a fire to last all night, so that "father" has only to give it a poke in the morning, and mother gets up to a warm fire and a big kettle of boiling water to make the first cup of tea.

They are deeply religious, nearly all churchgoers, at least once a day. Kind-hearted and fond of their families, no better class of men exists among working people anywhere. If they demand good wages they surely earn them.

Accidents are of frequent occurrence. A miner's wife told me that her mind was never at rest. "You never know when your man will be carried to the door crushed in some way," she said.



Type of Miners' Homes.

One Sunday I went to church at Auchterderran. There had been an accident shortly before, when two men lost their lives. I was an utter stranger but I shook with sobs at the feeling way the minister prayed for sorrowing families of the victims. An unusual chord was struck as he also prayed for divine blessing on the "kindly hands that had washed the faces of the dead before the relatives looked on them."

CATCHES LION IN HIS COAT

Unarmed Colorado Trapper and Beast Fall From Tree, but He Holds Game.

Meeker, Colo.—To deliberately climb a tree, unarmed, in pursuit of a mountain lion, follow the beast out to the farthermost limb, and, as it sprang at him, catch it headforemost in the folds of a coat, is a feat of daring performed by Richard Tovey, a trapper. When the beast sprang Tovey barely had time to straighten up and open his coat, fanlike. The lion struck head foremost, a gnashing, scratching mass, squarely within its folds. The impact caused the trapper to lose his balance and the two fell to the ground, but Tovey did not loosen his hold. Neither Tovey nor the lion was hurt.

SLY NEEDLE IN HER ARM

Entered Woman's Body Without Her Knowing It—X-Ray Photo Revealed It.

Altoona, Pa.—After being treated for various ailments for eight months, during which time she suffered intense pain, an X-ray photograph of Mrs. Margaret Myers's right forearm was taken, disclosing a sewing needle.

Its presence in her arm she cannot account for, as she has no recollection of ever experiencing any pain until last June, when the arm began to swell, apparently without cause. The needle was cut out.

Clock Rescues Family.

Springfield, O.—Because an alarm clock was set at the wrong hour, the family of Harry Barrett was saved from being asphyxiated the other night. The little daughter of Mr. Barrett turned the key of the gas stove. At midnight the alarm clock aroused Mr. Barrett, who was partly suffocated, but was able to stagger to the stove and close the valve.

WHEREIN DADDY WAS WRONG

Tommy Resented Injustice Done to Saw, After He Had Proved Its Temper.

Mr. A—, who was planning to build an outdoor sleeping porch at the back of his house, had an expensive new saw sent home from a hardware store. He left his office early the next afternoon, with the intention of getting the porch well under way before dinner; and, as he was very much interested in doing the work himself, he donned a pair of overalls and went at it in good spirits. An hour or so later he came tramping into the house, his face dark with exasperation, and flung himself down in disgust.

"That new saw I bought isn't worth five cents," he stormed. "Why, the thing won't cut butter!"

His small son Tommy looked up in wide-eyed surprise.

"Oh, yes, it would, daddy," he said, earnestly; "why, Ted and I sawed a whole brick in two with it just this morning!"—Harper's Magazine.

AS TO REALISM.

Reggy—How is this in the second chapter of my great story: "The beautiful girl dropped her eyes?"

Peggy—How pathetic! Were they glass eyes?

Misunderstood 'Gator.

The winter afternoon was like June, and, taking tea under a palm on the lawn of the Royal Poinciana at Palm Beach, a sportsman said:

"This morning I photographed an alligator. My boy, to get him, stripped and waded into the water up to his chin. The boy felt about with his feet in the mud till he found a big 'gator. Then he ducked down, grabbed the 'gator by the nose and dragged him slowly ashore to the waiting lens."

"But," said a girl in white, "wasn't it dangerous?"

"Not a bit."

"But I thought alligators ate you!"

"No, no," said the sportsman. "You are confusing the alligator with the crocodile. The Indian crocodile eats men and women, but the Florida alligator is as harmless, literally as harmless, as a cow."

Remarkable Bible Verses.

The eighth verse of the third chapter of Zephaniah contains every letter, including the finals, of the Hebrew language, while one will find in the twenty-first verse of the seventh chapter of Ezra every letter of the English alphabet except j. The verse reads as follows: "And I, even I, Axtaxerxes the King, do make a decree to all the treasurers which are beyond the river, that whatsoever Ezra the priest, the scribe of the law of the God of heaven, shall require of you, it be done speedily."—Youth's World.

Demand for New Alloy.

Although the early expectations of the wholesale substitution of aluminum for steel and iron have not materialized, the demand for the new alloy has grown enormously. From a production in the United States of less than 100,000 pounds in 1883, in 1903 the output had grown to 350,000 pounds, 1903, to 7,500,000 pounds and today it is in excess of 50,000,000 pounds.

Outwardly most people are cheerful givers, but how about the feeling inside?

Up and Down.

Senator Davis, in an interview at Ozark, derided good humoredly the aristocratic pretentions that too many Americans, as soon as they get rich, assume.

"It's hard to be aristocratic in a democracy like this," said Senator Davis. "We've got no criterion, no measure, and hence, as aristocrats, we never can tell where we stand.

"'Is that so?' said the other. 'I was under the impression that she climbed out.'"

FOR HUBBY TO PONDER OVER

Innocent Answer of Quiet Little Wife Got Him Started on Train of Thought.

The husband and wife were on their way to the theater, when the husband began kicking because his wife took such a long time dressing.

"What delayed you this time?" he growled.

"Seeing the children to bed," she responded, quietly.

"What's the nurse for?" snapped the man.

"The nurse is for our convenience—yours and mine, especially mine," she answered. "But the boy certainly takes after you. He asked the same kind of a fool question just as I was kissing him good night."

"Fool question, eh? Well, what was it?"

"I asked him if he had said his prayers. And he said no. And I asked him if he didn't want God to take care of him during the night. He answered: 'What's the nurse for?'"

For the remainder of the way the man pondered on this answer.

Filipinos Dislike Autos.

The reckless and insolent automobilist is hated the world over. In the Philippines, where most of the automobilists are foreigners, and where the natives have been used to loiter comfortably in the roads after the fashion of easy going southern countries, the automobiles have long been a grievance, and, failing to secure effective regulation, the Filipinos have adopted the practice of rolling big boulders into the roadway as a hint not to turn corners at a breakneck speed.

Why Should a Chicken Lay a Soft-Shelled Egg?

Because, Willie, the chicken don't know how to create a hard-shelled egg unless it has some food with lime in it.

So chicken-raisers often provide limestone gravel, broken oyster shells or some other form of lime.

Let the chicken wander free and it finds its own food and behaves sensibly.

Shut it up and feed stuff lacking lime and the eggs are soft-shelled.

Let's step from chickens to human beings.

Why is a child "backward" and why does a man or woman have nervous prostration or brain-fag? There may be a variety of reasons but one thing is certain.

If the food is deficient in Phosphate of Potash the gray matter in the nerve centres and brain cannot be rebuilt each day to make good the cells broken down by the activities of yesterday.

Phosphate of Potash is the most important element Nature demands to unite albumin and water to make gray matter.

Grape-Nuts food is heavy in Phosphate of Potash in a digestible form.

A chicken can't always select its own food, but a thoughtful man can select suitable food for his children, wife and himself.

$157,429 FOR WOLVES.

Minnesota Has Paid Bounties on Over 25,000 in Last Five Years.

St. Paul.—The pays to hunt wolves in Minnesota. This is proved by records in the office of S. G. Iverson, state auditor, where orders for small fortunes are paid out annually for the pelts. Within the last five years more than 25,000 wolves have been killed in the state and bounties of $7.50 paid on each. This does not include 2,473 killed since Aug. 1 of last year.

While, apparently the number is decreasing, there still remain big packs of them in the north woods, preying upon deer, and when pressed with hunger, upon domestic animals.

On each full grown wolf the state pays a bounty of $7.50 and on each cub $3. For the years ending July 31 last, the fiscal end of the year in Minnesota, the following sums were paid in bounties:

	Wolves.	Bounties.
1907	5,930	$30,014.50
1908	6,175	35,525.00
1909	3,629	27,183.00
1910	4,710	35,356.00
1911	4,764	29,350.50
Total	25,208	$157,429.00

In addition to these sums, counties in many instances offer additional rewards for wolf killing, thus adding to the profit of the sport. Cook county pays $17.50 bounty for each full grown wolf within its confines. This, with the bounty paid by the state, makes a wolf valued more than a pig. The hunter gets $25 for it.

St. Louis county pays $7.50 bounty on full grown wolves; Pine county pays $5, Aitkin $3.50, Chicago $2.50, Fillmore $2.50, Hubbard $2.50 and Itasca $2.50. Other counties offer similar bounties.

The year from July 31, 1907, to July 31, 1908, saw more wolves killed than any other recent year. More than 6,000 were killed and bounty on them claimed. The year previous was next highest, and the year following was the lowest. Since the last day of July, 1911, bounty has been claimed on only 2,473 and it is likely this will be a low year.

SMALLER FIRE LOSSES.

Reduction in State in March $1,606,735 From Same Month Last Year.

Fire losses in Minnesota during March, 1912, were $1,606,735 less than they were in March 1911, according to figures compiled in the office of State Fire Marshall Keller. There were only eight less fires in the state than in the same month last year, but the burning of the Syndicate block in Minneapolis in March, 1911, made the difference in loss. The total loss in March, 1911, was $1,949,434, and in March, 1912, it was $342,699.

St. Paul fires were reduced from 56 in March, 1911, to 36 last month, and the damage estimated was lowered from $78,650 to $17,000. Minneapolis had nine less fires, but Duluth and the other cities in the state show an increase.

During the last month the fire marshal's office has started eighteen investigations and has inspected forty-eight buildings which it was necessary to take action against. Of these buildings thirty-two were in St. Paul. They were either condemned, ordered to be overhauled or to have rubbish cleared away.

MOORHEAD HAS AUTO CLUB.

Moorhead.—At a meeting of automobile owners last night, the Moorhead Automobile club was formed with J. Pierce Wolf as president. Seth Richardson of the Fargo Automobile club addressed the meeting.

The new organization will look to the improvement of the road from Moorhead to the string of lakes south of Detroit, Minn. Many Moorhead and Fargo people have summer homes at these lakes and there is a large amount of automobile traffic back and forth. Sign posts will be erected along the way. A plan will be started later for boosting the proposed meridian road and procuring the Glidden tour through Moorhead and Fargo.

Not Enough Seed Corn.

Albert Lea.—Farmers are busy preparing for spring work and the hardest task they have is securing and testing seed corn. Much of that saved is proving bad when put through the ear test, the plan now adopted by all progressive farmers. N. J. Whitney, who captured the premiums at the show of the State Corn Growers' association at Owatonna says he has had many inquiries for seed and has been unable to supply the demand. Other grains that have been tested have not proved any too good.

Lister Leaves $3,308,330.

London, England—The will of the late Lord Lister, discoverer of the antiseptic system of treatment in surgery, which has been filed, disposes of an estate valued at $3,308,330. It gives $50,000 each to the Royal society, the King Edward hospital, and the North London university college hospital on condition that the donor's name should not be associated with the bequests. There is also a bequest of $100,000 to the Lister institute for preventive medicine.

ARBOR DAY APRIL 26.

Governor Issues Proclamation Calling on Citizens to Plant Trees.

Arbor day is to be celebrated throughout Minnesota on Friday, April 26. Governor Eberhart issued the Arbor and Bird day proclamation, calling on all citizens of the state to help in the work by planting trees and beautifying lawns and public grounds.

The proclamation is as follows:

At no previous period in the growth and upbuilding of Minnesota has there been manifest a more general sentiment to improve civic conditions in relation to the home, both rural and urban. This is apparent through the efforts for bringing the home, the school and the community into closer, more intelligent and practical relations. It is shown in state-wide movements for a genuine reawakening and uplift, to make agricultural more profitable and more inviting.

We have come to take account of the state's natural resources and to epress a genuine concern in caring for and preserving what nature has bestowed in bountiful form. Our development has reached that stage when it becomes not only a duty but a matter of civic pride to beautify the settings of the home, the school and the public centers by planting tree, shrubs and flowers, in order that nature may be aided to serve us in our day, and those for whom we are striving to leave some legacy.

The home is not complete until it is set in the restful and secure environment of companion trees. The school and other centers must reflect the same settings. Thus, aided by the charm and variety of our changing seasons, the youth may join with their elders in making of Minnesota the open gateway to prosperity and the land of flowers, and the home of those who seek peace, prosperity and a restful abiding place.

Now, therefore, I, Adolph O. Eberhart, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby designate and proclaim Friday, April 26, 1912, to be observed as Arbor and Bird day throughout the state by the planting of trees for the beautification of public grounds and highways.

VISITS DITCHES.

Siberian Engineer Inspects Work at Thief River Falls.

Thief River Falls.—To be visited by a representative of the Russian government, who traveled half way around the earth on his errand, was an honor conferred on the Northwestern Drainage company by Chief Engineer Peter Stakle of Blogovestchensk, Siberia. He is in charge of vast drainage works in eastern Siberia, some 500 miles from the coast, and is endeavoring to reclaim about sixteen million acres of level rich prairie land, which at times is too wet for agricultural purposes. The Russian government desires to make this tract produce supplies for its army in eastern Siberia and will give forty acres free to any person who will settle on it.

All the work done on the ditch in Russia is being done by hand and costs about 50 cents a cubic yard, while the local company is moving dirt at about 10 cents a cubic yard. Hearing of the great ditching propositions in this state Mr. Stakle came directly from Siberia to Thief River Falls to learn of methods and machinery at first hand.

A. M. Arpin, president of the Northwestern Drainage company, spent two days with the visitor and he left today loaded with profiles, estimates, plans and photographs of the work.

TAR CASE DISMISSED.

Albert Lea, Minn.—At an adjourned term of the district court, presided over by Judge Kinsley, the Glenville riot cases remaining on the calendar were dismissed, on motion of the county attorney.

Nearly a year ago Dr. J. P. Freeman of Glenville, while leaving his store in the evening to go to his home, was seized by several men, thrown to the ground and tarred and feathered. F. Flusek, Fred Holm, William Swenson, Walter Knutson, Norman Hull, Frank Vonick, O. C. Hanson, S. T. Kirkpatrick, Roy Eckert, Harry Kirkpatrick and Jay Nelson, all residents of Glenville or the immediate vicinity, were indicted for assault and at the February term of court Flusek was tried. A verdict of not guilty was returned by the jury.

As this was one of the best cases the state had, it was decided there would be little use in trying the others.

BELGRADE SOIL FINE

Farmers, Who Are Optimistic, May Seed This Week.

Belgrade.—The farmers of his vicinity are in an optimistic spirit, as they believe the agricultural season of 1912 will be profitable for them. Some plan to start the seeding of small grain this week, and they declare they cannot remember when the soil was better. Only a small quantity of wheat will be sown as the farmers are discouraged over the failure of the last crop.

Fight With a Wolf.

Redwood Falls.—Halvar Kvendru of Swedes Forest brought in the hides of two wolves which he killed about a week ago, and received his bounty from the county treasurer. One of the pelts measures over six feet in length. While he was in the act of removing the pelt of the smaller wolf, the larger wolf appeared from a thicket and attacked him. The beast sprang for his throat and tore his coat and shirt. The fight was in progress for nearly five minutes before a lucky blow in the neck killed the animal.

IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

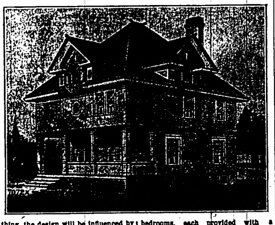
BY WM. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Some general observations on home building will not be out of place for the benefit of the intending builder, before describing the plan shown in this connection. The long-felt want for an artistically expressed and conveniently arranged small house is being filled. The man with $2,500 to $5,000 which he wants to put into a house can now have a cottage which will, in design and plan, express his individuality. And it is true that the house should reflect the taste of its owner or occupant.

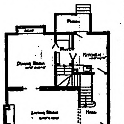
Home builders have come to realize that a house should possess individuality without being freakish. The hammer and saw square box of a house, or the frightful creation with eaves extending out barely six inches never sells, let alone being a place for habitation. Architects as a rule are putting forth their best efforts in the line of designing houses that will be artistic and beautiful to look upon. The architect realizes that first of all the plan must be arranged to meet the needs of the family.

The court of last resort in the planning of a house should not be the architect, should not be the man of the house. The final dictum must be given and is given in most cases by the wife and mother. And provided what she wants is within the bounds of achitectural limits let her have it, for she is there the whole livelong day and ought to have the last say, as she will have anyway. Another thing, the design will be influenced by the site the building is to occupy.



These points decided, the restrictions lie only in the materials to be used and the amount of money to be spent. It is safe to use the materials found in the immediate vicinity. They will harmonize with the landscape better. A brick house is as much out of place in the woods as a log bungalow would be on a city boulevard. Most houses are the result of years of thought and study, and one of the chief factors to be considered is the site itself.

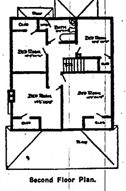
There should be a generous living room placed so that it will have the benefit of the afternoon sun if possible. A dining-room is well placed if it has a good eastern exposure. The placing of windows in groups of two or three or more gives a pleasing appearance to the side walls which form centers of interest that attract the eye. Casement windows are cheaper than the double hung sash, give twice the ventilating area, and are very attractive with their small square or diamond panes, which suggest protection to the inmates from the inclement weather without. Casement windows should be made to open out. Windows should always be placed in two sides of a room to furnish ventilation, if possible.



First Floor Plan.

The kitchen and pantry windows should be higher from the floor than the other windows. In placing windows and doors in a room see that sufficient wall space is left for the furniture. Many a room has been built in which space could not be found for a bed. Have all the floors and stair treads of hardwood if possible. They cost less than soft wood and carpets, and from every standpoint of health, beauty, service and economy in time of labor and housekeeping are far superior. Oak and maple make the best floors, but hard comb-grain pine floors are quite presentable if the better ones are not obtainable.

Now, as to the design of the house shown here. In size it is thirty feet, six inches wide and thirty-four feet six inches long, exclusive of porches. This house is planned for finish in cement stucco. A wide porch with massive pillars extends across the front. This itself is a feature and affords a relief from the familiar porch columns one sees on every hand. Massiveness is the impression the porch gives. And the outside chimney gives a hint of the great fireplace within and tells its own story of the cheery rooms of the house. Entrance is had into a good-sized hall from which a stairway leads to a second floor. The living room is twenty-one feet long and fifteen feet six inches wide. The dining-room back of the living-room is fourteen feet wide and fifteen feet long. This room has a window seat. The kitchen is accessible to the dining-room through a pantry of ample size. On the second floor are four bedrooms, each provided with a clothes closet and a bathroom.



Second Floor Plan.

The estimated cost of this fine house is $3,500.

Value of Electrifying Tobacco.

An interesting experiment has been made by a German scientist in connection with the discovery of the value of electrifying tobacco as a means of insuring its flavor and keeping qualities. The flavor of tobacco is said to be largely due to the peculiar fungus or "bacterial flora" with which each variety is associated, and electricity kills the fungus, but preserves the flavor. This German scientist has taken the peculiar mold, or fungus, of the best Havana tobacco and transferred it to the more coarsely flavored Bavarian tobacco, and it is claimed that good judges could not distinguish the Havana from the Bavarian. Whether the effect is quite so thorough may be doubted, but much is being learned of the mysterious properties of molds.

Tells the Time Automatically.

The Home Telephone company of Spokane has closed a contract for a phonograph which will, when installed, automatically give the time of day to all patrons of the company. Manager Byron E. Cooney of that company said: "Chicago is the only city in the country that now has one of the machines, and it serves the purpose of 40,000 users of the automatic telephones in that city. I am told that it gave the time of day to 16,000 people in 24 hours by actual count. The phonograph will tell the time twenty times a minute at intervals of three seconds. Any subscriber calling the number designated will be told the time four times before the connection is cut off."

Wild Oats.

It is unfortunate that an opinion prevails in the public mind that every man must sow his wild oats. It is equally unfortunate that many men who fail to sow the seeds of folly in their youth insist on going bad at an age that should be filled with honor. The whole proposition is absurd. A man may sow wild oats in his youth and become a comparatively good man when he finally settles down to the business of living; but the bird with the broken wing can never make the flight of the bird that has never fallen.—Los Angeles Times.

Native City Honors Melba.

Mme. Melba is to have her portrait hung in the national gallery of her native Melbourne. Another native of Melbourne remembers that Mme. Melba, when a pupil at the Ladies' Presbyterian college, was already famous among her fellow-pupils as a whistler. She could stick two fingers into one corner of her mouth and whistle as long and as loudly as the most accomplished larrikin.

NATIONAL CAPITAL AFFAIRS

Keepers Put Ban on Dances in Zoo

WASHINGTON.—Keepers at the National Zoological park are horror-stricken. Monkeys there are doing the "turkey trost" and the "grizzly bear." The little animals do the dances in the most unapproved style.

Where the monkeys discovered the dance is the mystery that is puzzling the keepers. Some believe that it must have been danced in the house by some enthusiast. Others contend that it is the result of the monkeys' "artistic temperament."

A discussion of the way and manner they were enabled to become familiar with the famous pastime is not so important as the fact that they were actually caught in the act. Steps were at once taken by the keepers to immediately put an end to the performance, as the antics of the younger monkeys met with violent disapproval on the part of the older animals, thereby causing a noisy demonstration.

That the monkeys were indulging in the disfavored dance was discovered yesterday when a passing keeper happened to see Julius Caesar, the dean of the monkey house, and Cleopatra, the fascinating, heart-breaking first lady of monkeyland going through the intricate steps of the dance.

He stopped, he looked, and he listened. The face of Julius, according to the keeper, was lighted up with a grin which seemed to denote a happiness and a self-satisfaction that has been strangely missing from the guests of the rustic mansion overlooking beautiful Rock creek ever since the keepers found it advisable to give them cold-storage eggs in lieu of the fresh-laid kind.

The keeper who discovered the monkey's dancing said that in a few minutes the entire population of the monkeys' cage was swaying to the steps of the dance. He said that it seemed so lifelike that he was almost convinced that he heard Julius say to Cleo, "Everybody's Doing It" and "Roll Your Eyes, My Honey."

The two monkeys that have set the fashion, according to the keeper, do not seem to approve of the younger monkeys indulging in it, and stopped dancing in a vain endeavor to have them desist. This the youngsters refused to do, and the whole affair ended like a "Bowery ball."

Chief Justice Fuller Was Courteous

JUSTICE HARLAN and Chief Justice Fuller were riding home one evening on the back platform of a car, preferring that to a seat in order to smoke. The door of the car was open, and at intervals smoke from their cigars drifted in. Noticing this, the conductor informed them that smoking was prohibited.

"But," objected Justice Harlan, "the wind carries the smoke to the south and we are traveling north."

"That's all right, mister; but them's my orders," insisted the knight of the bell rope.

During the conversation Justice Fuller had stepped down on the car step and hidden himself behind the mammoth physique of his argumentative friend. He was enjoying his cigar to the fullest extent.

"Orders are orders, I know," continued Justice Harlan, determined to convince the conductor by logic of the folly of blind obedience; "but there are cases where a law coercive at one time may at another be void. Allow me to cite a certain case in our common law statute book—"

"I take my orders from the supe, and I don't care about no law!" persisted the conductor stubbornly.

The car had turned into Fifteenth street by this time.

The little chief justice was just lighting his second cigar, entirely disinterested in the plea of his learned colleague.

"Now just listen to the logic of what I am saying," continued Justice Harlan, thoroughly warmed up to the subject, the more so because his cigar was out and he saw no chance of relighting it. "A wind moving in a southerly direction cannot possibly carry smoke north, can it?"

To all of which the harassed and puzzled conductor tried to turn a deaf ear. He sought refuge in a superior sort of silence, since the justice was too large a man to make a personal encounter entirely safe.

As the car reached their destination, just above U street on Fourteenth, both men alighted. Chief Justice Fuller stepped down from the car and gravely offered Justice Harlan the stump of his cigar as a lighter. It was his third! To his credit, though, he did not smile nor make any reference to that fact. Nor did he pass any opinion on the case that had just been tried before him. Which goes to show what a truly courteous gentleman the late chief justice of the United States really was.

Roughness in Reviving Is Not Assault

A CHARGE of assault, which had been pending against William Hart, a foreman in the employ of the Washington Gasoline company, was dismissed by Judge Pugh in police court the other day. The charge against Hart had a peculiar origin. He was foreman of a gang of men who were working in the gas mains in Takoma Park this winter. December 7 12 of the men were overcome by gas and several of them had narrow escapes from death. Hart, with the assistance of Dr. Archibald L. Miller and several citizens of Takoma, got the men out of the trench and revived all of them but one.

The man was in such a serious condition from the effects of the gas that he failed to respond to the methods used, and Hart adopted strenuous means of bringing him around. He rolled the man on the ground, kicked the soles of his feet, thumped him roughly on the back and chest and otherwise mistreated him, it is said, with the result of restoring consciousness and saving life.

Bystanders, including Dr. Miller, who is a dentist at Takoma Park, objected to Hart's manner of resuscitating men overcome by gas, and the assault charge was filed. Hart entered a plea of not guilty and demanded a jury trial.

After considerable delay the case was called up, when Hart withdrew his plea and demand for a jury trial, and asked Judge Pugh to dispose of the case at once. Hart explained that the method he used was one he had used successfully in many other cases, and that it has always been successful. The court held that if men who help resuscitate persons overcome by gas or almost drowned are to be prosecuted for the necessarily rough treatment that must be administered a feeling of timidity will obtain, which may result in the death of many who otherwise might be revived.

Scorns to Work on Cobbler's Bench

THERE is a limited diet in store for Marcellus Wilson, an inmate of the Home for the Aged and Infirm, and possibly expulsion from the institution, if Wilson and Superintendent William J. Fay do not adjust their difficulties shortly.

Exasperated by alleged repeated refusals by Wilson to work, Superintendent Fay has brought the matter to the attention of the commissioners of the district, suggesting a limited diet and confinement in a room as a means of enforcing obedience. The commissioners have decided to inform Mr. Fay of their support in the infliction of proper discipline, and if Wilson does not conform to the rules and regulations he will be ordered to leave the institution.

The case is such an unusual one that Superintendent Fay was in doubt as to his authority to inflict discipline. In his letter to the district heads he states that Wilson is in rugged health, although both legs are off at the knee. He is 51 years old and is said to be an expert cobbler, but, according to the head of the institution in which he is given a home by the district, the suggestion that he give his time and attention to the mending of shoes is received only with scorn. The decision of the commissioners to enforce obedience on the part of Wilson with the rules of the house was reached following a report by George S. Wilson, secretary of the board of charities, who says that his "namesake has been a disturbing element in the institution for some time."

Toasts Worth Recording.

A rustic English saying runs: "Here's to the poor man. May his beef and beer keep on increasing year by year. May his dear little wife be the joy of his life and never kick up a racket. May she do all she can to please her old man and mend up his old ragged jacket." Better still is this version: "Here's to the loaf that never crumbles; here's to the wife that never grumbles; here's to the horse that never stumbles." To which one might be tempted to add: "Here's to hope."

Preached While He Slept.

Very curious was the case of Simeon Watson, a hard-working, industrious Englishman, aged about 39, of athletic habits and active temperament, who, about 1826, began preaching in his sleep. His trance or sleeping fit invariably lasted as long as the ordinary nonconformist service, which he was in the habit of attending. The attacks became more frequent as time went on, and he would go through the whole of the ordinary chapel service, praying, reading the bible and preaching.

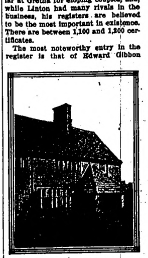
MARRIAGES AT GRETNA GREEN

Original Certificates of Contracting Parties Between 1825 and 1854 and Signed by John Linton to Be Sold.

The original certificates of marriages celebrated at Gretna Green between 1825 and 1854, signed by the contracting parties, and the Gretna Hall Marriage Register, will be sold at Sotheby's. They are in the autograph of John Linton, by whom almost all the marriages were celebrated, and who, after being confidential servant to Sir James Graham at Netherby hall, invested his savings in the purchase of Gretna hall, which he turned into an inn.

His house became the most popular at Gretna for eloping couples, and, while Linton had many rivals in the business, his registers are believed to be the most important in existence. There are between 1,100 and 1,200 certificates.

The most noteworthy entry in the register is that of Edward Gibbon Wakefield to Ellen Turner on March 8, 1826, of which the certificate has been lost. Miss Turner was an heiress, only sixteen years of age, and Wakefield decoyed her from school by means of a forged letter, and induced her to marry him by pretending that her compliance was necessary to save her father from ruin. He was subsequently tried for abduction and sentenced to three years imprisonment, the marriage being annulled by a special act of parliament.



Old Gretna Green Hall.

On May 7, 1836, Prince Carlo Ferdinando Borbone, younger brother of the notorious King Ferdinand II., of the Two Sicilies, was married at Gretna hall to Penelope Caroline Smyth of Waterford, Ireland. Among the most interesting of the other marriages, the certificates of which are present, is that of Capt. Charles Parke Ibbetson to Lady Adela Corisande Maud Villiers, daughter of the earl of Jersey, on November 6, 1845.

In making a runaway match Lady Adela was following the example of her grandmother, Miss Sarah Child, daughter of the founder of Child's bank, who was married at Gretna Green to Lord Westmoreland. The story of their pursuit by the angry banker, who gave up the chase only after one of the horses in his coach had been shot by his prospective son-in-law, is one of the most famous in the famous annals of Gretna Green.

POPULAR MISS AT CAPITAL

Picture Shows Beautiful Little Daughter of Charge d'Affaires of Swedish Legation.

Washington, D. C.—This dainty maiden that smiles out at you from under the fur bonnet is the beautiful little daughter of Mr. N. A. F. Ekengren, counselor and charge d'affaires of the Swedish Legation, and Mme. Ekengren. She is one year and ten months old and has the name of Elsie Helen Augusta. She crossed the ocean when she was only a year old, and enjoyed the balmy air of the Riviera, but she has never been to her father's country, for it is too cold there for such a little miss, who is not accustomed to the climate. She has golden hair, blue eyes, pink and white complexion, and, as you can see, a most adorable smile of her very own.

RICHES EMBARRASS CHURCH

Jersey Organization With Only Forty Members Inherits $106,000 From Parishioners.

Metuchen, N. J.—Officers of St. James' Episcopal church of Piscatawaytown are puzzled to know what to do with a fund of $106,000 which has just come into their hands through two bequests from old parishioners. The church has only 40 members. There is no need for a larger church, the hamlet is prosperous and the vestry probably will invest the money in stocks and bonds. Even then, the disposal of the income of $5,000 a year may prove embarrassing.

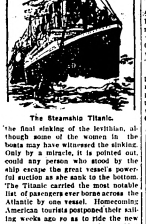
TITANIC SINKS; 1,400 DROWNED

GREATEST MARINE DISASTER IN HISTORY.

Giant Liner Strikes an Iceberg And Plunges to the Bottom in Less Than an Hour After.

New York.—The White Star liner Titanic, the world's greatest steamship has gone down some 500 miles off Cape Race, with 630 of her 1,300 passengers and her full crew of 860 men on board. That the greatest catastrophe in marine history has occurred to a vessel of their line is admitted by the officials of the White Star Steamship company in New York. The liner Carpathia, the first vessel to come within sight of the Titanic, rescued all the Titanic's life boats in which were 670 persons most of them women and children. Many women and children, however, have perished.

When the Carpathia reached the ill-fated vessel no sign of life was to be seen anywhere, the mountainous ocean swells giving much evidence to the stupendous disaster. Early reports stated that all the passengers and the crew of the Titanic had been taken off by the Allen liner's Virginian and the Parisian, and the Carpathia, but wireless message received here discredit these reports in every detail. No hope is held out at the offices of the White Star line that any man on board has survived to tell the story of the final sinking of the levithian, although some of the women in the boats may have witnessed the sinking. Only by a miracle, it is pointed out, could any person who stood by the ship escape the great vessel's powerful suction as she sank to the bottom.



The Steamship Titanic.

The Titanic carried the most notable list of pasengers ever borne across the Atlantic by one vessel. Homecoming American tourists postponed their sailing weeks ago so as to ride the new wonder of the season on her maiden voyage.

Dispatches state that the Titanic went down at 2:20 o'clock Monday morning. The delay in the transmission of the news is attributed to the fact that all dispatches have been subject to difficult relays.

The collision of the Titanic with an iceberg is now known to have been a headon crash that occurred while the liner was proceeding little less than her best speed. She was a day ahead of her schedule and it is considered probable that an attempt to make a record-breaking voyage was the hope of her crew when she entered the ice field.

Her forward plates were completely wrecked. A gaping wound opening below her water line and letting the water into her forward compartments.

In the meantime the lifeboats were manned and into them were placed as many of the women and children as they could hold. The boats were put off while there was yet some hope of saving the Titanic afloat until wireless could summon help. Later and more conservative estimates tell of great bravery on the part of the men passengers. There was a minimum of disorder. John Jacob Astor, who, with his bride, was returning from their long honeymoon aboard, saw his bride placed in a life boat safely away. Col. Astor was drowned. The work of getting the lifeboats away, the work of allaying the fears of the great crowd of passengers as much as possible, the work of keeping the pumps in operation an the engines throbbing—these tasks and countless others were directed by Captain Smith, the venerable commander of the Titanic, and before her advent the commander of the Olympic who displayed almost superhuman power of mind and body at the world's most horrible sea disaster, crowned his long and honorable service on the high seas.

A wireless message from the Virginia states that the occupants of the small boats which she picked up have been transferred to the Carpathia which is proceeding to New York.

The Titanic struck the iceberg at 1:25 Sunday night and foundered at 2:20 Monday morning.

At daybreak the Carpathia arrived on the scene and her passengers and crew brought the small boats with their precious human cargo into New York.

The boats which rushed to the Titanic's aid found only the scattered lifeboats and a dismal scene of wreckage.

"Sinking by the head and women are being rushed into the lifeboats," were the last words that sputtered into the wireless room of the Virginian from the Titanic. All through the night and until her wireless station was silenced over hundreds of miles of seas from the antennace of the giant liner flashed the mystic and magic "S. O. S.," the world wide cry of distress on the ocean.

Every wireless operator within range of the doomed vessel dropped other messages to locate and many relayed the fatal message to the world.

The collision occurred in latitude 41.16 North and longitude 50.14 West, 1,150 miles east of New York and 450 miles south of Cape Race, the most westerly point of Newfoundland. Contrary to earlier dispatches there was no storm when the vessel struck. The weather was clear and calm.

Almost as soon as the Virginian picked up the distress signal it was recorded by the operator on the Olympic, the Titanic's sister ship, and next to her the largest vessel afloat. This was at midnight. At that hour the Olympic was 200 miles from New York enroute to Southampton.

MRS. JOHN JACOB ASTOR.

The Olympic forged ahead under full steam, but wireless dispatches indicate that she reached the scene too late to be of any assistance.

The Baltic, famous for her rescue of passengers of the steamer Republic and for her Jack Binns, who sat aloft and braved death to summon help—was the next ship to pick up the brief story of the Titanic's plight.

She was on her way from New York to Livepool but turned about and put on full speed toward the Titanic's position. The Parisian, according to her messages reached the flotilla of rescue ships shortly after the Baltic.

A wireless message from Captain Haddock confirmed the fears of the White Star Line officials that all but the 670 women and children who escaped in the small boat from the $10,000,000 steamship had perished. A part of this message was witheld, but enough was divulged to make certain an appalling account of the catastrophe. Not until Captain Haddock flashed "Horrible disaster — all but 670 lost," would the White Star officials believe the largest ship ever launched had gone down on her maiden voyage. The scene in the White Star Line offices was pitiful. Brought to a realization of the stupenduous wreck—the complete destruction of the fruit of their dreams—gray haired men—many of them veteran seamen, wept.

DISASTER TO BRING MARINE LEGISLATION

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION LIKELY TO BE DIRECTED INTO THE STEAMSHIP HORROR.

TO REGULATE WIRELESS.

Official Washington Is Grief-Stricken —House Passes Resolution Expressive of Condolence to Relatives.

Washington, April 17.—Stirred by the horror of the Titanic disaster, all official Washington is preparing for steps to minimize the possibilities of another such tragedy.

Congress began framing legislation to govern life-saving appliances and wireless, and President Taft, doubly touched by the probable loss of his friend and military aide, Major Archibald W. Butt, held conferences with cabinet officers to consider government control over the operation of the wireless.

In the house what may result in a federal investigation into the causes of the wreck and the enactment of protective measures, was begun with resolutions offered by Representative Mott and Representative Hardwick. The Mott resolution provides for a searching inquiry by the Merchant Marine committee.

Covers Life Saving Apparatus.

The Hardwick resolution would touch upon regulations of life saving apparatus. Under the Mott resolution the merchant marine committee would sit as a court and compel the attendance of witnesses.

Chairman Alexander of the committee declared that the catastrophe would stop the building of such enormous vessels. He favors limitation by law upon the size of vessels which visit American ports. The committee also expects to report a bill to regulate the wireless.

President Taft was in conference at the White House for nearly two hours with some of his cabinet officers whose functions cover the operations of this new system of telegraphy. These were Secretaries Stimson, Meyer and Nagel.

Wickersham Called In.

Attorney General Wickersham was called in to give legal advice as to the necessities in a legislative way of additional laws.

In recognition of the extensive interests of private corporations which have spent much in the equipment of ships and shore station with wireless outfits, former Attorney General Griggs and Mr. Sheffield, representing the Marconi company, also were consulted. The technical side of the question was developed by Admiral Cone, the engineer in chief of the navy, which bureau is charged with the management of the naval wireless system.

Discuss Details of New Bill.

The discussion was general in character and touched particularly on the details of a new bill which has been prepared in the navy department to give effect to the requirements of the general wireless telegraphy convention to which America recently has adhered.

The house resolution adopted expressing condolence to the relatives of those who lost their lives on the Titanic, by Representative Austin, of Tennessee, republican, was as follows:

"Resolved, That this house has heard with profound regret and sorrow of the appalling loss of life on the steamship Titanic and expresses its deep sympathy for the relatives of those who perished in that great disaster."

Colony of Fins May Have Perished.

Duluth, April 17.—A colony of Finlanders coming to settle on land in the vicinity of Duluth probably perished on board the Titanic when she took her fatal plunge. The colony consisted of twenty-five families, in all 110 people. They were being brought here by a Finnish Colonization association.

All Mail Probably Lost.

New York, April 17.—Postmaster Edward M. Morgan stated that the White Star liner Titanic had on board 3,500 sacks of mail. It is not likely, he said, that the mails were saved. As the standard ocean mail bag holds about 2,000 letters, it is estimated that in all about 7,000,000 pieces of mail matter have been lost.

Delaware Favors Taft.

Dover, April 17.—The republican state convention elected six delegates to the republican national convention. The delegation was not pledged but favors President Taft.

Andrews Is Passenger.

Belfast, April 17. — Thomas Andrews, Jr., a director of the shipbuilding firm of Harland & Wolff, was on the Titanic. He was accompanied by mechanics, who were watching the working of the latest product of the company's yards.

Cutters to Meet Carpathia.

Washington, April 17.—President Taft has decided to dispatch two revenue cutters from New York to Sandy Hook to meet the Carpathia and act as an escort into the harbor.

RISK LOSS WILL BE ENORMOUS

INSURANCE ON PROPERTY AND LIVES REACHES MILLIONS.

London Lloyds Organization Is Heaviest Single Loser Through the Disaster.

Chicago, April 17.—Enormous insurance losses will result from the sinking of the White Star liner Titanic. If many of the men among the first-cabin passengers are lost the total may approach $50,000,000. The vessel itself is understood to have cost $10,000,000, with insurance of approximately $7,500,000, the bulk of which is placed in London Lloyds.

In addition, it is estimated that $10,000,000 of insurance has been placed chiefly in Lloyds on specie, bullion and securities in transit. This is the heaviest single loss London Lloyds has ever suffered, and follows a series of unusually large losses at sea during recent years. Business at Lloyds is practically suspended, offers from this country receiving no attention.

Heavy losses are also involved on the property of passengers, insurance on the high grade cargo carried, and the liability and damage claims which may be laid against the steamship company. These will fall on the International Mercantile Marine corporation, which maintains an insurance which was much more than wiped out by this single disaster.

The liability of the steamship company for the property of passengers is limited to $100 for each passenger, but special insurance can be arranged with the company, the filing of a special statement of value and the payment of premium. In addition, the company is liable for over a million dollars under the British compensation act for the death of the crew, assuming that all of the 800 are gone.

Life and accident companies will also be heavily involved if the supposed loss of life is not greatly reduced by the picking up of scattered survivors.

From the wealth and prominence of many of the first cabin passengers, some large lines of insurance undoubtedly will be involved. It is probable that the total life insurance of the passengers exceeded $100,000,000, since it is known that a number of them carried more than $100,000 each. In addition, the accident and disability policies of $100,000 or over will involve the accident companies in enormous losses.

This will increase the double indemnity feature for accidents of travel, so that the result will probably be disastrous to many companies.

ASTOR PROBABLY DEAD.

Multimillionaire's Name Is Not In the List of Those Rescued.

New York, April 17.—Colonel John Jacob Astor is believed to have gone down with the ill-fated Titanic. Mrs. Astor is saved. She was the beautiful Madeline Tallmage Force, of Brooklyn, where her marriage to Colonel Astor on September 9, 1911, was one of the most talked of events of the fall. It has been reported that an heir is expected. Mr. and Mrs. Astor were returning from their honeymoon journey to Europe.

Colonel Astor inherited a fortune estimated at between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000, making him one of the richest men in the world. The second Mrs. Astor contracted to give up all claim to his fortune, unless an heir was born, in consideration of a marriage settlement of $5,000,000.

To the city in which the name of Astor is a household word, the death of Colonel Astor and the shifting of the bulk of his estate to the shoulders of 21-year-old Vincent, means the beginning of a new regime in both the world of society and the world of finance.

BILLION TONS OF IRON IN UTAH

JOSEPH SELLWOOD SAYS RESOURCES OF FAR WEST MAY BE NECESSARY IN FUTURE.

GENERAL SUPPLY IS LOW.

Thinks Time Will Come When Steel Plants Will Be Built on Pacific Coast—Army Appropriations Passed.

Washington, D. C. — An estimate that the ores held by the United States Steel corporation would be exhausted within 25 or 30 years and that the natural resources of the Far West would be raised, was made before the house steel trust investigation committee by Joseph Sellwood, an ore expert, who says he has scoured the North American continent in search of merchantable ore.

Mr. Sellwood told the committee that in Utah there were known to be 1,000,000,000 tons of merchantable ore. This ore can be used to make steel just as well as any other ore, but it is not near coke or coal or fluxing material, he said.

Several years ago Mr. Sellwood explored the Utah ores for James J. Hill the late John W. Gates and the late E. H. Harriman.

Mr. Sellwood thought the time would come when it would be practical to build steel plants on the Pacific coast and told of when Gates and others had considered erecting a steel plant at Los Angeles. With the completion of the Panama canal the availability of the Western ore it was said would increase.

Mr. Sellwood said there were deposits of 55 per cent metallic iron ore at Moose mountain, Ontario, aggregating 100,000,000 tons and at Antikocan, Ontario, 10,000,000 tons. In Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, he said, there were similar deposits with which he was not familiar. Ore deposits in Alaska, he said, should be discounted.

From hearsay, he declared, he would estimate the merchantable ores in Alabama at 1,000,000,000 tons.

Senator Bailey Ill.

Senator Bailey is ill and threatened with walking typhoid fever. He sent word to his colleagues that his condition was so much worse as to prevent his participation in the senate's consideration of tariff measures and asked that they proceed without him. The Democratic minority, in courtesy to Mr. Bailey, the ranking Democrat on the finance committee, has been delaying its action.

Army Appropriation Bill Passed.

The senate passed the army appropriation bill carrying $95,314,710 or $1,537,453 more than when it passed the house and $2,726,925 more than last year's bill. Senator Warren said the increase had been made necessary by the economy wave which swept over congress last year and caused unwarranted reductions.

Washington, D. C. — Frank C. Lowery, of the Federal Sugar Refining company of New York, testifying before the senate finance committee on the house free sugar bill, admitted that the company he represented was paying for the free sugar propaganda and was a leading advocate of the measure. He agreed with Republican members, who assert that enactment of the bill would wipe out the entire domestic production of sugar.

W. H. Baird of Detroit and W. K. Winterhalter of San Francisco, for the beet sugar industry, opposed the bill.

Senator Smoot of the senate finance committee is preparing a substitute for the house bill which probably among other provisions will abolish the Dutch standard. It is understood generally that Senator Smoot is responding to a request from the sugar men, for a reduction, fixing a rate which may not soon be disturbed.

In an amendment proposed to the river and harbor bill pending before the senate commerce committee Senator McCumber of North Dakota asks $75,000 for the Missouri river from Kansas City to Lebeau, S. D., and $150,000 for snagging and bank improvement from Lebeau, S. D., to Fort Benton, Mont.

Protest Steenerson Bill.

Washington.—Asst. Atty. Gen. Knaebel and Assistant Secretary of the Interior Thompson have forwarded communications to the house Indian committee protesting against the passage of the Steenerson bill, which directs the secretary of the interior to issue patents in fee to allotments in the White Earth reservation that have been contested by the government. The Steenerson bill was introduced in the interests of persons who purchased land from Indians, purchases that have not been questioned, and against which no charge of fraud has been made. The department officials object to the enactment at this time of legislation such as is reported by Mr. Steenerson. They suggest that legislation of the kind should be deferred pending further inquiry at White Earth.

THOMAS B. CATRON.

After being sworn in as United States senator from New Mexico, Mr. Catron drew a card which determined that his term shall end in 1917.

Washington, D. C. — President Taft and Secretary Stimson are severely arraigned in a sensational report on the Ainsworth case presented to the house by the military affairs committee.

Secretary Stimson is charged with having committed a "great and irreparable wrong" and a "flagrant misuse of official authority" when last February he suspended General Ainsworth from his duties as adjutant general of the army and charged him with insubordination. That the president and Secretary Stimson prejudiced the case, that the accusations against the general were based upon prejudice and that the secretary of war has an "erroneous idea" of his relation to congress, are some of the conclusions reached by a majority of the committee, of which Representative Hayes of Virginia is chairman.

Following General Ainsworth's relief from duty and when a courtmartial seemed probable, the president permitted him to retire from the army because of his long service. The report follows an investigation of General Ainsworth's relief from duty, set afoot by a resolution by Representative Watkins of Louisiana.

Criticising the relief of General Ainsworth the report declares the "worst feature of it was that this officer of long and distinguished service had no tribunal to which he could appeal with any hope of justice or fair treatment."

The majority of the committee conclude that General Ainsworth had been guilty of no act which justified the letter of suspension from Secretary Stimson and "that the charges had origin in a determination to drive General Ainsworth from active service and have nothing to support them but bare assertion, coupled with misrepresentation and suppression of the truth."

Indian Appropriation Bill Passed.

The Indian bill, carrying approximately $7,500,000, was passed by the house. It now goes to the senate where five other general appropriation bills are pending.

Washington, D. C. Government supervision of grain and cotton exchanges as the relief from violent fluctuation in prices of commodities and the safeguard against universal speculation and gambling, was proposed by W. B. Thompson, former president of the New Orleans stock exchange who appeared before the house committee on agriculture in opposition to the anti-option bills.

Chas. B. Pierce of the Chicago Board of Trade declared that speculation in the grain exchange was no more than the speculation a man dealt in when he bought a grocery store.

In concluding the testimony, W. J. McCabe, a Duluth broker, assailed the bucket shop, which he said did not come into competition with brokers' offices, and which, in his opinion, carried on business illegally.

A charge that Wall street and the big corporations are controlling the house "money trust" inquiry was made by Representative Lindbergh of Minnesota, Republican, in a resolution which would compel every member to disclose his business and corporation affiliations.

Each member of the house would have to file his own bank holdings and those of his family. Names of members who failed to do so would be published in a congressional record "blacklist."

In a statement explaining the purpose of his resolution Mr. Lindbergh declared some committee members are controlled by persons whose personal work is hostile to the public interest.

Faithful Messenger Rewarded.

San Antonio, Texas. — David Trousdale, the Wells-Fargo express messenger who killed two bandits who held up a Southern Pacific train near Eldridge, Tex., on March 13, and attempted to rob the express car, will be made supervising messenger between here and Houston at a salary of $2,000.

Burlington, Wisconsin, — The plant and two warehouses of the Burlington Blanket company were destroyed by fire, caused by lightning.

PALACE FOR ALFONSO.

Authorities of Alicante Start Project by Subscribing $5,000.

Alicante, Spain. — The provincial authorities have headed a subscription with $5,000, the purpose of which is to present King Alfonso with a palace here. The edifice is to be of Arabic architecture. It will also have magnificent gardens. The palace is to be presented to Alfonso with the hope that he will spend the winters here and thus popularize the resort.

Nebraska Storm Claims Life.

Hemingford, Nebraska. — The storm which raged in northwestern Nebraska claimed at least one victim and probably two. Mrs. Richard Path, who with her litle son started out at the beginning of the storm to bring the stock to shelter, was lost in the blinding snow and her dead body was found not far from her home. The child had not been found, but it is feared he perished. Richard Path, the husband, was at Alliance proving up on a homestead. The Paths lived 10 miles from here.

Washington, D. C. — Radical reductions in freight rates on wool from western points to eastern destinations were prescribed by the interstate commerce commission. An Experiment Station for Bird Culture

THE HESSIAN FOOD HOUSE

OLD CASTLE USED AS AN EXPERIMENT STATION

SIX NESTING BOXES IN A MAPLE

TREE TRIMMED TO MAKE ROOM FOR NESTS

THE first bird census, taken in this country a few years ago showed the fact that the number of birds decreased in the past 15 years 46 per cent. This is not only the case in the United States, but also in European countries. But with this difference that over there the government took steps to prevent the total extermination of our faithful and unpaid guardians of crops. Farming is growing very fast and the land covered with hollow trees, hedges and bushes is cleared without giving attention to the fact, that by destroying these natural dwellings of our feathered singers, they are forced to leave the spot and settle in some other place not yet touched by culture. The modern farmer can not permit a great part of the soil to remain uncultivated on account of being covered with all kinds of undergrowth. The evolution of farming is obvious and the farmer is not to be blamed for the decrease of birds.

A great many birds have been slaughtered for the single reason that their feathers would prove attractive as trimming for the hats of the ladies, but the government and aroused public sentiment has checked this gradually. In Germany, for instance, there are severe fines for those who violate the game law which provides that no singer or any other bird shall be killed, except those especially mentioned.

The most remarkable step toward the prevention of the extermination of birds has been taken by the Baron von Berlepsch who has devoted 500 acres of his estate for the erection of the first experiment station for the study and preservation of bird life. Here the interested parties are shown how to restore to the feathered citizens of the forests the comforts and conveniences of which modern civilization is gradually robbing them. The federal states of Germany are not only protecting 152 species of birds by law, but are growing nesting-hedges for them, cultivating, pruning and grafting nesting bushes; hollowing out natural nesting holes, building nesting boxes in the trees, fashioning natural and convenient winter feeding houses and protecting the birds from their carnivorous enemies.

On this unique bird farm the convenience and comfort of the feathered tenants have everywhere been considered in developing the grounds. Nineteen acres in the neighborhood of the castle of the count are laid out as a park; sixty acres are planted with thickets of shrubbery, chiefly of poplar and willow, for nesting places for the birds. The bushes are specially pruned or tied in clusters to accommodate the nesting habits of the birds. The rest of the estate is a forest. A lake near the castle furnishes an attractive residence for water-birds and a little brook bordered with nest-filled shelter thickets winds through the grounds.

The most essential parts of the work of bird protection is to provide nesting places, and over two thousand nesting boxes are maintained and fitted out in the style preferred by the various bird families. Baron von Berlepsch is the inventor of a most successful type of bird box that he developed after a detailed study of several hundred woodpecker holes. He discovered that all of the woodpecker houses were built on the same plan and conceived the idea of imitating their construction by the hand of the man. He copied with infinite care the circular opening, always wisely inclining upward to keep out the rain and always running down into the wood into a deep bottle-shaped cavity and ending in the same pointed bowl. At first he fashioned the boxes by hand but the demand grew so strong that a manufacturer was interested, and elaborate machinery devised to manufacture the boxes in commercial quantities. There are now four factories making them and it was found necessary to trademark them to prevent spurious imitations from getting on the market and cheating the birds. For the feathered tenants are more particular than the city apartment hunter and if the box is not furnished exactly as the bird wants it, with just the right quantity at the bottom, it will not be inhabited. It must not be too high or too low from the surface of the ground, and inclined a little toward the opening, away from the wind. The grand duchy of Hesse after investigating the baron's work, has ordered 9,300 nesting boxes and the Hungarian government has sent a commission to study and purchase a lot of those nesting boxes.

Winter feeding is second only to housing in making life endurable to the birds in severe weather. After eleven years of study the baron developed three practical feed devices—the food tree, the food house and the food "bell." The food tree is made by simply sprinkling a carefully prepared mixture over the branches of one of the coniferous trees. This is a man's imitation of a tree covered with a natural meal of insects' eggs and larvae. The Hessian food house consists essentially of two small tables placed beneath a roof mounted on four small posts. The food bell is an ingenious mechanical device that serves automatically. An inverted glass jar or bottle holds the supply of seed which is fed through a tube to a bowl or bell below. The lower edge of the tube must extend exactly below the upper edge of the food dish.

LIVING OVER A VOLCANO

Dishonest Promotor Is Always In Deadly Fear of Apprehension or Exposure.

But as soon as the promoter swings off into excess and begins to leave a trail of empty bottles and enthusiastic waiters and chorus girls, his troubles begin, Arthur H. Gleason writes in Collier's. For here enter the honest prosecutors, detectives, inspectors and scribes. And with them come the blackmailing crew of shyster detectives, dubious agencies and obscure journalists—a dark cloud of witnesses. From this time he is harassed by his shadowers, the men who hunt him down. We are told that every Jack has his Jill. Well, every promoter has his trailer.

Like a shadow to each of the promoters moves the detective. Some one man is always on his trail, butting in on him with a knowing smile during office hours, winking at him from the other end of an uptown bar. Often there will be several men trudging along in his wake. But some one of them will pull away from the toiling crew and grow closer as he catches the promoter's ideas, sizes up the scheme and fits together its pieces with a sudden click, like a bolt slipping into its socket.

The blackmail sheets send out an agent demanding advertisements, and, failing to get trade, pound the promoter for his crooked ways. One lone promoter has been approached by one hundred separate blackmail publications within the space of a half dozen years.

Another tax comes from the gentler intruders, who give you a friendly writeup, if you buy 500 or 1,000 copies.

Poor old, ignorant, illiterate Colonel Wilson was always the easy mark for these.

If the promoter is harassed by sinners who graft on him for hush money, he is hounded yet more keenly by the honest papers, who pry into his affairs, rip his balance sheet to tatters, reveal the nakedness of his claims, and let up when he lies gasping and prostrate with his great work finished, his race run. Such men as Larry Hill of the Sun are as welcome as an unchained bulldog to unctuous tricksters like Middlebrook and Shumaker; to thieves like the Burrs; to oleo-clerical promoters like the Rev. Claude Severance.

It is easy money and big money for the promoter, but the nerve pressure is high, and always there is the dread of exposure. Promoters live in acute expectancy of the deluge.

GRETNA GREEN MARRIAGES.

Famous Register to Be Offered for Sale in British Capital.

The original certificates of marriages celebrated at Gretna Green between 1825 and 1854, signed by the contracting parties, and the Gretna Hall Marriage Register, will be sold at Sotheby's, says the London Times. They are in the autograph of John Linton, by whom almost all the marriages were celebrated, and who, after being confidential servant to Sir James Graham at Netherby hall, invested his savings in the purchase of Gretna hall, which he turned into an inn.

His house became the most popular at Gretna for eloping couples, and, while Linton had many rivals in the business, his registers are believed to be the most important in existence. There are between 1,100 and 1,200 certificates.

The most noteworthy entry in the register is that of Edward Gibbon Wakefield to Ellen Turner on March 8, 1826, of which the certificate has been lost. Miss Turner was an heiress, only sixteen years of age, and Wakefield decoyed her from school by means of a forged letter, and induced her to marry him by pretending that her compliance was necessary to save her father from ruin. He was subsequently tried for abduction and sentenced to three years' imprisonment, the marriage being annulled by a special act of parliament.

On May 7, 1836, Prince Carlo Ferdinando Borbone, younger brother of the notorious King Ferdinand II., of the Two Sicilies, was married at Gretna hall to Penelope Caroline Smyth of Waterford, Ireland. Among the most interesting of the other marriages, the certificates of which are present, is that of Capt. Charles Parke Ibberton to Lady Adela Corisande Maud Villiers, daughter of the earl of Jersey, on November 6, 1845.

In making a runaway match Lady Adela was following the example of her grandmother, Miss Sarah Child, daughter of the founder of Child's bank, who was married at Gretna Green to Lord Westmoreland. The story of their pursuit by the angry banker, who gave up the chase only after one of the horses in his coach had been shot by his prospective son-in-law, is one of the most famous in the annals of Gretna Green.

Dialogue of Odd Moments

Probably Somebody, Somewhere, Is Uttering One of These Endearing Remarks Right Now.

"Gee, Mary, haven't you got supper ready yet? I do wish you'd learn to have your meals on time."

"Why on earth will you persist on coming into the house with your feet all mud beats me. I never saw such a man."

"I don't see why you can't just as well beat these rugs as to pay a man $2.50 a day to do it, as long as you are hanging around doing nothing."

"You know as well as I do that I can't run this house without money to run it on. Now you leave me a little money before you go down town this morning."

"I don't want to see you winking at the hired girl again or I'll pack up and go right home to mother, so there."

"But I gave you a dollar for shopping purposes just last Tuesday. Do you mean to tell me that you've gone and spent a whole dollar so soon?"

"You never sew up a rip in my coat unless I just keep right at your heels until it is done."

"It seems to me you might at least sweep off the porch and hose the lawn once in a while. You are the laziest mortal I ever saw."

"Land sakes, do you suppose if I'd have known you couldn't cook better than this that I'd have married you? Well, I should say not."

"Gee, that's a peach of a swell looker they have working for 'em next door. Some class there."

TURNING KEY WITH PINCERS

THOSE who recognize her bolt their bedroom doors.

Then they examine the bolts.

It is needless; tampering with bolts is "rats'" work; and Countess Manola has abjured all made co-operation.

"Men are poor creatures," she said, on quitting the Abbey of Clairvaux in the Illustrous Valley. "Men are clumsy, noisy, big-mouthed, violent, impulsive, without patience, without self-control. If you want trouble, take a man."

None will recognize her in Cairo, Naples, Rome, Vienna, Botzen, St. Moritz, Como, Lugano, Madrid, Tangiers. The severe elegant, intellectual great lady, well on toward middle age, will promenade her melancholy hauteur to only sympathetic and admiring glances.

American tourists, beware; death stalks invisible beside her, mystery, suspicion, loss of jewels, travelers' checks, bank notes and letters of credit.

She can strike at a distance. After she has left a fashionable resort, rich tourists who admired her may wake of a morning, safe in their rooms, and find they are robbed, stripped, destitute.

Let them be happy that they wake.

The gouine is out and loose again upon the world. The jirmouichs are jailed and scattered; but the shadowy filocheuse de colis, the "glider in the hallway," has her choir of wicked virgin nymphs to stay behind and do her will, while she moves on, with the new perfume in their hands.

By day, they may be English old maids, French blue stockings, plain dressed yet with an air of ease, cold, aloof, yet capable of impulsive kindnesses when touched by friendship for the rich and inexperienced. They may be pathetic young widows, Russian or Italian, seeking forgetfulness round Casino gambling tables, at concerts, teas, subscription balls and hotel dances, where the most modest tourists flash their diamonds. If an observer, you might be struck by their eyes, the eyes of nyctalops, of great or little animals that see by night, the eyes of mice, mice, mice!

The great old mother gouine loved to frequent the Villa des Fleurs at Nice or the public rooms at Monte Carlo, where fortunes are won in an evening, too late to be banked. She moved from table to table, noting the great winners, smiling as the roulette ball whirled.

Then the Countess Manola nods an aristocratic good night, pulls her sables about her, steps into the auto-limousine and speeds home to the rich hotel. So the haughty English old maids, severe French blue-stockings, feverish Italian widows, with their eyes of nyctalops.

They lock their bedroom doors and wait. The noises cease, the lights go out. They doff their frou-frou dinner gowns, however sober, crackling paillettes, tinkling jet, rustling batiste and silk. They dress again, you would say for deep mourning; black stockings, black slippers, black gloves, black skirt and coat of softest wool, and round their heads, covering their faces, covering their mouths and noses, a veil of black mousseline descending below the neck and carefully tied round the shoulders.

Is it the Countess Manola? Is it the Honorable Helena? Certainly no; it is the gouine who turns out the electric light of her bedroom. A feeble light struggles through the transom to the ceiling like a phosphorescence. Gliding past the long mirror of the wardrobe, she glances at it and does not see herself.

Satisfied, she turns up the light. Naught jars in the costume. From her trunk she takes what seems a curling iron of dull bronzed steel, only both pincers are convex; and then another with the pincers longer, similar; and a little instrument with steel teeth, like a comb, that push back on slight pressure and spring out again, marvel of mobility and changing forms; and then three slim steel picks, as if for dentists. Each slips into its compartment of a velvet bag, not to tinkle or rattle. Finally, she takes a phial of liquid.

She turns out the light again and stands before the mirror. All is dark and silent. Five minutes pass. Ten minutes. Is it Countess Manola? Is it the soft, sorrowing Marchesa? No, certainly; for she begins to see herself, quite clearly, in the darkness, in the mirror. It is the nyctalop who opens her room door with a ferocious smile—the hotel mouse who glides down the corridor.

She knows the plan of the hotel. She has picked out three rooms to try—rooms of big winners, rooms of ostentatious tourists sporting diamonds, rooms of heavy spenders, cashing large notes; rooms of modest, solid tourists who have shown travelers' checks.

She is before the victim's room. Most travelers imagine it a safeguard against pick locks to leave the key sticking in. In truth, it permits the use of the oustiti pincers. Feeling her way delicately with them, the gouine catches the key barrel in a grip of steel—and tranquilly, silently, gently unlocks the door.

Footsteps in the corridor? Upright, immobile, she presses into the corner, where fall the black shadows. Weary guest or sleepy chambermaid pass and see nothing.

Noiselessly she opens the victim's door, slips in and shuts it. Is there a dim night light? She glides to a flickering shadow, listens to the sleeper's breathing.

The gouine has but her phial of liquid, and her ear for rhythmic breathing. Should the victim vaguely wake she will wait in the shadow or the darkness for the sleeping rhythm. Now she is close to him. She has wet one of his towels with liquid from her phial. She holds her head away from it in fear. Even that filtering veil of mousseline might not protect her from the fumes of the new perfume.

Now she has him inhaling from the wet towel. Bending over the victim with the vulgar chloroform was the clumsy jirmouich, the male, the hotel rat, always covered his mouth with a rubber band, not as self-protection against fumes, but not to wake the sleeper at the critical moment by breathing on his face or neck. Most sleepers are peculiarly sensitive to such a sudden local change of temperature. The mouse, of lighter breath, had her veil instead of mouth band, and it remained as a pure air breathing sack and partial filter against fumes when she got the new perfume into her wicked hands.

How did the old mother gouine get hold of it? Mystery, some say, of old friendship; other pretend that a criminal figure called "the mage," a scientist perverted by a Sadic streak, is cynically making the bad perfume for its adepts, who must be all women in black, who have abjured men, as husbands, brothers, lovers.

Its effects are more rapid than chloroform; two indrawn breaths put the sleeper in a sort of coma. The dampened towel is spread under his chin; and the terrible woman tranquilly collects the valuables. On quitting the room she throws the window open and replaces the towel on the rack. She does not wish the victim to succumb. She dreads the scandal of a death, which very seldom happens. The pure air of the open window revives the stricken one and chases the faint, fragrant fumes away. He awakes in the morning, sunlight beating on his eyes, and asks himself, astonished, "Now, how did I leave that window wide open?"

Is it not better than stiletto or black-jack if you happen to turn in your sleep? Such were the resources of the male hotel rats who were scattered or rounded up with Countess Manola and Baron Frandin at Nice in 1908. Previously they had made a trip to Algiers, where a well-known American millionaire went to bed, locked and bolted his door, heard nothing in the night, and awoke bereaved of rings, studs, buttons and chains worth $90,000 and $6,000 cash.

In any case, one night at Nice inspectors Henic, Benoit and their men smashed in two bedroom doors, flashed lights and discovered Monsieur Bawer in black tights, a rubber band over his mouth, stiletto and eelskin at his belt, filling a black silk sack with jewels and money. The man they belonged to snored on peacefully. His face looked queerly pink and white. Quickly Benoit pulled the face off—it was a chloroform mask, most reckless and brutal death risk. In a nearby bedroom Frandin put up a terrific fight, laid out a plain-clothes man with his eelskin (sand bag), jiu-jitsued Henic to a broken arm and almost got away by stabbing, when a hotel porter knocked him down. In his room were found the gang's utensils.

Today the brutal males are still in jail or frightened out of the business. The "King of the Hotel Rats" operating at this moment in Paris seems not to have done a single job in the 18 fashionable hotels of the American quarter where he made such rich hauls. But as his sublime sneaking utilizes certain mechanical effects of the true jirmouichs, it is important to be posted. Besides, the stalwarts will get back to work one of these days.

The male rat laughs at bolts. He tries to get a room next to his victim's. European hotels are built with communicating doors, that any number of rooms may be thrown into a suite. These doors are kept locked and bolted on both sides. Of course, of course.

The rat's first work is to gimlet tiny peep holes into a door or partition. If decided to go on the job from what he sees, he unlocks the communicating door when the victim is out, jimmies the inside bolt, injuring it as little as possible, enters, removes the screws, replaces short screw tops, putties, paints the dummy bolt as "shut," and slips out the room door on the corridor, where a confederate is on guard to keep the coast clear.

In the old days, if the rat could not get an adjoining room he picked the corridor lock in the daytime, when the victim was out, and "fixed" the corridor bolt in the same way, warned by confederates. An accordion was the outside signal. Striking up a certain air meant that the victim was returning. Finally, if interrupted, there was the stiletto—and the jirmouich knew where to strike.

Would you not prefer the modern work of ladies? The old gouine and her choir of virgins in black veils seem almost sympathetic, scattering perfume. Yet as you slept the door swung open as the nail heads quit their holes. In slipped the stalwart, garbed in black tights, sandbag and stiletto at his belt.

To rise in bed meant death.

To lie still meant the brutal chloroform mask held tight as you woke struggling to the sound of deep bells ringing in your ears; and then forgetfulness—perhaps forever.

Bolt your room door today, the hotel mouse will pass you by. The mouse is all for gentleness and confidence. A bolted door already means suspicion.

Tells Why France is Great

Business Man Says It is Because Merchants Count Not Only Pennies, but the Fifths of Pennies.

"Forty years ago, monsieur, an alien army occupied this city," said a Paris merchant recently to a correspondent of Business. "I saw them camped where the tall Vendome column now lifts itself. The price of their evacuation was something enormous. We accepted it; we had no choice, and we have paid the price.

"More than that, our banks hold so much of our ancient enemy's commercial paper that in case of international complications we will not have to send a single soldier to the frontier, but simply force collections through our banks.

"And we have been able to do this because we have merchants, merchants of art, of literature, of science, of music, of fashion, of everything. We put the trade-mark Paris on all these commodities, and you from America and he from China pays our price. Is not that merchandising?

"And how have we done this—this of making ourselves world merchants? By watching the details, by figuring our costs and selling price on the centime basis, one-fifth of your cent. A small denominator, you say. Yes, and therefore overlooked by other nations. Also by turning to our advantage, cashing in, as you say, the foibles, the vanities, the prodigalities, and the superstitions, not only of other nationalities, but of our own people.

"I read in your papers about your new business schemes. Bah! What's the Hurry?

On one of the most prominent street corners of Victoria, B. C., two Englishmen were deeply engrossed in conversation. This part of Canada contains a great many Englishmen who are apparently from wealthy families, and have been sent over here in the hope of the country developing them—making them work, so to speak. A trolley car had turned the corner, stopped for some passengers to alight, and started off again, when a man turned the corner on the run and boarded the moving car.

The Englishmen looked at each other in amazement.

"My word! Did you see him run?" one remarked.

"The blooming ass!" replied his companion. "I wonder if he did not know there was another car in twenty minutes?"—Lippincott's.

LIGHT SUMMER GOWNS

MOSQUITO NETTING AND ROSES, ACCORDING TO ONE WRITER.

Manufacturers Evidently Are Looking Forward to a Hot Season—Gaudy Colors Will Be the Invariable Rule.

I hope it is not going to be as bad this summer as the new lingerie gowns indicate. Nothing but mosquito netting with bunches of roses, as far as one sees now, writes Emma Jacquelin, in the Kansas City Star.

Maybe it's a hopeful sign, for nature plays a well known trick on the manufacturers each year by turning the climate the opposite way from what was expected.

Now, these nettings, would have served admirably last year from June 1 to September 15, for that especial sun that rules us certainly had spots on it, if that is the real reason of heat. Any fabric was the white man's burden on those days.

For that season the manufacturers announced velvet with touches of fur! Well, the only living things that wore a touch of fur last summer were the animals who were not able to shave.

Working, therefore, by the doctrine of opposites, the coming season may be cool because of the abundant mosquito netting prepared. I think we would all be malicious enough to be happy if the manufacturers lost money on this venture.

What is this new netting like? Quite coarse, and quite attractive, and heavily loaded with bulbous, full-grown roses put on by machine in a coarse white thread.

No colors have so far been used unless on some exclusive fabric kept away from the ordinary eye.

These roses are arranged so that they come on the lower part of the skirt; their placement on the bodice is left to inclination. Scrim is another thin and cool fabric that has been borrowed from the curtain counter. Often it has deep borders of open roses, usually pink, with green leaves; if there is a knot of light blue ribbon, so much the better. Much of this scrim sells for twenty-five cents a yard and has a border at each edge; it can be built into admirable draperies for voile or taffeta slips.

Blouses of it are already attracting attention. When the machine border is not used there is a cross stitch sampler pattern of embroidery done in dull pinks, blues and lavender.

The gaudy Montenegrin colors that have reigned so long are relegated toward the rear, where handwork is concerned, although there is no diminution in the clash of brilliant blue and scarlet, of purple and brown, of green and yellow.

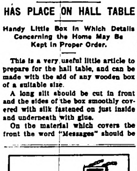
HAS PLACE ON HALL TABLE

Handy Little Box in Which Details Concerning the Home May Be Kept in Proper Order.

This is a very useful little article to prepare for the hall table, and can be made with the aid of any wooden box of a suitable size.

A long slit should be cut in front and the sides of the box smoothly covered with silk fastened on just inside and underneath with glue.

On the material which covers the front the word "Messages" should be worked just above the slit, and "Not at Home" may be worked in larger letters underneath it.



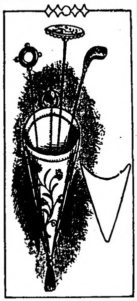
A number of sheets of notepaper cut exactly the same size as the top of the box are placed upon the lid, and these pieces of paper may be fastened together by making holes near the edge and passing a piece of prettily colored ribbon through them, and tying it in a bow on the reverse side.

The diagram at the top of the sketch explains how this may be done. On

DESIGNED TO HOLD HATPINS

Tidy That May Hang on Wall by the Side of Mirror, or in Other Convenient Place.

This is a very simple little tidy for hatpins, and it is intended for hanging upon a nail in the wall by the side of the looking-glass.



It is carried out in pale blue art linen, lined and stiffened with pale pink sateen and bound at the edge with narrow white silk ribbon and ornamented with a spray of tiny white daisies. It can be cut out entirely in one piece of the form shown in the diagram on the right-hand side, and then bent into shape and sewn together at the back. To determine the size it is a good plan to cut out a rough paper pattern first, and bend it into the required shape, and this may easily be done with the aid of our diagram.

At the top an ordinary small key ring is sewn on, by which the tidy may be suspended from a nail in the wall, and the base is ornamented with a silk tassel. Inside, at the extreme point of the tidy, there is a small ball of cotton wool to receive the points of the pins. This tidy may be easily washed when occasion requires, and might, of course, be carried out in many other pretty combinations than those suggested.

New Lace Veils.

Chantilly and malines laces are among the newest ideas for spring veils, particularly the cream white ones, which are becoming against the skin. Some of these are long, draped gracefully round the hats and hanging at the back.

The return of the waistline has given opportunity for the display of neat belts. These are in suede and patent leather, quite narrow, and the more decorative are adorned with jewels. Jeweled shoes also are a fashionable fad of the moment. Diamonds and other precious stones adorn shoes of gold and silver brocade and duchesse lace.

Neckwear from Flowers and Foliage.

The floral bow consists of a small satin or velvet nosegay with streamers of long soft green stems, finished off at the end with tiny buds. Bunches of green velvet foliage are sometimes used as substitutes for the usual flowers and look well beneath the chin, falling upon lace.

The colored detachable neckband, which requires a silk fringe of the same shade sewn to the lower edge of the collar, is a smart and pretty resource. Such neckbands fasten in front with a pair of fancy links instead of being invisibly closed at the side or back, or they are secured by cords ending in tassels.

Jacob's Ladders.

In stocking tops.
Are a fearful bane.
All women know how they annoy.
Fold a piece of quarter-inch satin ribbon
In the middle and sew to end of garter elastics.
Sew two or three loops of silk braid to stocking tops.
Run the ribbon through these and tie in a bow.
This obviates the "Madeira work" and ornaments the suspenders.

CURTAINS FOR WARM MONTHS

Scrim or Linen in Coarse Wave May Be Effectively Decorated at Small Expense.

Nothing is more suitable for the warm weather curtains than scrim or even linen in a coarse weave, and if this is bought in a plain color lovely sets for doors and windows can be made with the addition of a little stenciling, says the Pittsburgh Sun.

It is not a difficult matter to stencil any material if care is used, and this is infinitely quicker and easier to do.

Any design may be traced or drawn on the stencil board, which can be bought at any art store for 10 or 15 cents, and this should be carefully cut out with a sharp knife.

To make a clear, distinct stencil, a large piece of blotting paper should be placed beneath the material to be decorated and this will absorb the superfluous moisture.

This is an easy and pretty method of preserving a harmonious color scheme in a room, for the paints may be mixed to make any color or tint, while the bought drapery might be slightly off in color and just enough to clash with the rest of the room.

With Dancing Frocks.

With the dainty dancing frocks worn by debutantes these days, go high-heeled boots of satin, with paper-thin soles and high buttoned tops. These boots make the foot and ankle look slender. There are also black satin boots for wear with smart afternoon gowns.

Line the Yokes.

The young woman who has a taste for active sports should see that all her shirtwaists have lined yokes at the back. If this precaution is omitted this part will become soaked with perspiration, which will mean ruin, to the colored waists, at least.

Greater Farm Efficiency

Choosing a Useful Draft Horse

By PROF. A. S. ALEXANDER, Wisconsin College of Agriculture

Stallion of Good Form.

A horse's height is measured in "hands" (4 inches) from the summit of the withers to the ground. A typical, ideal draft horse stands over 16 hands (5 feet 4 inches) and under 18 hands high. Tall, leggy horses, if deficient in weight, width and quality, are undesirable. Such horses often are found affected with St. Vitus' dance. Exceptionally tall horses (over 17.2 hands) are difficult to match in pairs and therefore may not meet with ready sale on the market. Such horses are chiefly used for single work or as the middle horses of three horse teams.

A draft horse should weigh 1,600 pounds, or more, in ordinary flesh. Weight in a draft horse is absolutely necessary for the hauling of heavy loads. It enables the horse to derive full benefit from the strength of his muscles, adds to the effect of his motions and gives him a firm grip upon the ground. Heavy weight is a useless burden when not associated with adequately developed frame and muscle. It should be accompanied by vigor and energy.

The form of the draft horse should be broad, deep, massive, evenly proportioned and symmetrical, the entire makeup suggesting great strength and weight. The body should be blocky, and compact, with short, broad, clean, well set legs showing fine skin, large joints and prominent tendons.

The entire appearance of the draft horse should be indicative of strength for heavy hauling. A massive body, set squarely on sturdy legs is required.

Good quality is shown by fine, bright, silky hair; soft, pliable skin; clean, well defined tendons; smooth well developed muscles; strong, smooth bones. It usually is associated with style, spirit and intelligence indicative of "breeding."

A draft horse does most of his hard work at the walking gait. It is therefore important that he should be able to walk fast without tiring. He should be able to walk four miles an hour with a load. To do this the action must be perfectly regular, straight and level. Joints must be quickly and fully flexed; feet must be advanced and set down without deviation from a straight line. Soles of the feet should turn up and show the shoes plainly as the horse moves away from the observer, at both walk and trot. The feet should be lifted quickly, evenly and be set down squarely and firmly.

There should be no "paddling," "dishing," or "winging" in or out, cutting or interfering, nor should the fore legs swing out or "roll," or the hind legs be carried too close together or too far apart. In judging of the action the observer must note the movements of each leg and foot, the handling of each joint and the carriage of the entire body, as the horse walks and trots. Watch closely for lameness. The hocks should be carried well together when in motion. Rolling, or waddling in front is due to too great width of chest. Knee and hock action should both be free and comparatively high. Perfection of action at the walk is of highest importance in the draft horse.

The draft horse should show a vigorous, lively, energetic disposition, yet be docile, tractable and intelligent. He should be neither sluggish, nor irritable, nor excessively nervous.

Noticeable vices, as cribbing, wind sucking, weaving, tail switching, shying, biting, kicking, head shaking, etc., are undesirable. Sluggishness associated with fat should be avoided, as it induces disease. Stupidity, clumsiness, meanness or excessive nervousness are objectionable and should discount the animal.

The head should be large, proportionate in size to the body and well formed, clean, free from coarseness and irregularities.

Strength may be shown in the head as well as the rest of the body. It should be carried well up and balanced properly upon the neck.

The shoulder of a draft horse should be moderately sloping, smooth and extending well back. A majority of poorly formed draft horses have shoulders which are too steep. Occasionally the shoulders are too sloping. Either extreme in a draft horse is objectionable. Trouble with collars comes from these causes when the horse is doing heavy pulling. The correctly laid shoulder should form a smooth, comfortable bed for the collar. Straight or upright shoulders detract from easy, free action of the forelegs and generally are found associated with upright pasterns. The shoulders should be smoothly and deeply covered with muscles and be free from coarseness, roughness, sores and tumors. The withers should be well covered and moderately high.

The arm of the horse extends from the point of the shoulder to the elbow and should be short, heavily muscled and well thrown back.

This part is formed of the arm bone (humerus) and must be so laid as to bring the leg in proper position to support the weight of the forequarter. The elbows should be prominent, clean and not held too far out or too close in to the body. Score off for straight, poorly placed or inadequately muscled arms.

The forearm, extending from the elbow to the knee, should be long, wide, heavily muscled and free from coarseness. This portion of the body of the draft horse, together with the lower thigh (gaskin) of the hind leg, cannot be fattened, but is composed chiefly of lean muscle and bone. The muscles should be prominent in front and above and the entire part clean and free from puffiness and coarseness.

The knees should be straight, wide, deep, strongly formed and smooth.

So long as these and other joints are free from puffs, bony growths and meatiness, [illegible] well be too large or too strongly developed. Knees should be straight and so set as to perfectly carry the weight of the body. Sprung knees, or "buck knees," bent in the forward direction are as objectionable as those of the reverse type which are known as "calf knees." Examine the knees for blemishes and the cannons for splints close up to the knees. Splints will be likely to cause lameness. Blemishes may indicate tendency to falling.

Crooked or "Sickle" Hock.

The hoofs should be ample in size, sound, smooth and symmetrical in shape.

The chest encloses the heart and lungs; it should be roomy in every respect. A narrow, shallow chest denotes poor constitution, lack of endurance and deficient breathing organs. If too wide the action tends to waddling or rolling. A narrow chest and high knee action often go together. An ample, wide, deep chest denotes vigor, power, strong constitution and easy keeping qualities.

Poor hocks are a common fault in draft horses. It is important to improve this deficiency. To that end breeding animals should have good hocks and for work horses this also is imperative. The hock (not "hind knee") is commonly the seat of some one of such diseases as bone and bog (not "blood") spavin, thoroughpin and curb. These should be avoided. The joint should look and feel firm, hard and with each bone well defined, free from meatiness and of great size. The point of the hock should be prominent, clean and sharp and the tendons under it straight, distinct, but free from bulging.

Almanac Started in 1686.

The oldest almanac in existence is the "Almanach National," which has been issued by the French government since 1686. Its name has been changed a good many times during its career of 225 years. Originally the "Almanach Royal," it became "National" in 1792, "Imperial" in 1805, and reverted to its original name nine years later.

Since then the title has been altered four times. Like most publications of this sort the "Almanach National" has grown bulky with advancing years. The first issue contained 48 pages, as compared with 1,580 pages in the current issue.

NOTES from MEADOWBROOK FARM

By William Pitt

Mark layers with leg bands.

Incubators are always on the job.

Be sure there are no lice on the hogs.

All farmers should keep pure-bred poultry.

Duck feathers may also be made a source of profit.

Normal churning temperature is around 62 degrees.

A special inspection should be made of the stables.

The hen which lays an egg and does not cackle is a—turkey.

It costs no more to take good care of a good fowl than a poor one.

Growing pigs should receive, where it is possible, some buttermilk.

The long-headed farmer is the one who has hay to sell in the spring.

Whether for eggs or meat, skimmilk is one of the best and cheapest foods.

In fitting horses for hard work increase the grain ration, but not the hay.

Chickens hatched in an incubator can be reared either with hens or with a brooder.

Open pails of water and swill have caught more chicks than any rat that ever lived.

Two parts oats and one of bran make a well-balanced ration for pregnant ewes.

On the average, eleven pounds of cheese can be made from 200 pounds of skimmilk.

Look out for drafts under and through the floors. They are about the worst kind.

A news item says that 12,000 dairies are used to supply London and its suburbs with milk.

Feed the ewes carefully at first, and increase the ration as the lamb requires more milk.

There are usually some ewes that have served their days of usefulness and better be discarded.

Breeding for a special purpose tends to develop an animal that will be in harmony with her function.

See if the entrance to the hives is choked with dead bees. Rake them out but do not disturb the live ones.

Much of the illness and loss in the first and second weeks of the chicken life is due to carelessness the first 48 hours.

Cows that are well cared for and well protected are not seriously affected in their yield by the cold weather.

Dairying is rapidly becoming a science. It is being studied more extensively than almost any other line of farming.

Dust young turkeys and their mother once every two weeks with insect powder until they are at least six weeks old.

Filth, disease and death are associated together, at all times and places. Keep things bright and clean and they will keep you so.

Corn stalks are plowed under with no harm to succeeding crops—provided the stalks are first thoroughly cut by double disking.

Pure bred poultry consumes less feed, produces more eggs and is worth at least one-fourth more to the farmer than mongrel stock.

In the summer when the farmer is busy cultivating and harvesting sheep require the least attention of any stock kept on the farm.

Turkey hens are sometimes inclined to sit too closely. See that they are off the nest fifteen minutes each day, until the eggs begin to pip.

The cows should be kept clean and the long hair clipped so as to prevent dirt hanging and falling into the pails while the cows are being milked.

Supply clear water. It is essential to health and to the hen for the production of the egg, the contents of which are nearly three parts water.

In growing a heifer for the dairy muscular vitality is wanted rather than fat, and this is obtained very largely from the skim-milk portion of its diet.

Among the essentials of the successful care and management of a farm flock of mutton sheep are that we treat them in a manner adapted to their nature.

If you have decided upon the breed of chickens you are going to raise, send off for circulars to specialists of that breed rather than to one that raises a dozen different breeds of poultry.

It pays to spray intelligently.

Look well now to the brood sows.

Buckwheat is an egg producing feed.

Half starve your hens, if you want no eggs.

Examine the collars of your work horses often.

Few horses can digest perfectly clear timothy hay.

Hang a cabbage where the hens have to exercise to get it.

Warm milk tastes fine to the calf these chilly mornings.

Charcoal in the feed is good for correcting digestive troubles.

Any incubator will do its work, and some brooders will undo it.

The true dairy cow is easily affected by unfavorable conditions.

A good horseman never trots a draft horse even when he has no load.

The damand on the foal's digestive system for nourishment is very great.

Don't let your hens mope. Give them plenty of dry earth, ashes, chaff, etc.

Sunshine is the only disinfectant absolutely free. Then let us use plenty of it.

The real dairy cow turns her food into milk and butter-fat instead of meat.

When you mark the date on an egg, have a good honest man handle the stamp.

Save eggs from hens two or three years old, rather than from pullets, for hatching.

The live, ambitious, energetic poultryman makes it a point to hatch early chicks.

If cream is too warm, butter is very likely to come in soft lumps, with a greasy texture.

Go over the nozzles of the sprayer and see that everything is ready for the spring work.

With proper care and protection, clipping is an aid to the health and condition of a horse.

In a case of twins one is often weaker than the other, and would die if not assisted to nourishment.

Ducks do not need water for swimming, but they must have plenty of absolutely clean drinking water.

There is more fat lost in the skim milk through slow turning of the separator than through fast turning.

Have patience with the lambs. A lamb saved now will be a five-dollar bill in your pocket later in the year.

Lambs should have milk within a few minutes of birth, and if not able should have quiet and quick assistance.

Don't think that a calf which is fed regularly on milk does not need water. Milk is a food and does not quench thirst.

Two parts corn and 1 part each of wheat and oats fed in a litter make a well balanced morning feed for the layers.

Move the chicken yards around once in awhile. Even the earth gets unhealthy if you keep hens on it all the while.

The open range is best for young turkeys, but they must not be allowed out during a shower or before the grass is dry.

Feeds rich in oil have a tendency to keep a cow's system in good, healthy condition and keep the coat smooth and bright.

There is this to say for the fruit tree peddler: If it were not for him many a farm would have little or no fruit on the place.

New York's butter bill for one year at retail prices amounts to $53,000,000. The cheese bill for the same time is $12,000,000.

In building new quarters for swine the foundations should be made permanent and the floors double, and wind and water proof.

Mark your layers with leg bands, especially if you are using trap nests, so that you can keep a perfect record of what they are doing.

In spring and early summer milk has a greater proportion of soft fats than in winter. This necessitates a low churning temperature.

Take the cellar bees out the first warm day that is windless and sunshiny, or keep plenty of water slightly warmer, near the hives.

In setting out peach trees no side branches need be left. They may be cut back to a "whip." With apples and pears only year-old wood should be cut back.

Can you handle the ax well? Then have one of those roosters for dinner next Sunday. Get them out of the flock. They are a nuisance to the laying hens.

Although the dairy business is not all profit, still there is enough to be made from it to offer the very best of encouragement to any one who will handle it right.

Milk prices have been investigated by the Department of Agriculture, and it is found that "throughout the United States the dairyman receives a scant 50 per cent of the price paid by the consumer."

REMEDIES FOR RHEUMATISM

Are Many but the Important Thing Is to Enrich the Blood and Cleanse the System of Rheumatic Poison.

There are many remedies for rheumatism. Most of them are considered successful if they relieve the pain and stiffness. That means a temporary suppression of the symptoms while the disease remains in the blood to appear again on the next rainy day.

Mrs. J. W. Rapp, of R. F. D. No. 1, South Omaha, Neb., says: "Several years ago I was a sufferer from rheumatism which followed a general run-down condition and exposure to wet and dampness. The pains started in my hands, which had a sort of pricking sensation like needles were being thrust into them. As the disease grew worse the joints of my fingers became affected. They were swollen and were so painful that I could hardly bear it. Gradually the disease began to affect my limbs in the same manner. They became terribly swollen and I had to give up my work. The pains then spread all over my body and were sharp and shooting. They would suddenly shift from one part of the body to another but fortunately did not seem to affect my heart. For three months I was propped up in a chair and had to be waited on. I could not get any sleep and was losing flesh all of the time. The doctor treated me a long time but did not give much relief as the pains were as severe as ever when I quit taking his medicine. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People were brought to my notice while reading a booklet and I made up my mind to give them a trial. A wonderful change came over me as soon as I commenced using the pills. They absolutely cured me from the terrible rheumatic pains and I have never had them since. I have recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to many persons and always explain that they cannot help giving benefit as they are a blood medicine."

A new edition of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free on request to anyone interested. Write for it today.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c. per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

PIMPLES ON FACE 3 YEARS

"I was troubled with acne for three long years. My face was the only part affected, but it caused great disfigurement, also suffering and loss of sleep. At first there appeared red, hard pimples which later contained white matter. I suffered a great deal caused by the itching, I was in a state of perplexity when walking the streets or anywhere before the public.

"I used pills and other remedies but they failed completely. I thought of giving up when nothing would help, but something told me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a Cuticura Booklet which I read carefully. Then I bought some Cuticura Soap and Ointment and by following the directions I was relieved in a few days. I used Cuticura Soap for washing my face, and applied the Cuticura Ointment morning and evening. This treatment brought marvelous results so I continued with it for a few weeks and was cured completely. I can truthfully say that the Cuticura Remedies are not only all, but more than they claim to be." (Signed) G. Baumel, 1015 W. 20th Place, Chicago, Ill., May 28, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

What She Wanted.

Before the fire on Christmas eve, two old maids were planning for the holiday.

"Sister Mallie," said the younger, "would a long stocking hold all you want for a Christmas gift?"

"No, Elvira," said the older, "but a pair of socks would."

To keep artificial teeth and bridgework antiseptically clean and free from odors and disease germs, Paxtine Antiseptic is unequaled. At druggists, 25c a box or sent postpaid on receipt of price by The Paxton Toilet Co., Boston, Mass.

ROOSEVELT GIVES POLITICAL CREED

Plain Answers to Questions as to His Principles.

JUST WHERE HE STANDS

In an Editorial in the March 30 Issue of The Outlook, Theodore Roosevelt Sets Forth "A Short Political Creed" in the Form of Questions and Answers, as Follows:

A good friend of mine who has been asked many questions about the political philosophy which I endeavored to interpret and formulate in my Columbus speech has put those questions in the form of a short catechism; and in answering them I have endeavored to outline the philosophy.

What is the aim for which political Progressives are striving?

The promotion of genuine popular government in America, the defense of human rights, and the establishment of social and industrial justice, so that every force in the community may be directed towards securing for the average man and average woman a higher and better and fuller life in the things of the body no less than those of the mind and soul.

Do you believe that the pursuit of this aim requires the adoption of new and radical principles?

No. I believe it requires a new and radical application of the old principles of justice and common honesty, which are as eternal as life itself. New methods and new machinery are needed for carrying these principles into our national existence; and also a broader sympathy, so that our justice may be generous and human, and not merely legalistic.

Do you believe in a short ballot?

I do. I consider it one of the most important methods to be adopted. By the "short ballot" I mean the principle of electing few men to important offices and making more administrative offices appointive. This is the method that is pursued in our Federal government. The people have nothing whatever to fear from giving any public servant power so long as they retain their own power to hold him accountable to them. You will get best service where you elect only a few men, each of whom has his definite duties and responsibilities, and is obliged to work in the open so that the people know who he is and what he does.

Do you believe in direct primaries?

I do. In the state the primary should be of the simplest form (consistent with preventing fraud) that will enable each individual voter to act directly on the nomination of elective officers; in the nation presidential primaries should be so framed that the voters may chose their delegates to the national conventions, and at the same time express their preference for nominees for the presidency. At the present moment our political machines are using their power to defraud the people out of their right to make nominations.

Do you believe in the election of United States senators by the people?

I do. I think the people are just as competent to elect United States senators directly as they are to elect governors or representatives in congress or state legislatures.

Do you believe in the initiative or referendum?

Yes, under certain definite limitations. Action by the initiative or referendum ought not to be the normal way of legislation; I think the legislature should be given an entirely free hand. But I believe the people should have the power to reverse or supplement the work of the legislature, whenever it becomes necessary.

Do you believe in the recall?

I believe the people should be provided with the means of recalling or un-electing important elective administrative officers, to be used only when there is a widespread and genuine public feeling for such a recall among a majority of the voters. I believe that there is scant necessity for using it in connection with short-term elective officers.

Do you believe in the recall of judges?

I believe that the evils which have led to the very widespread proposal to apply the recall to judges are very real. I see no reason why the people, if they are competent to elect judges, are not also competent to un-elect them. I think the judiciary should be made clearly to understand that they represent justice for the whole people. Personally, and having in view the success of the Massachusetts system, I am at present inclined to believe that judges should be appointive. Then we can apply the principle of the recall to the appointive power. In addition I would have the appointive judges removable; and in seeking the way to the proper solution, I would try having this done by a majority vote of the two houses of the legislature, as may now be done under the Massachusetts law, whenever the people through their representatives feel that the needs of the people require such removal. But this is merely my preference; and, moreover, my prime concern is with the end, not the means. I wish to see good judges put on the bench and bad ones taken off it. Any system which in its actual workings accomplishes these two ends is a good system. I do not wish to use the recall if it is possible to avoid doing so; but I would far rather have recourse to the recall than continue the present system, which provides an impeachment remedy that in practice never works, and provides no efficient way whatever for overriding judicial misconstruction of the constitution.

Do you believe in the "review of judicial decisions" by state courts, and what do you mean by it?

I do. What I mean may be fully expressed by the phrase, "The right of the people to review certain judicial decisions which nullify laws demanded by the people in the exercise of the police or general welfare power on the ground that these laws are unconstitutional." This would amount to a simpler method of construing or amending the judicial interpretation of the constitution wherever such interpretation becomes clearly adverse to human rights. I believe, as I have said over and over again, that when the highest court of a state differs from the legislature of that state on the question of the constitutionality of a law vitally affecting the conditions of life and labor among wage-earners, the people should have the right to determine in an election whether the constitution which they have framed was meant by them to permit such a law. This method cannot apply to questions as to the federal constitution; I have made this distinction clear in my Columbus speech. The jurisdiction of the United States Supreme court concerning the federal constitution must remain supreme over the whole people. The constitutions of the separate states are in daily process of making by the people of those states, and I would therefore vest in the people of each state the final authority as to what their state constitution should be. I would not make the people the final judge in legal questions between individuals, but I would make the people the final umpire in such a conflict as that above outlined between the legislature and the judiciary in any given state.

The personal differences between some of my opponents and myself are only incidents of a fundamental difference of view. My opponents believe, as many of the founders of our government believed, that the people as a whole have neither the capacity nor the training to decide questions of broad governmental policy. Many of our fathers thought that the people could not be trusted to elect presidents or senators and therefore devised the Electoral College, which we have abandoned, and the legislative method of electing senators, which we are abandoning. My opponents think that a special class, the legal class, is the proper one finally to determine questions of basic political philosophy; I believe that the ultimate authority rests in the people and must be exercised by the people. This of course does not mean that the people should not employ experts to do their work for them. For instance, having selected the president, the voters should give him full executive power; but if the voters decide that they want a parcels post, they should expect him to make, with loyalty to their decision, the best parcels post that can be made; and they will not expect him to decide for them as to whether they are to have a parcels post or not. In law, having framed the constitution and the statutes, they should choose the best judge that they can to carry out the provisions of the constitution and the statutes; but if they decide that they want a workmen's compensation act, they ought to expect the judge to administer such an act, and not to determine whether a workmen's compensation act is good for them or not. It is none of the judge's business to say whether the people ought to wish and to have such an act; it is the people's business, and only theirs. If the people decide (as the Canadians have decided) that it is a true function of government to formulate and regulate the relations of organized capital and organized labor, including wages, hours, and conditions of work, they will not expect the judges—and the judges must not expect—to decide that this is not a true function of government; and if the judges endeavor to assert their view as opposed to the people's view, the people ought in legal fashion to tell them they are mistaken, and, if the judges persist, remove them and get judges who will administer the law based upon the theory of government which the people in the exercise of their sober and deliberate judgment have decided to be good.

MONEY TRUST BACKING TAFT

Two Billion Dollar Committee Asks for Subscription.

SECRET CIRCULAR FOUND

Washington, April 6.—The financial end of the Taft campaign was revealed somewhat the other day by the capture in New York by Amos Pinchot of a copy of a nifty little circular letter which was being sent around to men in Big Business in a very confidential way. The capture of the letter was made with some difficulty, but it was made. The letter read like this:

"Col. Roosevelt is endeavoring to secure a nomination for a third term, contrary to a widely established precedent, on a platform favoring the recall of judges and the recall of judicial decisions, which, in the opinion of thinking men would nullify the constitution and menace the fundamental principles of Republican government.

"We believe that President Taft, by reason of his wise, conservative and efficient administration, is entitled to renomination by the Republican party.

"To bring these facts properly before the electorate and to insure the renomination of President Taft a vigorous campaign is essential. We earnestly solicit your support and ask you to contribute to the necessary expenses of carrying on the work. Checks should be made payable to Robert F. Huse, acting treasurer, care Redmond & Co., 33 Pine street."

Wall Street Sponsors.

At the head of the letter was the list of sponsors in the form of the committee seeking to raise the spondulix for Taft. It included some of the men down in the Wall street country who do nothing all day long but attend meetings of boards of directors and pocket gold coins for so doing. Amos Pinchot, who is a good deal of a lawyer, with offices at 60 Broadway, says the letter in reality constitutes a violation of the criminal code of the state of New York, because it is a device to gain money by false pretenses. He bases this opinion upon the fact that the writers of the letter are plainly trying to scare moneyed men into contributing by setting up the charge that Col. Roosevelt is trying to secure the recall of the justices of the United States Supreme court and their decisions, to break down the constitution of the United States and to destroy the government.

As Col. Roosevelt's treatment of the recall question, as far as the courts are concerned, has been confined distinctly to state courts and then only to certain well defined cases, Mr. Pinchot believes this makes the letter a direct violation of the New York penal code as expressed in Section 1290, covering the offense of securing money by false pretenses. However, as it is likely that the recipients of the letter were perfectly willing to be scared about Col. Roosevelt, it is not probable that any of them will seek to prosecute the members of the money raising committee.

Committee "A Peach."

As far as that committee is concerned it is a peach. There are 19 members, as stated on the letter head, and these 19 men represent among a multitude of other things the following institutions, all notorious as constituent parts of the money trust:

New York Trust Co., New York Central Railroad, Mercantile Trust Co., Michigan Central Railroad Co., Corporation Trust Co., Bethlehem Steel Corporation, Astor Trust Co., Guaranty Trust Co., National City Bank, Brooklyn Mutual Life Insurance Co., Delaware & Hudson Railroad, West Shore Railroad, Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, Metropolitan Trust Co., Trust Company of America, Bankers Trust Co., Title Guarantee & Trust Co., Manhattan Life Insurance Co.

It is too bad that no manual in the library of congress gives the capital of all of these trust companies and their allied concerns. The total would certainly be more than all the money in the world. But by the aid of such manuals as are to be found here a glance at the concerns represented by about half of the committee of 19 will go some distance toward establishing that Big Business is for Taft and no other need apply. As a spectacle of billions begging the letter speaks for itself. Following is what is learned about a few of these 19 anti-Roosevelt alarmists:

OTTO T. BANNARD—Pres. New York Trust Co., director Mahoning & Shenango R. R. & Light Co.	$ 10,000,000

Full List of "19."

The full list of the 19 reads like this:

Benjamin F. Tracy, Chairman, Otto T. Bannard, Nicholas Murray Butler, George Blagden, Charles N. Bernheimer, Julien T. Davies, Marcus M. Marks, William N. Cohen, Carlton A. Chase, William Berri, Andrew B. Baird, Almet R. Latson, Marcus M. Marks, Chauncey M. Depew, George R. Sheldon, Edgar L. Marston, Hendrick S. Holden, R. Ross Appleton, James R. Sheffield, Richard Young.

It is supposed that the necessity for the letter lies in the change from the good old times when there were no corrupt practices acts and no laws compelling publicity of campaign contributions. It is personal checks the boys must have now, no matter where the money really comes from.

Republican District Convention

The republican district convention for the Ninth congressional district of the state of Minnesota will be held at the armory in the city of Thief River Falls on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing two delegates and two alternates to the republican national convention to be held at Chicago on June 18, 1912, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for president and vice president, and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the convention.

The county conventions to elect delegates thereto will be held in the respective counties on Monday, May 13, A. D. 1912, at places to be designated by the several county committees.

Representation in this convention will be made upon the following basis: Each county shall be entitled to one delegate for each two hundred and fifty votes, or major fraction thereof, cast for state officers in the year 1910 in such county, and each county shall be allowed in addition thereto five delegates at large. Dated April 8, 1912.

Official Call

For the republican county convention in and for Pennington county, Minnesota, to be held at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, May 13, 1912.

Pursuant to the call of the republican state central committee duly communicated to the republican county committee of the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, a republican county delegate convention is hereby called to be held on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1912, at eleven (11) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the court house in Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, for the purpose of electing ten (10) delegates to the republican state convention to be held on the 16th day of May, A. D. 1912, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, at the armory in Minneapolis, Hennepin county, Minnesota, for the purpose of electing six delegates at large and six alternates to the national republican convention to nominate a president and vice president of the United States, to be held in Chicago, Illinois, on June 18, 1912, and to nominate twelve republican electors for the state of Minnesota; and for the further purpose of electing ten (10) delegates to the republican district convention for the ninth congressional district of the state of Minnesota, to be held at the armory in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1912, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, for the purpose of electing two (2) delegates and two (2) alternates to the national republican convention to nominate a president and vice president of the United States, to be held in Chicago, Illinois, on June 18, 1912.

The primaries for the election of delegates to said republican county convention shall be held at the usual voting place in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on Saturday, the 11th day of May, 1912, from seven to eight o'clock p. m.

The republican voters of Pennington county, Minnesota, without regard to past political affiliations, who believe in the principles advocated by the republican party and endorse its policies are cordially invited to participate in the selection of delegates to this convention.

The representation to said republican county convention shall be based upon the average republican vote for the following state officers at the election of 1910: Governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, and attorney general. Each voting precinct being entitled to one delegate for each twenty-five or major fraction thereof, and one delegate at at large.

In accordance with above apportionment the several voting precincts in Pennington county, Minnesota, will be entitled to the following number of delegates to the said republican county convention in and for the county of Pennington and state of Minnesota.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of thirty six ($36.00) dollars interest, which became due October 1st 1911, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by David W. Clayton and Mary E. Clayton, mortgagors, to Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of April, 1907, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota on the 5th day of April, 1907, at 1:30 o'clock p. m., in book 34 of mortgages on page 191, and now of record in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in said state, in book 24 of mortgages on page 117;

Which mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby was duly assigned by said Iowa Mortgage Loan And Investment Co., mortgagee, to David Rosenberg by written assignment, dated the 10th day of April, 1907, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April, 1907, at 11:30 o'clock a. m. in book 22 of mortgages on page 466, and now of record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 42 of mortgages, page 92.

And whereas, the said David Rosenberg, assignee, thereafter died testate, and by the provisions of his will, which has been duly admitted to probate, assigned and conveyed said mortgage by his said written will to Amalie Rosenberg, and the said will having been duly admitted to probate in the probate court of the county of Swift, in the state of Minnesota, on the 24th day of May, 1910, the said probate court did thereafter make and enter its final decree, in writing, in the estate of David Rosenberg, deceased, dated on the 27th day of February, 1911, and thereby assigned and conveyed the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby to Amalie Rosenberg, which said final decree assigning said mortgage, pursuant to the provisions of the will aforesaid, was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 a. m., in book A of Miscellaneous on Page 170, and the letters testamentary issued in said estate to Myron Rosenberg, executor of the will of said David Rosenberg, deceased, was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said Pennington county on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 o'clock in book A of Miscellaneous on page 169.

And Whereas, The premises described in said mortgage are now included in the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, which county was created and organized on the 23rd day of November, 1910, out of a part of the former Red Lake county.

And Whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of the default in the payment of said interest, the whole principal sum of said mortgage did on the second day of October, 1911, become immediately due and payable and was so declared by the said Amalie Rosenberg, assignee of said mortgage, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon said mortgage the sum of twelve hundred seventy-three and 8-100 ($1273.08) dollars; and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, towit: The east half (e½) of the southwest quarter (sw¼) and lots number six (6) and seven (7) in section six (6) of township one hundred fifty-two (152) north of range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian for Minnesota, now in Pennington county, Minnesota, the same formerly being in Red Lake county Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Pennington county at the front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on the 20th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of twelve hundred seventy-three and 08-100 ($1273.08) dollars and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty ($50.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 30, A. D. 1912.

Socialists in the Field

While out on a "wild goose" chase last week, we happened to get a clew which, after we followed it for some time, resulted in us getting a line on the socialist candidates for county offices, which will be, so far as we could learn, the ticket from top to bottom, towit:

Peter Becken, auditor.

Mr. Dahl of St. Hilaire, judge of probate.

Oscar Naplin, county attorney.

Lars Netteland of Rocksbury, superintendent of schools.

Hans Rolland, county commissioner.

W. O. Long, sheriff.

Treasurer is undecided.

Commissioners P. Wold and Olaf Larson will be endorsed by the socialists.

Dr. Vistannet, coroner.

Lewis Lonson is a candidate for register of deeds on the republican ticket and we are informed that he will be endorsed by the local organization.—News.

Rural School Notes

The county superintendent desires at this time to call attention to the industrial contest, mention of which was made some time ago in these columns. Whether there will be a contest or not next fall will primarily depend (1) upon whether there will be a sufficient number of boys and girls entering the same and (2) on whether or not we can secure the necessary funds for payment of prizes.

These conditions satisfied, we will have a contest in the month of November and prizes will be offered according to the announcements made in bulletin No. 3 of the extension division agricultural farm, St. Paul, Minn.

DIVISION A—GRAINS.

Corn—Ten ear exhibit of Minnesota No. 13 and 23, or any other variety.

Wheat—The best sample of wheat.

Oats—The best sample.

Barley—The same.

DIVISION B—POTATOES.

One peck of early and one peck of late varieties; also

One grand prize for the best display of garden vegetables.

DIVISION C—SEWING.

Classes will be the same as those outlined in the industrial contest bulletin No. 3 for 1912.

DIVISION D—COOKING.

Classes will be the same as those outlined in above mentioned bulletin.

DIVISION G—MANUAL TRAINING.

For rural schools only, not including associated. Best milkstool; bird house; hay trough; mail box; model gate, not to exceed two feet.

There will be special prizes in corn and potatoes, and first, second, and third prizes for the other classes or samples listed in the contest.

Bulletin No. 3 is sent out to the schools this week in a limited supply. Will the teachers kindly give a copy to each family represented in their respective schools. We anticipate much help in this movement from our teachers, and the success or failure of the contest will depend in no small degree on their cooperation. This subject should call forth much enthusiasm in our schools. The clerks for schools closed will kindly spread the bulletins to children in their respective schools.

Will the teachers kindly report the work done as to this contest and the list of scholars entering the contest for their respective schools. Any scholar not in a school in session may report to me individually his or her name and the work each contemplates doing.

Any one in need of a bulletin write to this office or better still write to the University Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, and get your name listed for the monthly farmers' bulletin, sent free for the asking.

Gov. Eberhart has by proclamation designated Tuesday, April 26, as Arbor and Bird day in our schools. I hope the Arbor day manual will come to hand in time so as to be distributed to the schools. I would respectaully ask the school boards, with the assistance of the respective teachers, to do all things possible to beautify the school grounds. Let us have neat and model school grounds; make them the civic civic centers in which all take pride, the places for the social meals and celebrations for the summer. The department of public instruction, C. G. Schultz, superintendent, will send each school officer, for the asking, a neat pamphlet on the beautification of the school grounds, plans, etc. Send for

I am pleased to make the announcement of our training school. We have a most excellent faculty, and the school is an assured success. Let our teachers plan to attend and reap the full benefit thereof by attending from the first commencement. The summer school will be organized at ten o'clock Monday, June 24, in the Lincoln high school building, Thief River Falls, and will be in session six days in the week for five weeks. The program will be so arranged that all recitation work will be done in the forenoon, beginning at 7:30 and closing at 1:30 p. m.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Piano With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

SOUNDS MORE LIKE FICTION, THIS REAL LIFE STORY

PLOT MARRED BY CUPID

How Highly Placed Business Man Was Caught in a Marriage Trap—Horace Field Parshall, the "Shrewdest American in London," Was Victimized and Unwittingly Wed Another Man's Wife.

LONDON.—A romance inspired on one side—the woman's—by a trickster's criminal cunning, in which sentimental mockery at the start takes the place of love and by degrees becomes a worthy emotion; in which an unlawful marriage, planned with calculating sordidness, once entered into becomes a real affairs of the heart; in which a wife acting the leading role in her husband's dastardly plot becomes a bigamist and then, the true woman within her asserting itself, becomes crushed by the irreconcilable falsity of her position and confesses. A real situation? Yes.

In this strange way are the incidents worked out in the trapping at the altar of Horace Field Parshall, chairman of the Central London railway and known as the shrewdest American in London, relates the New York World. Sent forth under threats of death to do the criminal bidding of a man to whom she had linked herself in girlhood, the impulse of love for him who becomes her victim at the end makes the woman's part in the plot little short of a soul tragedy.

As for the man—for Parshall—it is the story of an honorable dupe who, when the truth is made known to him, is compassionate instead of relentless, and pleads for mercy while others call for punishment.

Parshall High in Business World.

With an income of considerably more than a hundred thousand dollars a year, and dukes and lords and other British money men as his business associates, Horace Field Parshall is well known in London. He is forty-six years old and a widower with two children, a boy and a girl. His wife was a Miss Rutty. He came from Milford, N. Y., and entered railroading in London during the days of Charles T. Yerkes, being an engineer who commands money by his genius.

The woman—the real victim if one measures consequences—is Mrs. Deborah Jeffreys, wife of one Herbert Harrington Jeffreys, whose name suggests respectability but whose record does not. She is thirty-three years old, comely, of gentle manners, and her life well ordered except in so far as it has been warped by her husband.

The first setting of this strange story is at an English summer resort; the last, with final curtain, in a London police court.

In January a year ago Mr. Parshall was introduced to a young woman known then by the name of Miss Bertha Johnson. She seemed a person of refinement. She was well gowned and of charming manner. Mr. Parshall met her not infrequently thereafter, and one day asked her to marry him.

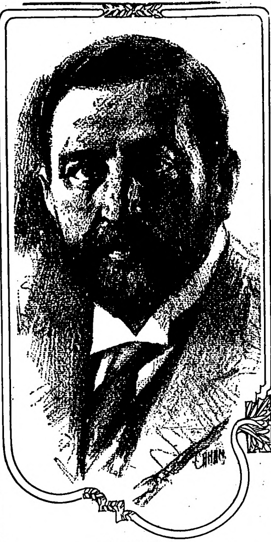
Seemingly Happy Marriage.

On August 5 they were married. Parshall, unsuspecting and happy, formed a little party at The Piers, and with his bride at his side, motored to the sleepy little hamlet of Elham, lying midway between Folkestone and the famous cathedral town of Canterbury, where, at the registry office, the ceremony was performed. Mrs. Martha Judd of Folkestone was one of those present at the marriage.

Many a plan of the mind has before now been upset by the heart of a woman. It was so in this case. The false wife found herself the center of conflicting emotions. At the instigation of a man who would willingly sacrifice her for his own financial benefit she had married a man whose tenderness and kindness had made her truly happy. But the relation was impossible.

At the Parshall country place in the suburbs of London she met the children. They, too, became fond of her, loved her, and so with each passing day the struggle went on within her until, unable longer to bear the strain of her own duplicity, she planned to escape it by the one means which women who halt at suicide adopt—she confessed.

Mr. Parshall's business had taken him away from home. Conscience-stricken, she wrote to him, telling of the wrong she had done him and, while admitting his own weakness and the part she had played, placed the larger blame on the man who had forced her into it.



Horace Parshall

Blight on Parshall's Life.

The only course open to Parshall, having an honorable position to maintain, was to seek a prompt annulment of the marriage. This the high court granted on the statement of the facts.

It left Parshall free, but with a cynical view of life. It left the woman a heart-torn wreck. By her own admission she could not sleep and was so convinced of the necessity of accepting punishment for her wrongdoing that she made her way to Bow street police station and told her story in detail, knowing full well what it meant to her.

First she told of her marriage to Herbert Harrington Jeffreys, a coster type, ranging always on the fringe of the underworld, with a constitutional objection to work and a fixed desire for tawdry finery. Then she told of her meeting with Parshall, the great railroad man, "the shrewdest American in all London" in matters of business, but otherwise like mankind in general.

The calculating Jeffreys, knowing well the position occupied by Parshall in the London transit world and of his very considerable income thereupon, according to the wife's frankly told confession, urged her at first and afterward by threat made her pose as a widow in the hope and belief that by this means she might secure money from Parshall.

Husband Threatens to Kill.

But Parshall, with honorable intent, fell in love with her, thus making the situation complicated. This unlooked for turn in affairs did not make Jeffreys halt. As the story was told to Divisional Detective Inspector Gough, the husband, reaching out for a fixed and permanent income as a result of his wife's debauchery, sent her forth to lure Parshall into marriage, holding over her a threat that if she failed in the undertaking he would kill her.

Parshall had proposed. She accepted him. The marriage followed.

Venerable Sir Albert De Rutzen, chief magistrate of the metropolitan police court for more than ten years, heard the case when it passed for court jurisdiction. Sir Albert is keen and kindly but not an emotionalist. It is fifty-odd years since he was graduated from Cambridge. He knows the world. He knows its people, he heard as much of the story here told as falls within the questioning and answers of a self-accused woman. He stroked his wig now and then and more than once peered over his spectacles at the woman in the dock.

No Plea for Mercy.

"And what have you to say for yourself?" he asked, with kindness in his tone.

With no tearful byplay, but looking the dignified chief magistrate straight in the eye, in all seriousness she answered:

"I am deeply, deeply sorry for what I have done, and I would not have done it if my husband had not made me."

London magistrates do not overlook wrongdoing, but now and then a man like Sir Albert De Rutzen interprets the law with the end in view of real justice. He permitted the woman to depart upon payment of $25, to appear for trial before the central criminal court at a later date.

The concluding scene in this case was in historic Old Bailey, where sits the London court of sessions. A bond of $25 does not hold a person desiring to avoid trial here any more than it would in the United States. Still Mrs. Jeffreys appeared.

The confession which she had voluntarily made to the police authorities was read to her and she said it was correct, adding only one thing, that Jeffreys had at his direction been introduced by her to Parshall as her brother-in-law. Jeffreys' plan was to get Parshall's money—only that.

Still loving Mrs. Jeffreys perhaps, certainly pitying her, Mr. Parshall, through his counsel, pleaded that she be treated with mercy, even as the record of her duplicity was being writ into a court document.

Her Punishment Nominal.

The recorder expressed the court's admiration of Mr. Parshall's magnanimity and accepted the spirit as well as the letter of the woman's frank confession that she had been forced by her real husband, from whom she was separated, to marry the rich American.

But punishment was necessary to complete the record. This was imposed—one day's imprisonment, a sentence which was purely nominal. The effect was that she walked forth free.

Hand clapping and other manifestations of approval are rigidly forbidden within the walls of a London court room, but once outside, this woman who had been made to suffer through the sordidness of another, who had borne the brunt of the wrongdoing, and, moved by an impulse which women alone know, had confessed, there being no other way by which she could bare her heart, was followed by pitying glances as with bowed head she was lost in the throng.

MAY HAVE MEANT MICROBES

Ingenious Explanation of Passage in the Talmud That Has Baffled Scholars.

How many angels can dance upon the point of a needle? This was a serious matter of debate among the learned philosophers of the middle ages. It seems a puerile object to discuss, and the modern man will ask what did it matter.

It is possible, however, that those old school men knew more than we today give them credit for. Microbes are supposed to be a discovery of the late nineteenth century, but it may be that their existence and their baneful effects were known many hundreds of years ago.

"I was calling upon a rabbi friend of mine recently," said the Rev. Jacob Goldstein, Jewish chaplain of the Tombs prison, New York, the other day, "and while waiting for him I picked up a copy of the Talmud and turned the leaves over. A passage marked with a pencil caught my eye, and I read a sentence that may be paraphrased about as follows:

"'The whole world is full of mazzikin.' The Hebrew word 'mazzikin' is translated in the English Bible 'devils.' But 'devil' is a word unknown to the ancient Jews. The real meaning of the word is 'evil thing,' or 'evil working things' or 'baneful things.' The passage continued: 'There are so many mazzikin in the air about us that a man would go mad if he could see them. They are so infinite in number that a myriad of them could stand upon one square inch of the hem of a man's garment.'

"The thought flashed through my mind that if a myriad of mazzikin could perch upon a square inch of cloth, a myriad of angels might dance upon the point of a needle. For the Hebrew word that is translated 'angels' really means 'beneficent things,' beings that work good to man.

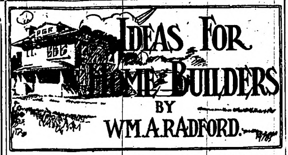
"These words were written more than 2,000 years ago. Might not 'mazzikin' be properly translated 'microbes' or 'bacteria,' that is, disease-bearing microbes, and the Hebrew word that is translated 'angels' might be translated 'beneficent microbes,' for there are good as well as bad.

"Other passages in the ancient Hebrew law occurred to me as bearing on this point. For example, we are forbidden to drink still water, because this is a 'favorite gathering place for mazzakin.' And we are enjoined to wash our hands in the morning three times in running water, because 'the mazzikin' are prone to gather upon the tips of our fingers and especially under the nails, and if a man touches his eyes, his nose or his mouth, he may introduce mazzikin into his body.'

"Do not passages such as these suggest forcibly that those rabbis of two or three thousand years ago knew something about the microbes of disease?"

Impressive "I."

"A public man should endeavor to impress his meaning in as simple and direct a fashion as possible. He should make a practice of using words of one syllable." "I go further than that," replied the energetic statesman. "I depend almost entirely on the brief and beautiful word of one letter."



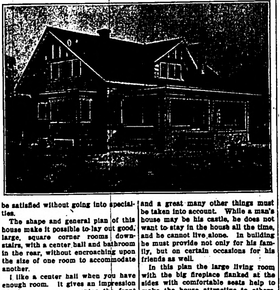
IDEAS FOR HOME BUILDERS

BY WM. A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Wide houses are becoming very popular, but you must have considerable lot room sideways. The deep, narrow lots so often found in eastern cities are not well calculated to furnish a proper setting for a house the width of this one. The house is not such a great big affair, either, for, while the width is 47½ feet, the depth is only 29 feet. But you get the size at the sides, where you must need it. This plan is well suited to a suburban lot where you are supposed to have plenty of elbow room, where you can mow the grass on your lawn without walking over on your neighbor's lot to turn around.

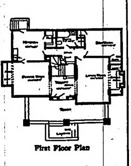
It is not an expensive house to build, because the main frame work is rectangular in form with square corners. There are projections enough to relieve the monotony of the straight-sided house, but they are also square cornered and easily constructed. And the roof is all plain, straight work that any carpenter can work on to advantage. These are all points that save in expense when building. You know that the main cost of a house is the labor, and I am going to give you another pointer. You can build a house that is just as good, with a great deal less money, if you select a design with trimmings that may be furnished from stock carried regularly by lumber men, because you are saving hand labor. Stock patterns of moldings, doors, and what are termed cabinet parts of houses, that are carried in regular stock, are just as neat and attractive as special designs worked out to fit some particular style. There are so many stock patterns and sizes to choose from that almost any one can be satisfied without going into specialties.



The shape and general plan of this house make it possible to lay out good, large, square corner rooms downstairs, with a center hall and bathroom in the rear, without encroaching upon the size of one room to accommodate another.

I like a center hall when you have enough room. It gives an impression of elegance as you enter the front door. First impressions are often lasting. True hospitality commences as you enter the house. If you receive the right kind of greeting you feel at home at once. It assists a hostess immensely to have an entrance to her home that impresses guests favorably at first glance.

Besides the general appearance, this hallway is a great convenience. It connects the front and back halls in an easy manner and offers a convenient way of going upstairs or down cellar. In fact, the two halls and stairway deserve special consideration. It would be difficult to design anything more appropriate for a house of this size and shape.

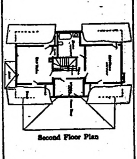


First Floor Plan

There is one bedroom and bathroom on the first floor. This makes a very convenient arrangement where there are only two in the family and guest rooms are wanted for occasional visitors. Advantage is taken of the big roof to build two splendid bedrooms on the second floor with fine large windows in the gable ends. Besides these we have a second bathroom, which is a great convenience when there are more than two or three persons in the house.

The plan works well in another way. If a maid is kept you have conveniences downstairs that will appeal to a first-class girl. Times are such that you cannot keep good help unless you provide them with comfortable sleeping quarters and proper bathing facilities.

There is a little room 7 feet by 11 feet 6 inches over the front hall, that may be used as a bedroom for children, for storage or for a sewing room. Most women will probably prefer to make this little room into a work room. The window looks out onto the street, where there is something going on, and where a woman can see callers as they approach. Every woman likes to have a little warning a few minutes before answering the door bell if possible. You know life is made up of a great many little things, and this is one of them. If we can get all the little details arranged to our liking, the big things will take care of themselves.



Second Floor Plan

In studying a house plan, the size of the family, distance from town, railroad, or other transportation facilities, the size of the lot, the neighborhood, and a great many other things must be taken into account. While a man's house may be his castle, he does not want to stay in the house all the time, and he cannot live alone. In building he must provide not only for his family, but on certain occasions for his friends as well.

In this plan the large living room with the big fireplace flanked at the sides with comfortable seats help to make the house attractive to others, as well as ourselves. Such rooms usually are furnished with large, heavy furniture that is comfortable as well as attractive to look at. The fireplace itself is a splendid ornament and of course it is always embellished with interesting bric-a-brac and there is always a fire when the temperature requires one. Any woman can be popular in the neighborhood if she has a room like this and understands how to entertain in proportion to her advantages.

While the front of the house is given special consideration, the kitchen is by no means neglected. It has a corner of the house all by itself with a good pantry and plenty of windows and convenience to save steps. It is not necessary nor desirable to have a large kitchen. We have discarded the igb wood cooking stove with its wood box; we have quit using the old-fashioned heavy cast iron pots and kettles, and we are slowly learning that the large half acre kitchen is no longer needed. We are saving the extra cleaning and the many miles of extra steps that large kitchens entail.

The cost of this house complete is estimated at $4,000.

Giant Oysters.

The petrified oyster weighing three pounds dredged at Faversham, shows that at one time some of our natives must have rivaled American oysters in size. In the seventeenth century gigantic British oysters were occasionally seen. In Moufet's "Health's Improvement," published 1655, we read: "Alexander, with his friends and physicians, wondered to find oysters in the Indian seas a foot long; and in Pliny's time they marveled at an oyster which might be divided into three. But I dare, and do truly, affirm that at my eldest brother's wedding at Aldham hall, Essex, I did see a Peldon oyster divided into eight good morsels, whose shell was nothing less than that of Alexander's."—London Chronicle.

Tax on Bachelors Over Twenty-Four.

At the last sitting of the town council of Nagyperkata, Hungary, it was decided almost unanimously to introduce a special tax on bachelors over twenty-four. The amount is to vary between 20 pence and £4 according to the pecuniary circumstances of each unmarried man. The proceeds will be entirely devoted to the foundation and maintenance of an asylum for poor homeless children.

125,000 AMERICANS GO TO CANADA IN 1911.

THE YEAR 1912 WILL SHOW A GREAT INCREASE.

In a report of the House Committee (Washington) appears the following: "Canada offers a three-year homestead upon good land, easily reclaimed and cultivated, with six months' leave of absence each year and most lenient regulations."

All of which is true and it is now the part of the careful reader to consider the opportunities that exist in Western Canada which, in addition to the above, are attractive features. The evidence of these is found in the letters contributed by some of the settlers. For instance: A former Minnesotan, writing from Warner, Southern Alberta, speaks of that district, but what he says, applies generally to all of Southern Alberta. He says:

"I have seen six crops, four of them were first class, one of them a very good crop, and the other a poor crop. Government statistics for the last fifteen years show that this country has averaged about fifteen or sixteen inches of moisture. In 1910 there was only seven inches, and in 1911 twenty-two inches. The 1909 crop was about as good as I have seen in this country and we had about twelve inches of moisture, so that I am thoroughly convinced that with normal conditions, that is, from twelve to fifteen inches of moisture, and with the natural increase of population and immigration, that Southern Alberta will be one of the very best mixed farming districts in the world. We have good soil, good water, and a good climate, and altogether just as desirable a country to live in as Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, or Wisconsin."

Hundreds of letters are on file from former American settlers, which give good reasons why the Western Canada lands are being settled so rapidly. Full particulars can be had of any Canadian Government Agent, who will furnish literature and give low rate certificates. Excursions are being run daily.

"What was the cause of your liberality?"

"I knew she'd never have the nerve to try to cash it."

Women

From Forty-Five to Fifty Are Much Benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The "change of life" is a most critical period in a woman's existence, and the anxiety felt by women as it draws near is not without reason.

When her system is in a deranged condition, she may be predisposed to apoplexy, or congestion of some organ. At this time, also, cancers and tumors are more liable to form and begin their destructive work.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and inquietude, and dizziness, are promptly heeded by intelligent women who are approaching the period in life when woman's great change may be expected.

These symptoms are calls from nature for help. The nerves are crying out for assistance and the cry should be heeded in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is prepared to meet the needs of women's system at this trying period of her life. It invigorates and strengthens the female organism and builds up the weakened nervous system. It has carried many women safely through this crisis.

Mrs. Estella Gillispie

ONE CASE OUT OF MANY TO PROVE OUR CLAIMS.

St. Anne, Ill.—"I was passing through the change of life and I was a perfect wreck from female troubles. I had a displacement and bearing down pains, weak fainting spells, dizziness, then numb and cold feelings. Sometimes my feet and limbs were swollen. I was irregular and had so much backache and headache, was nervous, irritable and was despondent. Sometimes my appetite was good but more often it was not. My kidneys troubled me at times and I could walk only a short distance.

"I saw your advertisement in a paper and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was helped from the first. At the end of two months the swelling had gone down, I was relieved of pain, and could walk with ease. I continued with the medicine and now I do almost all my housework. I know your medicine has saved me from the grave and I am willing for you to publish anything I write to you, for the good of others."—Mrs. Estella Gillispie, R.F.D. No. 4, Box 34, St. Anne, Illinois.

WHAT WILL CURE MY BACK?

Common sense will do more to cure backache than anything else. 'Twill tell you whether the kidneys are sore, swollen and aching. It will tell you in that case that there is no use trying to cure it with a plaster. If the passages are scant or too frequent, proof that there is kidney trouble is complete. Then common sense will tell you to use Doan's Kidney Pills, the best recommended special kidney remedy.

A TYPICAL CASE—

James C. Hardin, Weatherford, Tex., says: "My feet and limbs became numb and I had terrible pains through my back. Kidney secretions caused untold annoyance and I began to think there was no hope for me. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have not had the slightest trouble since."

800 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1910. Many fields in that as well as other districts yielded from 25 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion.

LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada.

This excellent showing causes prices to advance. Land values should double in two years' time. Grain growing, mixed farming, cattle raising and dairying are all profitable. Free Homesteads of 160 acres are to be had in the very best districts; 160 acre pre-emptions at $3.00 per acre within certain areas. Fooling the Lord.

"Mother," teased a little boy of five, "does God know everything that I'm going to do before I do it?"

"Yes, dear, everything," she said.

"Well, does he know that I'm going upstairs in a minute and put on my pajamas and say my prayers and get into bed?"

"Yes, dear, he knows everything."

"Well, tonight he's going to get fooled, for I'm not going to say my prayers."—St. Louis Republic.

Flattery.

Edward D. Easton, one of the biggest manufacturers of talking machines in the world, has an idea that everybody is as much interested in grand opera as he is. He gives weekly concerts at his home and makes all his servants, who represent various nationalities, listen to them. Once a Swedish housemaid gave signs of intense satisfaction at the hearing a particularly loud and shrill record by the great soprano, Lina Cavalieri.

"So, you like that?" asked Mr. Easton, all puffed up because his grand opera had made such a hit.

"Ay t'ink it bane grand," replied Alma. "It sound to me just lak de way de Iteesh cook she cry las, when hossban' die."—Popular Magazine.

COFFEE HURTS
One in Three.

It is difficult to make people believe that coffee is a poison to at least one person out of every three, but people are slowly finding it out, although thousands of them suffer terribly before they discover the fact.

A New York hotel man says: "Each time after drinking coffee I became restless, nervous and excited, so that I was unable to sit five minutes in one place, was also inclined to vomit and suffer from loss of sleep, which got worse and worse.

"A lady said that perhaps coffee was the cause of my trouble, and suggested that I try Postum. I laughed at the thought that coffee hurt me, but she insisted so hard that I finally had some Postum made. I have been using it in place of coffee ever since, for I noticed that all my former nervousness and irritation disappeared. I began to sleep perfectly, and the Postum tasted as good or better than the old coffee, so what was the use of sticking to a beverage that was injuring me?

"One day on an excursion up the country I remarked to a young lady friend on her greatly improved appearance. She explained that some time before she had quit using coffee and taken to Postum. She had gained a number of pounds and her former palpitation of the heart, humming in the ears, trembling of the hands and legs and other disagreeable feelings had disappeared. She recommended me to quit coffee and take Postum and was very much surprised to find that I had already made the change.

"She said her brother had also received great benefits from leaving off coffee and taking on Postum." "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

GRUBBING TOOL FOUND HANDY

Implement Made From Metal Taken From Claw of an Old Double Shovel Cultivator.

Herewith is a sketch of a handy grub puller that I made, says a writer in the Farm and Home. It will pull up bushes about 1¼ inches in diameter. The implement was made from a piece of metal that was taken from the claw of an old double shovel cultivator. The blacksmith bent this a little more and attached a foot to it, where it was to rest upon the ground. The foot was made of a piece of 2x4. At the curved end the iron was bent and shaped so as to grip the tree or bush. Another piece of iron with the same sort of groove in it was hinged to the curved piece as shown, and a wooden handle made for this. I have used this tool every spring for three years and have never seen a better one.

FOR THE LOVER OF FLOWERS

Sweet Peas, to Secure Best Results, Should Be Planted Early in Trenches Six Inches Deep.

(By JOSEPHINE DE MAR.)

Plant the sweet peas early in trenches fully six inches deep, covering but lightly at first, drawing the soil around the plants as they reach up.

This will give better roots by which to withstand the dry heat bye and bye. Plant as soon as possible.

Root room in fair soil is all the beautiful white day lily asks. It is perfectly hardy, likes moist situations, but will do with little water. A plant for the busy housewife.

Chrysanthemums may be raised from seeds, or from cuttings and sprouts from old roots. If the seeds are sown early in boxes and transplanted the plants will bloom the first year. There may be many poor ones from seed.

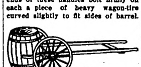
Do not forget the hardy everblooming roses when ordering. Include some hardy flowering vines for screens for the porches, back fences, and summer arbors. Prairie roses, evergreen honeysuckles, woodbines, clematis in variety, wisterias, bittersweet, trumpet vine, and the harmless wood ivies are all fine.

BARREL CART QUITE USEFUL

One Shown in the Illustration May Be Arranged to Fit Receptacles of Different Sizes.

(By J. G. ALLSHOUSE, in the Farm and Fireside.)

Commonly arranged, a hand-cart for transporting a single barrel requires barrel to be ironed or otherwise fitted up, and the cart cannot be used with any other barrel. The cart illustrated may be used with any barrel. Procure a stout piece of 3x3 inch wood, a little longer than greatest diameter of an ordinary barrel; round down the ends and put on iron ferrules to fit in wheels of an old hand-cart as an axle. Or, instead of rounding ends, leave square, and attach the old iron axle of a cart by staples or clips. Procure two long pieces of wood as light as consistent with strength and rigidity, taper them down at one end to be convenient for hands, and at large ends of these handles bolt firmly on each a piece of heavy wagon-tire curved slightly to fit sides of barrel.



Handy Barrel Cart.

About one foot from handle ends bolt a 2x1 inch crosspiece on under side to serve as a brace; bolt solid at one end, and at other end make several holes an inch or so apart, so that the bolt can be put in whichever hole will hold handles the right distance apart to conform to size of barrel.

The Elberta Peach.

There is no mistake about Elberta being a good seller. It is a good, firm peach, coarse and sour, and cans very nicely. But when it comes to quality, try some of the Stump the World, or Oldmixon Free or Fox Seedling, and you will see that the Elberta does not compare with them. It is a good selling peach, and I am planting it heavily, and also of the Ben Davis apple, because it sells well, says a writer in an exchange. It has good, firm flesh, but is coarse.

Best Insecticide.

Arsenate of lead is the best insecticide for those insects which eat the foliage and fruit. It is useless for controlling such insects as those which suck the juices of the plants. It may be added to Bordeaux or lime-sulphur, using it at the rate of 1 to 5 pounds per 50 gallons. It comes in paste form and should not be allowed to dry out. Mix it to a consistency of a thin paint, so as to avoid lumps, before putting in the spray tank.

GOOD THINGS TO REMEMBER.

When Planting Trees Select Best Suited for Purpose Wanted—Frequent Pruning Needed.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)

Too large a tree should be avoided

Select the tree best suited for your purpose, be that shade, ornamental, fruit, production of lumber, wind break or fence post.

Bear in mind that the tree you plant, if of proper species, may be a shelter and pride of future generations, or if wrongly selected it may last but a decade.

The one advantage, that of rapid growth, should not decide what tree to plant. Innumerable insects, fungoid diseases and the necessity for frequent pruning, besides a brief period of existence, may characterize the tree of your choice, and it should be discarded.

Where there is slight opportunity for frequent watering, tree species demanding large quantities of water should be discarded. They will be disappointing.

Elms, cottonwood and swamp maples are among the class requiring much water.

The oak, ash, sugar maple, Norway maple, walnut, catalpa, etc., succeed with a moderate quantity of moisture.

Good roots in ample quantity are of vital importance to the tree's successful growth. In digging spare not the labor, but secure all the roots possible without mutilation.

The top of a tree should not be mutilated. Cutting off the leading shoots is extremely bad practice, only to be tolerated with cottonwood and soft (swamp) maples.

Keep the roots fresh and moist by wrapping in wet burlap while conveying them to planting grounds.

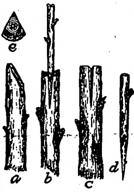
Evergreens, especially, should be kept moist. When the resinous sap hardens from a few moments' exposure to the sun and wind the tree is dead.

TOP-WORKING THE SEEDLINGS

Worthless Fruit Trees May Be Changed to Those of Value by Operation —System Illustrated.

(By J. W. GRIFFIN.)

Trees bearing worthless fruit may be changed to those of value by top-working to such varieties that are preferred. Secure scions before growth starts, from thrifty trees of the variety wanted and keep them moist in a cool place until ready to set. The first year remove but a part of the top, say one-third or a half, and set the scions evenly over this 25 or 30 in the half of a tree seven or eight years old. The following year repeat the performance with the remaining half of the tree.



How to Graft a Tree.

The system illustrated has given good results. a is the stock; b, stock with scion set; c, stock ready for scion; d, scion ready to set, and e, shape of scion at the wedge end. The stubs should be four to six inches long. Do not set scion out near the end of the limbs but always near the body of the tree.

The cut is made in the stock with a sharp saw, then shaped with a knife. The scion should be driven lightly in place and then waxed. Grafting wax may be secured from dealers in garden seed or may be prepared at home of one pound tallow, two pounds beeswax and four pounds rosin. Melt all together, pour in a kettle of cold water and work with greased hands until stiff and easy to handle.

Catalpa Cuttings.

If no fall made catalpa cuttings are available, make them in April or May when the buds begin to swell and set them in rows for cultivation.

Replace Peach Trees.

There isn't much profit in keeping peach trees that are old. It will pay to replace them with young trees as soon as they show signs of decay.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

Potash makes firm tuber, bulb and fiber.

Prune the rose bushes. You want blossoms, not wood or leaves.

Prune off all dead or weak branches. Thin out the tops to let the sun in.

Keep the orchard land in good tilth. The trees can be set as soon as the leaves fall.

Frequent applications of manure water during the summer will keep the plants blooming.

In planting young trees they should be set about an inch deeper than they were in the nursery.

Tobacco stems strewn on the ground at the base of rose plants will help to keep away insects.

Nasturtiums and morning glories should be planted wherever there is anything to train them on.

Just as soon as frost is out and the ground dry enough it will be time to set out the strawberry plants.

The ground for strawberries must be dug over very deeply and as early in the spring as it can be worked.

Remember that the wood ashes that come from the cook stove, fireplace, or furnace are the best kind of fertilizers for the orchard, lawn or garden.

TRIBE IS ISOLATED

India Forbids Entrance of White Men to Abor Country.

Natives Occupy Slopes of Himalayan Range and Have Strange Mode of Living—Villages Are Well Fortified.

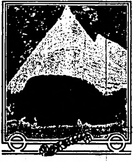
London.—The various sects comprising the Abor tribe may be said to occupy the slopes of the Himalayan range in the vicinity of the Dibong and Dihang rivers, tributaries of the great Brahmaputra as it debouches from the watershed which divides our territory in Assam from the regions of Tibet, says the Westminster Gazette. Although Abors may at times be seen in the bazars of Sadiya our advanced frontier post, no white man has as yet penetrated into the Abor country, the policy of the government of India being the rigid exclusion of one and all from this "no man's land" except the lawful owners. There are kindred tribes, viz., the Mishmi Abors to the east and the Daphla Abors to the west, which are more or less of a peaceful character; but the Bor Abors are of a very different nature.

The Daphla Abors are of somewhat small stature, but are very lithe and active, with very symmetrically shaped limbs. They are very scantily clad.

The Abor villages are built entirely of bamboo, and this most useful plant is also brought into use as a means of protection. Pieces of solid (male) bamboo are hardened to almost the density of steel by being placed in hot ashes; they are then sharpened at one end and stuck into the ground at an angle so as to wound the foot of an enemy daring to approach. These are called panjees, and are placed by thousands all round the village and are generally concealed under leaves. These panjees are so strong and sharp that they will easily penetrate a soft boot or gaiter.

The narrow defiles or gorges leading to the villages are also guarded by huge bowlders of stone, which are so placed that they can be dropped on the enemy at any moment as he advances.

The Abors are chiefly armed with bows and poisoned arrows (but nowadays it is said that many even have rifles or guns). Each man is also armed with a dhao, or long sharp knife, and carries on his back a flat basket for provisions.



An Abor Hut.

Owing to the dense nature of the forest the climate is very damp and unhealthy, especially during the rainy season, when the streams and mountain torrents are very swollen and quite impassable. For this reason no expedition could be sent earlier than the cold season to punish the Abors for their cruel and treacherous massacre of Noel Williamson and Dr. Gregorson, with their party of 35 natives, which took place in the summer. A force of some 2,500 men under the command of Major General Bower, commanding the Assam brigade, is, however, to advance into the country about the middle of October, and it is said that the Abors are preparing to make stout resistance and have entered into coalition with the upper hill Abors for this purpose.

ROYAL COUPLE OF RUSSIA

American Woman Writes of Czar and Czarina—Witnessed the Crowning.

St. Petersburg, Russia.—The widow of an American diplomat, who has published her memoirs of foreign courts in "Intimacies of Court and Society," describes the royal pair of Russia as they looked at their coronation.

"The czarina was easily the most beautiful woman to be seen, and many spoke of her as the artist's ideal of the queenly queen. But her loveliness had nothing of the vanity which seeks a public homage; it had rather the appealing gentleness which made her mother, under the happy freedom of English skies, the most beloved princess of her day, and to me she was more the type of the sheltered woman to be mated to a Brutus of lofty soul. . . . Her face upon her coronation day was charged with profound emotion—it has haunted me ever since. It was like the face of a martyr walking with measured steps to her funeral pyre.

"And the man who was the center of the gorgeous pictures, whose autocratic aloofness and sanctity of person were proclaimed by every possible accessory of pomp and sacred ceremonial, produced in himself no illusion of royalty such as may impress and thrill even the most democratic when face to face with a king who is really kingly. His narrow forehead and receding chin, visible even, behind the beard, spoke little of intelligence and nothing of power, while the insignificance of his small form was emphasized beside the tall men of his family, splendid looking fellows, all over six feet."

City Is Old Name.

Kansas City.—The city of Kansas City, Kan., was once the town of Wyandotte. The natives had a clever way of saving time by writing "Y&."

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kahl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 26 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

A BLOOD MEDICINE WITHOUT ALCOHOL.

Recently it has been definitly proven by experiments on animals that alcohol lowers the germicidal power of the body and that alcohol paralyzes the white corpuscles of the blood and renders them unable to take up and destroy disease germs. Disease germs cause the death of over one-half of the human race.

A blood medicine, made entirely without alcohol, which is a pure glyceric extract of roots, such as Bloodroot, Queen's root, Golden Seal root, Mandrake and Stone root, has been extensively sold by druggists for the past forty years as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. The refreshing influence of this extract is like Nature's influence—the blood is bathed in the tonic which gives life to the blood—the vital fires of the body burn brighter and their increased activity consumes the tissue rubbish which has accumulated during the winter.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, and a physician of large experience and practice, was the first to make up an ALTERATIVE EXTRACT of roots, without a particle of alcohol or narcotic.

Mrs. Heyes.

"It is with the greatest of pleasure, that I write to let you know of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicines and self-treatment at home," writes Mrs. Wm. Heyes, of Ladysmith, B.C. "I suffered for three years from a running sore. Consulted four doctors but they failed to mend or give relief. Finally I was told I was in consumption and would have to consult a specialist concerning my ear, that the dead bone must be cut out before the wound would heal. A kind friend advised me to write to Dr. Pierce, which I did, and after seven months' use of the treatment the sore is healed, and I enjoy better health than I ever did. I dressed the wound with Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve and took the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Pleasant Pellets' for my troubles. I shall always recommend your medicines."

CORN IN THE NORTH

FARMERS HAVE ENOUGH FOR THEIR OWN PLANTING, BUT CANNOT SUPPLY SOUTH.

SEED WELL ACCLIMATED.

Producers All Over State are Eagerly Following Advice of Telephone Bulletins.—Prompt Action Necessary.

Minneapolis.—Farmers of northern Minnesota have seed corn sufficient for their own use, that is acclimated, and tests high, according to information obtained at the land show of the Northern Minnesota Development Association here. The report of the high test is based on the investigation carried on at the land show by C. E. Brown, chief of demonstration farms in the state, who took specimens of the corn exhibited by each county. Since the seed was selected merely from its appearance for show purpose, Mr. Brown believes it stands to reason that northern Minnesota's corn is of high quality relative to germination and acclimation.

W. R. McKenzie, manager of the show, declares that condition of corn in northern Minnesota is due to the one cause that the farmers do not plant as much as is planted in the corn sections of the southern half and are therefore much more careful in selecting seed.

Frank B. Logan, assistant superintendent of agriculture at the State Fair, who is a resident of northern Minnesota, was at the land show. Relative to the seed corn supply in the north, he said:

"Northern Minnesota farmers have just enough seed corn for their own use. Seed merchants of the Twin City have searched the entire northern part for seed but have found comparatively none. As a general proposition the corn in the northern part of the state was good. That which was harvested early makes fine seed, but, of course, we have some corn that would not germinate. No one realized until too late that southern Minnesota would run short of seed corn and if they had, let me assure you, that our part of the state would have been to the rescue with seed that germinates 90 per cent or over. The seed corn from the northern part is a rapidly maturing and hardy seed. It is an excellent seed to produce corn in any part of Minnesota and Iowa also has been clamoring for it in years gone by."

No further reports have been received by M. L. Lane, commercial superintendent of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company, that would indicate new developments. The work of telephoning farmers is by no means complete, said Mr. Lane. In telephonic communications each day with various managers in the corn belt, Mr. Lane says he has learned that the farmers are taking to testing seed corn like "ducks to water."

A. D. Wilson, superintendent of the extension division of the farm school, said that he was preparing a series of letters on seed corn and how to plant it. This series will be for the purpose of instructing farmers whose seed corn does not test 90 per cent on how to plant it. The preliminary advice was to plant thicker and hold off planting for more favorable weather and condition of the soil. Of course, this advice is not for the farmers whose seed tests the required 90 per cent, these producers being advised to go ahead just as in other years.

NELSON BACKS SURVEY

Pledges His Support to Proposition to Improve Red River Valley.

East Grand Forks.—In a letter to Judge T. A. Sullivan of this city, United States Senator Knute Nelson pledges his support to the provision of the rivers and harbors bill, calling for a survey of the Red river valley from Wahpeton, N. D., and Breckenridge, Minn., to the international boundary.

The rivers and harbors bill, as passed by the House, instructs the secretary of war to make the survey in question. In addition the bill also carries $17,500 for general maintenance of the river navigation.

Twenty-four Pay Legacy Tax.

St. Paul.—Inheritance tax on two estates, determined by Judge George R. Smith of the probate court, amounting to $13,095.26, was paid by twenty-four heirs. The estate of Charles A. Bovey, estimated at $560,000 by Appraisers William A. Durst and Lincoln A. Bodge, paid the state $7,859.28, the property being divided so that twenty-one persons paid taxes. Three heirs to the Katherine S. Winston estate, valued at $257,375, paid a tax of $5,235.98. According to the order determining the tax, the cost of administration on the Bovey estate was $7,500 and on the Winston estate $12,582.

Great Lakes Breaking Up.

Duluth.—The winter's ice in the lake is breaking up rapidly. The field now extends only about 15 miles from the ship canal. A few days ago it seemed to be solid to Two Harbors. The steady breeze from the northeast while not strong did effective work. Fifteen miles from the ship canal there is open water half way across the lake. At Twenty-fourth avenue East the ice seems to be giving away in the middle making a channel of water through the ice to the ship canal.

Hit for Boosting Texas.

Fergus Falls.—W. P. Bayley secured a judgment for $300 in the district court in this city in a case against Gunder Bartelson for assault. Mr. Bartelson had been in Texas and did not like that state at all. Mr. Bayley recently returned from there, and was much pleased with the outlook. The two men, who are among the most prominent citizens of this city, got into an argument over the merits of the land there, and Mr. Bartelson struck Mr. Bayley. The latter sued him and obtained damages.

SHOPS AT ST. CLOUD.

Great Northern May Remove Plant From Crookston, Is Rumor.

St. Cloud.—That St. Cloud may get the Crookston car shops of the Great Northern Railway is a rumor which, though unconfirmed, is in general circulation in railroad circles. It is apparent that St. Cloud is in line for some big improvement, shown in the frequency of the visits of the high officials, the increased activity at the shops here and the recent intimation of proposed changes. The officials now are contemplating the piping of water from Sauk river into a huge reservoir to be erected at the shops. It is believed that this can be done by a gravity system if the well is made deep enough, furnishing the shops with a splendid supply of good water. Plans have already been prepared for this improvement.

The shops at Crookston have recently been involved in labor troubles, several of the officials having been placed under arrest on charge preferred by members of the union who were "fired," claiming that the reason given for their discharge was the fact that they did belong to the union. It is understood that agitators were at work among the local men, who refused to consider their propositions, claiming that they were being fairly treated.

The officials have had but little trouble with the men at the shops here and are evidently delighted with the showing that has been made.

IRON TO BREAK RECORD.

Minnesota's Mineral Land Man Predicts Production Equal to That of 1910.

Duluth.—Minnesota's iron ore production this year will equal or exceed the high record of 30,404,937 tons made in 1910, is the prediction of J. P. Funk, head of the mineral lands department of the state auditor's office. A big favorable commercial situation, contrary to what has been generally thought to be the condition, is expected to be a factor. The steel corporation is operating its plants at a higher rate than last year, larger ore orders are being placed by operators and spring activity will be pronounced. It is expected that this spring movement will hold up proportionately throughout the year.

F. A. Wildes, field inspector for the state auditor's office, reported yesterday that operators are planning upon heavy shipments. The state, which collects a 25-cent royalty, has twenty producing mines on its list and may add to the number this year. It is possible that one of the state's mines on the Cuyuna range may ship this year.

In the record movement of 1910 the Mesaba range shipped 29,201,760 tons of iron ore and the Vermillion range 1,203,177.

KING LAUDS ELWELL LAW

North State Boosters' Chief Confident It Is Constitutional.

Bemidji.—"I am unreservedly for the Elwell law because it is our only statute which provides adequate means for building good wagon roads needed," declared Cyrus M. King of Grand Rapids, president of the Northern Minnesota Development association, at a meeting of business men and farmers here. "This law makes it possible to build roads without delay and the cost is equally distributed.

"The law makes it possible to build ten times as many miles of road with the use of the state aid as can be built by the use of any and all other laws in a given year and at the same time," he continued. "It would not increase the state tax rate and would actually decrease the county road and bridge tax by one-half."

Mr. King said he believed the Elwell law would safely withstand all legal attacks, and that its constitutionality would be declared by the supreme court.

DEPUTY IS ATTACKED

Farmer Swung Ax, Daughter Wielded Whip, It Is Charged.

St. Cloud.—Deputy Sheriff Joseph Eich, of this county, was assaulted and slightly injured by John Paliga, a farmer living nine miles west of here, and his daughter, Mrs. Paulina Kolodjeski, while the official was attempting to gain possession of cattle under an execution issued by the court.

The daughter, armed with a wooden whip, struck Eich over the head, cutting an ugly gash in his forehead. The farmer swung an ax. Eich retreated before the ax, and, on the second swing, says he slipped and fell, the weapon breaking the ground six inches from him.

A warrant was sworn out and Paliga arrested. At a hearing he was bound over to the grand jury. The daughter was fined $50 and costs before Justice W. H. Alden.

DUMAS TRIAL IN MAY.

Fergus Falls.—United States District Attorney C. C. Houpt says it is the intention of the department of justice to bring the case against Dr. Dumas to trial in this city at the term of the federal court which opens here next month. Dumas was indicted last fall for conspiring to rob the Puposky postoffice. Mr. Houpt also states that it is not probable any of the Indian land cases will come to trial at this term.

Mexico, Mo.—H. R. Smith, professor of animal husbandry at the University of Minnesota, bought a pair of the finest combined saddle and harness mares sold at Mexico's annual horse sale. The horses are for use by university judging classes. W. P. Taylor of Minneapolis was also a big buyer. Professor Smith was commissioned by the agricultural college authorities to purchase two teams of the finest Percheron mares obtainable on his trip and was empowered to buy other particularly good horses that he observed.

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week in Condensed Form.

Le Sueur.—Abel Biddle, a Le Sueur pioneer, is dead at the age of 77 years.

International Falls.—The next meeting of the Northern Minnesota Development association will be held here June 20-21.

Albert Lea.—A large petition has been presented to the city council requesting that a municipal electric plant be installed here.

Cloquet.—Malcolm Duncan, 80 years old, father of Mrs. James Marshall of this city, dropped dead of heart failure at his daughter's home. A widow and seven children survive.

Aitkin. — Mrs. Christina Peterson of Nordland, near here, died from burns received while endeavoring to put out a grass fire. Her son Emil also was severely burned while pulling the burning clothing from his mother. Mrs. Peterson was 57 years old.

Mankato.—The Southern Minnesota Dental Society, before closing its twenty-seventh annual meeting, elected Dr. C. L. Burrill of Heron Lake, president, Dr. F. E. Heidel of Mankato, vice-president, Dr. C. A. Hintz of New Ulm, secretary, and Dr. C. P. Peterson of Mankato, treasurer.

Winona. — Mrs. Jacob Kascianski, recently paroled from the insane hospital at Rochester, arose from her bed, heated a kettle of water to the boiling point and returned to the chamber, pouring the water over her sleeping husband. He was badly burnt although not seriously scalded. The woman was returned to Rochester.

Barnesville.—When C. P. Saveg, a farmer living east of here, drove up to the Smith rolling mills to unload some sacked wheat, he as well as the miller was astounded to find one of Mr. Saveg's hens comfortably squatted between two sacks, enjoying the balmy spring atmosphere. A fresh laid egg show the fowl had not neglected her task.

Winona. — The canning factory which had planned to open a plant in Winona this year has been forced to abandon the establishment of a plant in Winona. It was found that the company could not secure sufficient acreage of sweet corn in this immediate vicinity, as many of the farmers refused to contract for the coming season. It is the company's plan to attempt the opening of a factory in Winona next spring.

Winona.—The question of overhead wires was discussed at some length at a meeting of the city council, and representatives of the Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company, the Western Union and the North American Telegraph Companies and the Tri-State Telephone Company. After a lengthy discussion it was decided that all wires in the business section of the city would be taken down and placed under ground.

Winona.—A project is under way in Winona looking to the organization of a corporation, financed by Winona men, for the purpose of placing an independent telephone company in the field in competition to Northwestern Telephone Exchange Company. Otto Troose, former manager of the Winona Telephone Company and until recently connected with the Northwestern Company as local manager, is at the head of the projected company.

St. Paul.—F. A. Day and John E. King, former Warwicks in Minnesota Democratic circles, have disposed of their interests in Missoula, Mont. They are considering returning to Minnesota. Mr. Day has intimated that he might come back and take a hand in politics as a private. It is understood that Mr. King is to stay, for a time at least, with the new corporation. Mr. Day disposed of his interest several months ago, when he took up active work on the Pacific coast in the interests of Woodrow Wilson's candidacy.

Minneapolis. — Hon. Frank A. Day, former head of the Minnesota democracy, is returning to Minnesota from Missoula, Mont., where he has been for more than a year, and will locate again at Fairmont, where he is part owner of the Fairmont Daily Sentinel. Mr. Day went to Missoula with John E. King, former state librarian, and founded the Missoula Sentinel, but they have disposed of the property. Minnesota friends have information that Mr. Day will return to Fairmont, while Mr. King probably will remain in Montana.

Mankato.—The Southern Minnesota Better Development league, which was organized in this city last week, is preparing to enter upon an active existence. President T. G. Bonnallie of Tracy, has appointed a committee to work with H. J. Maxfield, state immigration commissioner, in an endeavor to obtain from the railroads landseekers' rates direct to southern Minnesota points, and also stopover privileges. The committee consists of George Atchison, of this city, R. B. Daniels, of Marshall, C. N. Sonnesyn, of St. James, D. H. Evans, of Tracy, and J. E. Haycraft, of Madelia. It will meet in Mankato shortly to prepare a plan of action.

Chatfield.—In the heaviest vote in the history of this city, 314 out of 320 legal voters casting ballots, anti-license again carried by 48 majority. The officers elected: Mayor, Joseph Underleak; recorder, S. W. Shimer; treasurer, Knute Olson; councilmen, S. E. Dibbins, S. Burnard and Charles Anderson.

St. Mathias. — The large barn of George Hellen was burned to the ground, entailing a loss of $3,000. With the barn went 1,500 bushels of grain, twenty tons of hay, eight calves and some machinery. The barn and contents were insured for $1,000.

Boat Upsets—Four Boys Drown.

East Liverpool, Ohio. — Four boys were drowned when a boat in which they were crossing the Ohio river from the West Virginia side capsized, 12 miles south of here. A fifth boy was saved.

24-Hour System Adopted.

New York, N. Y. — Beginning June 1, the hours of the day will be numbered from 1 to 24, from midnight, on all French railways and in the French postal and telegraph service.

THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

NEW APPARATUS FOR OCULIST

Swiss Scientist Perfects Electromagnets for Extracting Metal Particles From Eye.

Electromagnets of special construction have been made use of for some time by oculists in extracting metal particles which accidentally penetrate the eye, but this apparatus, designed by a Swiss oculist, is of a new and advanced type, says the Popular Mechanics. An important feature is the form given the active pole, for the less the pole projects out of its windings the stronger is its power of attraction. The field of operation, however, must not be obstructed, so the new electromagnet is made bell-shaped. The windings near the pole are of the same general shape so as to leave the field of vision equally free on all surrounding sides of the operating point.

USE FOR ELECTRIC TRUCKS

Boston Terminal Railroad Company Employs Electricity for Handling Baggage and Freight.

Small electric trucks are used for the South station, Boston, for handling both freight and baggage.

The adoption of the electric truck has been brought about by the huge volume of material handled at this railway terminal. When the freight was handled by hand, it was almost impossible to properly take care of it.

These trucks are built low to the ground, and have a wheel base of 52 inches. A platform is provided on which the operator may stand when the truck is in service. The battery box is located directly under the platform, but in such a position as will not interfere with the wheels in making the sharp turns to which the truck is subjected.

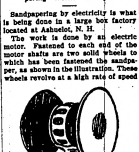
For this class of work the electric vehicle has been found ideal in every respect. The simple and easy control, the reliability, the safety and lack of any disagreeable odors or noise, are the reasons why it has been adopted in Boston.

ELECTRIC MOTOR SAVES TIME

New Hampshire Box Factory Has Novel Method of Doing Sandpapering—Works Quickly.

Sandpapering by electricity is what is being done in a large box factory located at Ashuelot, N. H.

The work is done by an electric motor. Fastened to each end of the motor shafts are two solid wheels to which has been fastened the sandpaper, as shown in the illustration. These wheels revolve at a high rate of speed and do the work in about one-quarter of the time required to do it by hand.



Sandpapering Machine.

This sandpapering device is only one of the many applications of electricity in the plant. In all, 30 motors of varying sizes are used to operate the plant.

Electricity Cheap as Oil.

To popularize lighting and heating by electricity, various plans are being tried by foreign electric stations. In Bremen a limited current is offered to small users, making it practicable for a workman's family to use a specified number of lamps—say, three of sixteen candle power—and no more; the cost to be about the same as that for oil lighting. The house may be wired for any number of lamps, the current limiter preventing the use of more than the contract number at one time. In Vienna, the municipal plant is seeking to encourage electric baking, and provides free ovens for local bakeries, guaranteeing that the electric current shall not cost more than sources of heat hitherto employed.

Motor for Sewing Machine.

Even if a house is not wired for electricity a woman may use a motor to drive her sewing machine, for a storage battery driven motor for the purpose has been invented.

BARLEY THRESHED BY MOTOR

Ohio Farmer Breaks Record for Time When He Adopts Electrical Method for Quick Work.

William Stroop, who has a farm in the Miami valley, near Dayton, O., had a crop of barley that he wanted threshed last fall, so he sent for the owner of the local threshing outfit to do the work. He came with his 32-inch separator and his big steam traction engine and proceeded to set up for business.

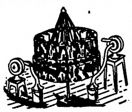
Mr. Stroop had been using a 15-horsepower electric motor about his farm buildings for cutting and grinding feed, sawing wood, etc., shifting it to various positions, as desired, and making connections with little trouble. He suggested to the owner of the thresher that the motor be used in place of his engine, to which the latter agreed, though his engineer doubted the ability of the small motor to run the separator at full capacity.

The machine was set, however, and the belt adjusted, and when the power was turned on its strength was speedily demonstrated by the rapidity with which the sheaves disappeared and the grain poured out. Hour after hour the work proceeded without stopping, and when the job was finished it was found that in less than 12 hours more than 1,700 bushels of grain had been threshed, an average of 150 bushels an hour.

WAY OF DISINFECTING BOOKS

Problem of Preventing Spread of Contagious Diseases Is Solved by Mississippi Man.

Every public library faces the problem of disinfecting its books so as to prevent the spreading of contagious diseases and in some localities this has become quite a serious problem. A Mississippi man has a novel solution for it, says the Popular Electricity. He places the books on a revolving rack against which small electric blowers are forcing jets of air. The breeze not only rotates the whole rack, but also spreads out and flutters the leaves so that the air can readily pervade them. By dropping some disinfectant into the chamber from which the blowers get their supply of air, this is finely distributed through the books.



Apparatus for Disinfecting Books.

Improve Efficiency of Telephone.

The efficiency of the present telephone apparatus has been greatly increased by a Danish banker. Knowing that sound is more readily transmitted through rarefied air he has constructed an apparatus to warm the transmitter, whereby the air in it becomes thinner and the sound is intensified. Conversations between Copenhagen and Nykjobing, a distance of some 75 miles, could be clearly followed some distance away from the instrument.

Infant Industry.

It is difficult to believe that a business which yearly manufactures more than $250,000,000 worth of machinery and apparatus is but an infant. It is hard to imagine what a child of this size would develop to when fully matured, and yet every year shows that it is growing with leaps and bounds. In ten years the value of the electrical products increased by 150 per cent. and it is still growing year after year.

Large Electric Gold Dredge.

The largest gold dredge in the world, which has been recently put into operation on the Pacific coast, is electrically operated. It is at work at Hammonton, Cal. The dredger is 135 feet long and requires a motive power of 720-horsepower, of which 300 is necessary to handle the buckets. The current is transmitted from the shore, being carried by means of insulated cables supported above the water.

Use of Electricity.

The great industries of the country have been electrified. The woodworking plants, cotton mills, steel plants, machine shops and factories of all kinds have adopted the electric motor for power and electric lights for illumination.

ELECTRICAL NOTES

Massachusetts is believed to lead all of the states in its percentage of motor-propelled vehicles.

Electric lights are to be installed in one of the oldest and most famous Hindu temples in India.

Electric taxicabs are being extensively used in the larger cities of Europe, notably Paris and London.

A motor plow for throwing up trenches on a battlefield to afford protection to soldiers is a recent invention.

One of the newest musical instruments, operated by electricity, reproduces the notes of 45 orchestra performers.

In 1909 there were only four electric furnaces used in Europe in preparing steel for castings. There are now over 400.

New Zealand now has over 2,780 miles of railway. Electrification of certain sections is now under contemplation.

A new submarine cable between England and France has resulted in telephonic communication between England and Switzerland.

Street lighting has been developed until many cities boast a "Great White Way," and night is practically turned into day in the business sections.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Radium Quest Interesting the Scientists

RADIUM
AN OUNCE

WASHINGTON.—Austria has not, according to the United States geological survey, a world monopoly in the production of radium, as was stated in a consular report from W. L. Loownie of Carlsbad. This report recorded the purchase of the only two mines under private ownership producing the ores from which radium is made. The purchase price was stated to be $600,000, and to complete the world monopoly in radium by the Austrian government.

The geological survey announces that this monopoly is a myth. It is true that the Austrian mines and the Austrian government heretofore have furnished the bulk of the radium salts existing in the world, but at present radium is being manufactured in three other countries, including the United States.

Sweden is producing radium from kolm, the English are producing it from mines in Wales, and it is extracted also from ores brought from the United States. There is a large deposit of radium producing ore in western Colorado, and it is reported that some is being produced in Australia.

The Colorado deposits produce uranium and vanadium, the latter an essential in making some of the new high-grade steel alloys. It is mined for the vanadium, but the ore carries two or three per cent. of uranium. Some idea can be had of the microscopic trace of radium in the original ore from the fact that ten tons of the uranium has to be handled to get between 20 or 30 milligrams of radium.

There are no very exact statistics of radium available, but the whole quantity in the world, according to the geological survey, is probably not over two or three ounces. As to the value, it is largely nominal like that of the biggest diamonds. It is worth whatever the holders can get for it. Sir William Ramsey, the head of the English corporation producing radium, said about a year ago that it was worth £30,000,000 sterling a pound. In his last report on the subject he had knocked off £10,000,000 sterling on this estimate, but a little variation like that was not thought to matter when there was no appreciable fraction of a pound of the stuff in existence.

What is more to the purpose in fixing the value is the fact that there are now several radium banks in the world where tubes containing a microscopic speck of radium are stored and rented out to physicians at $40 a day. Even then there is little known about the medical value of radium. It is known to be of value in treating lupus, which is a form of tuberculosis attacking the tissues, usually of the face.

Seeing Much Gold Makes Employes Ill

FEAR of the spread of the white plague and tyhoid fever were relegated to the dusty past the other day, when it became known that a new ailment had seized upon the woman clerks of the treasury. So swift has been the disease in its progress that it has been necessary to establish an emergency room in the basement of the treasury, and an average of five cases a day are treated.

Currencitis is the name of the new enemy that has spread terror among the fair clerks. Its symptoms are an acute attack of dizziness, sharp pains in the neck, followed by a severe headache. So far, the medical profession of the District has been unable to determine whether the ailment is conveyed by germs.

Miss Iva Eichelberger, who is in charge of the new emergency room, has made a study of the cases brought under her observation. Miss Eichelberger was surprised to see the great number of young woman clerks who would stumble into her room, gasp for a bottle of smelling salts and then fling themselves upon a couch, complaining of racking headaches, necks stiff as boards, and a dizzy sensation.

After a brief treatment, they would recover and go back to their desks. It was then that Miss Eichelberger suggested to Chief Clerk Wilmeth the installation of an emergency room, patterned after wards in hospitals, with white enameled cots, nurses' costumes for the matrons, and a full equipment of medicines.

No sooner had the idea been conceived than it was put into effect. The matron's room was converted from a dismal cheerless place into a bright, wholesome appearing ward that any hospital would be proud to claim as its own. Two white enameled cots were placed along the wall. Waterproof paint turned somber walls into attractive ones, and the matrons shone even more splendidly in spotless garbs, topped off with lace bonnets.

Then the attention of Miss Eichelberger was turned toward the disease itself. Test tubes were purchased, with her own funds; a microscope was procured, and the midnight oil consumed. And this is what was revealed—that currencitis was caused by the glare of the piles of shimmering gold pieces and dazzling silver present in the treasury.

Green eyeshades now are being affected my many, and a falling off in the disease is noticeable. However, the emergency room will be retained.

Ancient Mummy for National Museum

ANIMALS KILLED BY ROOSEVELT

QUARTERS for the famous African collection of Theodore Roosevelt are to be provided in the National museum at Washington, and work is proceeding at a lively rate. The National museum, together with the Smithsonian institution, will, in a few years, contain the most interesting collection in the world, not excepting that of the famous British museum in London.

Side by side with the regular progress in this field comes the report of an ancient mummy found in a newly opened tomb at Abydos in Egypt; and no sooner had the telegraph news reached Washington than a syndicate was formed to bring it on for exhibition in this country, reminding us of the day when Barnum alone was ready to expend money and effort to secure such curiosities, and discovered "the petrified giant man." Now there is an association of scientists and experts organized to secure these valuable ancient relics for the museum at Washington and those of other large American cities.

The latest mummy is from a tomb of the Twelfth Dynasty, which reaches back to the time of Shishak, who sacked Jerusalem in the time of Rehoboam. The skeleton of a woman is revealed with a necklace of beads about her throat and three scarabs, one of them a superb amethyst, on her left hand. The most remarkable thing is that the head retained its long, black hair, under which were ornaments of every description, including a nose-ring such as is still worn by the princess in British India.

In the land of the Pharaohs the tombs and funereal pomp of mummies give the story of a past civilization such as even the pyramids, the Sphinx and the tablets of countless pylons and statues have failed to preserve.

There is a wizardry and mystery about these "dealings with the dead." This teaching of the living at the hands of the ancient mummies always attracts and rivets the attention of the curious and learned, who love the mysterious lore and infinite variety of the "wisdom of the Egyptians."—News Letter.

Something "Dropped"; It Was a Hammer

AN ironworker, swinging between earth and sky from a steel beam on the top of the Munsey building, near Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, dropped a heavy riveting hammer shortly after noon the other day, and then had almost an attack of heart failure when he realized what that hammer would do if it hit some one on the street below.

Just as the ironworker dropped the implement, Judge J. A. C. Groner of Norfolk, president of the Benning Sand and Gravel company, was walking in front of the building, talking to his old friend, Judge R. A. Wade of San Francisco. They were stepping briskly along, about a foot and a half apart. Mr. Groner was saying:

"And let me tell you, judge, that when that Chicago convention gets going you're going to hear something drop."

B-i-f-f!

The heavy riveting hammer shot downward so suddenly it appeared to be a solid shaft of black, so rapid was its flight. Just as the last word was out of Mr. Groner's mouth the hammer smacked against the sidewalk. It sounded like a rifle shot, and the two men didn't have a chance to dodge an inch.

The hammer, however, bounded high in the air and leaped into the street, where it broke in two.

A few minutes later a scared ironworker appeared at the front door of the Munsey building.

"You didn't see anything of a hammer, did you?" he asked.

STORY OF TITANIC DISASTER AS TOLD BY A SURVIVOR.

AS SHIP SINKS BAND PLAYS "NEARER MY GOD TO THEE"

Captain Smith Was Seen Standing on the Bridge as the Titanic Was Going Down.

HEROIC CREW GIVE UP THEIR LIVES

Colonel Astor, Henry B. Harris, Jacques Futrelle and Other Notables Go to Their Death With Equal Heroism.

New York, April 18.—Seventeen hundred and twenty-six lives were lost on the Titanic which struck an iceberg at 11:45 P. M. Sunday and were at the ocean's bottom two hours and thirty-five minutes after. Of the Titanic's 341 first cabin passengers 212 were saved; 154 of them were women and children, and of the 262 second cabin passengers 115 were saved, 102 of them were women and children.

Of the third-class, 800 in number, 138 were saved, 83 of whom were women and children. Of 985 officers and crew, 190, including 22 women, were rescued.

No survivors can question the courage of the crew, hundreds of whom gave their lives with a heroism which equaled, but could not exceed, that of John Jacob Astor, Henry B. Harris, Jacques Futrelle and others in the long list of first cabin passengers.

The bulk head system, though probably working, prevailed only to delay the ship's sinking.

EXPLOSIONS BREAK SHIP IN TWO

The position of the ship's wound on the starboard quarter admitted icy water which caused the boilers to explode and those explosions broke the ship in two.

The crash against the iceberg, which had been sighted at only a quarter of a mile, came almost simultaneously with the click of the levers operated from the bridge which stopped the engines and closed the air-tight doors.

CAPTAIN ORDERS LIFE BOATS LOWERED.

Captain Smith was on the bridge a moment later. He summoned all on board to put on life preservers and ordered the lifeboats lowered. The first boat had more male passengers as they were the first to reach the deck.

ENFORCE "WOMEN FIRST" RULE WITH DRAWN REVOLVERS.

When the rush of frightened men and women and crying children to the decks began the "women first" rule was rigidly enforced. Officers drew revolvers, but in most cases there was no use for them.

Revolver shots were heard shortly before the Titanic went down, caused many rumors, one that Captain Smith had shot himself, another that First Officer Murdock had ended his life, but members of the crew discredit these reports.

CAPTAIN SMITH ON THE BRIDGE AS BOAT GOES DOWN.

Captain Smith was last seen on the bridge just before the ship sank, leaping only after the decks had washed away.

What became of the men with life preservers was the question asked by many since the disaster. Many of those with life preservers were seen to go down, despite the preservers, and dead bodies floated on the surface as the last boats moved away.

It is stated positively the ship's string band gathered in the saloon near the end and played "Nearer My God to Thee."

Mrs. Isador Straus refused to leave her husband's side and both perished together.

Harold Cotton, the marine operator of the Carpathia, did not go to bed at his usual time Sunday night, and as a result caught the first message of the Titanic's plight. He had been relaying messages to the Titanic on Sunday night, and shortly after 11 o'clock bade the Titanic good night.

Just as he was about to take the receiver off his head the C. Q. D. call sounded. This was followed by the words "We've hit something; come at once."

Cotton at once communicated with the Carpathia's officers and her course was at once changed in the direction of the Titanic at full speed of eighteen knots for the full distance of sixty miles intervening between the two ships.

"I'M AFRAID WE ARE GONE."

Before Cotton could make reply to the C. Q. D. the Titanic's "I'm afraid we are gone." Cotton sent word of the coming of the Carpathia. No further communication was had with the doomed ship.

The Titanic's speed of twenty-three knots an hour was never slackened, and she was going at that speed when she struck.

S. V. Silverthorne of St. Louis was one of the three or four saloon passengers on the Titanic who saw the deadly iceberg just after the collision.

NONE WAS ALARMED AT FIRST.

"I was in the smoking room reading near a bridge whist game at one of the tables. When the crash came I said, "We've hit something," and went on the starboard side to look. None of us was alarmed. It occurred to me that we might have bumped some small craft.

"I went back in the smoking room with the others. One of the bridge players had not left the smoking room at all and was waiting impatiently for the others to come back and resume the game. They returned and took up their hands and we were all about to settle down when an officer ordered us on deck and told us to get into the boats."

NOT ENOUGH WOMEN TO FILL THE FIRST BOAT.

"There not being enough women on deck to fill the first ones, we did not like the idea of leaving the ship then, but did as we were told. Had we been in our rooms we would have had to stand aside as other men did then."

MR. HURD'S STORY.

New York, April 18.—The Morning World tomorrow will publish Mr. Hurd's story in detail. In addition to the foregoing Mr. Hurd says in part:

"Facts which I have established by inquiries on the Carpathia, as positively as they could be established, in view of the silence of the few surviving officers, are:

OFFICERS KNEW ICEBERGS WERE NEAR.

"That the Titanic's officers knew, several hours before the crash, of the possible nearness of the icebergs.

"That the Titanic's speed, nearly 23 knots an hour, was not slackened.

"That the number of the life boats on the Titanic was insufficient to accomodate more than a third of the passengers to say nothing of the crew. Most members of the crew say there were sixteen life boats and two collapsibles; none say there were more than twenty boats in all.

The 700 who escaped filled most of the sixteen lifeboats and the one collapsible, which got away, to the limit of their capacity.

"Had the ship struck the iceberg headon at whatever speed and with whatever resulting shock, the bulkhead system of watertight compartments would probably have saved the vessel. As one man expressed it, it was the impossible that happened when, with a shock unbelievably light, the ship's side was torn for a length which made the bulkhead system ineffective.

WAS SPEEDING FOR RECORD.

"The Titanic was 1,799 miles from Queenstown and 1,191 miles from New York, speeding for a maiden voyage record. The night was starlight, the sea glassy. Light were out in most of the state rooms, and only two or three congenial groups remained in the public rooms.

"In the crows' nest, or lookout, and on the bridge, officers and members of the crew were at their places, awaiting relief at midnight from their two hours' watch.

"At 11:46 o'clock came the sudden sound of two guns, a warning of immediate danger.

"The crash against the iceberg, which had been sighted at only a quarter of a mile came almost simultaneously with the click of the levers operated by those on the bridge, which stopped the engines and closed the water tight doors.

"Captain Smith was on the bridge a moment later, giving orders for the summoning of all on board and for the putting on of life preservers and the lowering of the life boats.

"The first boats lowered contained more than passengers than the later ones, as the men were on deck first, and not enough women were there to fill them.

CREW DIDN'T HAVE TO USE REVOLVERS.

"When a moment later, the rush of frightened women and crying children to the deck began, enforcement of the women first rule became rigid. Officers loading the boats drew revolvers but in most of the cases the men, both passengers and crew, behaved in a way that called for no such restraint.

RUMORED THAT CAPTAIN SHOT HIMSELF.

"Revolver shots, heard by many persons shortly before the end of the Titanic, caused many rumors. One was that Captain Smith shot himself, another was that First Officer Murdock had ended his life. Smith, Murdock and Sixth Officer Moody are known to have been lost. The surviving officers, Lightoller, Pittman, Bothall and Lowe, have made no statement.

CAPTAIN JERKED AWAY FROM WOULD-BE RESCUERS.

"Members of the crew discredit all reports of suicide and say Captain Smith remained on the bridge until just before the ship sank, leaping only after those on the deck had been washed away. It is also related that when a cook later sought to pull him aboard a lifeboat he exclaimed: 'Let me go,' and, jerking away, went down.

DEAD BODIES ON SURFACE.

"What became of the men with life preservers is a question asked since the disaster by many persons. Dead bodies floated on the surface as the last boats moved away.

"To relate that the ship's string band gathered into the saloon, near the end, and played 'Nearer My God to Thee' sounds like an attempt to give an added solemn color to a scene which was in itself the climax of solemnity. But various passengers and survivors of the crew agree in the declaration that they heard the music:

"'So by my woes I'll be Nearer my God to thee,
Nearer to thee.'

"WOMEN FIRST" WAS ORDER.

"In the loading of the first boat restrictions of sex were not made, and it seemed to the men who filled in beside the women that there would be boats enough for all. But the ship's officers knew better than this, and as the spreading fear caused an advance towards the suspended craft the order 'Women first' was heard and the men were pushed aside.

COURAGE OF MEN ASSERTED.

To the scene of the next two hours on those decks and in the waters below, such adjectives as "dramatic" and "tragic" do but poor justice. With the knowledge of deadly peril gaining greater power each moment over those men and women, the courage of the greater part of the men, both among cabin passengers, officers, crew and steerage, asserted itself.

MRS. STRAUS REFUSED TO LEAVE HUSBAND.

Isidor Straus, supporting his wife on her way to a life boat, was held back by an inexorable guard. Another officer strove to help her to a seat of safety, but she brushed away his arm and clung to her husband, crying, "I will not go without you."

Another woman took her place and Mrs. Straus, clinging to her husband, became part of a picture now drawn indelibly in many minds.

ASTOR AND HARRIS SIDE BY SIDE.

Colonel Astor, holding his young wife's arm, stood decorously aside as the officers spoke to him and Mrs. Astor and her maid were ushered to seats. Mrs. Henry B. Harris, parted in like manner from her husband, saw him last at the rail, beside Colonel Astor.

Walter M. Clark of Los Angeles, nephew of the Montana senator, joined the line of men as his young wife, sobbing, was placed in one of the craft.

"Let him come. There is room," cried Mrs. Emil Taussig, as the men of the White Star motioned to her husband to leave her. It was with great difficulty that he released her hold to permit her to be led to her place.

George D. Widener, who had been in Captain Smith's company a few moments after the crash, was another whose wife was parted from him and lowered, a moment later to the surface of the calm sea.

SAW NOTHING OF BUTT OR STEAD.

Of Major Archie Butt, a favorite with his fellow tourists; of Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk; of Benjamin Guggenheim or of William T. Stead no one seems to know whether they tarried too long in their state rooms or whether they forebore to approach the fast filling boats; none of them was in the throng which, weary hours afterward, reached the Carpathia.

CHECK RUSH OF STEERAGE MEN.

As they reached the water, those in the boats saw what those on the decks could not see—that the Titanic was listing rapidly to starboard and that her stern was rising at a portentous angle. A rush of men steerage passengers toward the boats was checked by officers with revolvers in hand.

NO PROVISIONS IN BOAT.

Some of the boats, crowded too full, drifted for a time. None had provisions or water, there was lack of clothing, and the only lights were the still undimmed arcs and incandescents of the settling ship.

STEWARD'S GREEN LIGHT KEPT THEM TOGETHER.

On one of the boats a steward, who explained to the passengers that he had been shipwrecked twice before, appeared carrying three oranges and a green light. That green light, many of the survivors say, was to the shipwrecked hundreds as the pillar of fire by night. Long after the ship had disappeared, and while confusing false lights danced about the boats, the green lantern kept them together on the course which led them to the Carpathia.

PASSENGERS AND SAILORS LEAP OVERBOARD.

As the end of the Titanic became manifestly but a matter of moments, the oarsmen pulled their boats away and the chilling waters began to echo splash after splash as passengers and sailors in life preservers leaped overboard and started swimming away to escape the expected suction.

Only the hardiest constitution could endure for more than a few moments such a numbing bath. The first vigorous strokes gave way to heartbreaking cries of "Help, help," and stiffened forms were seen floating, relaxed in death.

Revolver shots were heard in the ship's last moments. The report spread among the boats was that Captain Smith had ended his life with a bullet.

SAY CAPTAIN JUMPED AT LAST MOMENT.

Then it was said that a mate had shot a steward who had tried to push his way into a boat against orders. None of these tales has been verified, and many of the crew say the captain without a preserver leaped in at the last and went down, refusing a cook's offered aid.

The last of the boats, a collapsible, was launched too late to get away and was overturned by the ship sinking. Some of those in it—all, say some witnesses—found safety on a raft or were picked up by a lifeboat. In the Marconi tower, almost to the last, the click of the sending instrument was heard over the waters.

MUSIC OF ORCHESTRA GROWS FAINTER.

As the screams in the water multiplied, another sound was heard, strong and clear at first, then fainter in the distance. It was the melody of the hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," played by the string orchestra in the dining saloon. Some of those on the water started to sing the words but grew silent as they realized that, for the men who played the music was a sacrament soon to be consummated by death. The strains of the hymn and the frantic cries of the dying blended in a symphony of sorrow.

TITANIC DISAPPEARS.

Led by the green light, the boats drew away, and the bow, then the quarter, then the stacks and last the stern of the marvel ship of a few days before passed beneath the waters. The great force of the ship sinking was unaided by any violence of the elements, and the suction, not so great as had been feared, rocked but mildly the group of boats now a quarter of a mile distant from it.

WOMEN WEEP; MEN CHOKE BACK TEARS.

Sixteen boats were in the procession which entered on the terrible hours of rowing, drifting and suspense. Women wept for lost husbands and sons and the men choked back tears and sought to comfort the widowed. They strove, though none too sure themselves, to convince the women of the certainty that a rescue ship would appear.

CARPATHIA'S SMOKESTACK APPEARS.

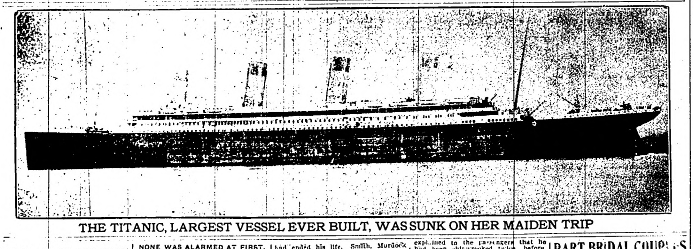
Early dawn brought no ship, but not long after 5 o'clock the Carpathia, far out of her path and making eighteen knots instead of her usual fifteen, showed her single red and black smoke stack upon the horizon. In the joy of that sight griefs were forgotten for the moment.

Soon afterward, Captain Rostron and Chief Steward Hughes were welcoming chilled and bedraggled arrivals over the Carpathia's side.

The silence of the Carpathia's engines, the piercing cold, the clamor of many voices in the companion ways had caused me to dress hurriedly and awaken my wife at 5:40 A. M. Monday. Our steward, meeting me outside, pointed to a wailing host in the rear dining room and said, "From the Titanic. She's at the bottom of the ocean."

WOMEN FALTER AS THEY ARE HELPED ABOARD.

At the ship's side a moment later I saw the last of the line of boats discharge their loads and saw women, some with cheap shawls about their heads, some with the costliest of fur coats, ascending the ship's side. And such joy as the first sight of our ship may have given them had disappeared from their faces and there were tears and signs of faltering as the women were helped up the ladders or hoisted aboard in swings. For lack of room to stow them, several of the Titanic's boats were set adrift.



THE TITANIC, LARGEST VESSEL EVER BUILT, WAS SUNK ON HER MAIDEN TRIP

PART BRIDAL COUPLES

Only One of Ten Was Not Separated Before Titanic Went Down.

New York, April 18.—There were ten bridal couples aboard the Titanic, and only one of them was not separated. This fortunate young couple, in an interview given on the pier, said they were the only ones who did not become separated, all of which, they maintained, was due to the fact that there was no panic at first. The bridegroom, therefore, was allowed to enter the boat with his bride. The lucky couple got away from the pier shortly after their experiences had been told to the reporter by a man on the pier. He said he believed they were Mr. and Mrs. George Harder.

"The groom," said the reporter's informant, "related an incident to me of a man less fortunate than himself. This man, the groom told me, just before the panic set in was standing at the gangway where the women were being loaded into a boat and made a move as though to enter the boat. An officer approached and ordered the man away. Not moving quickly enough to satisfy the officer, the latter walked to the man and knocked him down. The man, instead of falling to the deck, fell head first into the boat, and, though stunned by the fall, he soon revived and found himself still in the boat, which by that time was being lowered. The man was saved as a result.

TITANIC OFFICER DID HEROIC WORK

TOOK CHARGE OF FLOTILLA OF SMALL CRAFT FILLED WITH PEOPLE.

SAVED MANY IN WATER.

Depositions of Men on Canadian Steamer Sought.—Said to Have Been Near Great Liner When She Sank.

Washington, April 25.—Harold G. Lowe, fifth officer of the sunken Titanic, told the senate investigating committee his part in the struggle of the survivors for life following the catastrophe. His testimony developed that with a volunteer crew he rescued four men from the water, saved a sinking collapsible life boat by towing it astern of his boat and took off 20 men and one woman from the bottom of an overturned boat. Every one of those under his charge he landed safely on the Carpathia.

From first to last Lowe's story showed that he played the man. Ordered away in charge of life boat No. 14 he packed it to its capacity on the top deck and fearing that some one might attempt to jump into it while it was descending kept up a fusillade from his revolver. Once afloat he took charge of a flotilla of small craft which eventually were picked up by the rescue ship without the loss of a life.

Competing in interest with the day's testimony was the interchange of telegrams between Senator William Alden Smith, chairman, and the acting premier of Canada, George F. Foster.

The latter told of the docking of the steamer Mount Temple at St. John, N. B., with passengers aboard who claimed to have seen the Titanic sink. It was believed that the Mount Temple was the ship that was only five miles from the White Star liner when she took her final plunge.

Depositions Sought.

Senator Smith has requested that the depositions of the officers and crew of the Mount Temple be sent to him. In addition he accepted the offer of Dr. E. C. Quitzman of Toronto to appear before the committee.

Dr. Quitzman was one of the passengers who said they saw the Titanic sink.

Acting Premier Foster's telegram follows:

"Captain Mount Temple reports received 'C. Q. D.' message from Titanic 12:30 a. m. ship's time Monday. Was then 50 miles west and south of position sent out by Titanic. Immediately altered course to reach Titanic but did not arrive at her position until 4:30 a. m., when could not see Titanic's light. Saw no sign of ship or boats. Cruised around position until received message from Carpathia at 8:44 a. m. that she had picked up 20 boatloads and that the Titanic had sunk. Received another message at 8:50 from Carpathia. No need to stand by as nothing more could be done. Under these circumstances it does not seem necessary to detain boat due to sail Friday evening. If considered necessary commission could be appointed to take captain's evidence. Will no doubt be examined later by British commission."

The committee also received a telegram signed by J. H. Moore, master of the Mount Temple; A. H. Sargent, chief officer; H. Heald, second officer, and J. Durrant, the Marconi operator, dated at West St. John, N. B., yesterday, practically repeating the informatron contained in the premier's message and adding that the Mount Temple did not see the Titanic's lights. At 6:30 a. m. the Mount Temple sighted the Carpathia and later the Californian. At 8 o'clock she sighted the Russian steamer Birma coming from the south and west. The names of the passengers who claimed they saw lights of the Titanic, the message said were not known.

Ismay Was Excited.

Washington, April 25. — J. Bruce Ismay, the chief official of the steamship line which owned the ill-fated Titanic, was ordered away from one of the ship's lifeboats while it was being lowered because in his excitement he was interfering with the ship's officers.

Language too objectionable to be repeated aloud in the senate inquiry into the Titanic disaster was used by Harold G. Lowe, the fifth officer of the ship.

Lowe dramatically recited to the senate investigating committee how he, not knowing he was talking to the head of the company which employed him, had told Ismay to "get to hell out of here so that I can work," while Lowe and other sailors were trying to lower the first lifeboat on the starboard side of the Titanic.

BOOMING GREAT FALLS.

Amalgamated Copper Company Will Give City 350,000 Horsepower.

Great Falls, Mont., April 25.—John D. Ryan, president of the Amalgamated Copper company, announces that his company will finance a large flouring mill to be built here and will also develop the waterpower in the Missouri river adjacent to the city. The development will be completed within three years. It will give the power company 350,000 horsepower in place of the 20,000 already developed.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Fourteen Years. Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Elgin, Ill.—"After fourteen years of suffering everything from female complaints, I am at last restored to health.

"I employed the best doctors and even went to the hospital for treatment and was told there was no help for me. But while taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to improve and I continued its use until I was made well."—Mrs. HENRY LEISEBERG, 743 Adams St.

Kearneysville, W. Va.—"I feel it my duty to write and say what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered from female weakness and at times felt so miserable I could hardly endure being on my feet.

"After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and following your special directions, my trouble is gone. Words fail to express my thankfulness. I recommend your medicine to all my friends."—Mrs. G. B. WHITTINGTON.

The above are only two of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which show clearly what great things Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound does for those who suffer from woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

THANKSGIVING PSALM
A Rhythmical and Grateful Chant.

A teacher in a Terre Haute public school joins in the chorus:

"Teaching is a business which requires a great deal of brain and nerve force. Unless this force is renewed as fast as expended the teacher is exhausted before the close of the year. Many resort to stimulating tonics for relief.

"For 3 years I struggled against almost complete exhaustion, getting what relief I could from doctors' tonics. Then in the spring of 1903 I had an attack of la grippe and malaria which left me too weak to continue my work. Medicine failed to give me any relief, a change of climate failed. I thought I should never be able to go back in school again.

"I ate enough food (the ordinary meats—white bread, vegetables, etc.), but was hungry after meals.

"I happened at this time to read an article giving the experience of another teacher who had been helped by Grape-Nuts food. I decided to try Grape-Nuts and cream, as an experiment. It was a delightful experience, and continues so after a year and a half of constant use.

"First, I noticed that I was not hungry after meals.

"In a few days that tired feeling left me, and I felt fresh and bright, instead of dull and sleepy.

"In three months, more than my usual strength returned, and I had gained 15 pounds in weight.

"I finished the year's work without any kind of tonics—was not absent from duty even half a day.

"Am still in best of health, with all who know me wondering at the improvement.

"I tell them all 'Try Grape-Nuts!'" Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. "There's a reason."

Yea verily, politics creates strange situations. The spectacle of the president of the United States and an ex-president taking the stump and passing the lie back and forth must be an edifying one to the outside world.

Governor Eberhart has an order with a press clipping bureau and charges the bill to the state, so that every time a newspaper refers to the governor, a tax is imposed on the people. This little paragraph will cost the people of Minnesota 5 cents.—Long Prairie Leader

Last week we published a list of socialist candidates for county office. Among the number was the name of J. C. Dahl as candidate for judge of probate. Mr. Dahl informs us that he had been several times urged to allow his name to run but has each time refused the honor.

One farm boy from each county in the state is to go to the Minnesota state fair next fall and will have all of his expenses paid by the fair management. All of the boys will camp together in what will be known as the Farm Boys' State Fair encampment. E. C. Higbie, superintendent of the Morris agricultural school, will be in charge of the camp.

Getting Mad

Congressman McKinley, President Taft's manager, is letting his temper show. He shouldn't. It's a bad sign, and belies his pretenses of confidence and security. A man who is confident that he is winning his fight doesn't get angry, no matter what the opposition says or does.

Mr. McKinley swears that Col. Roosevelt is engaged in a "deliberate, reckless and mendacious" campaign to wreck the republican party, and he trusts the people won't let him carry out his fell designs.

Probably Mr. Roosevelt isn't either deliberately, recklessly or mendaciously trying to do anything of the kind. If he were he couldn't begin to accomplish so much toward that end as the bosses and prebendiaries of special privilege, from Mark Hanna to Penrose, Smoot and Tawney, have already done.

One year of Ballinger did more toward wrecking the party than all Roosevelt's utmost vehemence could do in a decade. Three years of Taft bring as their fruits a widespreading popular decision of the republican party and its organization, and a revolt against its leadership. If the republican party is wrecked it will not be those who oppose Taft that will do it. It will be those who opposed Taft four years ago, and who support him now.—Cass Lake Times.

Township Officers in Error

Many township officers throughout the state seem to be under a misapprehension as to Forest Law now in effect. A number evidently still believe themselves to be authorized fire wardens, as under the old Forest Law. Accordingly they have this spring signed claims for fire fighting and sent them to the state forester. Under the new law this is no longer a part of a township officer's duty. For the benefit of any who are still misinformed, the following explanation is made of the true situation.

The new forest law, made effective in 1911, repealed the former law under which township supervisors had been fire wardens. Soon after the new law went into effect all township supervisors who formerly had been fire wardens were notified by mail that they were no longer authorized to expend state money in fire protection work. Under the new law, that area of the state where dangerous fires are most apt to occur has been divided into several large districts. A district forest ranger has been placed in charge of each district. Under each district ranger, during the fire season, are several patrolmen. District rangers and patrolmen, paid through the state forest service, are the only men with direct authority to expend state funds in fire protection work.

However, under the new law it is the duty of all township and city officers to co-operate with the officers of the state forest service. The former are required to look to it that the conditions under their jurisdiction are such as to reduce the fire danger. They will be assisted by the forest officers in securing safer conditions. Local town and city officials should inform them of any condition which constitutes a serious fire danger, when they will take the necessary steps to remove the danger. Local officials should notify some forest officer of any fire which may be too dangerous for any neighborhood to handle without additional aid. It is only on such a dangerous fire, where timber and other property and life are at stake, that a forest officer calls out men. In such case the fire fighters will be paid, except that no man is paid for fighting fire within one mile of his own residence. The latter is true in any case. In no case will a man be paid by the state for fighting fire unless called out by or under the authority of a commissioned forest service officer. This is because the law expects a man to protect his own property and that of his close neighbors without remuneration from the state. Also the law, section 24, requires that township and city organizations assume the responsibility for such fires as may be easily extinguished or are not a menace to life, or to property in considerable extent. This statement applies to any township situated within the established ranger districts, where the fire danger is greatest. It is equally true for such towns as are not included in the established ranger districts and where the fire danger to life and property is not considered to be great. However, should a serious fire occur in any such township, information should be sent at once by the local officials to the state forester. A forest officer can then be sent to the place to investigate and take what steps are necessary.

Township officers are no longer authorized to incur expense for the state in fire protection. But they are required to cooperate with the forest service, as indicated in sections 19 and 24 of the forest law in preventing and controlling fires. They may be held responsible for not doing so.

First Tour to Thief River

Dr. Morely, chairman of the touring committee of the Crookston Automobile club, announces that the club has decided to make the first run of the season to Thief River Falls about May 1, the exact date not having been set.

Stops will be made at St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls and the return trip may be made via a portion of the old Pembina trail but the exact route will not be announced until the return of a scout automobile which will report on the condition of the various roads and which is the most advisable route to take.

The Crookston Automobile club will make several tours this year, and every one of them will attract a big following. There will be no objections this year on the speed question, as all speeding will be eliminated and a pace set at no time that be dangerous or that will bother any one to hold their place in the line.—Crookston Times.

EXPLAINS POSITION OF PROGRESSIVES

St. Paul, Minn., March 29.—Colonel Roosevelt addressed a large audience here today, taking for his subject "The Welfare of the Farmer." He spoke as follows:

"The purpose of the progressives in this campaign is to restore and secure to the plain people that position of control in the government of their own country which in the working of our institutions is being insidiously wrested from them. We make our appeal alike to business man and professional man, to wage-worker and farmer. In this speech I propose to deal chiefly with the needs of the farmer; for there is nobody of whose economic liberties and opportunities we progressives more earnestly desire to conserve and enlarge. Speaking to the farmers, and to all others who have insight to grasp the essential dependence of the nation on the producers of its food, I shall briefly discuss two great public questions of vital and far-reaching importance; the conservation of natural resources and the betterment of country life.

"It is one of the chief duties—and it is the highest privilege—of a President of the United States to be the active leader and exponent of policies which will help the people to obtain such legislative and administrative reforms as are required to meet any reasonable popular demand which makes for the common good. While I was president I had found that in the first matter—the conservation of the nation's resources—the national conscience had been moved, and that in the second—the condition and outlook of rural population—there was a widespread feeling that things were wrong. Consequently I took definite action in the hope and belief that adequate remedies would be provided, and I now stand for the revival and development of the policies thus initiated.

"Upon conservation I can be brief, for, in its broad outlines at least, the subject is generally understood. What first called attention to the gravity of the question was the destruction of the national forests. It happened fortunately that this important asset of the national wealth came, during my administration, under the charge of Gifford Pinchot, to whom, more than to any other man, is due the credit for having this national peril brought prominently to public notice. He was the first man to realize that the waste of the nation's supply of timber (with the incidental injury alike to irrigation, water power and navigation in our big rivers) was only typical of a wrong attitude of mind in the nation at large towards our heritage and our duty to the generations which are to come after us.

Policy of Conservation.

"The conservation idea caught the popular imagination and the conservation policy rapidly took shape. In the spring of 1908 I called the governors of all the states and territories to meet at a conference in the national capitol. There it was unanimously resolved "that the great prosperity of our country rests upon the abundant resources of the land chosen by our forefathers for their homes," that these resources are "a heritage to be made use of in establishing and promoting the comfort, prosperity and happiness of the American people, but not to be wasted, deteriorated, or needlessly destroyed, and that this material basis is threatened with exhaustion;" that "conservation of our natural resources is a subject of transcendent importance, which should engage unremittingly the attention of the nation, the states and the people in earnest co-operation; and that this co-operation should find expression in suitable action by congress and by the legislatures of the several states."

"I followed this up by the appointment of the National Conservation commission which made the first inventory of natural resources ever prepared for any country. It had begun investigations as the necessary first steps to enable congress and the legislatures of the several states to make intelligent and effective application of the unanimous pronouncement by the chief executives of the states and territories. With this unanimous pronouncement by the chief executives of the states and territories in support of the conservation idea, it was clearly a case where the President of the United States should formulate and lead a conservation policy. This was done. Unfortunately the policy thus begun was completely reversed, by the appointment of Mr. Ballinger and the dismissal of Gifford Pinchot.

Object of Forest Protection.

"The long fight to protect the forests of the United States has not been to keep them out of use, but on the contrary to encourage the utilization of them to the fullest extent consistent with preserving their power of service to the people for all time. Conservation is not keeping out of use, but is putting things to the best use without waste and where possible preserving their perennial usefulness unimpaired. Where public rights exist, conservation is to insure to the public the full enjoyment and benefit of these rights and at the same time to protect and encourage private enterprise engaged in development work.

"The same principle applies to all natural resources. The fertility of the lands must be protected while the annual toll of crops is taken off. No citizen has a right to despoil the land and leave it so impoverished as to imperil the future prosperity and stability of the nation. This nation must not allow its future to be endangered by the reckless exhaustion of the natural resources which are essential means to its existence and greatness and also the sources out of which labor can obtain legitimate satisfaction. The way to defend private property is to obey what is now the settled national resolve as to the proper use and conservation of public property. We progressives declare that this generation shall not pass away without having wiped out of its record the charge of unconcern for the country's future, the failure to follow the instinct which is implanted even in the lower animals—that of the preservation of the race. It behooves us to preserve the means essential to the perpetual welfare of the nation. To accomplish the task effectively two things are of prime importance. In the first place there must be a sound, moral standard on public matters; our public men must represent and respond to the aroused conscience of the people. In the next place all the great natural resources which are vital to the welfare of the whole people should either be kept in the hands of or under the full control of the whole people. This applies to coal, oil, timber, water power, natural gas. Either natural resources of the land should be kept in the hands of the people and their development and use allowed under leasing arrangements (or otherwise); or where this is not possible there should be strict governmental control over their use. All the remaining water power in our country—and probably there are in streams that the government owns or controls 400 millions of man power—should be retained in full by the people, and should be developed and used so as to pay a good fair profit to the developers, but with the prime aim of keeping the ultimate ownership in the people and making its beneficial use by the people the first consideration.

Medical Fees In Old Times.

The remuneration of physicians originally consisted in presents, but at the time of Hippocrates payment in money was already customary. Physicians received also public praise, the "crown of honor," the freedom of the city, the privilege of eating at the king's table. Physicians employed by the state received a yearly salary, as high as $2,000 in some instances. Rich people would pay enormous sums for a successful treatment, and a case is recorded in which $200,000 was paid.—New York Medical Journal.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE [illegible]

Default having been made in the [illegible] of the sum of thirty six (36[illegible]) [illegible] interest, which became due October [illegible] upon a certain mortgage duly exe[illegible] delivered by David W. Clayt[illegible] Clayton, mortgag[illegible] to Iowa Mortgage and Investment Co., a corporation, [illegible] gee, bearing date the first day of April [illegible] and with a power of sale therein cont[illegible] duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota on the 8th day of April, 1907, at 1:20 o'clock p. m., in book [illegible] mortgages on page 441, and now on [illegible] in the office of the register of deeds of [illegible] county of Pennington in said state, book 21 of mortgages on page 117;

Which mortgage, together with the [illegible] secured thereby was duly assigned by [illegible] Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., mortgagee, to David Rosenberg by written assignment, dated the 10th day of April, 1907, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April, 1907, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., in book 32 of mortgages on page 406, and now of record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 42 of mortgages, page 92.

And whereas, the said David Rosenberg, assignee, thereafter died testate, and by the provisions of his will, which has been duly admitted to probate, assigned and conveyed said mortgage by his said written will to Amalie Rosenberg, and the said will having been duly admitted to probate in the probate court of the county of Swift, in the state of Minnesota, on the 24th day of May 1910, the said probate court did thereafter make and enter its final decree, in writing, in the estate of David Rosenberg, deceased, dated on the 27th day of February, 1911, and thereby assigned and conveyed the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby to Amalie Rosenberg, which said final decree assigning said mortgage, pursuant to the provisions of the will aforesaid, was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 a. m., in book A of Miscellaneous on Page 170, and the letters testamentary issued in said estate to Myron Rosenberg, executor of the will of said David Rosenberg, deceased, was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said Pennington county on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 o'clock in book A of Miscellaneous on page 169.

And Whereas, The premises described in said mortgage are now included in the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, which county was created and organized on the 23rd day of November, 1910, out of a part of the former Red Lake county.

And Whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of the default in the payment of said interest the whole principal sum of said mortgage did on the second day of October, 1911, become immediately due and payable and was so declared by the said Amalie Rosenberg assignee of said mortgage, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon said mortgage the sum of twelve hundred seventy-three and 8-100 ($1273.08) dollars; and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, towit: The east half (e½) of the southwest quarter (sw¼) and lots number six (6) and seven (7) in section six (6) of township one hundred fifty-two (152) north of range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian for Minnesota, now in Pennington county, Minnesota, the same formerly being in Red Lake county Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Pennington county at the front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on the 20th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash to pay said debt of twelve hundred seventy-three and 08-100 ($1273.08) dollars and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty ($50.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 30, A. D. 1912.

Rearranging the Case.

"You are charging me $7 a week for board and lodging, Mrs. Irons," said the gray haired person of the name of Harris. "May I ask how you would itemize it? What part of it is for board?"

"Five dollars," replied the landlady.

"And $2 for my room?"

"Yes."

"Well, if you don't mind, Mrs. Irons," he said, proceeding to square up for another week, "we'll consider here after that I'm paying you $5 for lodging and $2 for board. It will seem more as if I were getting the worth of my money."—Chicago Tribune.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

Mrs. S. Ciete (teaching her whist)—Have you any diamonds?

Mrs. Newriche—Well, I guess. I've got nearly $40,000 worth of 'em upstairs.

Useful Agent for Show.

Al. G. Field, the minstrel man, has another story which he is telling. He says that not long ago an attache of his show was sent out in an Iowa town to give some handbills, or heralds, to boys for distribution. The man found only one boy willing to work. He didn't deem it necessary to explain to the boy that the bills were to be distributed about town. He took it for granted that the boy knew. The youngster took the printed slips of paper and the man gave him a quarter and left. Half an hour later the showman chanced to pass along the street and saw the boy standing on the sidewalk, crying.

"What's the matter?" asked the man.

The boy gave a couple of final sobs and, wiping his eyes on his sleeve, said:

"A man jist come along an' took one of my bills."

As the Streets Are Cleaned.

Mother—Well?

Tommy—Don't you think I might let the rain wash my face instead of removing the dirt myself?

MINNESOTA BRIEFS

Week's History in Gopher State Told in Paragraphs.

Preston.—In the hottest fight in the history of the town Preston defeated license by one vote.

Duluth, April 16.—Thomas Healy, a business man at Proctor, a suburb, was held up by two men and robbed of $1,300.

Duluth. — Thomas Healy, a business man at Proctor, a suburb, was held up by two men and robbed of $1,300. The robbery took place in the main section of the village.

Minneapolis.—A bleached skull of a man, which apparently had lain there for at least twenty years, was found by laborers in the cellar of a razed building on the new postoffice site.

Duluth.—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Silvey, prominent residents of Duluth, were on board the Titanic. Mrs. Silvey is reported safe. No word concerning Mr. Silvey has been received.

St. Paul.—Eight thousand and five hundred acres of land were sold by Theodore Nelson, in charge of the land sales department of the state auditor's office at Duluth. The prices ranged from $5 to $36. The average price was $8.

Hastings.—Henry Zusan, an old resident of Hastings, aged seventy years, while presumably in an unbalanced state of mind, created a sensation by making a high dive from the spiral bridge over the Mississippi river, a distance of about 75 feet. He was unhurt.

Red Wing. — Governor Eberhart was the guest of honor at a banquet in the Lutheran ladies' seminary here. Following the banquet the Governor spoke in the seminary chapel to the students and invited friends. The Governor addressed the high school pupils during the afternoon.

St. Paul.—Theodore Solberg of Oakland, Neb., told H. J. Maxfield, immigration commissioner, that if the Minnesota soil is right he will plant a colony of Swedes in the northern part of the state. He inquired about the soil near Bruno, Pine county. Mr. Maxfield said he would tell Mr. Solberg to send his colony as the soil had been tested and that Swedes grow abundantly in Pine county as in other parts of the state.

Winona.—At the annual meeting of the board of education it was decided to procure Prof. Gray of the University of Minnesota to give an address at the commencement exercises in June, in preference to the former oratorical contest in which the students took part. The action was taken on the suggestion made by the senior class some time ago, and the change has been met by the approval of the entire high school faculty.

Duluth.—More than 3,000 acres of state and school lands were sold at the state sale here. The sale was the first of the year in St. Louis county and was conducted by Theodore Nelson, manager of the land sales department of the state auditor's office. While a majority of the tracts disposed of were sold at about $5 an acre, some of the parcels were bid up to $8.25. The average price was $5.25. About 150 bidders were present.

Minneapolis.—Students at the University of Minnesota are either growing less studious or their work is being graded more rigidly, according to comparative figures on the number "below" in their work, compiled by Registrar E. B. Pierce and made public. With 105 less students registered than last year, an increase of "low marks" amounting to seventy-three was shown. The increase came entirely from the law college, where "flunks," "cons" and "incompletes" aggregated considerably more than an average of one to each student. The total was 376, with a total enrollment of only 306. Last year there were but 151 low-grade marks distributed, with an enrollment of 367. The figures compiled by Registrar Pierce include the academic, mines, engineering, chemistry and law colleges. In the five the total registration for the present school year was 2,460, compared to 2,065 last year. Every college showed a decrease in attendance except the chemistry college, which reported an increase of 17.

St. Paul.—Official call for the republican state nominating convention was issued by chairman E. E. Smith and Secretary J. A. O. Preus of the republican state committee. As decided by the committee at its meeting April 2, the convention will be held July 2, at 12 o'clock noon, in the St. Paul auditorium. County conventions are to be held June 28, and caucuses according to call by the county committees. The call provides for nomination of the ticket in the following order: Chief justice, two associate justices of the supreme court, congressman at large, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, attorney general, and two railroad and warehouse commissioners. The apportionment of delegates is the same as for the delegate convention May 16. There will be 1,106 in all, Hennepin county having 84.

Appleton.—Frank Kanult, an elderly farmer living near here, died from the effects of a kick from one of his horses. He had just fed his team preparatory to going to work and was passing behind them when one of the horses kicked him in the stomach, causing his death in a few hours.

Duluth.—Manager Currie of the Duluth branch of the Lake Carriers' association announced that he has engaged and sent 200 men abroad the ships in Duluth-Superior harbor and that by the time interlake navigation opens there will be more than 500 aboard the fleet that wintered here.

Minneapolis.—Zuhrah temple, Mystic Shrine, will have a ceremonial session Friday evening, April 26, in honor of Imperial Potentate John F. Treat of Fargo, and it is expected that prominent Shriners from many parts of the state will come to Minneapolis for the occasion. It will be the last ceremonial session of Zuhrah temple until fall.

Duluth.—The steamer Easton today broke out through heavy ice at the canal entrance and went east along the north shore. She will make Two Harbors and then will endeavor to reach Grand Marais with food.

MISS HARRIET QUIMBY

Miss Quimby, the first woman to win a pilot's license in America, has added to her laurels by flying alone across the English channel, being the first woman to perform that feat.

TROUBLE ON THE OLYMPIC

300 FIREMEN ON BIG LINER STRIKE.

Walk Out Five Minutes Before Sailing Time, Declaring Lifeboats Unsafe.

Southampton, April 25.—Three hundred of the firemen and greasers belonging to the crew of the Olympic struck five minutes before the White Star liner was due to sail for New York. The men deserted the ship in a body. They gave as their reason for striking that the collapsible lifeboats installed on the vessel were unseaworthy.

A deputation of men employed in the engine room of the Olympic waited on the officers of the ship and on Commander Clarke, the chief of the emigration office in Southampton, to whom they declared that the collapsible craft on the Olympic were flimsy.

They refused to sail unless wooden lifeboats were substituted for the collapsible ones and also demanded that two additional seamen be signed, one for each boat.

Commander Clarke argued with the men, explaining that it was impossible to secure wooden lifeboats in time. He assured them he previously had officially examined the collapsible boats and was satisfied with them.

Commander Clarke offered to take the Olympic to the Cowes Roads and allow any of the crew to select boat or boats on board, and he would prove by demonstration they were absolutely safe. The men refused to be convinced and left the ship in a body. They attempted to get all the seamen also to leave the liner, but this move was checkmated by the White Star officials, who removed all the gangways.

By pressing into service all the available engine room hands on the White Star and American liners in port the Olympic was able to leave dock just before 2 p. m. and proceed down Southampton water, where she awaits a fresh aggregation of firemen and greasers.

One of the strikers alleged he put his thumb through the canvas of one of the new collapsible boats. The White Star officials declared the requisite complement of firemen, greasers and crew is abroad the Olympic and that the vessel will shortly proceed on her voyage.

The Olympic has 1,400 passengers on board.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ELECT

George H. Stone, Wadena, Is Chosen Grand Commander.

St. Paul, April 25.—The Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Minnesota, held its forty-seventh annual conclave in Masonic Temple, St. Paul, and concluded the session with the election and installation of the following officers:

Grand commander, George H. Stone, Wadena; deputy grand commander, Nelson C. Pike, Lake City; grand generalissimo, John M. Rowley, Rochester; grand captain general, Eugene C. Bonniwell, Minneapolis; grand senior warden, Jesse Norton, Duluth; grand junior warden, Eugene W. McCord, St. Paul; grand prelate, Rev. Alfred C. Pinkham, St. Paul; grand treasurer, Charles E. Ovenshire, Minneapolis; grand recorder, John Fishel, St. Paul; grand standard bearer, Alfred C. Page, Austin; grand sword bearer, Thomas Morris, Crookston; grand warden, Charles S. Schurman, St. Paul.

The only other business was the granting of a charter to a new commandery at St. Peter. The conclave concluded with a banquet.

TRACTOR CO. BORROWS.

Minneapolis Concern Borrows Half Million Dollars in New York.

New York, April 25.—The Gas Traction company of Minneapolis has sold to Potter, Choate & Prentice $500,000, part of an authorized issue of $1,000,000 6 per cent gold notes, dated April 1, 1912, maturing April 1, 1914, to provide additional working capital owing to unusual growth of the company's business. The notes are a first lien on all the assets of the company.

Winona Anglers to Entertain.

Winona.—The state fish commission is to visit Winona in May, and members of the Winona County Fishermen's Association are planning to take them by auto to the different trout streams and the benefits that have resulted from the systematic stocking practiced for some years past. The commissioners will also visit the government fish station at Homer. Those in the party coming here will be George J. Bradley, O. J. Johnson, J. A. Wessel, H. L. Ogilvie, d. A. Rider and E. W. Cobb.

GREATEST LESSON OF LIFE

The One Thing Above All That a Woman Should Be Quick to Learn and Remember.

The woman who makes good must be blessed with strength and health, and an ambition to learn and take advantage of every opportunity that comes her way. She must work with all her heart and play with all her heart; above all things avoiding indifference.

Hers is the temperament that recognizes that encouragement is all nice and pretty, but if one is going to do the thing that counts one doesn't need it; that refuses to be dismayed by repeated failures and that has a certain faith that what has been done by many may be done by another; that nobody goes through life without disappointments, heartaches and the breaking of pet illusions; that there is nothing more common than trouble, but that it is the wise ones of earth that keep it in the background. That's the great lesson of life.—Exchange.

ALMOST CRAZY WITH ECZEMA

"I, the undersigned, cannot give enough praise to the Cuticura Remedies. I had been doctoring for at least a year for eczema on my foot. I had tried doctor after doctor all to no avail. When a young girl I sprained my ankle three different times, paying little or no attention to it, when five years ago a small spot showed upon my left ankle. I was worried and sent for a doctor. He said it was eczema. He drew a small bone from the ankle about the size of a match and about an inch long. The small hole grew to about the size of an apple, and the eczema spread to the knee. The doctors never could heal the hole in the ankle. The whole foot ran water all the time.

"My husband and my sons were up night and day wheeling me from one room to another in the hope of giving me some relief. I would sit for hours at a time in front of the fireplace hoping for daybreak. The pain was so intense I was almost crazy, in fact, I would lose my reason for hours at a time. One day a friend of mine dropped in to see me. No more had she glanced at my foot than she exclaimed: 'Mrs. Finnegan, why in the world don't you try the Cuticura Remedies!' Being disgusted with the doctors and their medicines, and not being able to sleep at all, I decided to give the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment a trial. After using them three days that night I slept as sound as a silver dollar for eight long hours. I awoke in the morning with but very little pain, in fact, I thought I was in heaven. After using the Cuticura Remedies for three months I was perfectly restored to health, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I will be sixty-four years of age my next birthday, hale and hearty at present." (Signed) Mrs. Julia Finnegan, 2234 Hebert St., St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Dr. Harvey W. Wiley was asked the other day if he had heard anything about the recent invention which gives to new wine all the properties of old wine.

"No, I haven't," Doctor Wiley replied. Then, with a smile, he added: "But, by Jove, I attended a musical comedy performance the other night which certainly must have been treated with that invention."

WOMEN AND HEALTH.

Women are beginning to realize more fully that good health is not to be found in the use of cosmetics and face powders. The appearance of health may follow facial treatment, but health itself lies much deeper than the surface.

Most important to the health of every woman is regularity of the bowels and digestive organs. The weary eyes, bad breath, frequent headaches, pimples and general air of lassitude, is in most every case due to constipation or indigestion, or both. There are various remedies prescribed for this condition, but the easiest, most pleasant and certainly effective, is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin known to druggists as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This simple remedy is far preferable to harsh salts and cathartics and violent purgative waters that disturb the whole system without affording more than temporary relief.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a tonic laxative, mild in its action, pleasant to the taste and positive in its effect, strengthening the muscles of stomach and bowels so that after a short time these organs regain the power to perform their natural functions without assistance.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried it, write for a sample to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.; he will gladly send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

Story of a Bible.

A case that had to do with the theft of a Bible was before the grand jury some time ago and after it had been disposed of, George W. Seibert, foreman of the jury, related a story in which a Bible figured prominently. Mr. Seibert said that his mother had given him an old-fashioned family Bible when he married. About two years after his marriage Mr. Seibert needed money, he said, and had almost decided to dispose of the Bible. When such thoughts were occupying his mind, Mr. Seibert picked up the Bible one day and began turning over the leaves of the book. He had passed over several pages when his eyes fell on two $50 bills. His mother had placed them in the Bible when she had presented the book to him. Mr. Seibert still has the Bible.—Indianapolis News.

Needn't Kiss Husband.

Supreme Court Justice Mareau in Brooklyn, dismissed the suit of Samuel Markowitz, a New York real estate broker, for the annulment of his marriage to Mildred Markowitz.

"It is absurd to frame such issues," Justice Mareau said. "Practically the plaintiff asks an annulment of his marriage to the girl because she refused to kiss him."

The young woman was eighteen years old when she married Markowitz, who, as alleged, had already had four wives, of whom two had died and two were divorced.

OF SMALL CONCERN TO HIM

Why Uncle Eph Refused Information He Felt to Be Altogether Superfluous.

When Robert H. Davis was young and loose in the feet he once wandered into a little Mississippi town. It was a bright day in the early spring and he walked down one street. By and by he came to the county jail—a two-storied affair, standing flush with the sidewalk. "There was a negro pressing his face against the barred window on the second floor," said Mr. Davis, "holding on to the bars and yawning. By and by an old negro came limping along the street toting a whitewash bucket.

"'Hello, Uncle Eph'm,' says the one in the window.

"'Howdy,' says Ephraim, limping on.

"'Wait a minute, uncle,' says this lonesome negro in the window. 'What time is it, uncle?'

"Uncle Ephraim limped right on. He hardly looked up.

"'What diffunce does it make to you, niggeh?' he asked. 'You ain't goin' nowhere.'"—New York Letter to the Cincinnati Times-Star.

HAPPY THO' MARRIED?

There are unhappy married lives, but a large percentage of these unhappy homes are due to the illness of the wife, mother or daughter. The feelings of nervousness, the befogged mind, the ill-temper, the pale and wrinkled face, hollow and circled eyes, result most often from those disorders peculiar to women. For the woman to be happy and good-looking she must naturally have good health. Dragging-down feelings, hysteria, hot-flashes or constantly returning pains and aches—are too great a drain upon a woman's vitality and strength. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores weak and sick women to sound health by regulating and correcting the local disorders which are generally responsible for the above distressing symptoms.

MRS. DICKOVER.

"I suffered greatly for a number of years and for the past three years was so bad that life was a misery to me," writes MRS. B. F. DICKOVER, of Utica, Ohio, Route 4. "The doctors told me I would have to go to a hospital before I would ever be better. A year ago this winter and spring I was worse than ever before. At each period I suffered like one in torment. I am the mother of six children. I was so bad for five months that I knew something must be done, so I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, telling him as nearly as I could how I suffered. He outlined a course of treatment which I followed to the letter. I took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and a fifty-cent bottle of 'Smart-Weed,' and have never suffered much since. I wish I could tell every suffering woman the world over what a boon Dr. Pierce's medicines are. There is no use wasting time and money doctoring with anything else or any one else."

TAFT AND T. R. TIED

STRUGGLE TO GAIN CONTROL OF MASSACHUSETTS DELEGATION IS CLOSE.

CLARK LEADING WILSON.

District Delegates Equally Divided—Half of State Heard From—Taft Carries Boston by 600 Majority.

Boston, Mass.—The struggle for the control of the Massachusetts delegation to the republican convention in Chicago between President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt was so close yesterday that at midnight, with half of the state tabulated, the two aspirants for nomination were running neck and neck for presidential preference, while incomplete returns showed that they had also an equal division of the district delegates.

Returns from 711 out of 1,080 election precincts: La Follette, 1,130 Roosevelt, 43,836; Taft, 45,239. Delegates at large: Baxter (heading Roosevelt group), 45,441; Crane (heading Taft group), 40,030.

Democrats Overshadowed.

The closeness of the fight in the republican ranks overshadowed the contest in the democratic party. Returns from half the state gave Speaker Clark 19,706, Governor Wilson 8,597. Of the delegates at large, Coughlin, who was pledged to Governor Foss, polled 18,419, while George Fred Williams received 6,426 votes in the same precincts.

The La Follette vote failed to reach four figures.

The Taft leaders seemed sure of carrying the First district and actually won the Eleventh, consisting of a number of the wards in the back bay section.

Returns up to 2:00 a. m.

Returns from the several districts at 2 a. m. were:

First district, 66 out of 109 precincts: Taft delegates, 362; Roosevelt delegates, 859.

Second district, 40 out of 78 precincts: Taft, 3,835; Roosevelt, 2,541.

Third, 33 out of 67; Taft, 2,568; Roosevelt, 1,665.

Fourth, 31 out of 72: Roosevelt, 3,038; Taft, 2,200.

Fifth, 46 out of 89: Roosevelt, 3,554; Taft, 3,077.

Sixth, 41 out of 65: Roosevelt, 3,689; Taft, 3,329.

Seventh, 28 out of 72: Roosevelt, 3,934; Taft, 3,331.

Eighth, 11 out of 71: Taft, 971; Roosevelt, 798.

Ninth, 82 out of 86: Roosevelt, 1,400; Taft, 1,357.

Tenth, 68 out of 80: Taft, 3,958; Roosevelt, 3,592.

Eleventh, 2 Taft delegates elected.

Twelfth, 15 out of 61: Roosevelt, 1,044; Taft, 958.

Thirteenth, 27 out of 64: Taft, 1,256; Roosevelt, 1,007.

Fourteenth, 48 out of 94: Roosevelt, 2,877; Taft, 1,937.

President Taft carried Boston, exclusive of Hyde Park, by 600, but ran behind in the small towns.

At the Roosevelt headquarters there was far more jubilation than among those who assembled to look over returns compiled by the Taft leaders.

About one-third of the state closed its polls at 4 o'clock or earlier and by 9 or 10 o'clock these returns were well in hand. As the remainder of the state did not cease voting until from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, there was a four-hour lull in tabulation of returns.

Roosevelt Claims Majority of 7,000.

Washington.—Massachusetts was claimed for Roosevelt by 7,000 majority at the Roosevelt headquarters here at midnight. Senator Dixon, Colonel Roosevelt's manager, issued the following statement:

"The result in Massachusetts settled the Taft candidacy to the exclusion of every reasonable doubt. The revolt of the rank and file of the republican party against Taft's leadership is overwhelming and complete. Roosevelt will be nominated at Chicago on the first ballot and will be elected in November by the biggest majority ever given a presidential candidate."

Porto Rico for Taft.

San Juan, Porto Rico.—The local territorial republican convention has elected Mateo Fajardo and S. Behn delegates to the Chicago convention. They have been instructed for President Taft.

Two More Delegates for Taft.

Concord, New Hampshire.—The Second New Hampshire district delegates to the republican national convention are S. C. Shedd and Orton B. Brown, instructed for Taft.

RED RIVER WHEAT GOOD.

Germination Is Good and Crop and Seeding Condition are Fine.

Crookston.—The first planting of spring wheat is up in the Red River valley, and on Sunday last scores of automobiles were run from the city in all directions for an inspection of the fields. Special interest was taken because of the stress that had been laid upon the necessity of testing all grain sown this spring. The wheat is coming up even and the germination of the grain sown is as high as it ever was in all the fields examined. Scores of wheat fields are showing shoots nicely above the ground and a few oat fields are up, but most of the farmers are just beginning to sow oats. Many finished their wheat seeding last week.

The number of gasoline plows at work this year is trebled over any previous year. All of the big companies have been rushed with orders. Many of the people who purchased land last fall or during the winter had gasoline tractors and plows placed on them as soon as the ground was fit this spring. Henry I. Baldwin purchased a full section of land in Fanny township, 640 acres, put a gasoline tractor pulling six 16-inch plows, attached a shoe drill behind the plows and is plowing and seeding twenty-four acres a day to oats. He will seed the entire section to oats, barley and flax.

The Crookston State bank reports that men to whom they sold land are doing the same thing, and at least fifty of such rigs are working within a radius of fifteen miles from Crookston.

The weather for seeding continues ideal. Many farmers are entirely through seeding wheat and 75 per cent of the wheat is seeded. With continued good weather this week the bulk of the oat crop will be in, though quite a number of farmers will plow for oats and seed all their plowed land to wheat. There is a general feeling of optimism prevailing. The merchants are buying freely because of the outlook, and traveling men are all bringing in good reports.

CARLTON IS WINNER.

Defeats Ripon and Coe Colleges in Debate on Closed Shop.

Northfield.—Carleton college affirmative debating team in the Tri-State Debating league, the members of which are Carleton, Ripon and Coe colleges, won a unanimous decision here over the negative team, representing Ripon college. The question for the debate was, "Resolved, that the closed shop is justifiable. The members of the Carleton team are C. Whit Pfieffer of Winona, leader; George W. Schmitz of Albert Lea, and Glen S. Hunt of Winona. Word has been received from Cedar Rapids that the negative team won a unanimous decision over Coe college. The members of this Carleton team are W. Park Dougherty, Leslie More and Lawrence Rossman. The students celebrated the double victory with a big bonfire on the campus.

TO ELECT POSTMASTER.

Congressman Anderson Promises to Recommend Man Chosen by People.

Winona.—It is probable the choice of a postmaster at Alden, Freeborn county, may be made by means of an election. This plan is said to have received the sanction of Congressman Sydney Anderson, who promises to recommend for the appointment whoever is the choice of the people. F. L. Walker, the present assistant postmaster, and T. J. Burton, are both in the field for the place.

Alexandria.—Six farmers of Todd county have been caught by Deputy Game Warden Moore fishing illegally in Lake Osakis. The game warden found them spearing crappies, bass and sunfish. Their hearing was before a justice in Long Prairie and the fishing expedition cost each the sum of $12.50.

TWO MORE DOCK OPTIONS

More Than $6,000,000 Improvements in Sight in West Duluth.

Duluth.—Options have been taken on two more dock sites in West Duluth by coal companies, the names of which are withheld. Two docks are now under construction in West Duluth, and three, possibly four, additional coal docks will be built there within the next eighteen months. Improvements under way and prospective in coal docks construction foots up $6,250,000.

WIND RAZES HOME.

Dock Machinery Wrecked and Several Are Injured at Duluth.

Duluth.—A heavy wind swept the city doing much damage to homes in the suburbs and demolishing the residence of G. W. Palmer, an eight-room building. The dock machinery of the Great Lakes Coal and Dock company on the bay was wrecked, entailing a loss of $50,000. Several persons were slightly injured. Ships in the harbor were buffeted, but none injured.

SHRINERS ON A TOUR.

Delegates From Northwest Assemble for Pilgrimage to Los Angeles.

Minneapolis.—Shriners from all over the Northwest were in Minneapolis Monday evening where they were joined by Osman temple of St. Paul and Zuhrah temple of Minneapolis. From here the start was made at 10:30 p. m. for the annual pilgrimage to the thirty-eighth annual session of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine for North America at Los Angeles, May 7 and 8.

Two special trains will carry the nobles from Minneapolis over the North-Western line as far as Omaha where the Rock Island and the Burlington railroads will take charge of the transportation.

Several hundred Shriners were aboard the train when it pulled out of Minneapolis. Among some of the patrols and bands will be those from Minneapolis, Winnipeg, Duluth, Fargo, Grand Forks and Aberdeen. The temples represented will be El Zagal of Fargo, which will accompany Imperial Potentate J. F. Treat of that city; Aad temple, Duluth; Kem temple, Grand Forks; Kahrtum temple, Winnipeg; Yeldez, Aberdeen; Zuhrah, Minneapolis, which will accompany Imperial First Ceremonial Master C. E. Overshine of Minneapolis, and Osman temple of St. Paul.

UNITED AFTER YEARS.

Widow and Widower Resume Courtship Interrupted in 1879.

Fergus Falls.—A wedding that has more than a tinge of romance has just taken place in the northern part of the county. A. H. Trowbridge came to the county thirty-three years ago, and as a young man of 18, settled in the town of Candor, where he has ever since resided. A few months after his arrival, he formed the acquaintance of Miss Bertha Groner, and the two kept company for a year and a half. They then parted, and two years later, Miss Groner became the bride of C. G. Hortosh. In 1883 Mr. Trowbridge was married also, his bride being Miss Emma Whiting, of Clitherall. Mr. Hortosh died in 1900 and Mrs. Trowbridge passed away ten years later, in 1910. A few months ago, Mr. Trowbridge met his former sweetheart by accident at Vergas. She had been living in Bemidji for ten years, and had came back to this county on a visit. The friendship of thirty-three years ago was renewed, and their marriage occurred April 18.

CONTRACTS ARE LET.

Mankato Company Reports More Railway Work Than Usual This Year.

Mankato.—The Widell company, of which Governor Eberhart is a member, expects to see more railway construction work in the northwest this year than any season during the last five years. It has secured a number of contracts recently for bridge and culvert work. One contract covers the entire Great Western system, another is in connection with the completing of the double tracking of the North-Western road from Truax, Wis., to St. Paul, a distance of sixty-two miles, and another is for concrete bridge work on the Omaha and North-Western railways in Minnesota, South Dakota and Wyoming.

CHOIR TO GO ABROAD.

St. Olaf Organization Plans Tour of Norwegian Cities Next Year.

Northfield.—Plans are being completed for a European trip in 1913 by the choir of St. Olaf college, under the direction of F. Melius Christianson. This choir, of about forty mixed voices, recently returned from a successful tour through several states of the Middle West. The trip abroad will include the larger cities of Norway, and the choir will start from here early in the summer.

TO EXPRESS CHOICE.

Presidential Preference in Blue Earth County.

Mankato.—Peter Lloyd, chairman of the Republican county committee, has issued a call for the county convention Monday, May 13, and the primaries the previous Saturday evening. He has incorporated in the call a request that all voters indicate upon their ballots their preference as to presidential candidates, and instructions to the caucus secretaries to report the results to the convention.

CUTS BUTTER INTO BLOCKS

Steel Wires Press Through Cake Two Ways, Making Neat Division Into Square Pieces.

For the speedy and neat division of a cake of butter into a number of small square pieces for individual use, the butter cutter designed by an Ohio man seems to fill the bill admirably. A standard has a cutter frame rotable upon it. A platform holds the butter cake, and at the end of the platform is another frame, like the footboard of a bed, with two fine wires bisecting it both ways. The rotable frame has a series of fine wires running across it parallel to each other. The butter is placed on the platform, and this upper frame is pressed down through it, the wires separating it into so many square slabs, about an inch thick. The cake is then forced out through the other frame and divided into four times as many smaller squares.

EXPERIMENT IN COW FEEDING

Result of Number of Tests Made by the North Carolina Station on Rations for Milk.

The North Carolina agricultural experiment station recently concluded a number of experiments to determine the relative efficiency of narrow and medium wide rations, for milk production, a report of which has reached the department of agriculture.

Eight cows from three to six weeks in lactation were fed three periods of twenty-eight days each. In the first and third periods the feed consisted five parts of cottonseed meal, four quarts wheat bran, three parts of cornmeal and fifty pounds of corn silage. The nutritive ratio of this ration was about 1.4.

During the second period the ration was the same as the above except that 2.5 pounds of cottonseed meal was replaced by 2.5 pounds of cornmeal, giving this ration a nutritive ration of about 1.57. The result of this test indicates that the narrow ration produced 7.5 per cent. more milk fat, and increased the fat test 0.24 per cent. and the live weight 30 pounds. The milk yield was practically the same.

FLOOR PLAN OF FARM BARN

Cows Are Little Bit Crowded Into Their Stalls of Three Feet Four Inches Wide.

(By J. C. SHAWYER.)

The illustration presents the floor plan of a barn suitable for about 160-acre farms. It accommodates four horses in roomy stalls and six cows—possibly a little crowded, stalls being three feet four inches wide.

The lofts above the stables and also the decks are extended over the driveway. The hay bay is 32x40 feet, but unobstructed from floor to roof. The buggy room and workshop is a cheaply constructed shed or lean-to ten feet high, and the roof may be either gable or curb, with little difference in cost—just extra sheeting and roofing, as no extra timbers are required.

COWS SHOULD CALVE IN FALL

Dairy Department of the University of Missouri Recommends This as the Best Practice.

A number of reasons are given for the practice of most dairymen of having cows calve in the fall instead of in the spring. The Dairy Department of the University of Missouri recommends this as the best practice in most cases, for some of the following reasons:

"Prices for milk and butter fat are highest in the winter, and it is desirable that the cow be fresh to give the maximum flow. When she begins to decline in the spring, the fresh grass of pastures will stimulate her to hold up to good production.

"Calves in the first few months of their growth are fed mostly by hand. In winter there is more time to care for them properly. The grass of spring will come along just when they are getting started on a rapid growth.

"The dry period of the cow will come at the time of year when pastures are usually poor in Missouri, and when flies are bad. This will give relief to the cows when they need it, and will be easier for the milkers.

"In cases where a regular milk trade is to be supplied, it is necessary to have the cows calve at intervals so that there will be almost a uniform flow, but where the farmer is selling cream it seems best to have the calves come in the fall."

MILK STOOL STAYS TOGETHER

Troubles and Worries of Milkers Will Disappear After Making Device Shown in Illustration.

Ninety-nine out of every hundred milkers use a one-legged milk stool and every one of them has trouble with the seat board coming loose, says a writer in the Farm, Mail and Breeze. Make your stools like the one shown in the sketch and your stool troubles will forever disappear. D is a ⅜-inch machine bolt, 4 inches long and has a square head. Bore a 7-16-inch hole through A into B, 4 inches deep. Three inches from the top of the leg bore a 1-inch hole into the leg at right angles until past the middle. Place a tap on C into this hole and screw down your bolt.

CLEANING THE MILK VESSELS

Practical Dairyman Always Rinses Utensils With Cold Water, Then Scalds and Hangs in Sun.

(By M. R. JONES.)

There is one subject that I have never seen much written about, and one that I think is very important—the care of milk vessels. I have seen so many people empty a vessel and take it to the kettle and pour boiling water in it. I always rinse my vessels out with cold water, and then wash with good warm water with borax or soda in it; then scald them well and dry, and it is best to have a place where you can hang them in the sun.

DAIRY NOTES

How easy it is to forget to wash the calf pails.

You can save time by teaching your cows to go in their proper stalls.

Plan to raise your own protein feeds this year and cut out the high-priced mill stuffs.

Breeding for a special purpose tends to develop an animal that will be in harmony with her function.

The man who is producing milk for the city trade should have a clear mind, clean hands and a pure heart.

Few dairymen now make butter to sell. The price paid for butter fat by creameries takes all the cream from the farm.

With corn fodder, corn silage, and clover, alfalfa or cowpea hay on hand, the dairyman may consider himself ready for business.

Undissolved salt in butter is the result of too little moisture in the butter, too coarse salt, or the butter being too firm when salted.

Don't overstock the pastures the coming season. Better pay a pretty good price to get the young stock pastured before doing that.

A drouthy summer followed by a severe winter are the conditions that will boost the silo next summer as it has never been boosted before.

The hired man who is attached to the farm by his own family, his home and regular work is seldom one who is discontented with his position.

The dairyman has no right to complain of the labor problem unless he is willing to give a good faithful man steady work all the year around.

It is easier to keep specks out of the butter than to get them out. Straining all water that goes into the churn, through a cheesecloth, helps.

The most common cause of trouble with a separator is the vibrating of the bowl, due to the machine not being level, or not securely fastened down.

Saturday, May 4, 1912.

The democratic state convention is called to meet in Duluth Thursday, June 6. The county conventions are called for Wednesday, May 29.

Thus far two candiates have filed for county office. They are, N. J. Anderson for register of deeds, and J. M. Bishop for county attorney, both republicans.

Mrs. Eastman has sold the Thief River Falls News to Marcus C. Cutter of St. Paul. Mr. Cutter resigned from membership of the state board of control to take up the newspaper work again, after ten years in other lines of business.

It is officially stated by the secretary of the state sanitary board that tuberculosis is entirely cleaned out of all pure-bred herds in Minnesota. The state is remarkably free from animal diseases of all kinds. Only fifteen cases of glanders have been found in the last quarter.

The Indian lid has been lifted in this state, and by virtue of a decision of Judge C. A. Willard there is no dry territory in Minnesota. The learned judge has recently issued a permanent injunction against Pussyfoot Johnson confirming the temporary injunction issued by him last January.

A teacher's summer training school will be held at the state agricultural school, Crookston, June 17 to July 28, 1912. Teachers may earn regular certificate credits at this school, the same as at the state normal schools. Board and room are furnished at the school at $18.00 for the six weeks.

I do not think that Mr. Taft means ill; I think he means well. But he means well feebly, and during his administration he has been under the influence of men who are neither well meaning nor feeble. It is this quality of feebleness in a normally amiable man which preeminently fits such a man for use in high office by the powers of evil.—Col. Roosevelt.

Democrats Nominate

A large number of democrats held a meeting Monday evening and named candidates for the county offices. The following is a list of the probable candidates at the primaries:

Auditor—B. E. Burkee, St. Hilaire.
Treasurer—Martin Moylan, town of North.
Clerk of court—E. A. Larson, Bray.
County attorney—E. M. Stanton.
Sheriff—J. W. McGinty.
Judge of probate—N. W. Tarrant.
County commissioner from Thief River Falls—S. Kennison.
Register of deeds—Martin Hoff, St. Hilaire.
Coroner—John Morgan.—Thief River Falls News.

Does Anyone Know Charles Pender?

Charles Pender was in Crookston in 1900. His mother died in Chicago in 1901, leaving a large estate of which he is entitled to a portion. His sisters are anxious to locate him, if possible, that he may get a portion of his mother's estate. If there is anyone in town who remembers Mr. Pender or knows anything of his present whereabouts, they would confer a favor upon his sisters by advising F. A. Grady, their attorney, at Crookston, Minnesota.—Crookston Times.

Child Burns to Death

The six year old child of Gaspard La Jambe of Lambert was burned to death last week. She was sent to throw some rubbish from the yard into a pile of burning straw, and the flames caught her dress. The mother was badly burned about the face and arms and succeeded in extinguishing the flames in the child's clothing, but death mercifully ended the little one's suffering about 6:30 the same evening.

ROOSEVELT HOLDS A NATION'S HEART

His Compelling Strength Among Those for "All the People."

HUMAN INTEREST IS DOMINANT

As Private Citizen and Public Official He Always Has Worn Upon His Sleeve the Colors of "the Public"—Why He Is Comparable to Lincoln, Who, Too, Emphasized the Human Note.

Washington, April 20.—After all is said and done, the human note is dominant in politics; the human interest is the determining interest. Right here is brought home the compelling strength of Theodore Roosevelt with those who believe, as the editor of the Detroit News says, that: "Politics in the large sense is the endeavor to provide for opportunity, justice, comfort and the means of development among all the people."

The same writer, in an appreciation of the man who is battling for social justice for all the people as against control by big interests, special privileges and political bosses, says:

"The human element has never been lacking from Theodore Roosevelt's public endeavors. He has always believed that man was not made for the government, but the government for man. And 'the public' to him is not an abstract noun; it is something he has lived with, knows, and loves. As a boy in precarious health he played about the farmers turning up the new soil, whose aroma he breathed for its vitalizing qualities. As a young man he herded cattle with the men of the plains. As a police commissioner he walked the night beats with policemen and helped them in their dangerous work. As a soldier he slept in open fields with his Rough Riders. As a hunter he has taken his turn at the fires to keep them blazing the long night through. As a president he has met the people of every state, and a man with a family or a woman with a baby never escaped his eye. It was no mere campaign cleverness, but the deep conviction of his heart, when he said that the American was a mighty good fellow, but his wife was a better fellow. And now as private citizen he has played and tumbled with the tenement children of New York, has lunched with the workingmen of many factories, has gone out to examine for himself the problem of abandoned farms, and has gone home with the newsboy to see how things were at the house. With one of the greater ancients he could well say, 'I am a man; therefore, nothing human is alien to me.'

"And his official acts—what were they? The conservation of the people's mines and forests, the purity of the people's foods; the inspection of the people's meat; stopping the slaughter of Russian mujiks and Japanese soldiers; prosecution of various robbers of the housewife's pocketbook or rifler of the people's savings banks; sending 16 battleships around the world to warn off disturbers of the world's peace. Everywhere and always working for that which affected most closely every citizen of the republic, great or humble.

"Theodore Roosevelt was born with a silver spoon in his mouth, but he never used it. He was born with another quality far more precious, which was a wide range of human sympathy. He knows the long hours of the working girl, and her many trials—and he knows the cause of it, too. He knows the risk of the man in hazardous employment and the accidents which so tragically cut short his usefulness—and all of us remember how he blazed forth in wrath when the supreme court of his state said that those maimed workers or their orphaned families had no claim against society on account of such loss. In the last campaign he went to another state and campaigned against a judge who had ruled that the maimed workingman was not entitled to automatic compensation. Theodore Roosevelt is so intensely patriotic that he will bare his head to an empty sleeve of blue; but he is so intensely and practically human that he will go out and do battle for the man who lost a limb or a life on the field of industry, and for his family. And he will throw the whole weight of his influence and reputation and ability against the system which wears women down to wan, white ghosts in the struggle for subsistence. Theodore Roosevelt is a lover of his kind; a man stirred from the heart and reinforced by the head; a man with courage of tongue and courage of fist to attack the common enemy—the enemy of a happy humanity.

"Many have tried to draw comparisons between Roosevelt and other great men. It is significant that no small man will serve to compare with him. It is more significant that no great man with a dominating streak of badness running through him will serve to compare with him. You remember how they tried it with Napoleon—'The Man on Horseback'—but the comparison was a caricature and the people laughed. He is, however, comparable to Lincoln, who more than any president before or since, until Roosevelt came, emphasized the human note. Lincoln lived in and loved the people. He loved the black man in darkness and in chains. Back of all he did was this human note. Though he was statesman enough to see that he could not immediately put into operation the humane impulse which stirred him, there came a day when the doors of opportunity opened wide just for a moment—a moment during which a hesitant or less humane man would have debated while they closed again. But Lincoln, reinforced by all his vital relation to the people, thrust in his hand and drew forth a new liberty for his country. His humanity, deep, sincere and vital, was the mainspring of emancipation.

"Likewise Mr. Roosevelt is well he will fight for will be for men. The honors he has had all his country and the world can give him, and now he seeks to repay them fourfold by a service which shall be unto the whole people, for the girl in the factory and the man at the forge and the little children playing about the streets. He comes into the arena wearing upon his sleeve the people's colors."

GAVE THE VOTERS A CHANCE.

Presidential Preference Primaries Show How Roosevelt Stands With the Country.

Men who have watched campaigns for many years can recall no such reversal of conditions and prospects as that which took place practically within a few days in the contest between Roosevelt and Taft. Never before did a candidate for a presidential nomination gain such a lead as the president had and see it go to pieces in a few days as Taft's lead has crumbled and withered.

Always, heretofore, when a national pre-convention campaign has piled up an increasing majority for any aspirant for the leadership of his party, and week after week has gone by without a serious backset to his plans, the momentum gained has sufficed to maintain the advantage and make it greater. By all the logic of political history the Taft candidacy had victory within reach. There was no precedent for what has actually happened.

The explanation is the new force brought into action. The popular vote primary did the work. It carried Roosevelt forward with a rush which changed the whole complexion of the campaign in less than a week. And the only reason why the same force did not cause the same results sooner was that it is as yet given scope and effect in only a few states.—Cleveland Leader.

TAFT'S ADVISERS DRIVEN TO WALL

They Resort to Absurd Charges Against Col. Roosevelt.

Vituperative "Statements" Without a Scintilla of Truth, Issued by Reactionary Campaign Bureau—Vain Effort That Reacts Like Boomerang—Taft's Stand on Tobacco Trust Decree.

Washington, April 20.—Wildly vituperative "statements" sent out from the Taft national headquarters, and greedily swallowed by the despairing Tory organs, show that, with the evident approval of the president, the limit is to be taken off in the campaign of personal abuse of Colonel Roosevelt.

So desperate have the managers of the Taft collapsed campaign become—especially since the landslide in Illinois, followed by what a reactionary newspaper terms the "earthquake" in Pennsylvania, and facing similar crushing defeats wherever the voters (to quote President Taft) "are allowed" a voice, that a deliberate plan of misrepresentation and falsehood has been formulated in the vain hope of somehow checking the Roosevelt groundswell.

One of the absurd charges to be made against Roosevelt is that special privilege prefers him to Taft, and this charge is to be made by Lorimer's man, McKinley, acting as the head of the Taft forces, and by Penrose, Gallinger, Crane, Cannon and the others who are really directing the Taft campaign.

Unfortunately for the purposes of Mr. Taft, the greatest aid given special privilege and the greatest blow struck at the public interest is the recent court "dissolution" of the tobacco trust, which, preserving absolutely the monopoly which the law forbids, has so enriched the monopolists that all other special privilege beneficiaries are clamorous to be subjected to the same form of prosecution by the Taft administration. They fear that the administration will not last long enough to enable them to obtain the immunity from punishment for robbery of the American people in direct violation of the law as the tobacco trust has received.

Taft managers contend that the reorganization of the tobacco trust is entirely a matter for which the courts are responsible, and that Mr. Taft cannot be blamed. This is untrue. The decree which the court issued was framed by the lawyers of the trust and the attorney general. The court, finding both parties to the suit in agreement, acted as requested.

Nor is it possible to blame the attorney general for this, because President Taft is on record in a message to congress as heartily approving the decree, declaring it to be the most perfect enforcement of the anti-trust law, and making plain his determination to oppose any interference with the settlement of the case. Following this, with the consent and approval of Taft, the attorney general, possessing under the law the sole right to appeal to the Supreme court from the decree which he and Taft had agreed to, refused to make such an appeal and, under instructions from Taft, cut the public off from the privilege of having the farcical enforcement of the law, which he, Taft, had urged in behalf of the tobacco trust, reviewed by the Supreme court.

It needs nothing more than this to convince any sane man that Taft himself, controlling the activities of the attorney general, has been more useful to special privilege, and to the tobacco trust and the Standard Oil monopoly particularly, than all other forces that have worked against the public.

In view of these circumstances, an attack upon Theodore Roosevelt, planned by men whose service to special privilege is revealed in every action, becomes more than a deliberate policy of falsehood.

From the Taft managers such a policy might be expected. From Taft himself such a policy demonstrates a lack of regard for the place he holds and the duty he owes the American people as a whole so startling as to be absolutely deplorable. The futility of it all will increase its offensiveness to the public.

Champions of Privilege.

The chief opponents of Mr. Roosevelt at this time—aside from the postmasters—are Lorimer, Guggenheim, Cannon, Penrose, Barnes of New York, Gallinger, McKinley, et al.

In every political fight in the last ten years these men have been lined up on the side of special interests. They are fighting Roosevelt today because they know that he is the most effective national leader on behalf of the people against these interests that the country has produced.—Kansas City Times.

If your lips are not cracked it is all right for you to know that Henry W. Taft, brother of the president, is very indignant because T. R. is spending a lot of money in his campaign. Let's see, hasn't the president got another brother, C. P., who helped out a little in 1908?—Boston Globe.

In looking for a good condensation of his policies you are not likely to find anything better than his own words, "A Square Deal."—Detroit News.

The "Putative Leader."

Reduced to an also-ran in the biggest and solidest Republican state, Mr. Taft, whatever may be said for his record as president, cuts a sorry figure as the "putative leader" of his party.—Providence Journal.

Republican District Convention

The republican district convention for the Ninth congressional district of the state of Minnesota will be held at the armory in the city of Thief River Falls on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing two delegates and two alternates to the republican national convention to be held at Chicago on June 18, 1912, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for president and vice president, and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the convention.

The county conventions to elect delegates thereto will be held in the respective counties on Monday, May 13, A. D. 1912, at places to be designated by the several county committees.

Representation in this convention will be made upon the following basis: Each county shall be entitled to one delegate for each two hundred and fifty votes, or major fraction thereof, cast for state officers in the year 1910 in such county, and each county shall be allowed in addition thereto five delegates at large. The several counties in the district will be entitled to the following number of delegates in said convention:

Official Call

For the republican county convention in and for Pennington county, Minnesota, to be held at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, May 13, 1912.

Pursuant to the call of the republican state central committee duly communicated to the republican county committee of the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, a republican county delegate convention is hereby called to be held on the 13th day of May, A. D. 1912, at eleven (11) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, at the court house in Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, for the purpose of electing ten (10) delegates to the republican state convention to be held on the 16th day of May, A. D. 1912, at twelve o'clock noon of said day, at the armory in Minneapolis, Hennepin county, Minnesota, for the purpose of electing six delegates at large and six alternates to the national republican convention to nominate a president and vice president of the United States, to be held in Chicago, Illinois, on June 18, 1912, and to nominate twelve republican electors for the state of Minnesota; and for the further purpose of electing ten (10) delegates to the republican district convention for the ninth congressional district of the state of Minnesota, to be held at the armory in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1912, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of said day, for the purpose of electing two (2) delegates and two (2) alternates to the national republican convention to nominate a president and vice president of the United States, to be held in Chicago, Illinois, on June 18, 1912.

The primaries for the election of delegates to said republican county convention shall be held at the usual voting place in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on Saturday, the 11th day of May, 1912, from seven to eight o'clock p. m.

The republican voters of Pennington county, Minnesota, without regard to past political affiliations, who believe in the principles advocated by the republican party and endorse its policies are cordially invited to participate in the selection of delegates to this convention.

The representation to said republican county convention shall be based upon the average republican vote for the following state officers at the election of 1910: Governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, and attorney general. Each voting precinct being entitled to one delegate for each twenty-five or major fraction thereof, and one delegate at at large.

In accordance with above apportionment the several voting precincts in Pennington county, Minnesota, will be entitled to the following number of delegates to the said republican county convention in and for the county of Pennington and state of Minnesota.

MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of thirty six ($36.00) dollars interest, which became due October 1st, 1911, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by David W. Clayton and Mary E. Clayton, mortgagors, to Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of April, 1907, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota on the 8th day of April, 1907, at 1:20 o'clock p. m., in book 31 of mortgages on page 441, and now on record in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in said state, in book 24 of mortgages on page 117;

Which mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby was duly assigned by said Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., mortgagee, to David Rosenberg by written assignment, dated the 10th day of April, 1907, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 15th day of April, 1907, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., in book 32 of mortgages on page 406, and now of record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 42 of mortgages, page 92.

And whereas, the said David Rosenberg, assignee, thereafter died testate, and by the provisions of his will, which has been duly admitted to probate, assigned and conveyed said mortgage by his said written will to Amalie Rosenberg, and the said will having been duly admitted to probate in the probate court of the county of Swift, in the state of Minnesota, on the 24th day of May, 1910, the said probate court did thereafter make and enter its final decree, in writing, in the estate of David Rosenberg, deceased, dated on the 27th day of February, 1911, and thereby assigned and conveyed the said mortgage and the debt secured thereby to Amalie Rosenberg, which said final decree assigning said mortgage, pursuant to to the provisions of the will aforesaid, was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 a. m., in book A of Miscellaneous on Page 170, and the letters testamentary issued in said estate to Myron Rosenberg, executor of the will of said David Rosenberg, deceased, was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said Pennington county on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 o'clock in book A of Miscellaneous on page 169.

And Whereas, The premises described in said mortgage are now included in the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, which county was created and organized on the 23rd day of November, 1910, out of a part of the former Red Lake county.

And Whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of the default in the payment of said interest, the whole principal sum of said mortgage did on the second day of October, 1911, become immediately due and payable and was so declared by the said Amalie Rosenberg, assignee of said mortgage, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon said mortgage the sum of twelve hundred seventy-three and 8-100 ($1273.08) dollars; and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, towit: The east half (e½) of the southwest quarter (sw¼) and lots number six (6) and seven (7) in section six (6) of township one hundred fifty-two (152) north of range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian for Minnesota, now in Pennington county, Minnesota, the same formerly being in Red Lake county Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Pennington county at the front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on the 20th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of twelve hundred seventy-three and 08-100 ($1273.08) dollars and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty ($50.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 30, A. D. 1912.

AMALIE ROSENBERG,
Assignee of mortgagee.

THE SPENDTHRIFT.

HE left so little, did you say?
He had so brief a time to stay
'Twas hardly worth his while to gather
Dross of our little earthly day.

The things that other people prize
He gave to others, being wise;
Being so heavenly foolish, rather
That kept his gains for paradise.

Hardly a keepsake did he leave,
And all his gold was fugitive.
He kept those things that will not perish
For him the widow and orphan grieve.

He gave with a light heart, indeed,
As he and gold were ill agreed,
Held it the poorest thing to cherish,
Save that it filled another's need.

He had his pilgrim's scrip of hope
And living waters in his cup.
The staff of faith that still suffices
The stumbling soul to lift it up.

Being so soon a traveler,
Of earthly things he had no care,
But on the road that's paradise's
He went the lighter, being bare.

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

BABY'S TERRIBLE SUFFERING

"When my baby was six months old, his body was completely covered with large sores that seemed to itch and burn, and cause terrible suffering. The eruption began in pimples which would open and run, making large sores. His hair came out and finger nails fell off, and the sores were over the entire body, causing little or no sleep for baby or myself. Great scabs would come off when I removed his shirt.

"We tried a great many remedies, but nothing would help him, till a friend induced me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment but a short time before I could see that he was improving, and in six weeks' time he was entirely cured. He had suffered about six weeks before we tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, although we had tried several other things, and doctors, too I think the Cuticura Remedies will do all that is claimed for them, and a great deal more." (Signed) Mrs. Noble Tubman, Dodson, Mont., Jan. 28, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

FREE ADVICE TO SICK WOMEN

Thousands Have Been Helped By Common Sense Suggestions.

Women suffering from any form of female ills are invited to communicate promptly with the woman's private correspondence department of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence. A woman can freely talk of her private illness to a woman; thus has been established a confidential correspondence which has extended over many years and which has never been broken. Never have they published a testimonial or used a letter without the written consent of the writer, and never has the Company allowed these confidential letters to get out of their possession, as the hundreds of thousands of them in their files will attest.

Out of the vast volume of experience which they have to draw from, it is more than possible that they possess the very knowledge needed in your case. Nothing is asked in return except your good will, and their advice has helped thousands. Surely any woman, rich or poor, should be glad to take advantage of this generous offer of assistance. BEVERAGES IN CUBA

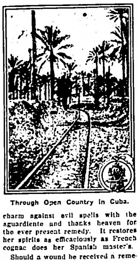
Hundred Different Kinds of "Refrescos" Are Used.

Infirmities of Man Are Supposed to Be Helped, If Not Cured, by Various Concoctions, Either Hot, Cold or Tepid, but Never Iced.

Havana, Cuba.—The old colored cook in Cuba when she goes to market can pick out the pork obtained from pigs which have been fed on sugar cane alone, and she refuses to purchase any other. No one can cheat her into buying alcohol made from any other source, either. Some foreigners may not know real aguardiente, pure and undefiled sugar cane made, but she does. She bathes her face in it, sips it, rubs the baby with it, puts a drop of it in the baby's hot soup, makes a cross on the forehead as a charm against evil spells with the aguardiente and thanks heaven for the ever present remedy. It restores her spirits as efficaciously as French cognac does her Spanish master's.



Through Open Country in Cuba.

Should a wound be received a remedy is at hand; the sore is bathed in aguardiente, a little is taken for the stomach's sake, and all is well. Aguaradiente is as close, even much closer at hand often than is water, and it is the remedy of all remedies for every ill flesh is heir to among the majority of natives. Sometimes it is used to spice a hot cup of tea made from the leaf of the orange tree or a distilled hot tea called tila. All the infirmities of man are supposed in Cuba to be helped, if not cured, by a drink of some kind, hot or cold or tepid, but iced, never. What a flying in the face of Providence to a Cuban it is to drink iced anything! Tea as known in other countries is slightly esteemed and seldom used.

As to water, yes, it is used as a drink in every house. But it is natural water. A "tineja" for water stands in every home, enclosed by slats of mahogany or carved teakwood and ivory, according to the owner's wealth, and in the large porous earthen jar within is water, but iced, never.

In the poorer houses swings the "porron" somewhere in the circulating air. It is a porous earthenware bottle. You drink from it directly by throwing back your head and poising it, deftly aiming the stream from the right spout—for there are two, one to drink from, the other to fill it by—straight down the throat. No water ever tastes better, even from a coconut gourd, but practice alone can make perfect in dexterity with the "porron."

Tamarind is cooling to the foreign blood. It is served as a crushed pulp mixed with sugar and water. Perhaps you prefer a refreshing drink of crushed pineapple—but pineapple in its native juicy, normal state and superiority. There are a hundred "refrescos" of juicy fruits ever at hand, from the anon, the custard apple planted in the Garden of Eden by Mother Nature, to the chirimoza, the papaya and scores of others. Their names may be unpronounceable to the stranger, but are glibly rolled off by the residents of the Garden of Eden, as every native calls his beloved island.

BATH AT A HOLLAND HOTEL

Tourist Writes of His Experience at Old Hostelry—Charge 40 Cents for Water.

Amsterdam, Holland.—"There are some things about a trip through Holland that you recall when stopping at one of our modern hotels," said Albert Sampter at the Hotel Pontchartrain. "In many places the hotels are run as they have been for ages and candles still are the vogue.

"Rooms with bath are unknown. Instead they charge you about 40 cents in American money for a bath. You ask for the privilege of using the tub and they send up a maid who brings with her towels and soap if you have none, for you are supposed to carry both with you. She fills the tub, has it about the right degree of heat, and the faucets are locked, so that if you want any more water you don't get it; also there is no chance for your traveling pal sneaking in and enjoying a bath without coming through with another 40 cents.

"You are provided with one candle a day and charged for it. The lights go out early in the night, and if you happen to get up or want to read you have to use a candle. This does not apply to Amsterdam, which is a metropolitan city."

Strikes a Blacksnake Mine.

East Killingly, Conn.—H. F. Chase was digging in a gravel mound at the north end of Breakneck hill the other day, when he unearthed a nest of blacksnakes. Evidently they were angry at being so early aroused from hibernation, and since then they have continued to appear in decidedly bad temper. Seventy-six have already been killed, big fellows, varying in length from three and a half to five and a half feet. Mr. Chase is a strict teetotaler!

LOOK FOR THE CAUSE

Follow the Advice of Other Women Who Have Had Experiences Similar to Yours.

Have you ever stopped to consider what is the meaning of the various symptoms from which you are suffering? Certainly the paleness, pain in the back, headaches, loss of appetite, nervousness, shortness of breath must have some one cause. They are not diseases in themselves but are complaints and warnings from the different organs of the body that these organs are not being supplied with pure blood and cannot do their daily work well.

To be in good health a person must always have good rich blood. Every tissue of the body depends upon it for nourishment and strength. Knowledge of this fact makes possible a direct treatment for the various disorders from which women suffer. They can cure their troubles by making the blood pure with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

Mrs. F. N. Kenning, of No. 411 Fifteenth avenue, North Minneapolis, Minn., who was completely cured by this remedy, says:

"For over a year I was in very poor health. I was very weak and thin and had terrible pains through my back. I would be in bed for a week at a time. I was subject to dizzy spells. My limbs would seem to give out and I would have no control of them during these spells. I was reduced in weight to 98 pounds and could not do my work.

"The doctor did not seem to help me and I quit his treatment. It was then a cousin recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People to me and I gave them a trial. I soon felt much better and I now weigh 115 pounds. For years I had terrible headaches but since taking the pills these have disappeared. My health is better than it has been in years and I give the credit to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I would advise all suffering women to take the pills for I know they will relieve them of much misery."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People should be used in anaemia, chlorosis or green sickness, sick headache, and for nervousness and a general run-down condition of the health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale at all druggists, or will be mailed to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

"Has that boy of yours who graduated from college last year found a job that suits him yet?"

"Nope. He's still looking for one."

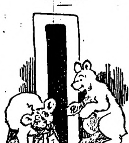
"Well, I don't just know. He seems to do most of his looking nights."

Her Cigarette.

"I never smoke except in my own room."

"I often smoke when I'm out, but it's always for the first time!"

JEALOUS.



"My wife is awfully jealous."

"Is that so?"

"Yes; she wouldn't speak to me for three days after I hugged that hunter."

THE OLD PLEA

He "Didn't Know It Was Loaded."

The coffee drinker seldom realizes that coffee contains the drug, caffeine, a severe poison to the heart and nerves, causing many forms of disease, noticeably dyspepsia.

"I was a lover of coffee and used it for many years, and did not realize the bad effects I was suffering from its use. (Tea is just as injurious as coffee because it, too, contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"At first I was troubled with indigestion. I did not attribute the trouble to the use of coffee, but thought it arose from other causes. With these attacks I had sick headache, nausea and vomiting. Finally my stomach was in such a condition I could scarcely retain any food.

"I consulted a physician; was told all my troubles came from indigestion, but was not informed what caused the indgestion. I kept on with the coffee, and kept on with the troubles, too, and my case continued to grow worse from year to year until it developed into chronic diarrhea, nausea and severe attacks of vomiting. I could keep nothing on my stomach and became a mere shadow, reduced from 159 to 128 pounds.

"A specialist informed me I had a very severe case of catarrh of the stomach, which had got so bad he could do nothing for me, and I became convinced my days were numbered.

"Then I chanced to see an article setting forth the good qualities of Postum and explaining how coffee injured people so I concluded to give Postum a trial. I soon saw the good effects—my headaches were less frequent, nausea and vomiting only came on at long intervals and I was soon a changed man, feeling much better.

"Then I thought I could stand coffee again, but as soon as I tried it my old troubles returned and I again turned to Postum. Would you believe it, I did this three times before I had sense enough to quit coffee for good and keep on with the Postum. I am now a well man with no more headaches, sick stomach or vomiting, and have already gained back to 147 pounds." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Battle Creek, Mich.

DOLLS THE CHIEF INDUSTRY

Consul-General Tells of Quaint German Villages Where Everybody Is Working on Toy Babes.

Berlin, Germany.—The old home of the doll is Thuringia, especially the town of Sonneberg, 12 miles from Coburg. Most of the poorer families in and around Sonneburg, writes Consul-General Frank Dillingham at Coburg, are engaged in this industry, which is the chief source of revenue of the population, giving employment for the whole year. The work demands a great deal of practice and skill, as well as time and trouble. The inhabitants start making dolls while very young and by constant practice are finally able to work with astonishing accuracy and speed. In the doll industry only some special part of the dolls is made by each person. Some make the bodies, others the heads and still others the arms, hands, etc. By this division the work is done much quicker and better.

The heads are first molded, and when sufficiently dry the eyes are cut out by a skilled worker with a very thin, sharp knife. This is extremely delicate work, because all of the sockets have to be of uniform size or the eyes do not fit. After being burned the heads are painted, waxed or glazed, depending on the material from which the heads are made. The arms, legs and hands are produced in a similar but simpler manner, as the painting consists only in giving the necessary flesh color, while the heads must have rosy cheeks, red lips and dark or light eyebrows, depending on the color of the eyes. The setting of the eyes and the making and attaching of the wigs involve a number of other processes.

The doll industry is now commencing to make the "character doll" in restricted numbers. The model is made by an artist and the molds are then copied from this model. The painting of these dolls is done with especial care, and, consequently, their price is considerably higher than that of the commoner type of doll.

The assembling of the different parts of the dolls is often very complicated. The best jointed dolls have stout elastic cord on the inside, to which the movable parts are attached. A special branch of the industry is devoted to the making of dresses and hats. The latest Parisian styles are copied in dressing the larger sized dolls, and the creations turned out compare very favorably, in miniature, with the original.

FEATURES OF CHINESE HOME

One Story Dwellings of the Orientals, the Exteriors of Which Are Unpromising.

Pekin, China.—It is difficult for the Occidental mind to picture the wall within wall life of a Chinese home, says a writer in the Century. Down a narrow lane one passes between two walls, behind which may be hovels or palaces, there is no telling which, since the one story roofs beyond are invisible.

One pulls a string at a gateway, the address of some family of high degree. A servant appears, leads through another gateway, a flowery courtyard, a passageway, perhaps another courtyard, a little room or two, and finally into a reception room, with its carved wood wainscoting and furniture, its porcelains and jades and brasses, its blue and green and gold ceiling.

Here the hostess appear, offers her Occidental guest tea or champagne, or both, with cakes and candied fruit or lotus buds. Then she may lead one through other courtyards, all with the usual one story rooms around them, and into her secluded garden of rocks and pools, of pretty paths and bridges of clustering trees and flowers.

In such a palace as this each courtyard with its surrounding rooms may be the special home of one of the sons and his wife and children; but somewhere in the maze of walls, under one of the low, tiled roofs, is the common dining-room, with the kitchen beyond. Here the men of the family eat together twice a day and afterward the women and children. And somewhere also there is a central family hall, with their tribute of incense at proper seasons. These are held in such reverence that no foot may pass above them, and therefore two story dwellings are unknown in regions uncontaminated by foreign influence.

Canadian Parliament to Meet.

Ottawa, Ont.—Plans for ratification of the trade agreement signed between Canada and the British West Indies will cause parliament to assemble earlier than expected. There is speculation as to the effect of the opposition United States milling interests may offer and as to whether proposed retaliatory action by the American government will impede ratification of the treaty. The agreement gives Canadian flour a preference rate in the West Indies.

City Takes Circus Menagerie.

New York.—New York city is officially in possession of the entire menagerie of Barnum & Bailey's circus. An attachment upon all the animals, from monkeys to elephants, was served by Sheriff Harburger in a suit for $25,000 damages brought by a woman bareback rider, who claims to have sustained a broken arm in Cleveland through carelessness of the circus management.

HIS SERMON IN A NUTSHELL

Comprehensive and Succinct Report of What Was Said in the Funeral Oration.

A popular Irishman, beloved for many a mile around his home town, died suddenly. He belonged to several organizations, and the A. O. H. of Bloomville decided to send a representative to his funeral.

The church was packed and the clergyman most sympathetic. In expressing his certainty of immortality he went in for simile.

"We will say," he observed in illustration, "that here is a beautiful watch. The case is good and is studded with diamonds. It looks like the valuable part of the watch, but you can remove the works and they will keep on ticking."

The delegate returned to his home town and was sounded on the topic of the funeral sermon.

"Well," he reported, "the father said that Pat was no Waterbury."

IN CRITICAL CONDITION.

Spokane, Wash., Woman Endures Terrible Suffering.

Mrs. J. A. Schoonmaker, 127 S. Pine St., Spokane, Wash., says: "I grew so weak I could scarcely do my housework and was often confined to bed. There was a bearing-down pain through my hips and my head ached as if it would split. I knew by the kidney secretions that my kidneys were in a terrible condition but though I doctored, I gradually grew worse, until in critical condition. It was then I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and was entirely cured. I have not had a sign of kidney trouble since."

Missing the Point.

Representative Rucker of Colorado, apropos of a tariff argument about sugar, said to a Washington correspondent: "Oh, well, those men don't see my point. They miss it as badly as the old lady missed her son's.

"'Mother,' a young man said, looking up from the Bulletin, 'would you believe that it takes 5,000 elephants a year to make our piano keys and billiard balls?'

"'Make our piano keys and billiard balls!' cried the old lady. 'Well, I always understood elephants where intelligent creatures, but I never knew before that they'd been trained to make piano keys and billiard balls.'"

THE SECRET OF LONG LIFE.

Do not sap the springs of life by neglect of the human mechanism, by allowing the accumulation of poisons in the system. An imitation of Nature's method of restoring waste of tissue and impoverishment of the blood and nervous strength is to take an alterative glyceric extract (without alcohol) of Golden Seal and Oregon grape root, Bloodroot, Stone and Mandrake root with Cherrybark. Over 40 years ago Dr. Pierce gave to the public this remedy, which he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. He found it would help the blood in taking up the proper elements from food, help the liver into activity, thereby throwing out the poisons from the blood and vitalizing the whole system as well as allaying and soothing a cough.

No one ever takes cold unless constipated, or exhausted, and having what we call mal-nutrition, which is attended with impoverished blood and exhaustion of nerve force. The "Discovery" is an all-round tonic which restores tone to the blood, nerves and heart by imitating Nature's methods of restoring waste of tissue, and feeding the nerves, heart and lungs on rich red blood.

"I suffered from pain under my right shoulder blade also a very severe cough," writes Mrs. W. Dorn, of New Brookland, S. C., to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. "Had four different doctors and none did me any good. Some said I had consumption, others said I would have to have an operation. I was bedridden, unable to sit up for six months—and was nothing but a live skeleton. You advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. When I had taken one bottle of the 'Discovery' I could sit up for an hour at a time, and when I had taken three bottles I could do my cooking and tend to the children. I took fourteen bottles in all and was then in good health. My weight is now 167 pounds.

TAFT MEN BEATEN AT EVERY TURN BY OPPOSITION'S BIG MAJORITY.

PREPARE FOR CONTESTS.

Unusual Number of Disputes as to Delegations to Be Adjusted—Rearrangement of Southern Representation.

Independence, Kansas. — Adopting strong resolutions favoring the entire progressive movement and leaving out the time-honored custom of laudatory planks in praise of state and government officials, the Republican state convention named four delegates-at-large to the national convention with ironclad instructions for Roosevelt for president.

William Allen White of Emporia was indorsed for national committeeman.

From the moment the convention opened the 104 delegates bearing instructions for President Taft were working to get through some of the things they desired, but the Roosevelt majority of 190 was too great.

The first attempt the Taft men made was when the resolutions committee brought in a report indorsing the record of Senator La Follette, the candidacy of William Allen White for national committeeman to succeed David W. Mulvane and instructing the four delegates-at-large to vote for Roosevelt.

Stephen Walker of Columbus, a Taft delegate, after the resolutions had been read, moved that that portion of the resolution indorsing Senator La Follette be cancelled, that Mr. Mulvane be indorsed for national committeeman and that the convention instruct the delegates for President Taft. He proceeded to speak upon his motion.

Walker's motion was lost, only getting 104 votes. The report of the resolutions committee was then adopted as read.

Committee to Decide All Contests.

New York.—The Republican national committee will meet in Chicago Thursday afternoon, June 6, to decide contests among delegates to the national convention. The call for the meeting was issued also by William Hayward, secretary of the committee. This will be the earliest meeting held for many years by the committee and will give it 12 days to consider contests before the convention opens on June 18.

Indications that there will be an unusual number of contests this year, Mr. Hayward said, had been considered by Victor Rosewater, the committee's acting chairman, and himself in sending out the call for the early meeting of the committee. A few contests already have been brought officially before the committee's officers and many more are expected, he said, before the expiration of the time limit for filing contests on May 29, 20 days before the convention.

Mr. Hayward also announced that he would place before the committee a plan upon which he has been working for some time that will affect the representation of the South in Republican national conventions. The principal objection to plans previously suggested, he said, was the elimination of the congressional district as the unit representation. The plan he would submit to the committee would change the basis of representation, he said, and still retain the congressional district as the unit.

NEW SHRINE OFFICERS.

Minneapolitan Made Imperial Oriental Guide—Dallas 1913 Mecca.

Los Angeles, May 9.—The 38th annual conclave of the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine came to a close with the selection of Dallas, Texas, as the 1913 mecca, the election of Ernest C. Cutts of Savannah, Ga., as imperial outer guard and the advancement of the other imperial officials, which placed William J. Cunningham of Baltimore, Md., at the head of the Shriners, as imperial potentate.

Following are the new officers: Wm. J. Cunningham, Baltimore, Md., imperial potentate; William I. Irwin, Wheeling, W. Va., deputy imperial potentate; Frederick R. Smith, Rochester, N. Y., imperial chief rabban; J. Putnam Stevens, Portland, Me., imperial assistant rabban; Henry F. Neidringhaus, Jr., St. Louis, imperial high priest and prophet; Charles E. Ovenshire, Minneapolis, imperial oriental guide; Wm. S. Brown, Pittsburg, imperial treasurer; Benjamin W. Rowell, Boston, imperial recorder; Elias J. Jacoby, Indianapolis, imperial first ceremonial master; W. Freeland Kendrick, Philadelphia, imperial second ceremonial; Ellis Garrison, Tacoma, Wash., imperial marshal; Wm. J. Matthews, New York City, imperial captain of the guard; Ernest A. Cutts, Savannah, Ga., imperial outer guard.

Four Children of Family Die.

Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.—A family named Cudmore, residing at West View, 18 miles west of here, have just lost four of its children within a few days of each other, all from cerebral meningitis. Their ages ranged from 5 to 18 years, two boys and two girls. The illness only lasted some 12 hours and only one of them regained consciousness after the symptoms developed. The provincial medical officer has had the case under consideration and sent a serum to be injected which, unfortunately, was of no avail.

END OF RAFTING.

Present Season Will Bring Close on Winona Section of River.

Winona.—Captain W. L. Hunter, who came up the river on Tuesday in command of the Ottumwa Belle, the first rafting boat from below this season, says this year will close rafting operations in this section of the upper Mississippi. Outside of the Ottumwa Belle he says there is only one other raftboat in commission, and with the decline of the lumber industry there will very likely not be anything for these two boats to do after the present year.

Announcement is made by Captain Fugina of the steamer Ideal that his boat will come to Winona on its first trip of the season in a few days, and will at that time start the service it has provided for years past. The boat will run daily between Winona and Fountain City.

The usual Saturday and Sunday afternoon excursions will be run from the time the service is started here, and by the middle of June the Wednesday afternoon excursions will be added.

So far there is nothing to indicate anything to take the place of the service heretofore furnished by the La Crosse in running as a packet between Wabasha and La Crosse. The La Crosse is an old boat and was withdrawn from service at the close of last season. The Red Wing, is undergoing repairs at Fountain City bay and soon will be put on the run between St. Paul and Wabasha.

The excursion steamer Purchase is also being overhauled at Fountain City bay and will before long be taken to St. Paul to enter the excursion trade again.

NEW ROAD TO DULUTH.

C., M. & St. P. Contemplating Route to Big Stone County.

Duluth.—The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad company, it is said on good authority, is behind the Lake Superior and South Dakota railroad recently incorporated to build a line from Duluth to the western boundary of Big Stone county, Minnesota.

The Milwaukee road has just completed its new road to the coast and the line from the head of the lakes would connect with the western branch at Ortonville making a direct route.

At the present time, the Milwaukee road has an agreement with the Northern Pacific, by which, by the payment of one-half of the expense of the short line from St. Paul to Duluth the Milwaukee may run its freight and passenger trains over it. For a long time the Milwaukee is known to have coveted a direct entrance to Duluth.

TO MEET AT HIBBING.

Swedish-Finnish Benevolence Association to Hold Convention in Range Town.

Hibbing.—The annual national convention of the Swedish-Finnish Benevolence association will be held in this city on June 27, 28, 29 and 30. The local committee on arrangements is making preparations for the entertainment of the guests. This convention is the first of its kind to be held here, and the citizens in general will spare no pains to make it a success.

On the last day of the convention the national picnic will be held at the St. Louis County Fair association grounds in this city, and it is expected that over 1,500 persons will be present. Special trains will be run on all railroads. Delegates are expected from every city in the union and from Canada.

ROADS IN BAD SHAPE

Mankato Automobile Club Prepares to Remedy Conditions.

Mankato.—Governor Eberhart was one of the speakers at the annual banquet of the Mankato Automobile club. The affair was the most elaborate yet held by the club, and 150 were served. Other speakers were E. F. Searing, secretary of the Mankato Commercial club, August Schulte, S. B. Wilson and George M. Palmer. At the business session committees were appointed to carry on the work of the club, and a pennant was adopted. It was decided to work with the Commercial club in the matter of good roads, and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown on this subject. The wet fall, depth of the frost and wet spring have left the country roads in an unusually bad condition.

BOY TRAPPERS MAKE MONEY.

Gopher and Wolf Bounties Line Pockets of Wadena Lads.

Wadena. — Hunting and trapping wolves and pocket gophers for the bounty is bringing in much cash to farmers and their boys. One farmer's son has already caught eighty gophers this spring. John M. Zentz of Orton township caught eight wolf cubs and received thirty-two dollars bounty. The cubs were captured in the absence of the mother wolf.

ELK RIVER DAM OUT.

Flood Waters Spread Over the Adjacent Country—Loss $15,000.

Elk, River, Minn. — The dam of the Elk River Milling company at this point went out and one corner of the foundation of the mill was undermined and the big building is settling slowly. The loss up to this time is estimated at $15,000. A bridge above the dam has been so weakened that traffic is prohibited and the mill flume has been washed down river.

The mill property is valued at more than $50,000 and is owned by Massachusetts capitalists. The main building is frame. A force of men are working frantically to stay the flood with sandbags and rock and earth and should no more rain fall for several days there is good prospect the building can be saved.

The mill and dam are on Elk river and the flats between them and the Mississippi are partly flooded. No particular damage has been done except to the mill property. The east end of the dam was the first to yield under the pressure of the flood waters. The tributaries of the Mississippi are spreading out over the country and the main river is booming bank-full.

R. R. WILL MINE IRON.

President Hill of the Great Northern Optimistic as to Ore Situation.

Hibbing.—President Louis W. Hill of the Great Northern, D. M. Philbin, superintendent of the Great Northern ore properties, and A. M. Chisholm of Duluth are on a tour of the range to look over the Great Northern ore properties.

"We expect to be in the mining business on the range ourselves before long," Mr. Hill said. This is interpreted as meaning that with the cancellation of the lease on Hill mines with the steel corporation next year, the great Northern will go into the ore handling and ore market business. Mr. Hill said he would not say the Great Northern would acquire a fleet of boats to carry its ore down the lakes.

Mr. Hill takes an optimistic view of the iron mining situation, and says the Great Northern will handle in excess of 12,000,000 tons from the Mesabi range this year.

MISSION WORK PLANNED.

Lake Superior District of Northwestern Association Meets at Virginia.

Virginia. — The Lake Superior district of the Northwestern Mission Association held its annual meeting here last week. Among other things decided upon was that Rev. Mr. Thomberg will carry on the missionary work on the range, and especially in rural districts. It was decided to call a student of North Park college to do mission work on the ranges, with headquarters at Hibbing.

The following officers were elected: Rev. J. J. Daniels of Duluth, re-elected president; Rev. C. V. S. Engstrom of West Duluth, secretary; D. Johnson of Duluth, treasurer; Rev. P. B. Wellander of Superior, elected member of the district.

SANITARIUM SITE.

Work on Otter Tail County Tuberculosis Hospital Soon to Begin.

Fergus Falls.—The Otter Tail county sanatorium commission has selected a site for the proposed Otter Tail county tuberculosis hospital on the north shore of Lake Blanche, about three miles from the village of Battle Lake, and very nearly in the center of the county. Work on the building is to be begun as soon as the site is approved by the state board of health.

HIBBING IS IMPROVING.

Hibbing.—An addition which is estimated to cost about $200,000 will be built to the Lincoln high school building in this city. Each department will be fitted with the best apparatus obtainable, and the gymnasium and swimming pool will be open in summer months for the use of pupils. The firm of Tomlinson & Egan of Ashland were awarded the general contract at $140,197.

Lightning Kills 3 Horses.

Faribault. — Three horses were killed by lightning at the Harry Peasley farm near here. Peasley was driving the team attached to a seeder when the bolt struck. The driver was badly burned.

Cutworms Again Menace.

Winona. — Farmers say the cutworms will be a greater menace this year to gardners and agriculturists than last year. The ground is said to be full of the worms. Various methods have been advanced for eradicating scourge. William Nesbit, residing near Fremont, declares that common dry sulphur was used effectively on his farm and in his garden last year. A cornfield was alive with the worms, he asserted, but after he sprinkled the sulphur about the stalks every trace of them was lost.

In Minnesota.

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

Duluth.—Gus Palma, a miner at the Utica iron property, fell down a shaft and was instantly killed.

Chisholm.—The Ladies society of the Hebrew church in this city and in Hibbing are securing funds for the erection of synagogues.

Virginia.—Fully 450 students of the high school and the seventh and eighth grades will take the state high school examinations in this city in May.

Waseca. — The high school will graduate a class of seventeen on May 31. Clara Lawin has been awarded first and Harry Kennedy second honors for scholarship.

Glyndon.—The consolidated school district election held here carried almost unanimously in favor of the organization. The contemplated district contains 200 children of school age.

Rochester.—Rev. Reed Taft Bayne has accepted an invitation to the pastorate of the Congregational church of this city. He is a second cousin of President Taft, his mother being Julia Taft Bayne.

Hibbing.—Ed. Graft, a lumberjack, raided a wolf den and caught eight timber wolf cubs. He brought them to this city and the commercial clubs of range towns are bidding for them in order that they may be put in their respective parks.

Winona.—Organization of the United Brethren church has been completed here after a series of three weeks' meetings conducted by Rev. C. B. Fletcher, D.D., of Fostoria, Ohio. Rev. Mr. Stone is the pastor and the church starts with thirty-two communicants.

St. Paul. — Secretary of State Schmahl reports that $16,101 was taken into his office during April for automobile licenses, compared with $5,032 in April last year. Fifty-one dealers, 7,600 individual owners, 1,398 motor cyclists, and 698 chauffeurs took out licenses last month.

Hibbing.—About 1,000 cars of iron ore are being handled each day out of Kelly lake by the Great Northern. This makes about nine trains. The Great Northern has added several extra train crews at Superior and is preparing to handle the largest shipments ever made from the Hibbing district.

Warren. — After fifteen years of faithful service on the railroad bus line, Dexter, a horse raised by Coates Bros., was killed on account of old age. A statistician at the livery stable has it figured out that during this fifteen years Dexter has traveled a distance equal to six times around the world.

Winona.—Rev. Edward Borncamp, rector of St. Paul's church, has been granted a leave of absence for the summer by his vestry and will tour France, Holland, Belgium and England. Horace Seaton, organist and choirmaster of the same church, will also go to Europe. The two will meet in England and return to this country together.

Hibbing. — Upon information furnished by the Sturgeon Lake Rod and Gun club, that wholesale netting of fish was being carried on at Sturgeon lake, sixteen miles north, Game Warden Wood made another raid and arrested two. He seized about 1,500 feet of netting, two headlights, one speeder used to carry the fish to market and about 200 pounds of fish.

Winona.—The big packet Morning Star, which was last season operated between St. Paul, Stillwater and Davenport, was this week taken out of its winter quarters in the harbor at Davenport and will make a trip to Burlington and Keokuk. The boat has been thoroughly overhauled. Walter A. Blair will again be the head officer this year with C. H. erris and J. D. Mefford as pilots.

Sauk Rapids.—An interesting meeting was held at Sauk Rapids when E. M. Phillips, state rural school commissioner, addressed the assembly on the benefits of consolidation. According to the proposed plan, districts 4, 29 and 23 will consolidate with the Sauk Rapids independent district. Petitions are being circulated and when 25 per cent of the freeholders have signed an election will be called.

Faribault. — Since announcement has been made that the Dan Patch line will enter Faribault on the Chicago Great Western, there are rumors that it will also lease the road from Faribault to Mankato and run into the latter city. It is the opinion of many business men that within six months the Dan Patch will be running into Mankato from this city. The building of a trolley line from Sioux Falls, S. D., through southern Minnesota by way of Faribault seems to be assured. George E. Doyle has been in Faribault in the interest of the company. He has been working through the southwestern part of the county, and looking up the possibilities of connecting with the Dan Patch in this city and then running into the Twin Cities.

St. Paul.—Minnesota had $2,077,310.87 on hand at the close of business yesterday, according to the report of Walter J. Smith, state treasurer, and is poorer by about $775,000 than a year ago. This depletion of the state treasury largely is due to the generosity of the state legislature in making appropriations.

Washington, D. C.—Republican Miller has recommended the appointment of Eric Lind to be postmaster at Nemadji, Carlton county, and E. F. Anderson to be postmaster at Lindford, Koochiching county, Minnesota.

A CHECK TO RHEUMATISM

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Build Up the Blood and Overcome the Rheumatic Poisons.

Rheumatism defies any treatment that does not build up and purify the blood. The poisons of rheumatism are in the blood and it is only through the blood that the disease can be fought successfully.

Unless the blood is weak and impure, rheumatism cannot get a foothold. When it does the thin and impure blood is not strong enough to overcome the poisons alone. It must be strengthened and purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best blood-building medicine you can take. They make new blood with every dose and promptly check further progress of the disease. They make the blood so pure and strong that not the least trace of rheumatism remains.

Mr. A. Hamann, a farmer on R. F. D. No. 2, Eldridge, Iowa, says: "I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People for indigestion and rheumatism from which I suffered for over six years. As these attacks came on every spring, I think they were caused by impure blood. The rheumatism was always more severe in my ankles and knees and especially in my arms, when I had been shopping or working hard. The pains were so severe that I could hardly sleep at night. I used liniments of many kinds, but they didn't do more than drive the pain to some other part of the body and I did not get any relief from the doctor's medicine.

"When I read about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in our weekly paper I made up my mind to try a medicine that had actually cured some one else. A few boxes cured me and I think so much of the pills that I keep them in the house to use as a tonic. My wife finds them strengthening and we think the pills are the best medicine for the blood."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the blood's greatest aid in overcoming rheumatism, headaches, anaemia, chlorosis, and after-effects of the grip and fevers.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

LOTS COMING.

"Has Tom made the last payment on his automobile yet?"

"Lord, no! It has just commenced to break!"

ERUPTION COVERED BODY

"Three years ago this winter I had a breaking out that covered my whole body. It itched so it seemed as if I should go crazy. It first came out in little pimples on my back and spread till it covered my whole body and limbs down to my knees, also my arms down to my elbows. Where I scratched it made sores, and the terrible itching and burning kept me from sleeping. I tried several remedies all to no purpose. Then I concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies. I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, also the Resolvent, for about four months, and they completely cured me of eczema. I have had no return of the disease since. I never had a good night's rest after the skin eruption first broke out till I commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I had only used them a few days before I could see they were beginning to heal, and the terrible itching was gone.

"Those that lived in the house at the time know how I suffered, and how the Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured me. I never take a bath without using the Cuticura Soap, and I do not believe there are better remedies for any skin disease than the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Miss Sarah Calkins, Waukegan, Ill., Mar. 16, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Report of the Forestry Commissioner

The sixteenth report of the forestry commissioner of Minnesota—Gen. C. Andrews—being for the year 1910, has just been printed. The legislatnre of Minnesota, by the act of April 12, 1911, having abolished the office of forestry commissioner, the present is the last report he will make.

With reference to the unprecedented dry season of 1910, culminating in the tornado swept fatal Baudette forest fire of October 7, in which twenty-nine people perished and a million dollars worth of property was destroyed, he thinks that if the legislature of 1909 had appropriated the $39,000 he asked, instead of only $21,000, he could have continued ranger service after September 1 and that probably the calamity would not have occurred.

He shows that on account of expense it is not practicable for railroads in Minnesota to use fuel oil in their locomotives; that it would be more economical for them to maintain efficient patrols.

He recommends that from April 15 to November 15 no one shall set fire to brush, stumps or meadows in the forest regions without first making a firebreak of bare earth a rod wide between the place of fire and the property of another.

For pay and expense of patrols and rangers and necessary fire lines, lookouts and telephones and for suppressing fires, he recomends an annual appropriation of $200,000, and $30,000 in addition for prosecutions. "The forest fire laws" he says, "will not be respected unless enforced. The state cannot keep a watchman over every heedless person in the forest regions. Examples must be made of those who violate the law, so that others will be restrained from negligence in the use of fire."

The report contains the new forestry law, which appropriates $75,000 annually for each of the next two fiscal years of the forest service and which authorizes the appointment of a state forester by the forestry board, he to appoint an assistant forester, and which abolishes the town fire warden system.

The report also contains sketches of forestry in twenty European countries, and a number of illustrations.

It appears that the proposed amendment to the constitution for a tax of one-fifteenth of a mill for reforestation received 100,168 votes, but lacked 55,C10 votes of being adopted.

Eleventh Biennial Sangerfest

That the eleventh biennial sangerfest is to be the greatest of all the conventions of the Norwegian Singers' association is now an assured fact. Every society having a membership in the grand organization has responded to the invitations sent out by Secretary Hagen and has promised to send delegations ranging from six to sixty voices; this means that the chorus of Fargo will comprise not less than one thousand voices.

Beyond a doubt, this chorus will be the largest gathering of male voices ever directed by one man, and those fortunate enough to hear them will receive a treat that will last forever. Fifty or sixty voices accustomed to singing together and ably directed render music that no instrument ever conceived can compare with in point of harmony, perfect blending of tones and expression, and a chorus of a full thousand will make music for which there is no adequate comparison. A symphony orchestra, perhaps, has greater scope of expression than any other combination of instruments; still even that cannot be compared to a male chorus. The richness and purity of tone, the flexibility, the contrast of gentleness and power, the great volume possible to attain with such an immense chorus as will be heard in Fargo this summer cannot be described and must be heard to be realizen.

The men comprising the membership of the Norwegian Singers' Association of America are all experienced singers, the majority of whom have sung together for years and who through long years of constant work have attained perfection of harmony. Every society has had the music which will be sung in Fargo for not less than six months, and has put in one or more evenings a week in rehearsals. It is, therefore, a certainty that every singer will know his part and do justice to it.

The chorus will be under the sole direction of Emil Bjorn of Chicago, one of the best known of present day conductors and composers, and will be accompanied by a full orchestra of not less than fifty pieces, all selected musicians. Four of the really great soloists in their respective lines will assist, one of whom will be Gustaf Holmquist of Chicago, perhaps the greatest basso of the present day.

All in all, the committees in charge are leaving nothing undone to make this the greatest musical event ever placed before the public and are going to make July 1s, 13, and 14 dates long to be remembered.

Skeleton Found at Thief River Falls

Coronor Swanson was called to Thief River Falls Wednesday to view the skeleton of a man found on the Hanson & Barzen farm west of the city.

The skeleton was that of a man about 5 feet 10 inches tall, and probably weighing in the neighborhood of 165 pounds. Decomposition was complete, there being no flesh on the bones and only bits of clothing remained. The man was lying on his stomach with right arm under him and head resting on the left side. The hair on the right side of the head was in a good state of preservation, although somewhat faded. The hair was light reddish.

A 35 calibre bullet had pierced the brain, entering at the right temple and coming out just over the left ear. A pair of lumberman's rubbers, size 8, encased the feet, and parts of a sheep lined, corduroy coat were about the remains. A 32 calibre revolver of the American bull dog type being held in the man's hand, as it was immediately underneath the right one. This might be suicide, or the [illegible] might have been placed there by design. No money found except a dime and two nickels.

Other than described above there was nothing by which to identify the man and the body had probably lain where it was found for something over two years. The coroner decided that as no indentification could be had, no inquest was necessary, and ordered the bones taken up and prepared for burial by the undertaker.

ROOSEVELT TALKS STRAIGHT AT YOU

Tells His Hearers Plainly Just Where He Stands.

Some of His Recent Utterances in Reply to the Attack by Mr. Taft on the Man Who Made Him President —Political, Social and Industrial Conditions as "T. R." Sees Them.

"Mr. Taft has announced that I am trying to stir up class hatred and excite discontent. I ask you to look for yourselves.

"I ask you to see if you can find anywhere in that speech any appeal to class hatred, except hatred of the class of crooks—political and financial alike. See if you can find any stirring up of discontent in it excepting of discontent with trickery, with political chicanery, with cheating, with oppression."

"I have preached abhorrence of Mr. Lorimer and of all that for which Mr. Lorimer stands, and of the kind of crooked politics and crooked finance which, in combination, are responsible for the production of Mr. Lorimer. But as regards most, even of the bosses whom I oppose, I have not preached hatred of them. I do not hate them; I merely wish them to retire to private life and quit misgoverning us.

"Mr. Taft says that I preach class hatred and excite discontent. Does Mr. Taft regard me as stirring up class hatred because I ask for a law in New York to prevent women from being worked for excessive hours in factories?

"Does Mr. Taft regard me as stirring up class hatred because I stand for a workmen's compensation act? Does he regard me as stirring up class hatred because I demand that the state and the nation co-operate to make the conditions of life and labor better for wageworkers; because I demand that state and nation co-operate to help the farmer?"

"I am advocating action which will be the most effective kind of antidote to class hatred; whereas, if Mr. Taft's policy of flabby indecision and helpless acquiescence in the wrongdoing of the crooked boss and the crooked financier is permitted to continue, there will really grow up class hatred in this country. There will grow up a very uncomfortable and very ugly feeling of discontent with political, social and industrial conditions."

"If it is any comfort to Mr. Taft to call Messrs. Lorimer, Cox, Penrose, Guggenheim, Calhoun, Gallinger and the rest patriotic leaders, instead of bosses, let him do so; but I earnestly hope that the plain people will vote against that particular type of patriotic leader."

"If you don't rule yourselves, be sure someone else will rule you. The boss will do it."

"I believe in a protective tariff, but I want to see the benefits get past the office into the pay envelopes. It is all right to have a reasonable share stop in the office, but not too much. I would like to see a national bureau whose business it would be to see that where protection is given to any industry, the wage-earners get a reasonable share."

"Law and order is but a means to justice, and unless it tends toward justice, law and order must come first, justice second."

"Every standpatter loves a progressive who is dead."

"We want to apply Lincoln's principles to labor problems."

"I am against any attempt to revive the reciprocity treaty, and I will be against any similar treaty that improperly sacrifices the interests of our farmers and fishermen."

"This is a line-up between the plain people and the great moneyed interests. We have against us the solid Republican machine, the money power and every newspaper that could be subsidized. There is no one with us but the plain people."

"Everything on the level and treat everyone on the square!"

"The man who incites the laboring man to overstep the law is the laboring man's enemy. Every other question must be held in abeyance until law and order are restored; then justice must be obtained. The country cannot permanently succeed unless more than a mere living wage is granted."

"The permanent prosperity of our country can only be assured by orderly liberty under the law. A man is an enemy who incites the workers to disorder. But we cannot succeed in this country unless the wage-earners are paid more than a living wage."

"If I could give advice to employers, I would tell them to grant increases before a strike rather than afterward. Social and industrial leaders should make it evident they do justice because it is right and not because of injustice."

"Mr. Taft said the next time that a demagogue mounts the platform—I am the demagogue, he thought I was the demagogue—and tells you that he puts the man above the dollar, ask him what he means. Mr. Taft did not know that I was quoting Abraham Lincoln. It was a letter which Lincoln wrote in 1859 to a committee of Boston people here, and Lincoln was the demagogue on the platform."

"The other day Mr. Taft said that he mistrusted the impulsive judgment of the people. Well, if I have to choose I'll choose the impulsive judgment of the people every time rather than the deliberate judgment of the professional politicians."

"Now, it is just the same way with the people, as a whole. I don't say for a moment that we won't sometimes make mistakes. Sometimes we will. But in the long run and on the whole the American people will make fewer mistakes in governing themselves. And that is why I wish to see us give the people a real and not merely nominal control of their political fortunes."

A CAUSE WORTH WHILE.

By Theodore Roosevelt.

We fight to make this country a better place to live in for those who have been harshly treated by fate; and if we succeed, it will also be a better place to live in for those who have much. None of us can really prosper permanently if masses of our fellows are debased and degraded, if masses of men and women are ground down and forced to lead starved and sordid lives, so that their souls are crippled like their bodies and the fine edge of their every feeling blunted.

When I plead the cause of the crippled brakeman on a railroad, of the overworked girl in a factory, of the stunted child toiling at inhuman labor, of all who work excessively or in unhealthy surroundings, of the family dwelling in the squalor of a noisome tenement, of the wornout farmer in regions where the farms are worn out also; when I protest against the unfair profits of unscrupulous and conscienceless men or against the greedy exploitation of the helpless by the beneficiaries of privilege, I am not only fighting for the weak, I am fighting also for the strong.

Republican District Convention

The republican district convention for the Ninth congressional district of the state of Minnesota will be held at the armory in the city of Thief River Falls on the 15th day of May, A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m, for the purpose of electing two delegates and two alternates to the republican national convention to be held at Chicago on June 18, 1912, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for president and vice president, and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the convention.

The county conventions to elect delegates thereto will be held in the respective counties on Monday, May 13, A. D. 1912, at places to be designated by the several county committees.

Representation in this convention will be made upon the following basis: Each county shall be entitled to one delegate for each two hundred and fifty votes, or major fraction thereof, cast for state officers in the year 1910 in such county, and each county shall be allowed in addition thereto five delegates at large. MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE SALE.

Default having been made in the payment of the sum of thirty six ($36.00) dollars interest, which became due October 1st 1911, upon a certain mortgage duly executed and delivered by David W. Clayton and [illegible] Clayton, mortgagors, to Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., a corporation, mortgagee, bearing date the first day of April, 1907, and with a power of sale therein contained duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds in and for the county of Red Lake and state of Minnesota on the 8th day of April, 1907, at 1:20 o'clock p. m., in book 34 of mortgages on page 441, and now on record in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in said state, in book 24 of mortgages on page 117;

Which mortgage, together with the debt secured thereby was duly assigned by said Iowa Mortgage Loan and Investment Co., mortgagee, to David Rosenberg by written assignment, dated the 10th day of April, 1907, and recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 15th day of April, 1907, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., in book 32 of mortgages on page 406, and now of record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 42 of mortgages, page 12.

And whereas, the said David Rosenberg, assignee, thereafter died testate, and by the provisions of his will, which has been duly admitted to probate, assigned and conveyed said mortgage by his said written will to Amalia Rosenberg, and the said will having been duly admitted to probate in the probate court of the county of Swift, in the state of Minnesota, on the 24th day of May, 1910, the said probate court did thereafter make and enter its final degree, in writing, in the estate of David Rosenberg, deceased, dated on the 27th day of February, 1911, and thereby assigned and conveyed the saidm ortgage and the debt secured thereby to Amalie Rosenberg, which said final decree assigning said mortgage, pursuant to to the provisions of the will aforesaid, was recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 a. m., in book A of Miscellaneous on Page 170, and the letters testamentary issued in said estate to Myron Rosenberg, executor of the will of said David Rosenberg, deceased, was duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of said Pennington county on the 25th day of March A. D. 1912, at 8:00 o'clock in book A of Miscellaneous on page 169.

And Whereas, The premises described in said mortgage are now included in the county of Pennington in the state of Minnesota, which county was created and organized on the 23rd day of November, 1910, out of a part of the former Red Lake county.

And Whereas, pursuant to the terms and conditions of said mortgage, by reason of the default in the payment of said interest, the whole principal sum of said mortgage did on the second day of October, 1911, become immediately due and payable and was so declared by the said Amalie Rosenberg, assignee of said mortgage, and there is now due and claimed to be due at the date of this notice upon said mortgage the sum of twelve hundred seventy-three and 8-100 ($1273.08) dollars; and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof;

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the premises described in and conveyed by said mortgage, towit: The east half (e½) of the southwest quarter (sw¼) and lots number six (6) and seven (7) in section six (6) of township one hundred fifty-two (152) north of range forty-five (45) west of the fifth principal meridian for Minnesota, now in Pennington county, Minnesota, the same formerly being in Red Lake county Minnesota, with the hereditaments and appurtenances; which sale will be made by the sheriff of said Pennington county at the front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls in the county of Pennington, state of Minnesota, on the 20th day of May, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. of that day, at public vendue to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said debt of twelve hundred seventy-three and 08-100 ($1273.08) dollars and interest, and the taxes, if any, on said premises, and fifty ($50.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in and by said mortgage in case of foreclosure, and the disbursements allowed by law; subject to redemption at any time within one year from the day of sale, as provided by law.

Dated March 30, A. D. 1912.

The St. Hilaire Gophers played at Red Lake Falls on May 5, as per scheduled game, with the Red Lake Falls team.

The game was very interesting for the first game of the year. Neither team had had much practice and the game itself showed the weaknesses of each team very plainly. There are three cardinal features of any ball game, team fielding, batting, and base running.

This game, as played, showed that Red Lake Falls excelled in fielding and base running while St. Hilaire's clean and consistent hitting gave them the advantage in batting. The day was not a good one for base ball but helped a good deal for a starter. Both teams have promised to get down to regular practice work and remedy their defects, so that later games between these teams may develop into closely fought low score games.

Whether the score was 11 to 11 or 11 to 12 in favor of Red Lake is not quite certain but on the merits of the game, we think that Red Lake deserved to win and that the score of 11 to 12 in favor of Red Lake should stand. We all had a good time and were treated royally by the Red Lake team and management and will try to return the compliment any time a favorable date can be arranged for a record game between these teams.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that ∴ ∴ ∴ ∴

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Staker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Parsons, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

What Every Woman Knows.

A Cleveland school teacher writes that she asked her class what was the difference between the expressions, "a while" and "a time." Nobody seemed to have any idea on the subject. Finally the light of intelligence was seen to shine in the eyes of one little boy, and the teacher called upon him to save the intellectual honor of the class.

"I know, teacher!" he cried eagerly. "When papa says he's going out for a while, mamma says she knows he's going out for a time!"

That's one way of looking at it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Knew Something About It.

The small boy of the household was not notably proficient in sacred lore, but when his sister asked him, "Where was Solomon's temple?" he indignantly resented the supposed impeachment of his stock of information, and retorted:

"Don't you think I know anything?"

She assured him that she did not doubt that he knew, but urged him to state for her benefit.

Though not crediting her sincerity, he finally exclaimed, curtly:

"On the side of his head, of course, where other folk's are! D'you s'pose I'm a fool?"

Fully Assimilated.

Ray S. Baker, the author, in an argument on immigration at Lawrence, cited the marvelous speed wherewith the immigrant family, be it German or French or what not, becomes assimilated into the national life.

"An instance of this assimilation occurs to me," he said. "I know a worthy Neapolitan, one Paoli Cenci, who came to this country three years ago. Paoli's little son, Francesco, an American citizen of seven, looked up from his school books, the other evening to ask:

"Say, pa, what year was it you Italians discovered us in?"

ODD CHINA SCENE

Celestial Fishermen and Their Crude Homes.

Most of the Houses Are One Room Shanties Built Without Windows —Men Start for Fishing Grounds at 2 A. M.

Canton, China.—Did you ever visit a Chinese fishing village? Next to rice, you know, the Chinaman delights in fish, and so, on the big rivers running into the interior, these villages abound. You find these Celestials friendly, even to the stranger. Do not interfere with them and they'll not bother you, is a safe motto. You will find the fisherman standing in the doorway of their one-room shanties, curious-looking structures these, absolutely without visible window. Houses of the sort are all about, all of them unpainted, but black for the weathering of the frame. Some few will have a second room to them—but this also without window except in the very top of the roof. The door is extremely narrow and as it stands open, permits a peep inside. Some of these houses have aspired to cheap wall paper. Almost all have a low cot or bunk, with blankets unfolded, against one wall, and a few chairs stand about. General disorder characterizes the interior.

Soft-pedaled men go about, in loose black trousers, of seersucker, and sometimes coats of the same goods, but light blue. They wear a rather ministerial-looking vest, and the hair is set into a queue, which is often curled about the head.

Women, too, hobble by, barefooted, but the sole of the foot resting upon clogs. Among these very poorest women one doesn't find the tiny foot one so often reads about. Some few of them have earrings in their ears, circles of gold from which queer green stones hang pendant. Yonder you remark an old man, washing dishes, out on the tumbly veranda to his house.

Chinese Family Fishing Party.

Then, too, you note how several of the homes have on their exterior, just next the door, a little shelf, with some old tin cans. In these they burn the joss sticks, even as you pass a fat old woman is fixing such. It is the heart of Cathay here and she pays no heed to you.

Cross the rocks of the beach as you come to this now. Their skiffs are drawn up. Those punts are squareset at each end. From the middle a low mast rises up, across which then there is an iron bar, at an angle. From the upper end of that there hangs what appears to be an iron net. As a matter of fact this device is arranged for holding pieces of wood which are light, to attract the fish at night.

You pause, just a moment, to drink in the typical Chinese life here, to survey houses, boats and all.

The fishermen, you learn, are wont to go out as early as two in the morning for the fish, and return perhaps at two in the afternoon. Usually two men go out to a boat and these take no lunch along. For the work they employ either hook and line, or net, and the fishing ground will lie some 60 fathoms from shore.

INJURED CHILD WALKS A MILE

With Her Hand Nearly Severed, Girl Makes Tourniquet and Seeks Aid.

Ellendale, Del.—With her hand nearly cut off as the result of an accident, Mary Corkhill, a seven-year-old child, displayed remarkable fortitude when she walked over a mile from a woods where the accident took place and then calmly held her hand while a physician amputated four of the fingers.

The little girl and a younger brother were playing in the woods, when the boy picked up an ax and accidentally cut the girl so that two fingers were severed at the wrist.

The child bound a string around the arm to keep it from bleeding, walked to her home with her brother and then submitted to the amputation.

SHOES FOR LEGLESS MEN

John Burke, Arrested in Minneapolis, Tells Strange Story to Judge; Fails to Make an Impression.

Minneapolis.—John Burke's strange story of one-legged men, and how he had taken it upon himself to provide such men with shoes, failed to get him his freedom today, when he was charged in the Municipal court with stealing eight right shoes from a store. Instead Burke got thirty days in the workhouse.

"The reason I got those shoes, all for the right foot, is that I buy them from the city hospital from men who have had their legs amputated," he told the court.

"The last eight men at the hospital had their right legs cut off."

FOR EVERY FAMILY MEDICINE CHEST

To the head of every family the health of its different members is most important, and the value of an agreeable laxative that is certain in its effect is appreciated. One of the most popular remedies in the family medicine chest is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that is known to druggists and physicians as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This preparation is mild and gentle in its action on the bowels, yet positive in its effect. A dose of Syrup Pepsin at night means relief next morning, while its tonic properties tone up and strengthen the muscles of stomach, liver and bowels so that these organs are able in a short time to again perform their natural functions without help.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this simple, inexpensive, yet effective remedy, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and ask for a sample bottle. Dr. Caldwell will be glad to send it without any expense to you whatever.

BACKACHE NOT A DISEASE

But a Symptom, a Danger Signal Which Every Woman Should Heed.

Backache is a symptom of organic weakness or derangement. If you have backache don't neglect it. To get permanent relief you must reach the root of the trouble. Read about Mrs. Woodall's experience.

Morton's Gap, Kentucky.—"I suffered two years with female disorders, my health was very bad and I had a continual backache which was simply awful. I could not stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal's victuals without my back nearly killing me, and I would have such dragging sensations I could hardly bear it. I had soreness in each side, could not stand tight clothing, and was irregular. I was completely run down. On advice I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am enjoying good health. It is now more than two years and I have not had an ache or pain since. I do all my own work, washing and everything, and never have backache any more. I think your medicine is grand and I praise it to all my neighbors. If you think my testimony will help others you may publish it."—Mrs. Ollie Woodall, Morton's Gap, Kentucky.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Pettit's Eye Salve GRANULATED ITCHING LIDS

CHIEF OF THE PAPAL GUARD

Col. Repond, Retired Officer of the Swiss Army, Their Commander— Pontiff Lauds Soldiers.

London.—Col. Repond, the retired staff officer of the Swiss army, who has been called by Pius X. to succeed the late Baron Meyer von Schauensee as commander of the Pontifical Swiss Guard, is decidedly a martinet.

The Swiss Guard was formed in 1505, and now consists of 102 men, rank and file, who still continue their traditional duties of mounting guard at the bronze door and in the papal ante-chambers. As soon as he assumed command the colonel set about thoroughly reorganizing the corps.

He realized at once that the artistic uniform designed by Michael Angelo was not adapted for drilling and he provided his men with a serviceable plain uniform to be worn for fatigue duty. The colonel likewise discarded the old Remington rifles used by the Swiss Guards and had them replaced with modern Mausers. He relegated the traditional halberds, cross hilted long swords and steel breastplates and helmets to use exclusively on great ceremonial functions.

Copyright, Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

Members of Guard in Uniform.

The men are now drilled for several hours daily, they have target practice once a month and every week they are marched for many hours around the Vatican gardens, where they also have physical drill.

Evidently the men complained of too much work. The Liberal papers took the case up and ridiculed the colonel's warlike spirit, which they said was useless, since the Pope was in no danger and the Swiss Guards would never be called to protect him or defend the Vatican since the Italian army was always available.

The Pope reads all the Roman papers, and when Col. Repond was received in audience recently to congratulate the Pope on his name day on the Feast of St. Joseph he said to him:

"Dear Colonel, I must congratulate you on making my Swiss Guards earn their pay and at the same time I thank you for training them, as I rely more on them for the defense of my person than on the Italian army."

ETHICS IN JAPANESE SUICIDE

Hara-Kiri Out of Date—Modern Method to Jump Into an Active Volcano.

Tokio, Japan.—The Japanese are now busily debating the ethics of suicide. The case out of which the controversy has arisen is that of the station master at Moji, who because of a mishap to the imperial train which made it necessary for the emperor to adjourn for half an hour to a waiting room showed his repentance by throwing himself under the wheels of the express.

The station master's devotion having evoked a wave of popular admiration which took shape in a proposal to erect a monument to his memory, the nation has been rebuked by the president of the Kyushu university for thus glorifying the act of self-destruction; and the latter, finding himself out of tune with public opinion, has resigned his position.

It is a singular thing that among a people so cheerful as the Japanese suicide should be so common. Ten thousand destroy themselves every year in Japan, and the figures cannot be said to be diminishing. But hara-kiri as such is out of date.

The modern victims of the suicidal mania, when they do not throw themselves in front of a train, jump into the crater of an active volcano. Asama, in central Japan, and Aso-san, in Kyushu, have both acquired a sinister reputation in this respect.

It is, however, a disquieting sign of the times to find the student class resorting so largely to suicide—especially of the spectacular sort, and this, no doubt is Dr. Yamakawa's motive in protesting against the exaltation of an act which the Christian world regards as a grievous sin.

Carries Mail In Aeroplane.

Baton Rouge, La.—Making the trip in one hour and thirty minutes, through clouds, rain and adverse winds, Aviator Mestach, in the Borel monoplane, made the first serial mail delivery between two cities in the United States. He carried a thirty-two-pound pouch of mail, leaving New Orleans at 4:13, and arriving in Baton Rouge at 5:44, the fastest time ever made between the two cities by one hour. In landing the aviator smashed his machine and cut himself badly in the face and legs.

White Man's Friend Dies.

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Chief Scarface, the oldest of the Arapahoe Indians, is dead. He was 103. Chief Scarface was noted for his desire for peace with the white men, and his readiness to adopt the white men's customs. He prevented his tribe from participating in the massacre of General Custer's soldiers.

John's Logic.

John returned home at a very questionable hour, and among other souvenirs of a special evening he carried a considerable gash on his forehead. His wife demanded an explanation of the wound.

"Nothin' be 'larmed 'bout, m' dear. Jes' bit m'self."

"John Brown! How could you bite yourself on the forehead?" exclaimed his irritated helpmate.

This had presented no difficulties to the versatile John, if it had taxed the credulity of his spouse.

"I stood on chair, y'knaw," he exclaimed glibly.

Horrible!

"I think the worst pun I ever heard" (De Wolf Hopper is talking) "was perpetrated in my presence the other day. A bachelor friend of mine has a curious custom of never carrying or even possessing a watch. I was talking to him about this, and said:

"'How do you know what time it is in the morning, when you want to get up?'

"'That's easy,' replied he. 'My neighbors keep chickens. The rooster is my crownometer.'"—The Sunday Magazine.

How His Brother Identified Him.

Uncle Harris, an old negro, who has been a servant in the family of Colonel Slemmens of Monticello, Ark., for the last forty years, recently made a trip to Memphis. Upon his return he was telling the colonel's daughter of his trip and the discovery of a brother whom he had not seen for thirty years.

Miss Slemmens asked him how he knew his brother after so long a time, and Uncle Harris replied:

"I was walking along the street when a spare built looking man came up to me and says: 'Say, ain't you my brother?' and I said, 'Sure I is. Who is you?'"

FOR THE WOMAN WHO THINKS AND FEELS.

Some women complain that they periodically suffer from dull and heavy feelings, or dizziness in the head, nervousness, pain and bearing-down feelings which should not occur to the normal healthy woman. But most every woman is subject to these pains at some time in her life, due to abnormal conditions in life, such as corsets, over-taxed strength, bad air, poor or improper food, wet feet, sluggish liver, etc. A regulator and female tonic made from native medicinal roots with pure glycerin, and without the use of alcohol, called has proven its value in thousands of cases, like the following:

Mrs. Dona M. Martin, of Auburn, Nebr., Route 1, Box 34, says: "I thought I would write you in regard to what your medicines have done for me. I have used them for thirty years for female trouble and general weakness with the very best result, and they have saved me hundreds of dollars in doctors' bills. I buy the 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' and take them together. I never was disappointed in your remedies and take pleasure in recommending them to any suffering lady. I am now almost fifty years old; at forty-five I took your medicines, both kinds, and I passed that period very easily and left me fat and healthy. I feel like a young girl.

"If any lady cares to write me, I will gladly tell her more about the good work of your medicines."

Mrs. Martin.

HOUSE APPROVES DIRECT ELECTIONS

AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION IS ADOPTED BY THE REPRESENTATIVES, 237 TO 39.

BRISTOW AUTHOR OF BILL

Not a Republican Vote in Negative—Now Awaits Ratification By Three-Fourths of the States.

Washington, D. C. — The house adopted, by a vote of 237 to 39, a joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution to permit the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. It already had passed the senate and now goes to the states for ratification.

All that remains to be done is the formal signing of the instrument and the issuance of a proclamation to the states to signify their wishes on the proposed change.

There was not a single Republican vote cast against the resolution, which was adopted to the accompaniment of thunderous applause.

The direct election of senators was first taken up by congress in 1826. From time to time recurring attempts have been made to make the senate a Popular body, and have its members elected as are the members of the house. Numbers of these resolutions have died in committee, while others were passed at the last moments of a congress never to receive the president's signature.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, introduced in 1911 the present one.

Bryan Approves Plan.

Lincoln.—Mr. Bryan when informed of the action of the house in passing the joint resolution providing for an amendment to the constitution to elect United States senators by direct vote said:

"It is the best thing congress has done and is an epoch making reform."

Mr. Bryan added that for 21 years he had been working for the action taken by the house.

An amendment by Senator Crawford of South Dakota to appropriate $15,000 for a buffalo preserve at Wind Cave was adopted and consideration of the bill will be continued.

Administration Backs Knox.

Chicago.—A dispatch from Washington says:

The administration purposes to use all its influence to induce the senate to refuse to accept the provision in the legislative bill passed by the house abolishing the scheme of reorganization of the state department inaugurated by Secretary of State Knox.

In a statement issued by Acting Secretary of State Wilson it is asserted that the resignation of Secretary Knox and his own would be the logical and probable consequences of the legislation.

The house bill purposes to abolish the bureau of trade relations, the office of director of consular service, and the chiefs of all the divisions of foreign service created under the reorganization of the department in 1910.

Senate Favors 6-Year Term.

Washington, D. C.—The senate judiciary committee decided to report favorably the Works' resolution restricting the presidential tenure of office to a single term of six years. A minority report, favoring a single term of four years, also will be made from the committee. The reports are expected in a day or two.

The committee is practically unanimous to make a president ineligible for a second term, but four members of the committee favor making the single term four years instead of six.

The house committee on judiciary has pending a joint resolution of the same purport introduced by Representative Clayton of Alabama, chairman of that committee.

Washington, D. C. — Revolutionary proposals, such as have not been grouped in any bill passed by the present session of congress, were adopted by the house in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. The bill now proposes:

Abolition of the United States commerce court and the restoration to the interstate commerce commission of all railroad regulatory power, subject to appeal only to United States district courts. Creation of a bureau of foreign and domestic commerce with all the present powers of the so-called tariff board, to be under the jurisdiction of the secretary of commerce and labor.

The new bureau would absorb the bureau of trade relations of the state department and the bureaus of manufacturers and statistics of the department of commerce and labor.

Concentration of the distribution of public documents, of which millions annually are sent from Washington, in the government printing offices.

After a bitter fight the house defeated a proposal to abolish the mints at San Francisco, New Orleans and Carson City and the assay offices at Boise, Idaho; Charlotte, N. C.; Deadwood, S. D.; Helena, Mont.; Seattle, Wash, and Salt Lake City, Utah.

The fight for the abolition of the commerce court was led by Representative Sims of Tennessee (Dem.), who framed the legislation abolishing that tribunal. He was opposed by Representative Driscoll of New York and Stevens of Minnesota (Republicans), but when the provision was adopted, 120 to 49, many Republicans voted with the Democrats.

River and Harbor Bill Passed.

The river and harbor appropriation bill was passed by the senate, amended to carry $8,000,000 more than as passed by the house and making a total of about $34,000,000. The principal increase was $2,500,000 to the house provision of $2,500,000 for improving the Mississippi.

The balance of the increase made by the senate was composed mainly of smaller amounts, principal among them being Nantucket sound, $250,000; Jamaica bay, $500,000; Allegheny river, $500,000; Delaware river, $500,000; Cape Lookout, $300,000; St. Mary's river, $200,000; Chicago harbor, $350,000; Ohio river, New Cairo, $250,000; Los Angeles harbor, $327,250.

Senator Burton took positive ground against resumption of plans for the improvement of the Missouri. If the movement were to lower railroad rates, he thought the interstate commerce commission might accomplish that result.

Inquiry into charge of misconduct against Judge Archbald of the commerce court will be resumed by the house judiciary committee.

The committee will resume questioning Edward J. Williams of Scranton, Pa., who told of his alleged relations with Judge Archbald in a Culm bank option transaction with the Erie railroad while the railroad's "lighterage" case was before the commerce court and of another transaction in which the judge was alleged to have given a note for $500 in payment for an interest in an option of Venezuela timber lands.

The committee also will investigate a transaction in which Judge Archbald and a man named Dainty negotiated with the Lehigh Valley road for Culm banks to be sold at a large profit, as was the plan with the Culm dumps solicited from the Erie railroad.

A strong defense of Secretary Stimson on an attack on the majority of the house military affairs committee for its report on the circumstances which led to the retirement of Adjutant General Ainsworth after a threatened court martial, were contained in a report submitted to the house by the minority members of the committee.

Washington, D. C. — Senator Nelson and his colleagues of the subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee are having a lively contest over the question as to federal restrictions upon the sale and shipment of liquor into prohibition states. Mr. Nelson's sub-committee, composed of the Minnesota senator as chairman, and Senators Dillingham of Vermont; Borah of Idaho; Bacon of Georgia, and Rayner of Maryland, have divided, but not on political lines, and three of the committee, including Chairman Nelson, have reported to the full committee in favor of some plan, along the lines of the bill introduced by Senator Kenyon of Iowa, to check interstate traffic in liquor in defiance of state laws.

The aim of the Kenyon bill is not only to make the state laws attach to liquor shipments immediately upon their arrival within a state, but also to declare null and void, contracts made for shipments of liquor into prohibition states.

The indications are that the committee will modify the Kenyon bill in the matter of destroying contracts made for liquor shipments. It is claimed to be impossible that the seller of liquor in one state shall know that his sales of liquor to a customer in another state is to be utilized in violation of the laws of such state.

What may be accomplished, if the judiciary committee of the two houses can agree, is that state laws shall attach to the shipments of liquor promptly upon their being delivered to a consignee in a prohibition state, which would give the state the right to follow such liquor and see that it is not sold in violation of the laws of the state.

Hearings on Indian Bill.

The Indian affairs committee of the house will hold a hearing on the Steenerson bill providing for the granting of patents to the settlers and others residing on the Chippewa lands in Minnesota within three months, unless the department of justice attacks their right to title within that time. J. T. Van Meter, of White Earth, represents the people of Mahnomen county and will urge the passage of the bill.

Representative Miller of Minnesota is a member of the committee, and has obtained assurances that the bill will be reported favorably to the house, regardless of the threat of the department of justice to thwart its purpose and to bring suits against the claimant of every allotment which is not now involved in the courts.

Bolt Causes $460,000 Fire.

Savanah, Georgia. — Ignited by lightning bolt, 20 acres of storage sheds at the Atlantic Coast line railway wharves here were swept by fire, causing a loss of $460,000.

Four More Titanic Bodies Found.

Halifax, Novascotia. — Wireless messages from the steamer Montmagny, which was dispatched from Halifax to search the sea for victims of the Titanic, report the recovery of four bodies.

Icebergs Farther South.

New York, N. Y.—Icebergs in the Atlantic, further south than they have ever been seen before, were reported by two incoming steamers. The Cunard liner Carmania sighted eight monster ice mountains in latitude 39.09 north, longitude 47.24 west, while the log of the French liner La Savoie recorded bergs in latitude 39.15 north, longitude 47.40 west. The lookout on the La Savoie sighted the bergs when they were about three-quarters of a mile away, and the course of the vessel was changed directly to the south.

DEITZ DOOMED TO LIFE TERM

SUPREME COURT OF WISCONSIN REFUSES TO OVERRULE JUDGMENT OF CONVICTION.

FINDS AMPLE EVIDENCE

That He was Responsible for the Death of Oscar Harp in the Battle of Cameron Dam Last Year.

Madison, Wis., May 15.—John F. Deitz of Cameron Dam fame, who last fall was sentenced to life imprisonment on the charge of murdering Oscar Harp, deputy sheriff, during the siege on the Deitz homestead, must remain in prison, according to a ruling of the supreme court of Wisconsin today, which refused to reverse the judgment of conviction. Deitz was sentenced to life imprisonment.

In closing the decision upon the Deitz case, the supreme court says: "As a result of the defendant's defiance of law, Oscar Harp, who was innocent of wrong, went to his death. After a patient and fair trial the defendant has been found guilty of that death upon ample evidence.

"Pity the defendant as we may, we have no choice, of course on this record. It i sas true now as it was in the days of Hebrew prophets, that 'he who sows the wind must needs be content if he be compelled to reap the inevitable whirlwind.'"

In their arguments to the supreme court, Deitz' present attorneys emphasized the point that three able and experienced attorneys were assigned to prosecute him, and that the judge should have appointed counsel for the defendant. They declared that the trial judge himself aftewards had stated that the case should be reviewed by the supreme court.

The state contented itself with the argument that the whole evidence upon the trial was of such overwhelming weight as to leave no room for speculation as to his guilt and no room for doubt that justice had been done.

KISCUSSING ARBITRATION

Eighteenth Annual Meeting of the Lake Mohonk Conference Opens.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y., May 15.—The eighteenth annual meeting of the Lake Mohonk Conference on International Arbitration opened here today with a record attendance. Greeting the delegates as his personal guests, Albert K. Smiley, founder and host of the conference, delivered the opening address, in which he reviewed the past year's events pertaining to treaties.

The approaching Third Hague Conference, the proposed international court of arbitral justice, and arbitration treaties, general and particular, are on the program for consideration. Prominent among the speakers from abroad are: Dr. Christian L. Lange, secretary of the Interparliamentary Union; Dr. Albert Gobat, director of the International Peace Bureau at Berne; Dr. Otfried Nippold of Germany, professor of International Law in Berne University; Abdul Baha Abbas of Persia, leader of the Bahai movement, and J. P. Santamarina of Buenos Aires. Gen. Stewart L. Woodford of New York, Justice William R. Biddle of the Ontario high court of justice, William C. Dennis of Washington, and others are among the American speakers. The presiding officer of the conference is President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university.

MINERS ARE RESCUED

Six Removed Alive From Ironwood Shaft—Seven Perish.

Duluth, May 15.—Six men were taken alive from the Oliver Iron Mining company's mine at Ironwood. Two bodies of dead miners have been recovered. Thirteen men were intombed in the mine when the roof fell in at the 2,000 foot level. Seven of the men were killed and the others were huddled into a narrow passage. A pipe was driven through the earth and food and air let down.

IMMENSE COAL DOCKS

Will Be 3,500 Feet Long and 450 Feet Wide.

Duluth, May 15.—The Pittsburg coal company has awarded a contract to the Barnett & Record company to extend its number five coal dock at Alois bay, 1,200 feet which will give it a total length of 3,500 feet by 450 feet wide. It will then have a storage capacity of one million tons and be the biggest coal dock in the Duluth-Superior harbor.

FLOOD BREAKS OUT NEW

Expected 10,000 Square Miles Will Be Inundated.

New Orleans, May 15. — Approximately 60,000 persons and 10,000 square miles of territory will be affected by a break in the Mississippi levee on the west bank, 25 miles north of here; the crevasse is 200 feet wide. This, the Hymelia levee, was the scene of the worst break of the flood of 1903. A boat with laborers has gone to try to make repairs.

RICHARD LINDABURY.

Mr. Lindabury is chief counsel for the United States Steel corporation whose dissolution the government is seeking to bring about.

FREDERICK OF DENMARK DEAD

MONARCH WAS HONORED AND LOVED BY PEOPLE.

Younger Brother Occupies the Throne of Greece and Son Rules Norway.

Hamburg, May 15.—King Frederick VIII of Denmark arrived at the Hamburger hotel and died during the night.

Christian Frederick was proclaimed king of Denmark as Frederick VIII on Jan. 30, 1906, after the death of Christian IX, the aged king, who was dean of the crowned heads of Europe, father of King George of Greece, of the Queen Mother Alexandra of Great Britain, the empress dowager of Russia and grandfather of King Haakon VIII of Norway.

King Frederick VIII was born at Copenhagen June 3, 1843. He was as popular with the people of Denmark as was his father. By the wishes of his parents he was brought up with great simplicity. Frederick saw his younger brother and his own son become reigning monarchs of Greece and Norway respectively while he himself was still an heir apparent.

King Frederick was noted for his culture and possessed many foreign distinctions. While seldom openly identifying himself with political questions, he took an active part in all public movements. He was at one time chancellor of Copenhagen university and head of the Freemasons of Denmark. He was well known as a promoter of philanthropic objects.

Several months ago King Frederick suffered a serious illness. While taking his customary walk, he had a sudden seizure and was compelled to return to the palace. Later it was announced that he had suffered a chill, but the real nature of his malady was not disclosed.

While he showed rapid recovery, he suffered a relapse two weeks later, and considerable anxiety was expressed by members of the court as to his condition.

RAINY RIVER PROJECT

International Commission to Discuss Dam Proposition at Kettle Falls.

Washington, May 15.—The international joint commission, to which has been referred for settlement the application of the Watrous Boom company to construct a dam across the Rainy river at Kettle Falls, Minn., expects to be able to hold a public hearing on the question as soon as it hears from the Canadian commission whether there is any opposition to the plan from the Canadian side.

It was said at the office of the commission that no opposition had developed in Minnesota. Representative Miller has been notified that he will be given notice of the date of the proposed hearing sufficiently in advance to permit him to notify all those in Minnesota who are interested.

Two Arrested for Theft of $58,000.

Stamford, Conn., May 15.—George S. Wilson and De Forest Moores, manager and teller, respectively, in the savings department of the Stamford Trust company, were arrested at their homes, charged with embezzlement of $58,000, funds of the trust company.

Crops Near La Crosse Ruined.

La Crosse, May 15.—The Mississippi river at this point reached the stage of 9.9 feet, the highest in eight years, according to the government gauge. Crops on many thousands of acres along the river bottoms have been ruined.

Taft Needs 42 Delegates.

Washington, May 15.—The Taft bureau gave out the following line-up of delegates chosen to date:

Total delegates to national convention, 1,078.

Necessary to nominate, 540.
Total Taft delegates to date, 498.
President Taft needs, 42.
Total Roosevelt delegates, 248.
Roosevelt needs, 292.
La Follette delegates, 36.
Cummins delegates, 10.
Number of delegates to be selected, [illegible]

MINNESOTA FOR T. R.

STATE WILL SEND DELEGATION TO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION FOR EX-PRESIDENT.

LOOKS LIKE A LANDSLIDE

La Follette Runs Poor Second, While Taft Stands Third—St. Paul and Ramsey County for the Colonel.

St. Paul. — Minnesota will send a Roosevelt delegation to the Republican national convention in Chicago. Returns from caucuses held throughout the state, indicate an overwhelming victory for the colonel. Following the example set by Minneapolis and Hennepin county on Friday, St. Paul and Ramsey county made the indorsement even more emphatic.

The returns indicate that the colonel started a landslide in the state and has carried every district, with the possible exception of the First and with a chance of anti-Roosevelt combinations in the Seventh and Ninth.

In the First district former Congressman Tawney did effective work for the president and the Taft men may control the district convention. Winona county was carried for Taft, the city of Winona being practically solid. Mower, Wabasha and Waseca were reported favoring the president. Freeborn county, in which Albert Lea is located, the home of Speaker Dunn, Colonel Roosevelt won an overwhelming victory.

Roosevelt Wins in Eighth.

In the Eighth, or St. Louis county district, the colonel again showed himself a winner. The vote in the city of Duluth was overwhelmingly in his favor. President Taft carried some of the lower counties, where the influence of R. C. Dunn prevailed, but the entire Eighth, on the face of the first returns, appears to have gone against the president.

In the Seventh and Ninth districts, Senator La Follette showed considerable strength.

In Lyon county, Roosevelt received 372 to 245 for La Follette and 115 for the president. This would make it impossible for the La Follette and Taft men to control the county convention.

In Redwood county, La Follette made his best showing, running two to one ahead of Roosevelt. Meeker county went to La Follette while Yellow Medicine gives La Follette 28, Taft 8 and Roosevelt 21, making a Taft-Roosevelt combination possible.

In McLeod county, La Follette carried the county, but the delegates are instructed for Taft.

Douglas county, the home of Senator Nelson, in the Ninth district, gave Roosevelt 21, Taft 8 and La Follette 28. The La Follette and Taft people have it in their power to control the convention.

Reports from Crookston, in Polk county, were to the effect that not more than 100 votes had been cast. The delegates elected are said to be either Taft or La Follette. East Grand Forks went for Taft. The county precincts show a leaning towards La Follette.

Blue Earth Goes to Roosevelt.

Blue Earth county and Mankato, the home of Governor Eberhart, gave Roosevelt an overwhelming victory. The governor's friends took no part in the contest, the governor's course being an exact carrying out of the public position he had taken that he favored the president, but would not use his influence nor the influence of his administration to sway the result.

In Kandiyohi county, the first tryout of candidates for governor occurred. This is in Lieutenant Governor Gordon's home district and a vigorous primary fight was made between himself and W. E. Lee.

The precincts heard from gave Gordon, 253; Lee, 314; Eberhardt, 140. Lee will have 52 delegates and Gordon 36.

ST. PAUL ELECTIONS.

St. Paul.—The reports of the election confirm the re-election of Mayor H. P. Keller by a plurality of 423, W. C. Handy as city controller and S. A. Farnsworth as city treasurer, all these being republicans. The official count of the ballots will be made soon and it is said that no contests will be made by any of the defeated candidates.

The commission plan of government carried by a large majority and the amendment to the charter spreading assessments for improvements over a period of five years also went through.

One of the features of the returns shows that 4,000 less votes than were recorded at the primary election were registered on election day.

It is understood that as soon as Mayor Keller resumes his work, after a week's rest that the way will be paved for the civil service plan under the commission plan of government.

DEPOSITORS ARE SAFE.

Loss of Bank of Commerce at Winnebago Estimated at $25,000.

Winnebago. — State Bank Examiner Kelsey S. Chase estimates the Bank of Commerce will sustain a loss of about $25,000. This will be covered by the capital and reserve, so the depositors will not lose. John Sharpe will be the heaviest loser. Nothing has been heard of Vice President [illegible]

MEET AT FERGUS FALLS.

Many Addresses on Program for Annual Convention of Women.

Fergus Falls.—The Women's clubs of the ninth congressional district held their annual convention in this city on Wednesday and Thursday. The principal addresses on Wednesday were delivered by Miss Winnifred Saunders of the Parkers Prairie Study club, on "Child Study"; Mrs. C. M. Lupman of the Matrons' club of Crookston on "Nature Study for the Child"; Mrs. S. M. Sweitson of the Current Events club of Crookston on "The World-wide Peace Movement," and Mrs. C. F. Amidon on "Women and the Pure Food Laws."

The addresses on Thursday were "A Character Sketch of Mark Twain," by Mrs. S. M. Hawver of Barnesville; "Musicians of Minneapolis," by Mrs. Rathburn of the Literary club of Detroit; "Suggestions," by Mrs. Bernard of the Ladies' Reading club of Warren; "Living Conditions of the Working Girls in the Cities," by Miss Elsie Wright of the Women's club of Fergus Falls; "The Club Women and Treaties," by Mrs. Vergel McGregor of the Crookston Women's club; address by Mrs. McDonnell of the Women's Study club of Bemidji; "Rural Problems," by Miss Marie Lovsner, superintendent of schools of Norman county; "Present Day Queens," by Mrs. E. W. Akers of the Current Events club of Crookston; "The Library as a Social Center," by Miss Amy Lewis of the Reading club, Fergus Falls.

A library roundtable was conducted by Miss Clara F. Baldwin of the state library commission, during the afternoon, and the evening address will be before a large public meeting by Miss Josephine Schain of Minneapolis, her subject being "Women and the Franchise."

RAILWAY TO MINE IRON.

Ore Properties of the Hills to be Operated by Auxiliary Company.

Duluth.—It is given out upon the authority of D. M. Philbin, manager of the Hill ore properties, that his principals are not in the market to lease the properties, or any part of them, to other furnace owning and operating companies. The Hill interests will develop properties and engage in the mining business.

"We are going right ahead to develop iron mines on the Hill lands that have been surrendered to us by the steel corporation," Mr. Philbin says. "A company will be organized to control and operate all of the Hill iron lands, just the same as is done by the steel corporation through its Oliver Iron Mining company. We shall be in the market to sell iron ore. It probably will take two years to get going. We shall mine and sell ore in the general market, and the properties are not in the market for lease to any of the ore-consuming interests.

The Hill mines which the steel corporation controls and from which it will meet the further requirements of the lease, are the Leonard, Dale, North Uno, South Uno, Harold, Mace, Mississippi, Hill, Walker and North Star. These are all open-pit propositions except the Mace, Mississippi and Harold. The steel corporation and the Hill interests each own one-half of the fee of the Hill and Walker mines.

FOUND HUMAN BONES.

Explorers on Trempealeau Mountain Find Also Some Pieces of Pottery.

Winona. — The Indian mounds at Trempealeau have from time to time attracted attention. Another visit of exploration was made there last week by Rev. F. A. Gilmore of Madison, Attorney E. F. Hensell of Whitehall and E. D. Pierce of Trempealeau. They opened one of the mounds near the summit of Trempealeau mountain and found that it was a Crain mound, with the sides built of stone, a rare variety of construction which is met with but seldom in this region.

At the depth of two feet a femur bone in a good state of preservation was found and under the edge of the stone wall a skull was unearthed intact. In all, the excavators exhumed six skulls and innumerable bones from the small bones of the feet and hands to the larger bones of the pelvis and trunk.

No ornaments were found and no trinkets of adornment but a few pieces of pottery were dug up.

BRIDEGROOM SHOT DEAD.

Hutchinson.—The Norwegian settlement in Bergen township is wrought up over the supposed suicide of Carl Olson. For twenty-one years Olson had carried on the farm of Miss Betsy Gilbertson, and Saturday last they were married. Tuesday night, while Olson was in the kitchen and his wife in another room, she heard a shot fired and upon going into the kitchen found her husband dead from a wound in the upper part of the breast and ranging downward through the abdomen. There are phases to the case not yet explained, and the authorities will investigate.

SOCIALISTS CAN NOT AGREE

ON COMMISSION SYSTEM OF CITY GOVERNMENT.

Declared It is "Easier to Buy Five Commissioners Than 50 Aldermen.

Indianapolis, May 15.—After hours of debate on whether the commission form of municipal government was in accord with the socialist program, the party's national convention referred the matter to the state organizations.

Too many angles were presented by speakers from many states, it was determined, to admit a definite stand being taken either for or against the commission form by the national party.

J. Stitt Wilson, mayor of Berkeley, Cal., declared that socialists in California had found the non-partisan method of electing members of commissions had scattered the vote of "capitalist" parties and worked to the advantage of the cohesive socialist party.

He was bitterly opposed by delegates that described the municipal commission as "only a measure of economy in the development of the capitalist machine."

"Capitalists have found it easier to buy five commissioners than 50 aldermen," said Thomas Hickey, of Hallettsville, Tex.

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, May 15.—Bearish sentiment pervaded the wheat crowd today, largely because prices here were higher than at Liverpool and 3c over Kansas City. Talk was current of a return to the dollar level if present southwestern prospects continued. Dispatches, however, telling of damage done by the army worm in Texas and elsewhere tended to keep the market from more than a moderate decline. The opening was the same as last night to ⅛c down. July started at $1.12 to $1.12¼, a fall of ⅛c to ⅜c, and steadied around $1.12¼.

An upturn ensued on reports of big cash sales here. Unloading of futures afterward by a leading house carried prices lower than before, but the market again rallied. The close was steady, with July ¼c net higher at $1.12¾.

The fact that the weather over night proved less severe than expected gave the corn market a setback at the outset. Offerings though were not large and gradually prices again hardened. July opened unchanged to ⅛c off at 78⅜c to 78¼c, and rallied to 77⅞c.

Subsequently there was a decided fall, resulting from cash weakness, due to the industrial demand here having been fully supplied. The market, however, recovered later with wheat. Closing prices were firm at 78½c for July, a gain of ½c.

The national democratic convention is to be held in Baltimore, Md., June 25. The state convention will convene in Duluth June 6, and the county convention at Thief River Falls Wednesday, May 29.

An excellent ruling has recently been made by the postal authorities at Washington. It has been ruled that where a man keeps a vicious dog about his premises that makes it dangerous and difficult for a driver to stop and control his horses in order to deliver mail at the box such delivery may be omitted. Unless the mail driver is willing to take chances, the owner of the vicious brute will have to depend upon himself in getting his mail from the postoffice.

President Taft confidently believed that he would carry Minnesota. He has lost it and all the prestige that its gain might inspire. He also has the utmost confidence that Ohio, his native state is his by birthright. He will be disappointed on the 21st inst. when the people speak and then—away goes glimmering his last hope of continuation in power. About March 15, 1913, the present executive, the last hope of the trusts and the boodlers, will wil. go north with the crows.—Cass Lake Times.

Roosevelt Endorsed

The Ninth congressional district convention met at Thief River Falls Wednesday. The convention declared for Col. Roosevelt for the presidency. As there was a strong LaFollette sentiment prevalent, Mr. LaFollette was named as second choice, though Roosevelt had the convention by 5 to 1.

The convention was called to order by John Peterson of Crookston, chairman of the district committee. The organization was effected without a fight by the election of A. G. Anderson of Fergus Falls as chairman, Fred Dennis of Detroit secretary, and R. J. Bell of Roseau assistant secretary. There were no contesting delegations.

C. H. Stevens of Warren, editor of the Register, and F. S. Lycan of Bemidji were elected delegates to the national republican convention at Chicago and Senator A. L. Hanson of Ada was endorsed as one of the delegates at large to be elected at the state convention.

Ed Mattson of Wilkin county was elected alternate for F. S. Lycan, and Dr. Leach of Becker alternate for C. L. Stevens. W. A. Marin of Crookston was endorsed as presidential elector.

The resolutions endorsed the public record of Congressman Steenerson, the presidential primary, direct election of United States senators, a downward revision of the tariff, and a primary for the nomination of all public officials.

Guy A. Aubol of Crookston was elected chairman of the congressional committee and W. Michelet of Thief River Falls secretary.

The State Convention

The state convention to elect delegates to the republican national convention met in Minneapolis Thursday. It was known from the beginning that Roosevelt had a big majority. The Roosevelt victory in the state was a blow to Eberhart. The men in convention were anti-Eberhart, and the delegates reported anti-Eberhart sentiment in their counties for the most part. The sentiment seemed to be mostly for Gordon.

Ed. Smith, chairman of the state central committee, could not face the ordeal of calling a Roosevelt convention to order, and deputed the task to James A. Larson, assistant secretary of state. State Senator Jules E. Haycroft was chosen as temporary chairman and W. Newton of Hennepin county temporary secretary.

I. A. Caswell, Mr. Roosevelt's campaign manager for Minnesota, was endorsed for national committeeman.

The majority report of the resolutions committee, endorsing the candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt and instructing the delegates to vote for Roosevelt "first, last, and all the time" was adopted. A minority report, declaring for LaFollette for second choice, was voted down.

The platform adopted endorsed the main principles of the progressive republicans, favored the repeal of the reciprocity measure, and urged instruction of the state central committee to provide suitable means for each voter to express by ballot his preference for governor at the coming primary [illegible]

A plank favoring [illegible]

The County Convention

The Pennington county republican convention was called to order at the court house at Thief River Falls Monday by the reading of the call by Daniel Shaw, chairman of the county committee. Daniel Shaw and G. Halvorson were nominated for temporary chairman and the ballot gave Halvorson 18 votes and Shaw 14. For temporary secretary Lewis Lonson and Dr. H. G. Hieber were nominated and Lonson was elected by a vote of 30 to 5. At this time it had become evident that there was but one Taft vote in the convention.

After the adoption of the credentials committee's report, Mr. McKercher, from the committee on organization, moved that the temporary organization be made permanent, which was carried without a dissenting vote.

The resolutions endorsed the nomination of LaFollette for the presidency, condemned the reciprocity pact and lauded Senators Nelson and Clapp and Representative Steenerson for their stand in the matter, and favored the initiative, referendum, and recall.

The following were named as delegates to the state convention:

T. P. Hamre, J. M. Bishop, Andrew Trovaten, C. L. Dobner, O. H. Olson, O. L. Bakken, S. Singer, W. J. Brown, M. C. Cutter, E. A. Mostue.

The following were named as delegates to the district convention:

P. O. Sorlum, Frank Satre, R. J. McKercher, Dr. C. Swanson, Ed. Singer, D. P. O'Neill, Robert McGinn, Wilhelm Michelet, E. A. Mostue, T. P. Hamre.

Train Strikes Auto

Two persons were almost instantly killed and a third is dying and a fourth is seriously injured as the result of an automobile in which they were riding being struck by a train on the Great Northern railway at Argyle in Marshal county last Saturday. Miss Louise Tiedt of Argyle and Miss Anna Meisner of Euclid were killed, and Miss L. Meisner of Euclid badly hurt and will probably die. Victor Tiedt, the driver of the automobile, was also badly bruised.

The party was crossing the railway tracks when struck by the locomotive. All of the occupants of the automobile were thrown several yards. Miss Tiedt was dead when picked up by the train crew and Miss Anna Meisner lived but a few moments.

Witnesses of the accident say that the train was hidden from the view of the automobile driver and that he evidently did not realize that it was so near when he attempted to cross the track.

The Eagles' Convention

One of the biggest conventions to be held in Minnesota this year is the ninth annual convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, which will meet at Detroit June 11, 12, and 13. Unlike most conventions the Eagles hold a short business session each day and the rest of the time is spent in enjoying the hospitality of the city in which they meet. Detroit this year will outdo anything heretofore attempted. A long list of free entertainments have been provided, including daily balloon ascensions, numerous acrobatic acts, band concerts, automobile excursions, boat races, parades, fireworks, and others so numerous that there will not be an idle moment day or night. The railroad rate will be one and one-third fare from any point in the state for round trip. This will be a great opportunity to visit this famous summer resort and enjoy the hospitality of the Eagles, and more than 10,000 people are expected.

CHAMPION OF ROOSEVELT ON PEOPLE'S RULE

Defends Proposal for Recall of Judicial Decisions.

POINTS OUT ITS WISDOM

Hon. Augustus M. Wessels of the Pennsylvania Bar Says: "The Constitution Will Be Safely Guarded by Mr. Roosevelt"—The Forceful Expression of the People, the Backbone of the Nation.

Washington, D. C., April 27.—Both in its editorial columns and in those devoted to news of national politics the Philadelphia (Pa.) Public Ledger has been one of the stoutest pro-Taft organs. But its readers are not blinded by sophistry or abuse, as witness the tremendous wave of approval of Colonel Roosevelt and his principles which marked the presidential preference primary in the Keystone state.

The Hon. Augustus M. Wessels, a distinguished member of the Pennsylvania bar, in a signed communication to the Public Ledger, in which he declares Roosevelt's principles "the "Forceful expression of the belief of the people," stands staunchly and convincingly by Colonel Roosevelt's proposal for the recall of certain judicial decisions.

Mr. Wessels, after stating that he has read in the newspaper in question a series of articles on "The American Constitution and the New Radicalism," asks "the opportunity of pointing out some very glaring inconsistencies in the interpretation of important principles in those articles."

The learned student of "New Radicalism," as the Ledger calls Mr. Roosevelt's proposed reform, goes on to say: [illegible] ing wise and careful judgment upon those vital questions which affect the people as a whole and are at the root of social and industrial justice? It is perfectly true that the struggle now going on between President Taft and ex-President Roosevelt is one over fundamental principles, and not a test of personal popularity or a combat for party chieftainship. In the first paper on the American Constitution and the New Radicalism your writer says:

"'Americans have never yet acted at the polls without grave and intelligent reflection beforehand upon the probable consequences of their voting. They are not insensate dolts, and they are not hysterical followers of the loudest shouter. They must know what they are voting for and what they are voting against.'

This seems a very fair and creditable estimate of the civic intelligence of the American people, and no sane man can help but have full confidence in the final judgment of a people possessing such ability. Yet your writer, speaking of the constitution and the recall of judges and judicial decisions, says:

"'How are the people who are not lawyers to know what the law or the constitution is? The judges have made it a study of a lifetime. How is a mass-meeting to decide? Would you honestly consider yourself competent to discuss them? Remember that the proposition involves deliberation, not merely noisy or perfunctory assent to some proposition vociferously urged by a loud talker indulging in platitudes; it is a question as to what shall be the law, what shall be the rule of action binding all men, high or low, rich or poor, without any difference as to class or condition.'

"Is it not peculiar that the 'grave and intelligent reflection beforehand upon the probable consequences of their voting' should disappear altogether when the people come to express their will and judgment on a fundamental question vital to their common good and justice, which perchance has been declared unconstitutional by a too strict interpretation of the law? Is it not peculiar, notwithstanding the fact that the constitution is the expressed, written will of the people, made by them, your writer says they know nothing about the constitution or the laws? Is this good reasoning? Is this convincing logic?

"I maintain that the questions which would ultimately come before the people for judgment under the recall would of necessity be of such importance that the people would know their minds and would be perfectly capable of rendering a decision to the best interest of society. For, as ex-Chief Justice Campbell of Michigan said, 'The greatest knowledge that we have in this world is the common knowledge of the common people.' Your writer's high esteem of the capabilities of the American people seems to have considerably dwindled when at the close of the first paper he says, 'Come, hard-headed men, and tell me would you let your clerks or your workmen decide what you should do on a question which you had studied all your life and which they had never considered?' I ask, are the people, whose will is acknowledged to be the supreme law of the land (I here quote Justice Bradley, speaking for the United States Supreme court, 'The power of the people is superior to all legislatures and all courts and expresses the will of the ultimate sovereignty of the whole country'), I ask, are the people to be placed in a subordinate position, likened to clerks and workmen, while the judges are conceived to be the masters of the people? A very striking example of the tyranny of the minority!

"My learned friend apparently forgets the cardinal principle in the American government, that the representatives of the people and those holding public positions of trust and honor are the servants of the people and are chosen or appointed expressly to carry into effect the will of the electorate.

"In the second paper your writer states that the moderates stand for the preservation of the American system of government and that the radicals stand for such changes in method and principle as would plunge the government into chaos. Also, that the number of cases in which courts have upheld acts of congress and state legislatures is 20 times greater than those in which they have declared such acts to be unconstitutional, and finally the article closes with this rash and unfair statement, which I cannot allow to stand unchallenged:

"'Are you prepared to admit that it is your purpose to overthrow American representative government? Mr. Taft says no. Mr. Roosevelt says yes. Which shall it be?'

"If it is a fact that the courts sustain the representatives of the people in the ratio of 20 cases to one, how can any intelligent man reason that the government is to be thrown into chaos by the use of the restricted recall in such a limited number of cases? For it is not reasonable to suppose that every time a court declares an act of the legislature to be unconstitutional every such case will be important and vital enough to warrant the use of the recall. The writer should give the subject a little more 'grave and intelligent reflection.'

"Let us now examine carefully and justly, in the true American spirit, the so-called attitude that Mr. Roosevelt has taken to overthrow American representative government. Does my friend know the principles Mr. Roosevelt advocates? It might be well to cite the most important and the most radical: The short ballot, direct nominations, direct election of United States senators, the initiative and referendum and the very restricted recall. In his speech in New York on March 20 Mr. Roosevelt says:

"'So that no man may misunderstand me, let me recapitulate: I am not proposing anything in connection with the Supreme court of the United States or with the federal constitution. I am not proposing anything having any connection with ordinary suits, civil or criminal, as between individuals. I am not speaking of the recall of judges. I am proposing merely that in a certain class of cases involving the police power, when a state court has set aside as unconstitutional a law passed by the legislature for the general welfare, the question of the validity of the law be submitted for [illegible]

"Is there any principle advocated here which will plunge the government into chaos? The Supreme court and the federal constitution are preserved, so our national government remains intact. Does the use of the short ballot which but fixes responsibility more definitely on the representatives of the people, destroy representative government? Would the amendment to the federal constitution necessary for the direct election of United States senators destroy representative government?

"When we come to consider direct nominations and the necessary changes to the state constitution this much-needed reform would work havoc with the indirect representative government we have today. The kind of rule we have at present, boss-ruled legislatures and machine-controlled primaries, absolutely ignores the right of the people to choose the best candidates. If this is the kind of representative government, which is now being so strenuously upheld by professional politicians, that your writer fears for, it were better, indeed, that it should be swept away and a true, honest system of direct representative government put in its place."

Mr. Wessels says in conclusion:

"The constitution will be safely guarded, never fear, by Mr. Roosevelt and those who believe in his principles, and as for his new radicalism, it is the forceful expression of the belief of the people, those who are the backbone of the nation, who maintain the balance of the country. I fail to see where these principles endanger representative government, for we must trust the people; they have guided our country in the past and are capable of doing so in the future. Mr. Roosevelt's influence for good is far reaching and powerful, for he is bringing before the young men of today questions which are vital to the welfare of the nation tomorrow, and these young men who will soon take up the reins of government and business are giving careful consideration to this new radicalism, and when the time is ripe the dark stains of corruption, fraud and abuse of money power, which are a disgrace to our political system, will be swept away, and our people will have to a fuller degree the opportunities for the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness."

Kansas City Star: Chairman McKinley announces that Taft is sure of the Hawaiian delegation, and it is believed the president may carry Porto Rico, the Philippines, Guam, Wake Island and the Canal Zone, which, in the eyes of the Taft managers, will fully offset the loss of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Maine, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oregon and California.

Toledo Blade: Give them a fair chance to vote, and the people have little trouble determining what they want.

Australia's Wild Oysters.

Oysters are sometimes regarded as dangerous but they are not usually considered savage. A Queensland judge, however, has decided that they are wild beasts. Before a royal commission on the pearling industry, which has been sitting at Brisbane, a witness stated that eight years ago he had laid 100,000 shells in the neighborhood of Friday island. The Japanese stole the shells, and the district court judge held that as pearl shell oysters were wild animals there was no penalty for stealing them.

Bear Wanted to Play with Children.

While the children of John Herron were playing in front of their home, at Duryea, Pa., a she-bear and her cub appeared on the scene. The baby bear ran up and wanted to play with the children, kitten-like, but the mother bear called it back, while the youngsters ran into the house. As Mr. Herron was not at home and no one who could shoot was around the visitors remained unmolested. After sniffing about the yard for a while and eating a few apples and potato peelings at the back door, the bears rambled away.

Breakfasting with Whistler.

There was a foreign painter who used to breakfast at Chelsea, and when Mr. Carr asked him if he had been there lately he replied: "Oh, no; not now so much. He ask me a leetle while ago to breakfast, and I go. My cab fare, two shilling, 'arf a crown. I arrive, very nice. Goldfish in bowl, very pretty. But breakfast—one egg, one toast—no more! Oh, no. My cab fare, two shillings, 'arf a crown. For me no more!"—London Telegraph.

Unsatisfactory Education.

We ought to train our boys to be more methodical and more thoroughgoing in everything they have to do. Constantly we hear complaint from business men that boys from the grammar schools, and even from the higher schools, are very hazy about arithmetic. Now, if there is any subject requiring precision, it is that which deals with figures. It boots little that a boy has gone through a high school course if he cannot make out the extensions of an ordinary bill of lading. Yet the latter difficulty presents itself to business men continually.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Ruling Passion.

The father of a family, all of whom were devotees of bridge and much given to talking the game and holding post-mortems over badly played hands, died rather suddenly. There was a difference of opinion as to whether he should be buried in the family plot or cremated. In the course of the discussion the mother said weepingly to her son:

"John, what do you think?"

"I leave it to you, mother."

"I make it spades," was her reply.—Success Magazine.

The Useful Hen.

"Country constables who make a living arresting speeding automobiles wouldn't have half so much trouble stopping the scorchers if they used a little ingenuity," says one of the offenders. "Chains across the road and moving vans blocking the highway are all right to accomplish the purpose, but they're cumbersome. My idea for causing a prompt slow-up is to scatter a lot of grain in a road and turn a lot of hens loose. They would block the road all right, and if there's one thing that will make a chauffeur slow up it's a hen. Dogs are bad enough, but a hen always runs the wrong way and if the machine is going at any speed usually ends up under the wheels. Hitting a hen will sometimes throw the front wheels out of line and cause the car to swerve, so drivers almost invariably slow up and give poultry a chance to get out of the way. A hen speed trap is a great idea, to my way of thinking, and, of course, if one of the birds were killed the cost could easily be added to the driver's fine."

Deer Seeks Mail Carrier's Protection.

A deer ran close to the mail wagon of Edward Cassidy when near the home of H. P. Bliss, in Sheffield, recently, and willingly gave itself into the custody of the mail carrier, who drove off the dogs.

The several dogs which followed close upon the trail of the frightened and almost exhausted deer had evidently followed their coveted prey many miles, for the deer, though nearly full grown and very fleet of foot, was almost ready to drop from sheer exhaustion when Uncle Sam's mail distributor happened along.

Since the law protecting deer from hunters at all seasons has been in effect they have been exceptionally numerous throughout southern [illegible] shire, and have frequently been [illegible] in village streets, as well [illegible] herds of cattle, but this is [illegible] one that has been captured [illegible] the open.—Berkshire Cou[illegible]

WORRIED THE YOUNG [illegible]

Lack of "Progress" Might Have [illegible] a Serious Thing.

"When people in our part of the country select a family physician they stick to him," says an Illinois physician. "If he goes away they [illegible] in some one else if they can possibly help it. They have faith in [illegible] but their own man, so long as he manages to be fairly successful. [illegible] spring I went up to Chicago for a few days, much to the distress of a young mother in our town, who expected me to inspect her only baby every other day at least. The second day of my stay she telegraphed me to come home at once. Baby was sick—she told me the trouble—she didn't know what to do. It wasn't an urgent case, I knew, so I wired back a reassuring message, told her to give the baby a dose of some medicine she had at hand, and to fill out the ten words I put in 'Prognosis admirable.' I always like to use large words when I'm telegraphing—makes me feel that I'm getting the worth of my money, you know. When I got home two days later I went to see the baby.

"'She's all right now,' the mother told me, 'but we were awfully worried. We had to rely on the medicine you left, though. The boy at the drug store didn't have a bit of prognosis in the place.'"

Just as Good.

"We are trying to educate our readers to recognize the evils of substitution," said the business manager of one of the popular magazines. "Through our advertising pages we are trying to get them up to the point where they will insist upon getting what they asked for, and will take nothing else. The merchant who has 'something just as good' is no more to be depended upon than a clerk in a certain country store which a friend visited to buy something.

"My friend had been invited unexpectedly to make an automobile trip, and was not fully prepared for it. The roads were very dusty, and after traveling several miles the party came to a country village, where my friend thought he might be able to purchase something to protect his clothing. The automobile halted before the general store of the village. My friend alighted and accosted a drowsy clerk. 'I want to get a linen duster,' he said.

"'I am very sorry,' said the clerk, 'but we are just out of linen dusters; I can let you have a nice feather duster!'"

Going to Sleep.

What is this thing that knits up the raveled sleeve of care? Cabains, in his investigations on the mind, endeavored to fix the order in which the different parts of our organization go to sleep; namely—first, the legs and arms, then the muscles that support the head and back. The first sense that slumbers is that of sight, followed in regular succession by the senses of taste, smell, hearing and feeling. The viscera (contents of the body cavities), he says, fall asleep one after the other, but with different degrees of soundness.—New York Press.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Parviance, Editor McNairny County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

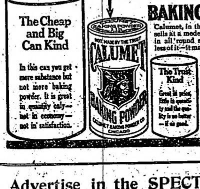
Mrs. Housewife:—There's a Happy Medium in Everything

Anything that is overdone or underdone is not good.

This is especially true of baking — and it is just as true of baking powder. If you use the cheap and Big Can Kinds you are getting quantity at the sacrifice of quality. It cannot be as good — or as economical as Calumet — the medium price kind. If you use the High Price Kind, you are paying tribute to the Trust — the quality is no better.

Here's the "Full Value" in BAKING POWDER



The Cheap and Big Can Kind
In this can you get more substance but not more baking powder. It is great in quantity only — not in economy — not in satisfaction.
NOT MADE BY THE TRUST CALUMET
BAKING POWDER
CALUMET BAKING POWDER CO
CHICAGO
The Trust Kind
Great in price, little in quantity and the quality is no better — if as good.

Calumet, in the Standard 1 lb. can, sells at a moderate cost — but is great in all 'round satisfaction. You use less of it — it makes the baking lighter, purer — more delicious. One baking will prove its superiority — try it. Ask your grocer and insist on Calumet. Free — large handsome recipe book. Send 4c and slip found in pound can.

All He Wanted Was Just Plain Eggs.

A youth entered one of the "ham-and-row" cafes on Grand avenue and ordered eggs. "Up or over?" asked the man behind the counter. "I just want eggs," replied the prospective diner. "But do you want them up or over?" repeated the waiter, and again the guest asserted that he desired "only eggs." KNOWS NOW

Doctor Was Fooled by His Own Case For a Time.

It's easy to understand how ordinary people get fooled by coffee when doctors themselves sometimes forget the facts.

A physician speaks of his own experience:

"I had used coffee for years and really did not exactly believe it was injuring me although I had palpitation of the heart every day. (Tea contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee—and is just as harmful as coffee.)

"Finally one day a severe and almost fatal attack of heart trouble frightened me and I gave up both tea and coffee, using Postum instead, and since that time I have had absolutely no heart palpitation except on one or two occasions when I tried a small quantity of coffee which caused severe irritation and proved to me I must let it alone.

"When we began using Postum it seemed weak—that was because we did not make it according to directions—but now we put a little bit of butter in the pot when boiling and allow the Postum to boil full 15 minutes which gives it the proper rich flavor and the deep brown color.

"I have advised a great many of my friends and patients to leave off coffee and drink Postum, in fact I daily give this advice." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Many thousands of physicians use Postum in place of tea and coffee in their own homes and prescribe it to patients.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Winona.—As a result of stepping on a rusty nail on the farm of William Watson near Utica, this county, Charles Breen, 17 years old, died of lockjaw. Breen came from New York, his home, a year ago to live on the Watson farm in the hope of recovering his health.

Faribault.—Prof. John Munroe of Cokato has been elected as the new superintendent of the Faribault public schools to succeed Prof. L. J. Montgomery, resigned. G. W. Kirn, former science instructor, has been chosen principal and Miss Alta E. Reilly of Cokato assistant.

Alexandria.—The short course of instruction in poultry and strawberry culture planned by County Superintendent of Schools T. A. Erickson gives to each child a setting of eggs and a dozen strawberry plants in a contest, the results of which will be announced at the fall county school fair.

St. Paul.—The first concrete road in Minnesota will be built this summer in Steele county, under the supervision of the state highway commission. It will be tried for demonstration purposes. It will be a quarter of a mile long and will cost $1,500.

A BLESSING IN DISGUISE

Nervous Breakdown Is a Warning That You Must Heed to Avoid Something Worse.

Nervous exhaustion, or breakdown of the nerves, is more often a blessing than anything else. The nerves have rebelled and you should be thankful it is no worse than it is. Let it serve as a sharp warning to relieve the strain and to take a treatment that will build up your nerves.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a real nerve tonic. They supply plenty of nourishing red blood to the exhausted nerves and do not excite and urge them on to do work which they have already shown they cannot do. Medicines which whip on the tired nerves do more harm than no medicine at all. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People not only start in immediately to give relief but continue to strengthen the nerves until they are able to do their work once more.

Mrs. J. E. Udelle, whose address is Box 130, R. F. D. No. 1, Osseo, Minn., says: "I was so completely worn out from overwork and nervousness that I was unable to continue at my work as dressmaker. I was very weak and my back ached continually. My stomach was so weak that I could eat nothing but light food and even then I would have pains like cramps. Gas formed on my stomach. I was short of breath and had palpitation of the heart. I was in bed for three months. At Davenport, Iowa, I was under doctors' care but received only temporary relief so gave it up. I then used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. When I began using the pills I had no strength at all and had lost a great deal in weight. I did not have to take the pills long before I felt better. I gave the pills a fair trial and was entirely cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are guaranteed to be free from any harmful or habit-forming drugs. They have given the most gratifying results in nervous headaches, neuralgia, nervous dyspepsia, St. Vitus' dance, and even in partial paralysis and locomotor ataxia. Write for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Surgeon in Ancient Times.

High honorariums were paid surgeons in ancient times. When Darfus, the son of Hystaspes, sprained his foot Damocedes was called in, another surgeon of renown having failed to effect a cure. Damocedes was successful, and the king took him to his harem and introduced the doctor to the ladies of the court. The ladies filled a vase of gold with money and precious pearls, which a eunuch was ordered to carry to the doctor. The eunuch let fall the vase, and the careful historian tells us that slaves gathered up the pearls.

"Why wouldn't you put out your tongue for the doctor this morning, Karl?"

"Oh, Emmy, I couldn't. I don't know him well enough."—Fliegende Blaetter.

QUAINT HOUSES IN BERNE

Swiss Town Famous for Its Old Bear Pits—Bruin Kept to Entertain Guests.

Berne, Switzerland.—Switzerland is the land where the hotelkeeping art has been cultivated assiduously. Everywhere one finds such houses as the Palace hotel and the Grand at St. Morits, the Seller hotels at Zermatt; the Eden, Monney, Brener and Suisse at Montreux; the Victoria, at Beatenberg; the Beau Rivage and Hotel de la Paix at Geneva; the Cecil, the Mirabeau and the Savoy at Lausanne; the Jungfraublick at Interlaken; the Cattan at Engelberg; the Hof Ragaz at Ragaz and the Bernerhof at Berne.

Berne, by the way, is the most Swiss of all Swiss towns and one that has preserved its picturesqueness more than most of the rapidly modernized cities of Europe. The old part is full of quaint old houses, forming arcades called "lauben." At regular intervals there are beautiful fountains with statues, some serious, some humorous. But the most comical corner of the town is the famous bear pit. This is probably the oldest bear pit in the world and has harbored bruins innumerable in the course of the centuries it has been in existence. The arms of the town originated from the bear guests, who were kept for the entertainment of the citizens. Probably no other fragment of a zoo receives visitors from half as many countries as go to see and feed the bears of Berne.

Great Rock Gallery of the Axenstrasse

As famous as these "Johnny bears," though in another way, is Lake Leman, whose waters are so blue that they keep the scientists busy making up theories to account for the phenomenon. Territet-Montreux, on the shores of the lake, is a heavenly place to rest and dream after one has cavorted through a month or so of energetic sightseeing. Sunny and sheltered, with beautiful walks, an eighteen hole golf course and good hotels like the Brand, the Excelsior and the Hotel des Alpes, it is a delightful place to loaf and invite one's soul. Also there are Mont Fleuri in a green nest 800 feet above the lake and Glion, still higher up, and Caux, loftier than either, and with the chain of Alps in a white glory before one's eyes. Here in the exhilarating air one might even forget what the New York subway feels, sounds and smells like on a hot July day.

RAPID GROWTH OF BOMBAY

Country Was Sold to East India Company by Charles II. for Annual Payment of Ten Pounds.

London.—Bombay was a gift horse, which Englishmen at first looked very discontentedly in the mouth. Mr. Kipling pictures her now as a "queen fronting thy (England's) richest sea with richer hands," and George Stevens called her "a beautiful queen in silver armor and a girdle of gold." But for some considerable time the general view was that of Pepys when he "did inform myself well in things relating to the East Indies" September 5, 1663. He was impressed by "the inconsiderableness of the place of Bombaim * * * it being, if we had it, but a poor place, and not really so as was described to our king in the draft of it, but a poor little island." His decided view was that "the king and lord chancellor and other learned men about the king" had been grossly deceived in the matter.

Bombay was one of the earliest Portuguese settlements in India. The British, recognizing its strategic importance, attempted to seize the place in 1626. They failed, but Bombay became British in 1661 as part of the dowry of Catherine of Braganza on her marriage to Charles II. In 1668 Charles ceded it to the East India Company in consideration of an annual payment of £10. The real foundations of the city's prosperity were laid by Gerald Angier, governor of Surat while Bombay was still regarded as a portion of that province. He drained and fortified the town, and so reorganized the whole of its life and trade that within eight years the population rose from 10,000 to 60,000. The East India Company made Bombay an independent settlement and the center of administrative power in 1685.

Woman Rides in Midair.

Toronto.—When a newspaper woman was ordered from the unfinished seventeen-story building which is being constructed for the Canadian Pacific railway here, on the ground that it was no place for a woman, Mrs. T. D. Wells, wife of the contractor, took exception to a remark that women did not have as good nerve as men. She proceeded to demonstrate her own bravery by riding up to the top of the skyscraper on one of the iron girders as it was hoisted by a crane.

She stood on the girder and waved the Union Jack with one hand, clutching the guy wire with the other as she rode up.

Yale Receives a Prehistoric Chair.

New Haven, Conn.—Yale university museum has received from Ecuador, South America, an interesting prehistoric relic in the shape of a large stone chair, carved as a crouching human figure holding up a stone seat. The chair is of a kind of stone found nowhere in the world except on some of the Ecuador hills. The donor is Charles C. Brown, Yale, 1903.

COULD HARDLY MOVE.

Kidney Trouble Caused Terrible Misery.

Mrs. J. S. Downs, 219 N. Sixth St., Chickasha, Okla., says: "My back across my kidneys became so lame I could hardly move. My limbs cramped and stiffened and I felt completely worn out. Nervousness and headaches kept me in an unstrung condition and frequent passages of the kidney secretions added to my discomfort. I was soon relieved, however, after I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills and when I had used four boxes, I felt like another woman."

MRS. SELBY AND PRIZE BABY

"I have always used Cuticura Soap and no other for my baby and he has never had a sore of any kind. He does not even chafe as most babies do. I feel sure that it is all owing to Cuticura Soap, for he is fine and healthy, and when five months old, won a prize in a baby contest. It makes my heart ache to go into so many homes and see a sweet-faced baby with the whole top of its head a solid mass of scurf, caused by poor soap. I always recommend Cuticura, and nine times out of ten the next time I see the mother she says: 'Oh! I am so glad you told me of Cuticura.'" (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redondo Beach, California, Jan. 15, 1911.

Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Oh, Learned Judge.

A California judge decided that there is no judicial authority to keep a man from making love to his wife, although it could stop his beating her. The remarkable cause of this remarkable decision was that a woman in Los Angeles had applied for an injunction to restrain her husband from insisting on being attentive to her. This judge was not a Solomon, but he realized that only a Solomon could be trusted to rule upon the whims and inconsistencies of womankind.

Time.

"How long have you been a widow, Mrs. Weed?"

"It will be a year the fourth of next month."

"Dear me! Is it as long as that? How time flies!"

"Oh, do you think so? Well, if you ever have to wait a year to look pleasant when men offer you attentions you'll give up the idea that time is much of a flyer."

NO ONE STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

The celebrated Dr. Abernethy of London was firmly of the opinion that disorders of the stomach were the most prolific source of human ailments in general. A recent medical writer says: "every feeling, emotion and affection reports at the stomach (through the system of nerves) and the stomach is affected accordingly. It is the vital center of the body * * * * ." He continues, "so we may be said to live (through) the stomach." He goes on to show that the stomach is the vital center of the body. For weak stomachs and the consequent indigestion or dyspepsia, and the multitude of various diseases which result therefrom, no medicine can be better suited as a curative agent than

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"Several months ago I suffered from a severe pain right under the breast-bone," writes Mrs. G. M. Mukken, of Corona, Calif. "Had suffered from it, off and on, for several years. I also suffered from heart-burn, did not know what was the matter with me. I tried several medicines but they did me no good. Finally, I was told it was my liver. I did not dare to eat as it made me worse. Whenever I swallowed anything it seemed that I would faint—it hurt so. I grew very thin and weak from not eating. Was told to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I took five bottles of it and could feel myself getting better from the first dose. I could eat a little without pain and grew strong fast. To-day I am strong and well and can do a big day's work with ease. Can eat everything and have put on flesh wonderfully. I will say to all sufferers write to Dr. Pierce. He has my undying gratitude."

Before Allowing an Operation

Please Read These Two Letters.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before. Then after all that suffering Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored her health.

HERE IS HER OWN STATEMENT.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement—I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months without much relief, and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. To-day I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise every woman who is afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. Orville Rock, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Mich.

"THERE NEVER WAS A WORSE CASE."

Rockport, Ind.—"There never was a worse case of women's ills than mine, and I cannot begin to tell you what I suffered. For over two years I was not able to do anything. I was in bed for a month and the doctor said nothing but an operation would cure me. My father suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so to please him I took it, and I improved wonderfully, so I am able to travel, ride horseback, take long rides and never feel any ill effects from it. I can only ask other suffering women to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation."—Mrs. Margaret Meredith, R. F. D. No. 8, Rockport, Ind.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine, made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

T. R. AND HARMON LEADING IN OHIO

EX-PRESIDENT HAS LEAD OF 15,000 IN PRECINCTS WHICH HAVE REPORTED.

DELEGATION MAY SPLIT.

On Account of the Manner the Vote is Divided Between the Various Congressional Districts.

Columbus, May 22.—With little more than one-third of the total vote in the state counted Colonel Roosevelt's delegates on the Republican ticket and Governor Harmon on the Democratic preference ballot led Ohio's first presidential preference primary. The fight on both tickets was so close, however, that complete returns may change final results.

Complete returns from slightly less than 2,000 precincts of 5,192 in the state show the Roosevelt delegates had a lead of more than 15,000 votes. Governor Harmon's lead over Woodrow Wilson was considerably less than this. The closeness of this race with Wilson was indicated by late reports from Cincinnati, Governor Harmon's home city. Here, the Ohio governor, who had been well in the lead in the early returns, was shown to have 1,954 votes and Wilson 1,904 in 120 precincts out of a total of 361.

Colonel May Get Only 26 Delegates.

A peculiar situation developed in the compilation of the results. This showed that while Colonel Roosevelt had a lead of 15,000 in the total number of votes cast for delegates pledged to him, the vote by districts would be such that he probably would not have more than 26 of the 42 district delegates to the national convention at Chicago. The indications were that Governor Harmon would have at least 22 or 24 of the delegates to the Baltimore convention. The privilege of naming the six delegates-at-large of the state, however, is carried by the winner of the presidential preference vote.

Vote in Congressional Districts.

Of the congressional districts, Colonel Roosevelt apparently has won the delegates in the Fourth, Sixth, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Fourteenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-first districts.

President Taft practically has won the First, Second, Third, probably the Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Thirteenth.

The Sixteenth district remained in doubt, although both sides claim it. Roosevelt supporters also claim two or three of the districts listed for Mr. Taft.

Despite the close fight between the Taft and Roosevelt forces on the Republican ticket, United States Senator La Follette of Wisconsin received considerable support, especially in Cleveland and Toledo, precincts, where he was credited with several thousand votes. In Wood county, Senator La Follette ran second to Colonel Roosevelt.

Votes for Bryan and Clark.

Mr. Bryan and Speaker Champ Clark, although their names were not on the Democratic ballot, received a scattering vote through many precincts in the state.

Cincinnati, Cleveland, Toledo, Columbus, Dayton and a dozen more of the larger cities in the state furnished the greater portion of last night's returns. Because of the complexity of the primary ballot, the count in rural districts was unusually slow.

Heavy Vote in Cities.

The fight in Cleveland and Cincinnati, the two largest cities of the commonwealth developed a heavy vote and directly opposite results. In Cincinnati, President Taft's home city, Taft delegates were nominated by a vote of 2 to 1, but the vote in the city was light, although the president was there in person, as also was Governor Harmon. Here also, Representative Nicholas Longworth, son-in-law of Colonel Roosevelt, was renominated for congress by the Republicans of the First district.

HOME BURNS, TWO DEAD.

Heroic Woman and Grand Daughter She Tried to Save Both Succumb.

Marinette, Wis., May 22.—Flames that developed in a farmhouse at Ba De Nocque, near Escanaba caused the death of Mrs. George Hardwick, aged 63, and her grand daughter, Hazel Hardwick, aged five.

The child was burned to death in the building while Mrs. Hardwick was so severely burned in attempting to save her grand daughter that she succumbed a few hours afterward.

Methodist Union Favored.

Baltimore, May 22.—Expressing the conviction that the other two branches of the Methodist denomination, the Methodist Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal South have encouraged the progress of the negotiations thus far made by the three commissions on church union, the commission of the Methodist Protestant church in its report to the general conference here asked to have its work thus far indorsed and to be instructed to continue for another four years along the same lines.

TURKISH WAR ANNOYS POWERS

SEIZURE OF TURKISH ISLANDS CAUSE FOR GRAVE ALARM.

Prevailing Sentiment in Europe is Becoming Inimical to Triple Entente.

Paris, May 22.—The extension of the Turko-Italian war, is awakening the powers to the necessity of making renewed attempts to bring the conflict to an end. Italy's steady occupation of Turkish islands in the Aegean sea which Turkey has answered by expelling Italians from the Ottoman empire is regarded here with considerable inquietude.

Italy is now in control of 11 Turkish islands in the archipelago and this it is pointed out totally modifies the equilibrium of force in one section of the water route round the world which with the completion of the Panama canal means a continuous globar marine movement.

The turn of events therefore is distinctly against the interests of the triple entente and chiefly against those of Russia and the time has arrived for members of the triple entente to examine the situation seriously.

Various offers for mediation between Turkey and Italy have been extended including the calling of a congress of European powers and a proposal to allow Italy to remain in Tripoli as England has remained in Egypt with Turkey retaining legal control in the country, getting back her islands and receiving compensation.

Announce Auto Race Prizes.

Milwaukee, May 22.—The Vanderbilt cup race committee announced the prize awards for the race, including a new trophy valued at $1,500 offered for small stock cars. The cash prizes total over $16,000 and will probably aggregate $20,000 with the first prize $5,000, and the smallest $250. Prizes of equipment and accessories will total $10,000, making a total prize list for the race of over $40,000, including the grand prize and Vanderbilt historic cup and the Pabst and Wisconsin cups announced here.

Minneapolis, May 22.—Wheat, July, $1.12¾; Sept., $1.03¾; No. 1 northern, $1.14¾; No. 2 northern, $1.12¾; No. 1 durum, $1.09¾; No. 3 corn, 77c; No. 3 white oats, 53c; barley, malting, $1.22; No. 2 rye, 84½c; No. 1 flax, $2.27¼.

Duluth, May 22.—Wheat, July, $1.14; Sept., $1.04¾; No. 1 northern, $1.15; No. 1 durum, $1.10.

South St. Paul, May 22.—Cattle—Steers, $3.85@4.75; cows, $4.00@5.75; calves, $3.75@7.50; hogs, $7.25@7.50; sheep and lambs, $4.00@9.00.

Chicago Live Stock.

Chicago, May 22.—Cattle—Receipts, 2,500; market slow and steady; beeves, $6.10@9.40; Texas steers, $6@7.85; western steers, $6.25@8; stockers and feeders, $4.40@7.10; cows and heifers, $3.10@8; calves, $5.25@8.75.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,000; market slow and steady at Monday's average; light, $7.25@7.75; mixed, $7.35@7.85; heavy, $7.35@7.85; rough, $7.35@7.55; pigs, $5@6.90; bulk of sales, $7.60@7.80.

Sheep — Receipts, 12,000; market steady to 10c higher; native, $3.75@6.30; western, $4@6.35; yearlings, $6.25@7.35; lambs, native, $5@8.75; western, $5@9.

Chicago Grain Markets.

Chicago, May 22.—Evidence developed today that the wheat market had been oversold. Accordingly, prices tended upward, especially as cable quotations showed power to remain stable, despite declines on this side of the Atlantic. The fact that receipts of red wheat here were light helped also to attract attention to possibilities on the bull side and so did reports of cash sales. Moreover, there was a word of a big falling off in the wheat yield of India. Opening figures ranged from ⅛c lower to ½c advance. July started $1.07⅛@1.07½, gain of ⅛@⅜c, and rose to $1.07¾@1.07⅞.

Illinois reports that half the wheat standing was turning out to be cheat, caused prices to harden still more. The close was firm with July 1⅛@1¼c net higher at $1.08¼@1.08⅜.

Offerings dried up in the corn crowd. Shorts scrambled to cover and in their eagerness hoisted the market against themselves. July opened ⅛c to ¼@⅜c off, at 72⅞@73⅛c to 73⅜c, and climbed to 74¼@74⅜c.

A further advance ensued owing to predictions of unsettled weather. The close was firm at 73⅞c for July, a gain of 1c net.

There was right and left purchasing of oats when that cereal made a dip at the outset. In consequence, the early loss was more than overcome. Buyers took their cue from the action of one of the largest houses in the trade. July started unchanged to ⅜c down at 47⅞@47¾c, and rallied to 48⅛@48⅜c.

AMATEUR AVIATOR FALLS TO DEATH

F. J. SOUTHARD, MINNEAPOLIS BROKER, AVIATION ENTHUSIAST, KILLED AT DAYTON.

STUDENT OF WRIGHTS

Flew Despite Warning—Wife Hysterical When Told of Tragedy—Says She Had Premonition of Fatality.

Xenia, O., May 22.—Fred J. Southard, of Minneapolis, an aviation student, fell 100 feet at the Wright aviation field near Osborn, and was killed instantly. Southard, who was 40 years old, had just bought the aeroplane from the Wright brothers.

He obtained the keys to the hangar after he had been refused permission to take the aeroplane out without further experience. He fell just six minutes after he had begun the first flight alone. His body was badly crushed.

Fred J. Southard was the head of the firm of F. J. Southard and Co., dealers in farm mortgages. He had been in business in Minneapolis for about a year. He expected to become an efficient aviator, and go into the flying business. Mr. Southard move to Minneapolis from Williston, N. D., where he had conducted a real estate office for a number of years.

Martyr to Aviation Project.

Minneapolis.—Frederick J. Southard's death was the result of a plan to establish a big aviation field and aeroplane factory in Minneapolis and to make the city an aviation center. Mrs. Southard became hysterical when informed of her husband's tragic death and a physician and two nurses were called. She later recovered her composure and told of her husband's life and of the development of his interest in aerial navigation. She had always had a premonition, she said, that he would be injured or killed making flights and had extracted repeated promises from him that he would take no unnecessary risks.

The amateur aviator who was killed owned property worth more than $100,000, and was president of the Farmers' State Bank, at West Concord, Minn.

WIRELESS SAVES 32.

U. S. Ship Armeria Pounding To Pieces On Alaska Rocks.

Cordova, Alasko, May 22.—The United States lighthouse tender Armeria, is ashore near Cape Hincinbrook and is being pounded to pieces by the waves. The thirty-two persons aboard, including seven officers, twenty-four men and one survivor of the crew of the lost barge Haydn Brown, were taken off by the steamship Admiral Sampson, which picked up the wireless distress signals.

The Admiral Sampson reported the loss of the Armeria by wireless and gave the additional information that the Armeria had solved the fate of the Haydn Brown which was cut adrift by the tug Pioneer in a storm in Prince William Sound May 10.

The Haydn Brown drifted ashore off Montague Island in the entrance to the sound May 12. Only two of the eight men aboard reached shore and one died of exposure the next day. August Palmer, the lone survivor, lived on canned beef until picked up by the Armeria.

TWO BURGLARS KILLED.

In Desperate Battle At Nauen, Germany, With Police.

Nauen, Germany, May 22.—The example of the Apaches who recently terrorized Paris and its environs has been followed by criminals here. Two of them, detected while committing burglaries, dashed to their bicycles which had been left outside the house. On the way they were confronted by a policeman, whom they shot dead.

Then they rode rapidly away, but pursuers wounded one of them. His comrade deliberately killed the wounded man to prevent his capture and possible betrayal.

The surviving burglar continued the battle against some hundreds of armed police and countrymen until he was finally shot dead.

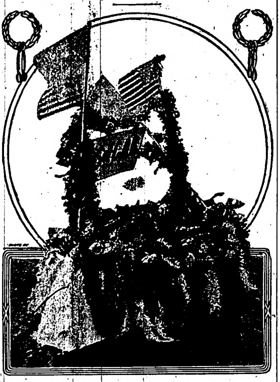
"Lumber Trust" Suit Begun.

Chicago, May 22.—Taking of evidence was begun in the prosecution of the Northwestern Association of Retail Lumber Dealers, the lumber trust. Suit for injunction was filed by the government, accusing the organization of alleged restraint of trade. Government counsel first took up the examination of correspondence between secretaries. The government is represented by Clark McKercher and Frank H. Watson, special counsel, of Detroit. Milton Purdy of Minneapolis represents the lumber dealers.

In Memory of Naval Heroes



Photograph by Underwood & Underwood, N. Y.

A BEAUTIFUL and touching tribute is paid to the memory of the sailors who gave up their lives during the Civil war by Tent No. 18 of the National Alliance, Daughters of the Veterans of the United States. A little boat filled with carnations, roses, lilies, jessamine and arbutus, is borne by G. A. R. veterans to the edge of the river and given, amid prayer, to the crew of a launch who take it to midstream. There it is launched, and, amid the booming of a salute and the strains of the "Star-Spangled Banner," it sinks quietly and slowly, leaving the water around it dotted with blossoms.

Memorial Day Sermon

By
REV. CHARLES F. WEEDEN
Pastor of Harvard Church
Boston

IN the foremost rank of memorials stands the monument to the soldier. The myriad mounds of rank and file stir tender and deep emotions. The veterans of the thrilling scenes of '61 and '65 are passing. Over forty-eight thousand in 1909 answered the last taps. Memorial Day should be sacredly kept and should most properly recall the stirring events of the Civil war. "What mean ye by these stones?" the descendants of Joshua asked, as they saw the memorial pile by the River Jordan. So the youth of today inquire of the silent sentinels raised to commemorate the soldier of '61.

I am reminded of an example of patriotism not usually known. Colonel Shaw, whose monument of bronze stands upon Boston Common, is not alone in deserving such a memorial. Up among the Berkshire Hills there is a modest shaft that marks the grave of another gallant leader of negro troops. I refer to Colonel Chauncey Bassett, of the Bassett Grand Army post of Michigan, the grandfather of my children and the father of that elect lady, my wife. How Colonel Bassett inspired his men is illustrated by the heroism of a negro lad who was the color-bearer. As Colonel Bassett handed the flag to the lad, he gave this charge: "My boy, bring back the colors or tell to God the reason why." All through the fierce fight they watched that standard. Once it was seen to fall—the lad's arm had been shot. But grasping the staff with his left hand, the flag moved forward again, waving over the dusky troops. Once more it swayed and dropped. But after the battle they found the little fellow prostrate upon the flag wet with his blood. He could never bring the colors back. He had told to God the reason why.

But I recall a memorial which comes close to every veteran in the land. It is the name endeared to you by a thousand recollections and sends the warm blood throbbing through your veins. It is the dear name of Comrade, Comrade!

Your companions in arms! They have fallen, but your thoughts bring the old familiar forms and scenes back again. You sleep in the same tent and perchance share the same blanket or you watch by the campfire warming and sheltering your comrade from the cold and the storm as he has done for you. You divide your scanty rations or you dispense the lucky catch of poultry or bacon; you cheer him on the hot and dusty march; he stretches his hand or musket to you in the struggle through the dangerous swamp; he fights by your side in the din and smoke of attack; he runs and cheers with you in the gallant charge or he stands near you on the man-of-war's deck and hurls defiance at the enemies' shot. He laughs, he sings, he shouts; he turns with stern resolve and face like flint to meet the bullet-storm. His joys, his sorrows, his glory, his hardship, are yours, for all the while it is comrade. It may be one today, another tomorrow, but always Comrade!

I cannot forbear to mention one more important lesson from the monuments of the war. It is this:

The God of Nations Gave the Victory.

The Almighty's hand has never been withdrawn from history. In the darkest hour a Lincoln's brain and heart—a true statesman's hand—grasped the helm and held the nation to her course through whirlwind, victory and dire disaster. In critical hours when foreign powers would smile encouragement to our foe God sent a strong man across the waters to speak for us—a man of silver tongue, the orator's fire and the patriot's soul, who averted the threatened blow. Some well remember what utter consternation swept over the north when the "Merrimac" sunk the "Cumberland" and the "Congress" surrendered. When that same evening the news sped over the wires that the "Monitor" had arrived at Hampton Roads, the air rang with shouts and men who seldom acknowledged divine interference were saying, "How providential!" Merchants of war-time will not forget the terrible depression in business. For ten years previous two thirds of the country's exports consisted of cotton from the south. How could the great loss be met? In '61 and '62 there was drought in England and Europe. Then the farmer stepped to the front. The fields of America, particularly in the west, were, in these years, unusually abundant, and foreign ports were opened to receive "a value of over two hundred million dollars of the products of our soil. England sent us more than sixty million dollars of gold." At the last when the nation was weary the indomitable Grant came into leadership and by his sledge hammer blows, "By the left flank, forward!" gave the Confederacy the fatal stroke. Thus did the King of Nations shield this land.

Think not, fellow-citizens, that your duty is done; that in rearing colossal statues your obligations are fulfilled. The peculiar institutions of this country are the memorials God commands you to build, support and protect. See to it, you who fought gallantly for your country and you who today reap the harvest of heroism, see to it that your influence goes abroad for pure morals, and guard as your life the liberties handed down to you.

The future of our nation lies in what citizens make it today. The world is looking to America. There are no new continents. "There is no other race that possesses, as does the Anglo-Saxon, liberty and a pure religion," and these are the mighty factors that will determine the future of the world for good.

Friends, we are still in the "broad field of battle," still in the "bivouac of life." Who will be the hero? Your answer will be in the sincerity and courage with which you defend the institutions and the liberties of your citizenship. Hold the nation's life sacred. Bare your head beneath the folds of her flag bathed in the blood of your fathers and countrymen!—Farm and Fireside.

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week in Condensed Form.

Hibbing. — Mary Bille, aged 12, was arrested, charged with forging checks totaling $16.75.

Spring Valley.—Ira Hare, was convicted of selling liquor and a fine of $50 and costs were imposed.

Mankato.—The summer meeting of the Second District Editorial association will be held at Windom the third week in June.

Austin.—Lee Thompson of Lansing, was killed and Herbert Hunt badly injured in a automobile accident, two miles north of Austin.

Stillwater.—The May term of the district court convened here. The grand jury after a session of 10 minutes with nothing to do, was discharged.

St. Paul. — Damages in the sum of $50,000 for breach of promise to marry are asked from Freeman P. Strong, St. Paul, capitalist and clubman, in a suit by Caroline P. Vallee.

Caledonia. — The one-year-old son of V. L. Mangus, superintendent of the public school, while playing on the floor, picked up a collar button, placed it in his mouth, and choked to death.

Albert Lea.—County Superintendent Dahlen returned from a tour of inspection of the rural schools near Glenville. These districts are planning to consolidate and erect a high school building at Glenville.

Duluth. — A little West Duluth maid's curiosity regarding a big match factory there proved fatal when 6-year-old Irene Klug was boosted into an open window by her young companions. The sash fell on her back killing her.

Red Wing.—George Fred Williams, former congressman of Massachusetts, spoke here on the position of the various presidential candidates on leading political questions of the day. His speech was in advocacy of Champ Clark.

Red Wing.—The will of the late John Befort, well known resident of Belvidere, was filed for probate. The estate, consisting largely of farm lands in this county, has a value of nearly $50,000. Two sons and three daughters are the heirs.

Cloquet.—Cloquet's city jail is to be replaced by a new building, which will also include space for the city offices and council chamber. Specifications of Duluth architects have been accepted and the city clerk authorized to advertise for bids for construction.

Virginia. — The Virginia Electric Power and Water Company will make improvements that will cost nearly $50,000. The new work will be in extensions and additions to the water mains and in the sinking of a third deep well.

Duluth.—Vincent Sodorski, a roofer was accidentally killed in an unknown manner at the dock of the Zenith Furnace company at West Duluth. There were no eye witnesses, but his skull was fractured and he was found lying dead on the roof. Sodorski was 22 and married last February.

Spring Valley.—Memorial Sunday has been set for May 26. The services here will be held at the opera house at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Mr. Wilsey, pastor of the United Brethren Church, will deliver the address. On May 30 the usual program of decorating the graves of soldiers will be carried out.

Mankato.—Miss Mamie A. Carlson, who has been deputy clerk of the United States court for six years, has resigned, and C. E. Bredeson, a divinity student, was appointed to fill the vacancy. Miss Carlson and Mr. Bredeson have been united in marriage, and the office will continue in the family.

Little Falls.—In Ripley town it is reported that a 14-year-old youth, becoming angry at his school teacher, threatened to kill her and one of the scholars. The sheriff will bring the boy here to examine into his sanity. His mother is in the Fergus Falls hospital and it is believed the boy is also mentally unbalanced.

Mapleton.—The annual meeting of the Mankato conference of the Congregational church will be held here May 21 and 22. The district comprises the churches in Blue Earth, Nobles, Freeborn, Faribault, Pipestone, Le Sueur, Martin and Nicollet counties. Among the speakers will be Dr. D. J. Cowling of Carleton college, Northfield, and Miss Emily Hartwell, a missionary from Cuba.

Washington.—A $3,000,000 claim of the Mille Lacs Indians of Minnesota, on account of losses sustained by them through the opening of their reservation to public settlement, was approved by the United States court of claims. Chief Justice Beelle and Judge Howe dissented from the majority of the court and indorsed the contention of the federal department of justice that the law did not intend to give the Indians a valid claim against the United States.

International Falls.—A successful sale of state land was conducted by Theodore Nelson, sales manager of the state land department; 4,254 acres were sold at an average price of $5.80 per acre. A few pieces sold as high as $25 per acre.

Belle Plaine.—A meeting of representatives of most of the river towns from Mankato to Minneapolis was held here to lay plans for establishing and improving a highway from Mankato to Minneapolis, to be known as the Minnesota valley scenic highway. Most of the representatives motored to the city. The matter met with general favor and active work will be undertaken.

Red Wing. — An inspection of weights and measures in the city is being made by inspectors D. S. Evans and W. H. Morrow of the state depart- [illegible]

"ONE MILLION LEAGUE FOR MANITOBA."

The purposes of the "Million for Manitoba League" are set out in the fact that Manitoba wants more people. Today the population is less than five hundred thousand, and the determination of the representative men of the Province to devote their best energies to increasing this to a million, is a worthy one. There is already a widespread interest in every municipality; committees are appointed, whose duties are to secure such a thorough knowledge of local conditions that, whether the applicant for information be a laborer for the farm, a would-be tenant, a probable homesteader, the buyer of a small improved farm or the purchaser of a large tract for colonizing farmers, the information is at hand, free.

The advantages that Manitoba possesses are many, and with the exploitation that will be given them by the birth of this new acquisition to the settlement and immigration propaganda that is being carried on by the Dominion Government, there is no doubt that the establishment of the bureau will very soon bring about the results looked for. Manitoba is practically the gateway of the great grain belt of the West. Its farm lands have demonstrated time and again that they have a yielding value that practically makes them worth over one hundred dollars per acre. Added to the yielding value of the land, there is an increased value on account of its nearness to markets, and the matter of freight rates is carefully considered by the cautious buyer. But the information more valuable to the incoming settler is that it still has an immense amount of vacant fertile land open for homesteads. This dispels the idea that free homesteads in Manitoba are about exhausted. In addition to this, the territory recently added to the Province will open up a homesteading area which when filled should fully satisfy the "Million for Manitoba League." Within the old boundaries there is an area of 47,360,000 acres, less than six million acres of the 16½ million acres occupied being under cultivation. At present there are over 20 million acres of available land capable of being put under the plough. If in every one of the 195,000 vacant quarter sections of the Province an average family of four persons were placed, there would be added a rural population of nearly 800,000. So there is room for additional hundreds of thousands on the farms of Manitoba, without any possibility of congestion. The population per mile in Iowa is 39.4, in Minnesota it is 23.5. That in Manitoba is only 7.1.

A glance at the map, copies of which will be forwarded upon application to any Canadian Government Agent, shows that Manitoba is wonderfully well supplied with railways. There are but few farms that are more than ten or twelve miles from a railway line: elevators are convenient, and markets are always good. The growing of grain, while a big feature in the inducements held out, is well re-enforced by the great possibilities that exist in all portions of the Province, for the raising of stock, for dairying, for hogs, and for a successful class of mixed farming, and what gives additional interest is the fact that there is so much land in the Province open for free homesteading that improved farms in almost all of the 98 municipalities can be purchased at very low figures. Many of the owners of these have made sufficient upon which to retire and are becoming residents of the cities. In addition to the export market for the produce of the farm, Manitoba has a number of large cities and towns providing a splendid local market. Truck and garden farming are highly profitable branches. Winnipeg is a city bordering on 200,000. Brandon is a splendid centre, Portage la Prairie is the hub of an excellent district, and Yorkton, Minnedosa, Dauphin, Morden, Manitou and a dozen other towns are important help as consumers.

The Dominion and Provincial immigration officials are working in strong sympathy with the "Million for Manitoba League," and in addition to the general literature sent out by the Government, the League has prepared pamphlets giving useful and concise information, which on addressing the Secretary, Million League, Winnipeg, Manitoba, will be forwarded free.

Rural School Notes

Allow me to call the attention of our farm boys to the following special announcement of the state fair association. Pennington county boys have here a rare chance to distinguish themselves. Some one will see the sights of the fair free. Send in your request for an application and begin your essay work. Read this:

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Minnesota State Fair management has completed plans for a farm boys' encampment that will give an opportunity for one boy from each of the eighty-six counties of the state to visit the state fair for a whole week without expense. The purpose of this encampment is to extend the educational advantages of the fair to the farms of the state and to stimulate a greater interest in the state fair by spreading through the eighty-six counties its real worth, through these farm boys.

The selection of the boys will be made by a local committee consisting of the county superintendent of schools, the chairman of the board of county commissioners, and one other selected by the members of the state fair board. This committee will receive all applications, as set forth above, and mark all essays submitted. The applicants must be of good moral character; willing to cooperate in making the encampment a success; be between the ages of sixteen and nineteen years, and be actual residents and workers upon a farm. No boy who has ever been regularly enrolled in any special school or college of agriculture in this or any other state will be eligible to compete. (This does not exclude boys who have attended agricultural departments in high schools.)

Each boy will be required to write an essay of not less than 400 or more then 600 words upon the subject, "Our Home Farm," according to the following outline:

(a) Describe the farm.
(b) Why I desire to remain there.
(c) What changes may be made in the present system of carrying on this farm to insure better financial returns.
(d) What can be done to make farm life more enjoyable.

All essays must be in the hands of the local committee before the 15th day of June. The committee will read and mark them at once and notify the secretary of the state fair on or before July 1 of the name and address of the boy standing highest; which boy will be the one entitled to the free trip to the state fair as a member of the farm boys' encampment from his county. The local committee will keep a record of the markings of all the contestants, and the boys standing second and third in their markings will be designated as first and second alternates; the first alternate to be selected in case the winner cannot come to the fair, and the second alternate to be selected in case both the winner and the first alternate cannot come.

Comfortable quarters will be selected for the encampment on the state fair grounds in the rooms on the south side of the stock pavilion. Cots, mattresses, and pillows will be furnished, but each boy must bring the following:

1. Blankets, sheets, and pillow slips.
2. Towels, brush, and comb.
3. Necessary clothing to last the week.
4. Sufficient money to buy a khaki suit and a blue shirt. (These will probably cost between $2.00 and $3.00.)

The fair association will furnish each boy with a white hat, free, which he can keep as a souvenir of the encampment.

Meals will be furnished, beginning with supper Saturday evening, August 31, up to and including dinner Saturday, Sept. 7.

The boys and camp will be under the immediate supervision of Mr. E. C. Higbie, of the school of agriculture at Morris, Minn. Strict discipline will be enforced and the conduct of the boys carefully looked after, and those not wishing to conform to the discipline and rules of the encampment will be asked to return at once to their homes. Should the management find it necessary to dismiss any boy before the close of the week on account of infraction of the discipline or rules of the camp, they will not be liable for his transportation expense.

As a partial remuneration to the fair the boys will be assigned some light work a part of each day, such as ushering in the grand stand and stock pavilion, messenger service for officers and assisting in the judging rings. For the purpose of seeing the fair and studying the exhibits in a systematic and intelligent manner, the boys will be divided into small groups in charge of competent instructors. Special opportunity will be given to make a careful study of such exhibits as live stock, agriculture, horticulture, dairy, machinery, schools, good roads, etc. A short program with an appropriate lecture or address will be included in each day's routine.

All boys remaining in camp throughout the entire week, and whose camp deportment will merit, will be presented with a diploma showing his membership in the Minnesota State Fair Farm Boys' Encampment.

Upon returning to their homes after the close of the fair each boy will be given an opportunity to write an essay of not less than 600 or more than 1,000 words on the subject, "What I Saw and Learned at the Fair, as a Member of the Farm Boys' Camp." These essays are to be forwarded unsigned, but with a signed letter accompanying and in same envelope, to the secretary of the state fair, J. C. Simpson, Hamline, Minn., on or before October 1. They will be read and marked by an impartial committee. The winner of the first prize essay will be invited to read the same before the next annual meeting of the state agricultural society at Minneapolis in January, 1913, at the expense of the society. In addition to the first prize, carrying with it the free trip to the annual meeting of the society, other special prizes, such as pure bred calves, pigs, sheep, chickens, etc., will be awarded to those ranking highest in the essay contest.

The state fair management will exercise the utmost care in looking after the welfare of the boys while in camp, and to protect them in every way possible. They will not, however, be responsible for accidents, damage, or loss. Should any sickness or an accident occur, quick attention can be given at the regular emergency hospital maintained on the grounds.

The following are the committee for the selection of the boy in Pennington county: Hon. D. P. O'Neill, Supt. E. A. Mostue, Thief River Falls; Chairman Ed. A. Aubol, St. Hilaire.

The state high school board examination will take place Friday, Monday, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday May 24, 27, 28, and 29. Pupils wanting to write but living in districts whose schools are closed should write to the superintendent of schools for particulars. Do not fail to do this in time. Examination is taken in all subjects. Papers must be sent to superintendent Friday, May 31.

At Imperial Hall Wednesday June 5

The Christy Amusement Enterprise, pursuant to public wishes for a high class entertaining amusement, are presenting more newer and by far better subjects than any time before.

Christy's high class motion pictures have been before the public continually for seven seasons, appearing in almost every state. The repertoire of pictures this season includes such subjects as "Leopard Hunting in Africa"—this scene depicts the manner in which the Roosevelt hunting expedition traveled; scenes from the life of the early pioneers, portraying attacks by savage Indians, miraculous escapes and hardships endured by the early settlers; "The World's Greatest Auto Races;" "The Mexican Bull Fight;" "Ski Tournaments at Christiania, Norway;" "The Life of Moses," and many comedy pictures.

This company carries seventy-five different subjects, making a total length of eight miles of film. Our pictures are projected by a special machine which eliminates practically all that tiresome flickering.

At Imperial hall Wednesday, June 5. Admission, children 15 cents; adults, 25 cents.

Notice

No more manure or rubbish will be deposited along road across from the north bridge; it must be hauled onto the dumping ground.

A Gold Farm.

"Thanksgiving football is one form of gold farm," said a metallurgist; "but gold grows, and when the secret of its cultivation is discovered, we shall have gold farms literally.

"Miners, having set timber braces in gold mines, often find on the timber growths of gold. Growths of gold have, too, been perceived on the rocks of gold-bearing rivers. Gold has been discovered growing on sluice boxes.

"What causes these growths of gold we don't know. We do know that one essential is the percolation of water, a feature without which gold growths are never found. When we discover the other features—and no doubt science will discover them some day—the gold farmer will perhaps be as common as the farmer of fruit or truck."

To Stop Bleeding at the Nose.

A man in traveling from New England to his home in New Jersey had a violent nosebleed on the train. Every aid was rendered, and the usual remedies, such as ice on the neck, a key thrust down the back and all sorts of things, were ineffectually tried. So profuse was the hemorrhage that when New York was reached he was too weak to go to a physician unattended. The application of tincture of eucalyptus promptly stopped the bleeding. This is an exceedingly valuable remedy, and should be indelibly stamped upon our memories. A small vial should be placed in every family medicine chest.

The Principal Hurt.

"Can't you get over talking about the way you got cheated in that horse trade?"

"No," answered Mr. Sirius Barker. "I don't mind a man getting my money, but I hate to feel that I have lost his respect."

HAVE A FIRM BELIEF IN GOD.

Kongo Natives Not Heathens, Declares Dr. Thomas Lewis.

Some curious information in regard to the customs and beliefs of the natives of the old African kingdom of Kongo is contributed by Rev. Thomas Lewis, who says: "In the matter of preserving bodies for burial Kongos, after the usual 'binding' in cloth, keep them for two or three months in their houses, where a fire is kept burning; but in Zombo they are suspended on two forked sticks in a dugout vault in the ground, which is covered over with palm branches and earth. Sometimes the body is placed under a specially built grass roof in the open. This is not considered a burial; and four or five years ago they brought out for a big funeral feast and dance the body of an important chief that had thus been preserved for over 20 years. In other districts the dead are thrown away into a river or into the bush to be devoured by jackals and vultures.

"I have satisfied myself," the same writer continues, "after 25 years of life among them, that at the bottom of African fetichism there is the fundamental belief in the existence of God and in the reality of the human soul. No missionary has yet, to my knowledge, been compelled to introduce the name of God into any of the Bantu languages. The name 'Nzambi' for 'Supreme Spirit' is of native origin and not introduced by the Portuguese, and has been adopted for 'God' by all missionaries in their literature. The same is true in regard to the name for 'devil.'

"The oft-repeated statement made by missionaries and travelers that the untaught native has no idea of the existence of God is not correct; what they mean to say is that he has no knowledge of what God is, which is quite a different matter. The lack of this knowledge about God, while firmly believing that God is, accounts for the wonderful and complex system which we, in our ignorance of the inward meaning of it all, call 'fetichism.'"

Good for Hungry Folks.

George William Sellers, the western cricketer, described in Chicago his attempt to teach cricket to the men on his Indiana estate.

"Cricket is, of course, a more leisurely game than baseball," said Mr. Sellers. "We played it on my place in the proper leisurely manner, and all my men seemed pleased. Our first match was with Concord.

"One of my men—his name is John—seemed particularly pleased. John did full justice, before the match, to the lunch served in the marquee on the lawn. He enjoyed, too, the meat tea that pleasantly interrupted the afternoon's play. At each inning he was on hand when the drinks and cigars and sandwiches were passed about.

"During the open-air dinner that wound up the first day's play, I turned to John and said:

"'Well, old man, what do you think of cricket?'

"'Mr. Sellers,' said he, 'it would be a grand game if it wasn't for all this here fieldin' and runnin' about between meals.'"

Andy vs. Mary.

Once upon a time Andrew Carnegie and Mary Garden had their photograph taken standing together on the upper deck of an Atlantic liner, and also Andy's and Mary's portraits have been shown separately in the window of Knoedler's on Fifth avenue, says the New York Press. But whereas one might think the likeness of the great iron master and philanthropist would attract more attention than that of the singer, the reverse has been the case, as was illustrated during business hours in the past week. Not more than a dozen persons were standing in front of the show window looking at the portrait of the laird of Skibo in his robe as an officer of the Edinburgh university. When Mary Garden's famous portrait was shown in the same place last year there always was a mob around the window. Of course Mary did not have so many clothes on as Andy has—which may explain the difference in interest.

Could Plant the Period.

A pretty story is told of Queen Alexandra's thoughtfulness.

The queen never loses her interest in those for whom she has acted as godmother. In particular, she has been most kind to the children of Lord Curzon, who lost their beautiful mother more than a year ago. The queen, hearing that little Alexandra Curzon—who was named after her majesty—was fond of gardening, sent a box of violet roots to her.

The child decided to plant them so that when they came up they should spell "Alexandra." "I should like to help you."

Geographical Distinctions.

Inhabitants of the Isle of Wight speak of "going to England" when they leave their own fragment of the kingdom. A patriotic Cornishman also "goes to England" when he crosses the Tamar. Similarly inhabitants of the Balkan peninsula talk of "going to Europe" when they leave their own corner of the continent—in curious contrast with the people of Great Britain, who regard themselves as both of and in "Europe," and it is only "the continent" that they visit. There is an old story of a Scottish minister who prayed for a blessing upon "the inhabitants of Great and Little Cumbrae (islands in the Firth of Clyde) and the adjacent islands of Great Britain and Ireland." Massachusetts people speak of going "down east" when they start for the Maine coast.

Judging from Sample.

I don't think the rich are exceptionally happy.

No? Know many?

Some.

Very rich?

One to five millions!

Oh, but they lead quite a different life from the really rich!

To be sure; but still, don't you think you can tell just as much about the quality of molasses from a hogshead of it as you can from a shipload? [illegible]

HAD NOT ALL THE KNOWLEDGE

Simple Word with Which the Elder Squelched the Younger M. D.

A becoming modesty is a desirable aid to advancement in any profession. In a small town in Maine there lived a brusque old doctor, who, for all his eccentricity, was a learned and skillful man. For many years he had been the sole doctor in town, but one day there came a rival in the shape of a young graduate. The young M. D. did not pay his respects to his senior, and the old doctor in turn completely ignored the fledgling. One day, however, the two were brought together at a consultation, and the young M. D. thereupon essayed to squelch the old M. D. with the preponderosity of his knowledge. He rattled off Latin terms and French and German phrases, while the old doctor listened as if quite overawed. "Yes," he mused, meditatively, "that's so, that's so. But what do you think of a cataplasm for this case?" "A—a—what?" ejaculated the new doctor, completely dumfounded. "A cataplasm," repeated the old doctor. "Well," stammered the other, "I am not familiar with that mode of treatment, although I have seen it advertised. It's something new, isn't it?" "Oh, no!" was the quiet reply. "A cataplasm means simply a poultice. It always has meant a poultice and probably always will." It is needless to say that the young doctor straightway subsided.

Arming Safes with Deadly Gases.

A chemical company has devised a grenade or glass receptacle, filled with a chemical compound, as a means of making it impossible for safeblowers to rob a safe after breaking it open.

It is an inoffensive-looking article, about two inches in diameter and five inches long. Inside of the exterior tube are seven smaller ones, each filled with a different chemical. When the door of the safe is blown, or the safe is jarred heavily, the grenade explodes, and the air is filled with the deadly fumes. It is claimed that these fumes, which, so far as effect is concerned, are not unlike the gases from the deadly Chinese "stink pots," are powerful enough to make breathing impossible and to force all persons near the safe to retreat or be almost instantly suffocated.

The grenades are made with a lasting effect of from six to ten hours, depending upon the size, and are placed just back of the locking mechanism of the safe doors.—Popular Mechanics.

Hadley Points Out Danger.

President Hadley of Yale writes: "In the year 1789 the whole French people was in a state of political excitement. They seized eagerly upon everything sensational. A young journalist named Camille Desmoulins shared this feeling and took advantage of it. He wrote a series of articles called 'Lamp Post Talks to the People of Paris,' in which he urged that anybody who was not a friend of the people ought to be taken to the nearest lamp post and hanged. He was not himself a bloodthirsty man. He chose his title chiefly because it sounded so picturesque. After a time he saw that they were executing a great many innocent men and women, and began to tell men so. Then they said that he was not a friend of the people any longer, and hanged him. This story has a moral for us in America to-day. It shows the dangers that come to a people which reads newspapers for the sake of excitement, instead of for the sake of information.

"To What Base Uses."

Big Brother (to young sister who has acquired an unaccountable habit of borrowing his razor)—I know you have borrowed my razor again. It's not where I put it.

Young Sister (scrambling around in the bathroom)—Oh! here it is, Bob—just where you left it, I am sure!

Big Brother—No such thing. And this is the third time you have misplaced it. Now, miss, you will tell me what you use it for. Were you ripping the sleeves of your last winter's coat?

Young Sister (doggedly)—No. You never will forget that!

Big Brother—Well, what then? (shaking her by the shoulders) Answer me.

Young Sister (tearfully)—I was just splitting up a little light wood to kindle the fire, and I just think you are a horrid, selfish old thing not to want to even lend your things—so there!

Large Royal Family.

Prince Ferdinand's assumption of the title of "king of Bulgaria" makes the number of reigning monarchs belonging to the Saxe-Coburg-Gotha family four. This most prolific of royal races furnishes King Edward of England with 92 living relations, 55 of these being direct descendants of Queen Victoria.

If the list be made to include distant cousins and connections by marriage, the number of King Edward's relations reaches the total of 288, ranging in rank from Capt. Machell (who married a daughter of Prince Victor of Hohenlohe), to the czar of all the Russias.

This total does not include the offspring of morganatic marriages of the type contracted by the late duke of Cambridge.

Worse Than Laparotomy.

Ellison—Halloa, dear boy, you look very sad this morning. What's the trouble?

Green—I've just undergone a most annoying operation.

Ellison—What was it?

Green—I had my allowance cut off.—Tit-Bits.

Perpetual.

"No, sir, I will not resign," said the officeholder. "Why should I? There are no charges against me."

"But I understand that charges have been formulated."

"Have, eh? Well, you don't expect me to resign under fire, I hope. Never!"

A High-Priced Dinner.

First Cannibal—I think I'll eat that millionaire to-morrow.

Second Cannibal—You always did have expensive tastes. [illegible]

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now find, after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

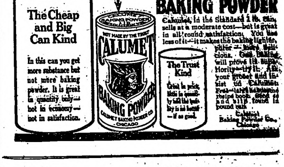
Mrs. Housewife:-There's a Happy Medium in Everything

Anything that is overdone or underdone is not good.

This is especially true of baking — and it is just as true of baking powder. If you use the cheap and Big Can Kinds you are getting quantity at the sacrifice of quality. It cannot be as good — or as economical as Calumet — the medium priced kind. If you use the High Price Kind, you are paying tribute to the Trust — the quality is no better.



The Cheap and Big Can Kind
In this can you get more substance but not more baking powder. It is great in quantity only—not in economy—not in satisfaction.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER CO. CHICAGO
The Trust Kind
Great in price, little in quantity but the quality is no better—if as good.

Here's the "Full Value" in BAKING POWDER

Calumet, in the Standard 1 lb. can, sells at a moderate cost—but is great in all round satisfaction. You use less of it—it makes the baking lighter, purer—more delicious. One baking will prove its superiority—try it. Ask your grocer and insist on Calumet. Free—large handsome recipe book. Send 4c and slip found in pound can.

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.:—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women.

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."—Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The Position for Her.

After speaking at great length on the emancipation of women, a young woman asked a statesman:

"Supposing women were admitted to govern the affairs of the commonwealth, what post would you assign to me?"

"The management of an institution for the deaf and dumb."

"Why that?"

"Because either these unfortunates would learn to talk or you would learn to keep quiet."

Jewels in a Flower-Bed.

The recovery of a quantity of stolen jewelry from a flower-bed was described at Kingston-on-Thames police court the other day, when a general servant was charged with theft from her mistress, a resident of Iydene, Southborough-road, Surbiton, London. The lady had missed a pearl pin and a pearl and diamond ring. Thinking she might have lost the jewels in the street, she issued printed notices offering a reward for their recovery. When she lost a number of other things she placed the matter in the hands of the police. The detective said that from what the prisoner told him he searched the garden, and in one of the flower-beds found some of the jewelry. The rest be found in the prisoner's bedroom.

SPECIAL SESSION IS CALLED FOR DIRECT PRIMARIES AND OTHER REFORM LAWS.

Republican State Convention Selects a Straight Roosevelt Slate of Delegates.

Minneapolis.—Governor A. O. Eberhart will call a special session of the legislature to meet June 4. His statement was made shortly after he heard the news from the Minneapolis armory, where the republican state convention directed the republican state committee to provide for a popular vote on governor.

The governor was in Minneapolis but not at the convention holl. He was notified by telephone of the action, and after consulting with his manager, E. E. Smith, he prepared his statement. He declared that the session will be called to pass a direct primary law for state officers, a stringent corrupt practices act, and legislative reapportionment. The governor has no power, however, to restrict the legislature in the subjects it takes up, or the time it will remain in session.

The republican state convention at the Minneapolis armory, adopted a brief set of resolutions, instructing the delegates elected to vote for Roosevelt indorsing the progressive principles of Roosevelt and La Follette, demanding repeal of the Canadian reciprocity treaty, a more complete corrupt practices act, and instructing the republican state committee to provide for a direct primary vote on governor.

The resolutions brought on the only real contest on the convention floor. They were represented by E. H. Canfield of Luverne, while A. D. Stewart of Redwood Falls offered a minority report, declaring for the physical valuation of railroads, the initiative, referendum and recall, and instructing for La Follette as second choice. The convention first adopted the majority report resolutions. Then it struck out the La Follette second choice section from the minority report. The vote on the minority report as amended was close and a roll call was demanded. The report was lost, 490 to 610.

Delegates-at-large elected at the state convention, with alternates-at-large and presidential electors are:

Delegates-at-Large—Moses E. Clapp, St. Paul; Milton D. Purdy, Minneapolis; J. F. Jacobson, Madison; E. K. Roverud, Caledonia; O. J. Larson, Duluth; A. L. Hanson, Ada.

Alternates—W. W. Rich, St. Paul; C. F. Waterbury, Minneapolis; William O'Brien, Eden Valley; A. B. Coburn, International Falls; J. J. Rachac, Faribault; A. F. Charest, Clay county.

Presidential Electors-at-Large — J. W. Wright, Litchfield; W. H. Putnam, Red Wing; Emil G. Hage, Brown county. Electors chosen from districts—E. H. Smith, Mower county; L. C. Churchill, Cottonwood county; C. A. Rohrer, Sibley county; George Thompson, St. Paul; H. V. Jones, Minneapolis; E. E. McCrea, Alexandria; A. V. Ricke, Fairfax; John Rundquist, Kanabec county; W. A. Marin, Crookston.

LAWS CONSTITUTIONAL.

Elliott Road Act and Commission Government Are Approved.

St. Paul.—The right of a county to assess a fourth of country road costs against the abutting property and the right of a city to frame a home rule charter with a commission form of government were both upheld by the supreme court.

The Elwell road law was passed in 1911 and provides that the county in constructing permanent roads can assess one-fourth of the cost of the improvement against the abutting property, giving the property owners fifteen years to pay for it.

In a suit brought in the name of George T. Simpson, former attorney general, against the officers of the city of Mankato to test the validity of the commission form of government established there, the court holds the home rule provisions of the constitution permit such a form.

MINERS ARE RESCUED

Six Removed Alive From Ironwood Shaft—Seven Perish.

Duluth. — Six men were taken alive from the Oliver Iron Mining company's mine at Ironwood. Two bodies of dead miners have been recovered. Thirteen men were intombed in the mine when the roof fell in at the 2,000 foot level. Seven of the men were killed and the others were huddled into a narrow passage. A pipe was driven through the earth

Begin River Work This Week.

Winona.—Five hundred and twenty-five men members of the government's river improvement crews, working on the two divisions north and south of Winona, will be engaged in the federal river improvement compaign of 1912 this week. A quarter of a million dollars will be available for improvement this year.

German Society Meets June 4.

Winona. — Elaborate preparations have been completed at Lake City for the annual picnic and reunion of the Deutscher Soldaten Verein of Wabasha County, to be held Tuesday, June 4. Governor Eberhart is on the program to deliver an address. Other state officers plan to attend. Invitations have been sent to Minneapolis, St. Paul, Stillwater, Winona and Austin and delegates from each of the cities are expected. All of the business houses in the city will be closed during the exercises.

Duluthians to Booster Meeting.

Duluth.—Duluth will be represented at the meeting of the Northwestern Development association in Seattle, June 5 to 8, by a delegation, which will travel to the coast in a special car. It is expected that at least 25 people of Duluth and vicinity will attend.

Mankato Man Hundred Years Old.

Mankato.—Ambrose Trusty celebrated his one hundredth birthday anniversary on Tuesday. He is getting feeble, but comes downtown from his home in West Mankato occasionally.

WHEN A TONIC IS NECESSARY

If You Are Run Down and Debilitated the Health Can Only Be Restored by Building Up the Blood.

When the body is weak and the blood thin it is sometimes difficult to find the cause unless a wasting illness has preceded the decline in health.

Obscure influences, something unhealthful in one's surroundings or work, may lead to a slow impoverishment of the blood and an enfeeblement of the whole body. When a serious stage has been reached there seems to be nothing that will account for it.

In such cases a complete change of climate or of work will sometimes effect a cure. It takes a long time, however, and for the great majority of sufferers is out of the question.

Mrs. G. P. Boutwell, of Clear Water, Minn., whose husband is a hardware merchant there, says:

"About two years ago, when I was living at West Union, Iowa, I was all run down through hard work and worry. I called a doctor who said I was suffering from general debility. He treated me for some time but was unable to do much for me. I had cold chills all of the time and seemed to be nearly bloodless. I could not keep anything on my stomach and lived on eggs and milk for some time. My stomach was sour and the gas on it kept me from getting much sleep at night. The doctor's medicine made my stomach feel worse.

"My father had used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with benefit and advised me to try them. After a week or so I could notice a change. I soon became stronger, my appetite came back and the headaches disappeared. I was then able to eat without distress and began to do my work. I had a good color and gained in flesh. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cannot be praised too highly."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a general tonic and are useful in all diseases arising from poor blood or weakened nerves, such as sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, pale and sallow complexions and many forms of weakness.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. A booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," will be sent free upon request.

His Veracity.

Jim Slocum of Montgomery county, avers the Kansas City Journal, was called as a witness to impeach the testimony of a man in that county. Jim was asked if he was acquainted with the reputation of the witness for truth and veracity. Jim said that he guessed maybe he was.

"Is it good or bad?"

"Well," said Jim, "I don't want to do the man no injustice, but I will say that if his neighbors were to see him looking as if he was dead they would want some corroboratin' evidence before they would be willing to bury him."

State Board and Presidents Inspect Moorhead Normal.

Moorhead.—Members of the Minnesota state normal school board and visiting presidents of Minnesota state normal schools were guests of honor at the Moorhead state normal when the board made its annual inspection of the local institution.

Those present were C. G. Schultz, St. Paul; Eli Torrance, Minneapolis; S. H. Somsen, Winona; J. C. Wise, Mankato; C. L. Atwood, St. Cloud; J. L. Washburn, Duluth; E. J. Jones, Morris; L. A. Huntoon, Moorhead, and Presidents Schumaker, Cooper, Maxwell, Bohannon and Weld.

The visiting educators were entertained at breakfast at the Comstock. The remainder of the morning was spent in inspecting the buildings of the Moorhead school. At 10 o'clock chapel services were opened by President Frank A. Held of the Moorhead school. At noon the visiting board members and presidents were entertained at lunch prepared by the domestic science graduates. Tonight Resident Director Huntoon entertained for them at dinner and President Frank A. Weld tendered a reception in their honor.

NEW ROADS FOR WINONA.

Twenty Miles of Highway in the County Waited Tribunal's Decision.

Winona.—The sustaining of the validity of the Elwell road making law by the Minnesota Supreme court was received with jubilation on the part of good road enthusiasts in Winona county. The building of 20 miles of rural state highway, under the terms of this law, has been waiting on the decision of the state's tribunal. One road leading from Winona to Lamoille, another to Almon and the third in East Burns Valley were designated state roads and aproved by the state highway commission as the three first highways in Minnesota by virtue of this measure last fall.

Bids had been advertised for and plans were begun for beginning of construction work when the test case was instituted. The work was halted, pending the decision. The county board will probably be called in special session within a few days and the contracts awarded calling for $120,000 outlay so that work can be begun by June 15.

BOYS' CORN CONTEST

Forty-two at Dawson Enter Local and State Competitions.

Dawson.—The Dawson Town and Country Improvement league will hold an industrial contest for school boys and girls, giving prizes for farm products and industrial work of the schools. A new feature this year will be the acre corn-growing contest for boys from 10 to 18 years of age. Forty-two boys are enrolled in this contest and also in the state acre corn-growing contest.

The state high school board has designated Dawson as one of the schools to receive the Benson-Lee aid for instruction in agriculture and manual training. Work will be begun with the opening of the school year in September.

VACATION SCHOOLS

Cloquet Will Teach Manual Training and Sewing.

Cloquet.—It is probable Cloquet will have a vacation school this year for the teaching of sewing to girls and manual training to boys. A canvass of school children has been made with a view of finding if a sufficient number desired the instruction to warrant hiring teachers. Three hundred are reported eager to begin the work. The matter will be brought before the school board.

Rural Mail Carriers organize.

Mankato.—The rural mail carriers of this vicinity met in this city and formed an organization to be known as the Southern Minnesota Letter Carriers' association, and elected the following officers: President, George J. Rose, Mankato; vice president, C. S. Braden, Eagle Lake; secretary, J. E. Browman, Mapleton; treasurer, James Gilbride, Madison Lake. L. H. Wilson, secretary of the National Rural Carriers' association, was present. Another meeting will be held soon to elect delegates to the state convention that meets at St. Paul August 9 and 10.

K. of C.'s Honor Mr. Cronin.

Minneapolis.—Neil M. Cronin of Minneapolis, member of the Hennepin council, was given the highest honor at the disposal of the Knights of Columbus in Minnesota, being elected state deputy for the coming year at the annual convention of the order held at the club rooms in this city last week. The other officers elected are: state secretary, J. D. Mahon, Duluth; state treasurer, M. F. Fisch, Austin; state advocate, F. J. McPartlin, International Falls, and state warden, D. W. Hughes, Crookston.

Children Killed by Explosion.

White Earth.—Two children were killed when a can of gasoline was overturned and exploded at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Wardlow in this city. Their five-months-old and two-year-old daughters were the victims. The mother, in trying to save her babies from death, was herself seriously injured, and may die. The shock of the death of her children, and the terrible burns which she had received, have been responsible for Mrs. Wardlow's condition, and it is not believed she can recover.

Rushmore Organizes Club.

Rushmore.—A commercial club was organized here with thirty members. Dr. F. G. Watson was elected president, W. C. Thom vice president, and F. J. Johnson secretary and treasurer. It was voted to have a farmers' creamery day celebration in June. Rushmore is having a building boom. Many retired farmers are coming into town and putting up substantial residences. Many automobiles are being purchased by farmers. They find that time can be saved in going to and from town.

HEALTH FOR THE CHILD.

The careful mother, watching closely the physical peculiarities of her children, soon learns that health is in a great measure dependent upon normal, healthy, regular bowel action. When the bowels are inactive, loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder are soon apparent.

Keep the bowels free and clear and good health is assured. At the first sign of constipation give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at bed-time and repeat the dose the following night, if necessary. You will find the child will quickly recover its accustomed good spirits, and eat and sleep normally.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is far preferable to salts, cathartics and purgative waters which are harsh in their action. Syrup Pepsin acts on the bowels easily and naturally, yet positively, and causes no griping or discomfort. Its tonic properties build up the stomach, liver and bowels, restoring their normal condition.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this remedy, send for a sample to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. He will gladly send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

PHYSICIAN ADVISES CUTICURA REMEDIES

"Four years ago I had places break out on my wrist and on my shin which would itch and burn by spells, and scratching them would not seem to give any relief. When the trouble first began, my wrist and shin itched like poison. I would scratch those places until they would bleed before I could get any relief. Afterwards the places would scale over, and the flesh underneath would look red and feverish. Sometimes it would begin to itch until it would waken me from my sleep, and I would have to go through the scratching ordeal again.

Our physician pronounced it "dry eczema." I used an ointment which the doctor gave me, but it did no good. Then he advised me to try the Cuticura Remedies. As this trouble has been in our family for years, and is considered hereditary, I felt anxious to try to head it off. I got the Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills, and they seemed to be just what I needed.

"The disease was making great headway on my system until I got the Cuticura Remedies which have cleared my skin of the great pest. From the time the eczema healed four years ago, until now, I have never felt any of its pest, and I am thankful to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment which certainly cured me. I always use the Cuticura Soap for toilet, and I hope other sufferers from skin diseases will use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Irven Hutchison, Three Rivers, Mich., Mar. 16, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

SCORES CAPTAIN OF THE TITANIC

LORD OF CALIFORNIAN SHARES BLAME EQUALLY WITH COMMANDER SMITH.

WARNINGS DISREGARDED

300 Lives Needlessly Sacrificed, Says Report—America Will Leave to England the Punishment of Guilty.

Washington, May 29.—The Titanic disaster of April 15, in which 1,517 lives wer lost amid icebergs off the banks of Newfoundland, was the theme of speech, report and proposed legislation in the senate.

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, submitted the report of the investigation by the senate commerce committee, a feature of which was the condemnation of the captain of the steamer Californian for not going to the aid of the sinking vessel. He also delivered a speech in which he took much stronger ground in reviewing the disaster and introduced measures designed to safeguard life in ocean traffic.

Senator Smith proposed in two bills a thorough regulation of navigation by steam vessels, proposed enacting into law a variety of rules and regulations and embodied in the measures the numerous recommendations for safety made in the official report of the committee.

One of the most important regulations was for stricter inspection of vessels by the federal steamboat inspection service and the meeting of all requirements of American navigation laws by every vessel clearing from an American port. A commission was proposed to determine upon measures regarding lifesaving equipment and for governing the future construction of vessels.

It was one of the notable days of the present session of congress. Almost all of the senators were in their seats and gave close attention. The galleries were crowded.

Senator Rayner of Maryland followed Senator Smith with a speech arraigning American navigation laws and drawing lessons from the accident.

Blame for the Titanic disaster is chargeable directly to the failure of the dead Captain Smith to heed repeated warnings of icebergs ahead, but responsibility for unnecessary loss of life must be shared by Captain Lord of the steamship Californian, through his disregard of distress signals. This is the finding of the senate committee which investigated the sinking of the Titanic, as prepared in the speech delivered by Senator Smith.

Senator Smith declared that responsibility also rests upon the British board of trade, "to whose laxity of regulation and hasty inspection the world is largely indebted for the awful fatality." In denouncing Captain Lord of the Californian, the senator said the Titanic's distress signals were plainly seen from the deck of his vessel a short distance away.

America will leave to England the chastisement of those guilty, asserted the senator, and he quoted British law to show that Captain Lord might be prosecuted for a misdemeanor.

Other conclusions, presented in brief were as follows:

Before the Titanic departed on her maiden voyage there were not sufficient tests of boilers, bulkheads, equipment or signal devices.

Officers and crew were strangers to each other and not familiar with the ship's implements or tools, and no drill or station practice took place and no helpful discipline prevailed.

The speed of the Titanic was 24½ miles an hour at time of the accident, although officers of the Titanic had been advised of the presence of icebergs by the steamship Baltic, Amerika and Californian.

Passengers were not advised of danger, although President Ismay of the White Star line, who was taking the vessel's maiden voyage, was informed. No general alarm was given nor any organized system of safety undertaken.

Of the 1,324 passengers and 899 members of crew on board, there was room in lifeboats for only 1,176 persons and because of lack of orderly discipline the lifeboats took off only 704 persons, twelve being rescued from the water.

Officers of the White Star line "battled with the truth" after receiving information from their Montreal office Monday morning following the accident.

Captain Rostron Praised.

Captain Rostron of the rescue ship Carpathia was praised by Senator Smith and he urged that congress recognize his valor.

Senator Smith condemned "antiquated shipping laws and overripe administrative boards" and asked that all nations act together in shipping reforms. "New laws," he said, "will best testify our affection for the dead."

CUBAN ARMY FACES REBELS

LATTER EVIDENTLY SATISFIED WITH GUERILLA TACTICS.

Government Forces Awaiting Arrival of More Troops Before Advancing.

Havana, May 29.—Since the beginning of the insurrection in Oriente news from the front never was so meager. Information reaching Havana was confined to indications of increased boldness on the part of the insurgents as evidenced by their successful attacks on the villages of Ramon De Las Yaguas and Yerbaguina, where they defeated the rural guards and captured a sergeant, together with arms and ammunition.

These two places are about twenty miles northeast of Santiago and are within the zone of operations in which the national and insurgent forces are now face to face. They are included in the Hills, heavily wooded region between Guantanamo, San Luis, La Maya and Palma Soriano. According to reports from Santiago the rurales were routed.

A collision between the main opposing bodies has been hourly expected for several days, but the revolutionary generals, Estenoz and Ivonet, apparently desire to avoid close combat, and continue guerilla tactics, in which they excel and which probably they will be able to carry on indefinitely.

It is believed that General Manida is simply holding his ground until the arrival of the commander-in-chief of the Cuban army, General Monteaguedo, with strong reinforcements, when a general forward movement will be begun.

Meanwhile General Manida is doing his utmost to supply guards for the plantations, especially to protect the property of foreigners, but this is difficult on account of the size of the province of Oriente and the meager transportation, many regions being practically impassable for troops. It is now unquestioned that Estenoz and Ivonet have under them 2,000 mounted negroes to oppose the concentrated government forces.

LORIMER IS STILL VERY SICK

OPPONENTS ANXIOUS TO KNOW WHEN HE CAN APPEAR.

Illinois Senator's Physician Gives Out Statement That Patient Is Weak.

Washington, May 29. — Senators Kern and Lea of the anti-Lorimer contingent of the senate, telegraphed to Senator Lorimer asking him to state specifically when he would be here so that an early vote to dispose of his election case could be arranged.

"There is no disposition," they telegraphed, "to fix a date for a vote on your case that will prevent you from having an opportunity to speak on it. Your telegrams indicate that you can and expect to be here within a short time. Will you kindly indicate a time you can be here so that an agreement to vote at an early date can be reached."

This telegram was in reply to a message from Senator Lorimer to Senator Kern saying that he hoped to be able soon to return to Washington, that he wanted to speak but did not feel able to proceed now and requesting that his case be not called up in the meantime

Senator Dillingham, chairman of the investigating committee received a telegram from Dr. S. R. Slaymaker, Mr. Lorimer's physician, stating that his patient was still very weak.

Dance and Theater Ban Is Modified.

Minneapolis, May 29.—The Methodist general conference has eliminated the word "unchristian" from the heading of the "amusement" paragraph, No. 260, of the church ritual. As a result, "playing at games of chance, attending theaters, horse races, circuses, dancing parties or patronizing dancing schools" are no longer classified in the ritual as "imprudent and unchristian conduct," but simply "imprudent conduct."

Chicago Grain Market.

Chicago, May 29.—Liberal world shipments and generally favorable foreign crop conditions had a depressing effect today on the price of wheat. Absence of rain in western Kansas and Nebraska led to a rally, but the effect did not last. Slowness of cash demand counted against the bulls. The opening was the same as last night to ⅛c down. July started at $1.10½@$1.10¾, unchanged to ⅛c lower, rose to $1.11¼ @1.11⅜ and then broke to $1.10⅝.

Hot winds in Texas and Oklahoma said to have damaged wheat not yet in head brought about another upturn, which was hastened by complaints of excessive rain northwest. The close was nervous at $1.11¼ for July, a net gain of ⅜c.

Although good buying on the part of commission houses made corn recover from initial weakness, the market gave way to the bearish influence of wheat. The leaders in the purchasing turned to the selling side. July opened at last night's level to ⅛c off at 75@75⅛c, advanced to 75⅝c and afterward dropped to 74⅞c.

Subsequently the market switched to the up-grade on account of improved shipping demand. The close was steady with July ⅜c net higher at 75⅜c.

Oats followed the course of other grain. Trade reached a fair volume. July started ⅛@⅜c to ⅛@½c lower at 50⅜@50½c, touched 50¼@50⅜c, swung upward to 51c and later sagged to 50⅞c.

The fact that buying was only of a scattered kind eased off the provision market. An increased run of hogs west exerted a similar influence. Initial sales ranged from 5c lower to a shade advance, with September options $18.37½ for pork, $10.75 for lard and $10.32½@10.35 for ribs.

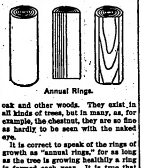
HORTICULTURE

ANNUAL RINGS IN THE TREES

Whitish Lines Are Medulary Rays, Which Make Silvered Grain in Oak and Other Woods.

If the trunk or branch of an oak tree is cut smoothly across, thin whitish lines may be seen running from within outward. Some of these lines begin in the center of the tree and others in each of the annual rings. These are the medulary rays, which make the silvered grain in quartered oak and other woods. They exist in all kinds of trees, but in many, as, for example, the chestnut, they are so fine as hardly to be seen with the naked eye.



Annual Rings.

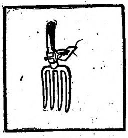
It is correct to speak of the rings of growth as "annual rings," for as long as the tree is growing healthily a ring is formed each year. It is true that two false rings may appear in one year, but they are caused whenever the growth of the tree is interrupted. This happens when the foliage is destroyed by caterpillars and grows again in the same season, or when a severe drought in early summer stops growth for a time, after late frosts, and in similar cases.

An annual ring once formed does not change in size or place during the healthy life of the tree, except that it is covered in time by other younger layers.

FORKS AND SPADES IMPROVED

Fulcrum Attachment Eliminates Much of Back-Breaking Energy Needed in Working Soil.

Much of the back breaking energy required in using an earth fork or spade is expended in the dislodging of the load from the ground after the fork of spade has been inserted, which means a severe strain on the shoulder and back muscles. The attachment shown in the illustration lessens this labor by providing a fulcrum, says the Popular Mechanics. By simply pulling the handle backward the load is dislodged, the fulcrum bearing the strain instead of the muscles.



Fulcrum Attachment.

HABITS OF ORCHARD PESTS

No Definite Rule With Reference to Time Insects Deposit Their Eggs or Work Damage.

There is no definite rule that can be laid down with reference to the time at which winged insect pests of the orchard deposit their eggs. Some are night flying insects and deposit their eggs at night; others are active only during the day, and deposit their eggs during that time. The codling moth is one of the night flying insects and begin to deposit eggs late in the evening, just about dusk, and continues most active throughout the early part of the night. The curculio on the other hand, is most active during the day, remaining inactive at night. The same holds true with reference to the general activity of insects. As a rule the moths fly only at night, while some of the beetles are most active at night and others during the day.

PEACH SCAB AND BROWN ROT

Best Fungicide Known at Present Time Is Self-Boiled Lime and Sulphur Mixture.

The self-boiled lime and sulphur mixture is the best fungicide known at the present time for the control of peach scab and brown rot. Three applications are considered necessary for good results where peach scab is likely to occur. The first application is to be made just as the calyx is being shed from the fruits.

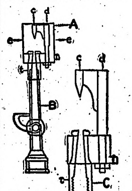
The second application to be made three weeks after the first. The third application should be made about three weeks after the second. The self-boiled lime and sulphur mixture should not be applied to the fruit [illegible]

NEW TYPE OF SPRAY NOZZLE

Effectiveness of Spraying Depends Largely Upon Character of Tapering Tube Employed.

The effectiveness of spraying depends in large measure upon the character of the nozzle used, and it is especially important that the nozzle should be adapted to the specific purpose for which it is to be used. G. E. Stone of the Massachusetts station has devised a nozzle which he has used with very satisfactory results in spraying large trees from a high-pressure machine.

This nozzle is shown in Fig. 1, at A. It consists of a nozzle screwed tightly on to the tip of a standard attachment provided with shut-off, such as is often employed in spraying work. (See B.) The attachment, however, is incidental, as it may be fitted to any suitable metal connection threaded to fit, and provided with a hose connection at the lower end. The essential part of the nozzle, as shown at A, consists of a small brass tip, t, about 1½ inches long, provided with an aperture at the end one-eighth of an inch in diameter, although sometimes an aperture of 5-32 or 3-16 of an inch in diameter has been employed. About an inch or more above the center of the aperture there is placed a solid brass rod, c, one-fourth of an inch in diameter. This is attached to another rod, d, by means of a thin sheet of brass; the rod, d, works in a socket and allows the pointed brass rod, c, to be thrown in or out of center at will. The object of this center brass rod, c, is to take the spray as it comes out of the one-eighth-inch nozzle under high pressure and break it up into a fine mist, and with the pressure which we used it is capable of throwing the mist 20 or 25 feet. This is sufficient to reach, from a ladder, most of the foliage on a large elm tree. In case it is necessary to reach higher, the adjustment is thrown out of the center and the spray goes directly through the one-eighth-inch aperture. By this means a greater distance and carrying power are secured, although not so fine a spray.



New Type of Spray Nozzle.

In the drawing the nozzle is shown surrounded by a shield, c, which was for the purpose of protecting the point, c. The nozzle as originally constructed was not provided with a shield, being used for some days without it, but with the hard usage which it received [it was] found that the adjustment was likely to be injured. The nozzle was used in connection with a machine giving 250 pounds pressure, and the spraying mixture was carried through a one-inch hose.

This nozzle was used . . . in spraying over 1,000 trees having an average diameter of about 22 inches. Careful estimates made showed that the average amount of arsenate of lead per tree was 1.7 pounds, or about 17 gallons of arsenate of lead solution. The cost of spraying each tree, including the labor, gasoline and lead, was 55 cents.

The spraying was just as thorough and the cost was about one-third of that by the ordinary method, using Vermorel and other fine-mist nozzles.

HORTICULTURAL NOTES

The United States forest service is prepared to reforest 30,000 acres annually.

Trees should not be planted on a high slope, for the soil is likely to be too thin.

Grape vines require frequent shallow cultivation throughout the entire season.

Get your spraying equipment in good order several days before you must begin spraying.

Strain all spray materials through a good, fine strainer. It avoids clogged nozzles and wasted time.

The time to get a thing is when it is there. The time to get the apple worm is before he gets inside.

Know what you must spray for, then do the work right. Don't expect any one spray material to be a universal remedy.

When making the first application of poison for the codling moth use a coarse nozzle, high pressure and fill every calyx.

With fruiting orchards, mineral fertilizers are often of great assistance, but an excess of nitrogen should be avoided.

The pruning season is on—it requires much work, but more judgment. The age and variety of the tree [illegible]

Saturday, June 1, 1912.

We print this week an article from an eastern paper which shows how the politicians are trying to nullify the expression of the will of the people at the primaries, and yet pretending to grant primary laws.

There will be no republican state convention to nominate state officials on July 2. There will be no republican county conventions on June 28 The republican state central committee has rescinded the call for both.

M. L. Cutter, who recently purchased the Thief River Falls News, this week acquired the Press, and merged the two, under the title of the Thief River Falls News-Press. Here's wishing Mr. Cutter all the success possible.

Primaries and Primaries

Four unwilling legislatures—in Massachusetts, Maryland, Michigan and Illinois—have passed presidential preference primary laws this season under whip and spur of aroused public sentiment.

Not one of them did it because legislature or machine nominal control wanted to do it.

In every case the effort was to pass a law that would give as bad a primary as possible.

Michigan went so far as to pass the law and then refuse to let it take effect till 1916. As a direct result the Michigan republican party is split wide open and the chance of democratic victory is excellent.

The Massachusetts enemies of primary legislation, compelled to pass something that they could call a preference law, made it just as bad as possible. The Crane machine did that. It was forced to give something that could be labeled a primary; something that was expected to serve the machine's purpose and save Crane.

The counterfeit has served, instead, the purpose of giving Roosevelt a great victory and exposing the fatal weakness of Crane, Today he faces defeat for re-election as a direct result of the sharp practice in making that primary law.

In Maryland the better sentiment of both parties forced a legislature that was politically close to pass, and a Taft governor to sign, a primary measure that was intended and expected completely to subvert the real primary principle, and to leave the machines of both parties in easy control.

As to the democrats, it worked; as to the republicans, it failed and the machine was smashed.

Following these various experiences with half-baked primary laws made by the enemies of the whole primary system we hear voluble denunciation of primaries in general. The entire scheme is declared to have failed.

To whatever extent it has been unsatisfactory it has been because it was in the hands of its enemies; because laws were drafted by them, passed by unwilling legislatures and administered by men who wanted them to fail.

In the face of all this the bold fact stands out that these laws have given the most satisfactory results the country has seen. The primary states have been the influential, the determinative states. They have put the acid on the candidates, showed exactly how they stand with the people, and demonstrated that Mr. Taft, who led the nation-wide fight against popular nominations, is repudiated.

Don't worry about the failure of the primary. No wonder the Tories and the machine managers regard it as a failure. It has nowhere failed to swat them.

As to the minor imperfections of primary acts, they will be remedied before they will be used again. They will be made over by their friends, which means that they will be made to do surely and effectively their work of ending machine rule.

Will Start Sawmill Soon

The Thief River Falls Lumber company have a dredge working at the Red lake outlet and the river is rising rapidly. They have a crew of 100 or more men at work on the drive, and will soon have their 18,000,000 feet of logs on the move down stream. It is thought that Shunk of the war department has notified the company that the stream must be cleared at all hazards as the people living along the river were getting uneasy and he could not longer control the situation for their accommodation. As soon as the river is clear they will probably open the dams on all the streams emptying into the lake and allow the water they have held the past season to sluice their logs to the lake, and from that time until the lumber company choose to again take possession of the streams emptying into the lake and the Red Lake river we may expect a normal flow of water.—[illegible]

The Summer Vacation

School closed Friday, after a very successful and pleasant year. Although both pupils and teachers have been looking forward to the close of school and vacation with pleasant anticipations, they all feel a certain regret that the time for parting for a while has again come. There were 167 students enrolled throughout the year, and an average daily attendance of 130. Last year there was an enrollment of 164, with an average daily attendance of 102. The idea of giving a list of those whose attendance had been perfect was thought of, but the list was quite too long. A large number came only a week or less than a month, which circumstance put the figure of daily attendance lower than it ordinarily would have been.

Memorial day most of the children and the teachers met at the school house and enjoyed a great feast together from the superabundance of delicious food brought by the pupils. The boys were in a hurry to get on the base ball diamond--and the girls, too; and if they didn't do as well as they otherwise could have done, a deal of the cause might be attributed to the fact that they had indulged freely in lemonade and eatables just previous to the game. Our boys got beat, but they were brave losers and afforded the spectators a real exciting time.

St. Hilaire can be, above all things, proud of the bright and active group of wholesome girls and boys growing up to be moral men and women,

At Imperial Hall Wednesday June 5

The Christy Amusement Enterprise, pursuant to public wishes for a high class entertaining amusement, are presenting more newer and by far better subjects than any time before.

Christy's high class motion pictures have been before the public continually for seven seasons, appearing in almost every state. The repertoire of pictures this season includes such subjects as "Leopard Hunting in Africa"—this scene depicts the manner in which the Roosevelt hunting expedition traveled; scenes from the life of the early pioneers, portraying attacks by savage Indians, miraculous escapes and hardships endured by the early settlers; "The World's Greatest Auto Races;" "The Mexican Bull Fight;" "Ski Tournaments at Christiania, Norway;" "The Life of Moses," and many comedy pictures.

This company carries seventy-five different subjects, making a total length of eight miles of film, Our pictures are projected by a special machine which eliminates practically all that tiresome flickering.

TIGERS FOND OF HUMAN FLESH.

Many Natives of India Yearly Made Prey of Jungle Monarch.

About 4,000 men were eaten by tigers in India between 1900 and 1904. A large proportion of these unfortunates perished during periods of famine, when the beasts are made bold by hunger and are driven to the plains in search of water. The deaths caused by tigers in India constitute 37 per cent. of the whole number due to wild beasts. All tigers are not man eaters, but when a tiger has once tasted man's flesh he will not be content until he has had more of it. Where flocks and herds abound, however, man is rarely a victim of the tiger. An old man-eater is usually very clever and tricky and can avoid the most skillful hunters. It is affirmed that a single tiger in southern India has killed 200 men, and that one in the Himalayas has killed more 300.

Carlyle's Curious Study.

Thomas Carlyle, the noted English philosopher and historian, had a curious study. It comprised the entire third floor of his narrow brick house at Chelsea, a London suburb. The walls of the study were of double thickness, to prevent street noises from annoying the master while at his work, and a skylight afforded the light. Just how fresh air was furnished the room was not apparent to the visitor. There is nothing about the room to suggest comfort, only a close, thick-walled, skylighted long apartment where the great dyspeptic worked and worked ceaselessly, and from where he hurried to the kitchen, in the basement of the house, as soon as his day's labor was done. In the kitchen he received his most intimate friends, and there they smoked their pipes together.

The Order of Fools.

April 1 is not the only Fools' day in the year. On November 12, 1381, the Order of Fools was instituted by Adolphus, count of Cleves.

Members were not by any means idiots, however, for the word had a different meaning then. They were the prototype of our modern Order of Foresters or Odd Fellows during a similarly benevolent work. Their insignia consisted of a mantle, upon the left shoulder of which was embroidered a jester, or fool, in cap and bells, yellow hose and silver vest. So these cheery, useful jokers had a bright, happy outlook upon life and met together to dispense the earnest of their healthful existence at stated intervals, the chief day of which was November 12.

What it Reminded Him Of.

When Gen. Schenck, whose greatest fame rests upon his having introduced the game of poker into England, first arrived in London as American minister to the court of St. James he took a little of his spare time to visit the sights of the British capital. Among other places he visited Mme. Tussaud's wax works.

"And what do you think of our great wax work exhibition?" asked a friend.

"Well," replied the general, "it struck me as being very like the ordinary English evening party."

Beans and Bacon.

An old Scotchman surprised us all by remarking: "Your famous New England dish of pork and beans came directly from England, where for centuries it was the reigning favorite with all classes. The English called it 'beans and bacon.' In New York you have corned beef and beans—the same old beans. I never could understand why beans and bacon, were never naturalized in the Land o' Cakes. I cannot charge myself with ever having seen such a dish in Scotland."

Just as Good.

"We are trying to educate our readers to recognize the evils of substitution," said the business manager of one of the popular magazines. "Through our advertising pages we are trying to get them up to the point where they will insist upon getting what they asked for, and will take nothing else. The merchant who has 'something just as good' is no more to be depended upon than a clerk in a certain country store which a friend visited to buy something.

"My friend had been invited unexpectedly to make an automobile trip, and was not fully prepared for it. The roads were very dusty, and after traveling several miles the party came to a country village, where my friend thought he might be able to purchase something to protect his clothing. The automobile halted before the general store of the village. My friend alighted and accosted a drowsy clerk. 'I want to get a linen duster,' he said.

"'I am very sorry,' said the clerk, 'but we are just out of linen dusters. I can let you have a nice feather duster.'"

Going to Sleep.

What is this thing that knits up the raveled sleeve of care? Cabanis, in his investigations on the mind, endeavored to fix the order in which the different parts of our organization go to sleep; namely—first, the legs and arms, then the muscles that support the head and back. The first sense that slumbers is that of sight, followed in regular succession by the senses of taste, smell, hearing and feeling. The viscera (contents of the body cavities), he says, fall asleep one after the other, but with different degrees of soundness.—New York Press.

Australia's Wild Oysters.

Oysters are sometimes regarded as dangerous but they are not usually considered savage. A Queensland judge, however, has decided that they are wild beasts. Before a royal commission on the pearling industry, which has been sitting at Brisbane, a witness stated that eight years ago he had laid 100,000 shells in the neighborhood of Friday island. The Japanese stole the shells, and the district court [illegible] held that as pearl shell [illegible]

BACK TO THE TOWN

COUNTRY LIFE PALLED ON THE SUBURBANITE.

Real Facts of the Case Somewhat Different from the Explanation He Made to His City Friend.

The year around the city resident and the summer suburbanite were carrying on a conversation over their hurried noonday lunch.

"Must be mighty all fired crimpy around the edges out in the country these days," suggested the city man. "Don't believe I'd like living out in the country these days without steam heat and things. You'll be hiking into town pretty quick now, I s'pose."

"O, not for awhile yet," returned the summer suburbanite. "This is really the finest time of the year to be in the country. It is a trifle crisp when you get out of bed in the morning, of course, but then it beats the city at that. Some might exchange the good country air for a few city comforts, but not me. A little cold isn't going to hurt me."

This was a day or two ago. The following morning when the summer suburbanite crawled out from under the covers the thermometer was down around 40.

"Holy jumpin' James M. Jehosaphat, but it's cold in this barracks!" exclaimed the S. S. to his wife. "Talk about your polar expeditions and their hardships. They haven't got much on this! What are we staying out in a place like this for, anyhow? Never saw such a bleak habitation as this, if you'd call it a habitation, in all my troublous life. What's your idea in sticking to a place like this for when we've got a house there in town with a furnace and hot water and bath tub and all such things? That's what I'd like to know! I surely would.

"If I wanted to freeze to death I could do it right in town any good winter day. I wouldn't need to come clear out here to the country to do it. Holy mackerel but that water's cold! Don't even dare wash your face in this Greenlandish place! And I'm serving notice on you right at this juncture that we're going into town to-day, and we're going to stay there until next summer. Us for town. In cold weather a man's supposed to live in town where they've got radiators and such like. That's what towns are for."

Then the other day the suburbanite and his friend met again at lunch.

"So you've moved back to town, have you?" spoke up the year-around city man. "Thought you'd get enough of that country business in this sort of weather."

"O, yes, I moved in," owned up the late suburbanite. "It was fine out there, but my wife just naturally wouldn't stand for it. Said she couldn't keep warm. And you know how useless it is to argue with a woman. I had to come in. Hated like Sam Hill to do it, though."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Clever Work of Beavers.

A peculiar fact was discovered at the reservoir at Saddleback pond recently at Rangeley, when beavers' work in dam construction was found to interfere with the water supply from Saddleback stream. These busy engineers had constructed a tight dam, which had retained considerable of the supply of the mountain reservoir, and workmen each day tore out their work, only to find it rebuilt on the next visit. Good-sized tree sections had been hauled in and placed in the dam by the beavers. After several destructions of the beavers' dams there was again found to be a stoppage in the supply of water through the main pipes. The dam had not been rebuilt, but on close investigation it was found that those cunning engineers, in revenge, apparently, had built a dense screen across the strainer, which had prevented the flow of water through the main pipe.—Kennebec Journal.

WORRIED THE YOUNG MOTHER.

Lack of "Progress" Might Have Proved a Serious Thing.

"When people in our part of the country select a family physician they stick to him," says an Illinois physician. "If he goes away they won't call in some one else if they can possibly help it. They have faith in nobody but their own man, so long as he manages to be fairly successful. Last spring I went up to Chicago for a few days, much to the distress of a young mother in our town, who expects me to inspect her only baby every other day at least. The second day of my stay she telegraphed me to come home at once. Baby was sick—she told me the trouble—she didn't know what to do. It wasn't an urgent case, I knew, so I wired back a reassuring message, told her to give the baby a dose of some medicine she had at hand, and to fill out the ten words I put in 'Prognosis admirable.' I always like to use large words when I'm telegraphing—makes me feel that I'm getting the worth of my money, you know. When I got home two days later I went to see the baby.

"'She's all right now,' the mother told me, 'but we were awfully worried. We had to rely on the medicine you left, though. The boy at the drug store didn't have a bit of prognosis in the place.'"

Proof of Japanese Enthusiasm.

The spectators at wrestling matches in Japan pelt the winner with their hats. This is a custom with the Japanese for showing their appreciation of the skill of the winner. The hats are gathered up by the attendants and handed to the champion.

Eventually the owners come forward and redeem their hats with presents of various kinds. The custom in question is, it is explained, due to a recognition of the fact that enthusiasm is likely to cool down shortly after the event which excited it. His placed [illegible]

LESSON FOR SOUVENIR FIEND.

Captain's Remarkable Action Designed "to Avoid Scandal."

"On the slow and cheap ships," said a purser, "the souvenir thief does no harm; but on a famous liner like the Ruritania, where records are broken and tip-top prices abound, the amount of stuff that disappears is shocking.

"Only things with the boat's name on go—champagne glasses, inkwells, curling tongs, buttonhooks and so forth. And what are we to do about it?

"We had an American peeress aboard last voyage. The day we reached New York a stewardess came to me and said:

"'Oh, Mr. Meet, I just seen Lady Blank's cabin trunk, and she's taken two of our finest silver inkwells.'

"Here was a quandary, eh? The captain was called in, and he settled the matter in the unsatisfactory way such things are usually settled.

"'We must teach Lady Blank a lesson,' he growled. 'At the same time scandal must be avoided.' He thought a moment, then said to the stewardess: 'Take one of the inkwells and leave the other. That'll show her!'"

RESOLUTION FOR CEMENT SIDEWALKS

At a meeting of the village council of the village of St. Hilaire, a resolution was adopted condemning the old sidewalks and ordering them removed and cement sidewalks constructed in place of same along all the lots fronting the hereinafter named streets in the following blocks:

All the sidewalks along Water street on the east side of block 64; all the sidewalks on Water street on the west side of block 3, Ives addition; all the sidewalks on Minnesota avenue on the east side of block 35; all the sidewalks on Minnesota avenue on the east side of lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, of block 42; all the sidewalks on Broadway fronting Block 37 on the east.

Notice is hereby given to owners of property, lots, parts of lots, and parcels of ground fronting or abutting the named streets as herein described, to have the old sidewalks removed and cement sidewalks constructed in place of same within 40 days from the date hereof, or to pay the expense of constructing said sidewalks.

All parties owning property as hereinafter described opposite their respective names are hereby ordered to build a cement walk in the manner following, viz: Said sidewalks to be built 5 feet wide and 5 inches thick; 1 inch of coarse sand on the bottom; 3¼ inches concrete of 1 part cement and 5 parts sand; and ¾ inch finish of 1 part cement and 2 parts sand; and to conform to the grade line established by the village council for the purpose.

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone
Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

Mrs. Housewife:-There's a Happy Medium in Everything. Anything that is overdone or underdone is not good.

This is especially true of baking — and it is just as true of baking powder. If you use the cheap and Big Can Kinds you are getting quantity at the sacrifice of quality. It cannot be as good — or as economical as Calumet — the medium price kind. If you use the High Price Kind, you are paying tribute to the Trust — the quality is no better.

The Cheap and Big Can Kind
In this can you get more substance but not more baking powder. It is great in quantity only — not in economy — not in satisfaction.
CALUMET BAKING POWDER
The Trust Kind
Great in price, little in quantity and the quality is no better — if as good.

Here's the "Full Value" in BAKING POWDER

Calumet, in the Standard 1 lb. can, sells at a moderate cost—but is great in all round satisfaction. You use less of it—it makes the baking lighter, purer — more delicious. One baking will prove its superiority—try it. Ask your grocer and insist on Calumet. Free—large handsome recipe book. Send 4c and slip found in pound can.

Keep Your Eye on that Can

When Buying Baking Powder

For this is the baking powder that "makes the baking better."

It leavens the food evenly throughout; puffs it up to airy lightness, makes it delightfully appetizing and wholesome.

Remember, Calumet is moderate in price—highest in quality.

Ask your grocer for Calumet. Don't take a substitute.

Genuine Maple Sugar.

There are few people outside the maple sugar making districts, says a writer in the Country Gentleman, who really know what the genuine article tastes like. The superior flavor thus spoken of is probably due in a degree to the same causes that make strawberries eaten off the vine and cherries consumed on the tree so delectable. The writer quoted, however, puts some of the blame for the poor flavor of commercial maple sugar on the "wily wholesale dealer and mixer."

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week In Condensed Form.

New Ulm.—John Fraas, a veteran of the civil war, and one of the defenders of New Ulm, committed suicide by shooting.

Willmar.—Hugh Parke, member of a steel gang of a Great Northern construction crew, was run down in the local yards. Both of his legs were cut off

Washington.—Senator Nelson favorably reported the Steenerson bill permitting the village of Oslo, Minn., to build a bridge across the Red River of the North.

New York, N. Y. — Announcement was made here of the engagement of Miss Alice Steel Ide, daughter of Mrs. Charles W. Ide, of this city, to Foster Hannaford, of St. Paul.

Duluth.—Fred Jacobson, aged twenty-four years, formerly a lake sailor, hanged himself near Zim. It is presumed that he was insane. The man's parents reside in Buffalo.

Jackson.—James Brown and team in the town of Minneota were killed by lightning while driving on the highway. His clothing was burned on his body and the buggy totally destroyed.

Red Wing.—John Tittman, aged 35, of Pine Island, took his life. He was a widower and leaves a child 2 years old. When Ottman left his boarding house he told the landlady he was going to take his life.

Brainerd.—Mrs. F. Johnson, aged 19, of this city, committed suicide at Ironton. She attached a cord to a door knob in the pantry and strangled herself on her knees. Her husband missed her when he awoke.

Winona.—Austin W. Lord, formerly of Winona, who began his architectural studies here and who is now head of a leading firm in New York city, has accepted the office of dean of the school of architecture of Columbia university.

Duluth.—Stocks of bonded grain here at the present time are: Wheat, 1,800,000 bushels; oats, 1,600,000 bushels, and flax, 311,000 bushels, a total of stocks of 3,780,000 bushels. The receipts have fallen off to about 8,000 to 9,000 bushels per day.

Ely. — Jacob Makela, a prominent farmer living on the banks of White Iron lake, four miles south of Ely, was shot in the breast while on the way to work on the county road. Makela still is alive. It is believed he was shot by some enemy of the neighborhood.

Barnesville.—John Baker, an iron dealer, was struck by an automobile driven by Ernest Leonhardt, and knocked down and painfully bruised. They were trying to dodge each other when the accident occurred. Baker's injuries are not of a serious nature.

Fergus Falls.—The annual commencement exercises of the Northwestern college of this city will be held on Tuesday, May 28. The other exercises incident to commencement will take place also that week. The commencement speaker will be Rev. L. A. Johnson, D. D., president of Augustana college.

Luverne.—At a meeting of the city council a petition, signed by thirty-five freeholders and voters, was presented, requesting that the books of E. C. Schwartz, late city recorder, be audited. The petition was granted and the state public examiner will make an examination of the books for several years back. A shortage of $250.50 for the last fiscal year has already been discovered and made good by friends and relatives of Schwartz.

Winona.—The only case tried at the May term of the United States court in this city came to speedy ending when Judge Williard directed a dismissal on the ground that facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action had not been presented. The case was that of A. Y. Jameson vs. the United States Land company, in which damages of $214,000 were asked for alleged failure of the defendant to keep a land sale agreement it was said to have made.

St. Paul. — Miss Marjorie Bemis, 18-year-old daughter of Mrs. N. D. Bemis, and Bronson West, son of John D. West, former president of the West Publishing company, were married by the Rev. Maurice D. Edwards, in his study at the Dayton Avenue Presbyterian church. The two have been engaged for some time, but Mrs. Bemis objected to their marrying on account of her daughter's youth. The elopement came immediately after she stated her objections in an interview with West.

Mankato.—The executive committee of the Minnesota Better Development league in a heated session that lasted after midnight, passed resolutions asking the state legislature to adjourn immediately after convening in special session. Nine reasons why this should be done were given in the resolutions and it was asked that if, in the opinion of the legislators, it would not be possible to so adjourn, that the convention limit itself to the primary election law and the corrupt practices act as specified in the call.

$6,500 Launch Is Rammed.

Winona.—E. L. King's palatial new $6,500 launch, the most elaborate on the Mississippi, was badly rammed on its initial trip in front of the levee, by an unknown launch. The stranger, the name of which was not learned, in the excitement swung in front of the new launch, striking it a glancing blow, crumbling its prow and puncturing the front compartment. Although the compartment was ripped open and took in water, the airtight chambers kept the crippled craft afloat until she could be docked.

Minnesota Tennis Players Win in N.Y.

New York, N. Y.—The Minnesota Tennis team defeated the College of New York very easily. The matches being three for the visitors and none for the local college. In the singles Armstrong defeated Wiesenberg by the score of six to two, six to three. Stellwagen played Lensohn and defeated him with equal ease, the score being six to one and six to nothing. In the doubles Minnesota had a walkaway, running through their [illegible]

CANADA'S PROSPERITY.

The New York Times of March 23, 1912, in an article dealing with Canada's progress, says:

"At the present moment eight shiploads of European immigrants are afloat for Canada, while there are signs that the outward movement which is customary with us during labor troubles will be marked this year. There is no such startling record of our loss to Canada. Our citizens quietly slip over the border in groups or trainloads, but their going is not advertised.

"There is no mystery why Canada is the 'good thing' the United States used to be. It is because Canada is following in its neighbor's footsteps that it is repeating the fortunate experience which its neighbor is envying, even while deliberately turning its back on the teachings of the past. A fortnight ago the Dominion budget speech reported the unprecedented surplus of $39,000,000, and on Thursday the Government passed through the Committee on Supply credits of $33,000,000 for railways and canals. With this assistance the railways themselves are both enabled and compelled to increase their facilities. Accordingly we find a single road allotting ten millions for work of its own. Naturally the Canadian newspapers contain announcements calling for fifty thousand men for construction work. This influx is apart from those Americans who go with money in their pockets obtained by cashing in their high-priced American lands.

"A St. Paul dispatch says that within a fortnight two thousand carloads of farm animals and machinery have passed toward Canada, the property of men who expect to pay for their farms with the first crop."

Severely Logical.

It was a Welsh minister who described the devil to a little congregation in a remote Welsh valley. Said the minister:

"The devil is bound round the middle with chains, and round the arms with chains and round the legs with chains. But John Jones," pointing to a man in the front row, "he can reach you; and you, David Evans," pointing to one in the middle row, "he can reach you, and," pointing to one at the back, "John Williams, he can reach you."

And then a man in the gallery called out, "Why, he might as well be loose."—London Globe.

Substitute for Third Degree.

A New York dentist advocates laughing gas as a substitute for the police third degree. He believes that this, the least dangerous of anesthetics, lays open what already is in the mind, unconscious of the search for its secrets. He believes that if a man who has committed a serious crime should be questioned about it during a certain stage of recovery from nitrous oxide, or laughing gas anaesthesia, he would not only reply and truthfully, but half a minute later he would realize fully what he had said.

The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband told him about Lydia E. GOVERNOR PRAISES COLLEGES

ADDRESSES STUDENTS AT GUSTAVUS ADOLPHUS.

Dr. Vincent Urges Education For Training Mind and Fostering Spirit.

St. Peter.—Observance of the semi-centennial of Gustavus Adolphus college drew a throng of visitors to St. Peter. Scores of former students at the institution traveled a long distance to attend the fiftieth anniversary, and during the exercises the college auditorium was crowded to its capacity. Just before the program opened the procession of speakers and distinguished visitors marched down the main aisle of the auditorium. The first man to ascend the platform was Erick Norelius of was one of the original class of 11 phus and closely following him came John Olson of Sioux Falls, S. D., who was one of the original class of 11 pupils to enroll at the school when it was established at Red Wing in 1862.

The old master and his gray-haired pupil were warmly applauded as they stood for a moment facing the audience. Dr. Norelius asked the invocation and Dr. J. P. Uhler acting president of the college introduced Governor Eberhart as the first speaker. In doing so he told of the chief magistrate's early struggle when he entered Gustavus Adolphus a penniless youth and in a trifle more than four years worked his way through the institution. The governor said in part: There are a great many problems to solve and we must have Christian institutions like Gustavus Adolphus to help solve them. The problem of our large cities and the problem of making country life attractive are two of the important questions of our time.

It is in these that the influence of schools like Gustavus Adolphus college is needed. This particular school is in need of larger endowment and I would call upon the alumni to start a fund of at least $250,000. In working for the advancement of the institution to which we owe so much we will be working for the advancement of everything that is good and pure and clean in American citizenship.

Dr. George E. Vincent's address was scholarly and brilliant. He said: This is a birthday occasion, a jubilee, a fiftieth anniversary. A college is like a man. A man must have character, must have a permanent steady set of emotions, ideas and habits. A college must be solidified by principles and ideals and a dominant purpose. You stand for a type of education which embraces the training of the education of the whole man, that which looks to his spiritual growth as well as his intellectual development. Any sectarian institution can be of service to the commonwealth by reason of its support of its fragment of God's truth. You should indeed pay homage to that great manager, Norelius. He had courage and he had imagination, and he dreamed a dream. C. G. Schultz of St. Paul, state superintendent of public instruction, brought greetings from the public schools of Minnesota and Dr. John N. Kildahl, president of St. Olaf college from the minor colleges of the state.

Unnamed Benefactors Make Liberal Contribution.

Minneapolis.—Gifts to Macalester college amounting to $85,000 from two unnamed benefactors, were announced at the annual dinner given at Wallace hall by President and Mrs. T. M. Hodgman. Announcement was made by Dr. H. C. Swearingen of the board of trustees, who said that the two gifts of $50,000 and $35,000 are made part of an endownment of $250,000 conditional on the remainder being raised by June 1, 1913. A fund of $467,000 was completed last July, $160,000 going into new buildings and $307,000 being invested as endowment, but deficits still come owing to the growth of the institution. The dinner was a farewell occasion for the senior class and for Professor Frank D. Scott, who leaves at the end of the college year to enter the ministry.

VENICE A CITY OF DREAMS

Many Charms for the Tourist in This Picturesque City of Italy.

To the wanderer in Italy, Venice has a peculiar attraction. Arrive there at sunset, or, better still, by moonlight, and you will fancy yourself transplanted to some city of dreams. With daylight this feeling may wear off to some extent, although there is never, at any time, as much bustle and stir in Venice as in other towns. Morning, noon or night, Venice has a fascination all her own. This is partly due to the fact that she is a city built on the water.

To explore Venice and to become intimately acquainted with her, a gondola is not a necessity, rather it is a luxury for sunset evenings and moonlight nights. It is a delightful experience, and not a difficult one, to find one's way about Venice on foot; quaint, old world corners are discovered, bits of ancient architecture, carved doorways and little bridges, with a feast of color here, there and everywhere. Apart from all the beauty of scenery, there is the enthralling interest evoked by her history and traditions.

Among the traditions we read that St. Theodore was the first patron saint of Venice, to be superseded later on by St. Mark. The wanderer in Venice becomes familiar with the Lion of St. Mark. More prominently than anywhere is it to be seen on one of the columns on the Piazzetta, whilst on the other is St. Theodore. These columns of beautiful red and gray granite are supposed to have come originally from Syria. They were erected by a Lombard engineer.—Christian Endeavor Monitor.

BABY'S ECZEMA AND BOILS

"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks, from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. I became alarmed, and called our family physician who at once pronounced the disease eczema. The little fellow was under treatment for about three months. By the end of that time, he seemed no better. I became discouraged. I dropped the doctor's treatment, and commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruption on his cheeks was almost healed, and his shoulders, arms and breast were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old, all trace of the eczema was gone.

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. During the time of teething and from the time I dropped the doctor's treatment, I used the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, nothing else, and when two years old he was the picture of health. His complexion was soft and beautiful, and his head a mass of silky curls. I had been afraid that he would never be well, and I feel that I owe a great deal to the Cuticura Remedies." Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Beauty—real beauty—is more than skin deep. No cosmetic in the world can give the wholesome color, the bright eyes, the clear, transparent skin that is the natural result of pure blood, proper diet and hygienic habits of daily life.

It sounds easy and it is easy for a woman to have the beauty which health alone can give. A safe and efficient tonic if the blood is weak, thin or impure (Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are especially recommended), the avoidance of foods which will cause eruptions, and regular bathing of the skin. That is all and it is the only way. Most ladies, and especially young mothers, will be interested in the following statement:

"After my baby was born," says Mrs. Etta Estes, of No. 333 South Lawndale street, Kansas City, Mo., "I did not gain in strength as I should have. I did not have any color and kept losing in flesh until I was almost a skeleton. I had severe headaches and pains in the side, arms and shoulders. I finally gave up the doctor's treatment in order to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped me immediately and I became stronger each day, soon got a better color and am now in the best of health. I am convinced that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do all that is claimed for them and advise any woman who is suffering as I did to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once and not wait another day."

Should you be unable to obtain Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in your locality they will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, fifty cents per box, six boxes for $2.50.

As a business creator, what is there better than advertising? Have you ever asked that question of yourself? MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

VOLUME XXXI. ST. HILAIRE, MINNESOTA, SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1912. NUMBER 48.

GOV. EBERHART SENDS MESSAGE

STATES HIS VIEWS TO SPECIAL SESSION OF MINNESOTA LEGISLATURE.

ASKS THREE NEW LAWS

Primary for All Elective Offices, Stringent Corrupt Practices Act and Reapportionment Bill Are Recommended.

St. Paul.—Governor A. O. Eberhart sent the following to the special session of the Minnesota legislature:

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Minnesota:

You have been convened in extraordinary session at this time for the purpose of enacting into law three measures demanded by the people of this state, to-wit:

1. A statewide direct primary law for the nomination of all elective officials, national and state.

2. A stringent and effective corrupt practices act, applicable to both the nomination and election of all public officials.

3. A reapportionment of the legislative districts as required by and in accordance with the constitution of the state.

These three measures were fully considered by you at your last session and you are therefore thoroughly familiar with the subject matter of each. Hence no elaborate or detailed discussion of them is required of me at this time, but a brief reference to each measure is due and proper.

Direct Primary Law.

Minnesota has been a pioneer in the enactment of direct primary legislation. The first step was taken in 1899, when a direct primary law was enacted for Hennepin county.

At the following session—1901—this law was amended in some particulars, extended to the whole state and included all positions except state officers and certain minor officials. Since that date it has governed our political action in making party nominations for office.

Tried by more than ten years of actual experience in this state, the direct primary law has so established itself in the judgment and convictions of the people that no aspirant for public favor would have the hardihood to propose its repeal. It simply substitutes the direct action of the people themselves for the system of delegated authority exemplified in conventions. It makes public officials directly responsible to the people and it makes the people directly responsible for the selection of their representatives. It eliminates the domination of special interests by placing the people—who are the source of all political power—in direct control.

The insistent demand of the people for the right of direct and unhindered participation in all matters of government is attested by their unswerving support of the existing direct primary law and by the passage at your last session of a law for the direct nomination and practically direct election of United States senators. The recent action of the congress of the United States in proposing an amendment to the federal constitution providing for the election of United States senators directly by the people is a further proof of the settled purpose of the people to exercise their political power directly and not through representative bodies.

Under the constitution, you are the lawmaking power of this state, and it is primarily your right and duty to determine what the law shall be, and in reaching that determination it is for you to consider the various details of the proposed legislation. Whether or not the direct primary law shall be non-partisan, what provisions it shall contain as to second choice, just how it shall be applied to the selection of delegates to national conventions and many other questions of detail which will arise in the consideration of this measure, are for you to primarily determine, and it is not my purpose to suggest any particular plan of direct primary, but confidently relying on your wisdom and patriotism, I earnestly recommend the prompt passage of a law providing for the nomination of all public officials by a direct vote of the people.

Corrupt Practices Law.

To pass a direct primary law without enacting a stringent and effective corrupt practices act would be to merely adopt the nomenclature of reform and reject the reform itself. The present law on the subject—passed over seventeen years ago—has, according to common report and belief, been "more honored in the breach than observance," and should be supplemented by a law that absolutely eliminates the improper use of money in conducting campaigns for nomination and election.

Legislative Reapportionment.

Section 23, Article IV, of the Constitution of the state, provides: "The legislature shall provide by law for an enumeration of the inhabitants of this state in the year 1865 and every tenth year thereafter. At their first session after each enumeration so made and also at their first session after each enumeration made by the authority of the United States, the legislature shall have the power to prescribe the bounds of congressional, senatorial and representative districts, and to apportion anew the senators and representatives among the several districts, according to the provisions of Section 2 of this Article."

Section 2, Article IV, provides: "The number of members who compose the senate and house of representatives shall be prescribed by law, but the representation in the senate shall never exceed one member for every 5,000 inhabitants, and in the house of representatives one member for every two thousand inhabitants. The representation in both houses shall be apportioned equally throughout the different sections of the state, in proportion to the population thereof, exclusive of Indians not taxable under the provisions of law."

The last legislative apportionment was made in 1897, over fifteen years ago, and it is a matter of common knowledge that representation in our legislature today is grossly unequal under the constitutional provisions just quoted.

In the last campaign all political parties in their platforms distinctly pledged the people a legislative reapportionment as required by the constitution. You were unable to pass a legislative reapportionment at the last session, but in this special session, with but few subjects pressing for your consideration, failure to pass a legislative reapportionment in accordance with the constitution would be a deliberate defiance of the right of the people to govern themselves. To deny the people equal representation in the lawmaking branch of their government is to strike down the fundamental principle of popular government by subjecting the majority to the rule of the minority.

I earnestly recommend the early passage of a legislative reapportionment according to the constitution.

Direct Election of United States Senators.

The legislature of Minnesota has repeatedly memorialized the congress to provide for the direct election of United States senators, and congress has at last proposed such an amendment. I herewith transmit this amendment for your consideration and recommend its immediate ratification.

Federal Income Tax.

The last legislature failed to ratify the proposed amendment to the United States constitution providing for a federal income tax, and I herewith again transmit this proposed amendment for your consideration and recommend its ratification.

Congressional Reapportionment.

Since your adjournment congress has assigned ten members of the national house of representatives to the state of Minnesota, instead of nine, as at present. This necessitates the redistricting of the state into ten congressional districts, and there is no valid reason why this session should not provide for such congressional reapportionment.

A. O. EBERHART,
Governor of Minnesota.

Reapportionment, the rock upon which state administration and legislature split last session, is the issue between house and senate in the special session of the legislature which convenes at 11 o'clock this morning. A deadlock between the two houses is threatened.

Effort on the part of the senators to sign up a majority of members pledged to consider nothing but the passage of a direct primary law and a corrupt practices act, succeeded, and the quiet announcement was given out that the senate was prepared to "stand pat." Before doing so, an alliance with the Democrats was formed.

On the other hand, the house members gathered and decided upon a course of action in direct opposition to the position of the senators. They drew a circle around six things for which they propose to stand.

These measures are:

State-wide primary law.

Corrupt practices act.

Federal income tax amendment.

Federal amendment relative to election of United States senators.

Increase in the gross earnings tax for railroads.

Reapportionment.

Insistence by the house members upon this program means a deadlock between house and senate, which may become a test of endurance. It was decided by the house members that they would agree upon a program relative to the state-wide primary, the corrupt practices act and the two federal amendments to the constitution, but gross earnings and reapportionment might come from the floor if there should develop a desire to introduce them, and there is no doubt but such a desire exists.

Refuses to Support Senator Root.

Madison, Wis. — Gov. Francis E. McGovern of Wisconsin, chairman of the Wisconsin delegation to the Republican national convention, in a telegram answering an appeal by William Barnes, Jr., of New York, refused the support of Wisconsin for Senator Elihu Root as temporary chairman of the convention. Governor McGovern's reply said Senator Root represented "political views and methods that could not be sanctioned at the Chicago convention," and that Root's selection would invite defeat.

FRENCH KILL MOORS.

Column Under Gen. Lyautay Makes Successful Sally.

Fez, Morocco.—A strong column sent out by General Lyautay, the French commander, dispersed the tribesmen six miles outside of Fez. The French artillery shelled the camp inflicting heavy loss on the tribesmen, who have been making continuous attacks against the city. The French casualties numbered nine men killed and 28 wounded.

SPECIAL SESSION BEGINS WITH CLASH

SENATE PICKS TWO, HOUSE SIX SUBJECTS FOR LEGISLATION.

GOV READS HIS MESSAGE

Senators Vote to Consider Only Primary and Corrupt Practice Bills.—Constitutional Amendments.

The house and senate assembled for an extra session of the Minnesota legislature, took different courses immediately. One of the first acts of the house was to name a program of six subjects in a new rule under which nothing else is to be considered except on a two-thirds vote of the whole house. The program is as follows:

Statewide primary law.

Corrupt practices act.

Reapportionment.

Ratification of income tax

Ratification of amendment for direct election of United States senators.

Increase in gross earnings taxes

Senator George Sullivan introduced joint resolutions providing for the ratification by the legislature of the constitutional amendments proposed by congress.

Two Election Bills Offered.

Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul introduced two election bills. The first provides for extension of the direct primary to state officers, but excluding judges, and permitting nominations to be filed by petition of fifty electors. The second provides for a presidential preference primary vote to be taken when delegates are elected to a convention for nominating presidential electors. It also provides for rotation of names in the general election ballot when two or more persons are to be elected to the same office.

Senator Frank Murray introduced the fifth and last bill of the day, a lengthy corrupt practices act.

He proposes to prohibit all hiring of conveyances to take voters to the polls and all watchers and workers at the polls. The bill limits expenditures of candidates to $7,500 for candidates for United States senate; $2,500 for congress; $5,000 for governor; $2,000 for other state officers; $400 for state senators; $150 for house members; $500 for presidential electors, and for all county, city and village officers, one-third of the first year's salary.

The senate agreement absolutely excludes all subjects except the first two on the house list. Both houses disagree with the stand taken by Governor A. O. Eberhart, the senate refusing his request to take up reapportionment, and the house adding a gross earnings tax bill to his program.

That a close watch is to be kept on expenses for "supplies" was indicated in the senate when Senator S. B. Bedford introduced a resolution authorizing the secretary of the senate to purchase stationery and typewriter supplies.

Joint Session Is Brief.

The senators took seats in the house chamber and the joint convention was called to order at 12:30 p. m. by Speaker H. H. Dunn. The roll call was called for both houses by Oscar Arneson, chief clerk of the house, and Governor Eberhart was then escorted up the aisle by the joint committee to a seat beside the speaker. Lieutenant Governor S. Y. Gordon sat on the other side of the speaker. Reading of the message took less than fifteen minutes. References to reapportionment were applauded. The formal message transmitting the proposed amendment for direct election of senators was read and on motion of Representative W. I. Nolan the joint convention arose.

The senate convened at 11 a. m. with Lieutenant Governor Gordon in the chair. Senator John Moonan, acting as temporary secretary, read the governor's call for the session, the roll was called and resolutions naming elective officers and employees were passed.

George W. Peachey, Owatonna, was re-elected secretary; James H. Ege, Minneapolis, sergeant-at-arms; Rev. A. D. Stow of Minneapolis, chaplain; Oswald Mahland of Minneapolis, engrossing clerk; W. E. Hutchinson of Eagle Bend, enrolling clerk; D. W. Meeker of Moorhead, assistant secretary. The senate appointed two doorkeepers, a consulting clerk, a janitor, a cloakroom keeper, a messenger, six stenographers and three pages, one-fourth of the usual number of appointments.

All the preliminary formalities in the house were framed in advance by a gathering of the leaders meeting with Speaker H. H. Dunn. In conformance with the arrangements, Representative Cleon T. Knapp called the roll and read the governor's proclamation calling the session.

Representative J. A. A. Burnquist presented a resolution re-electing the old officers of the house, eleven in number, beginning with H. H. Dunn, speaker, and Oscar Arneson, chief clerk, and Rev. Moses E. Maxwell, chaplain.

The house adopted a resolution of Representative George MacKenzie, the committee on legislature was increased to twenty-three members and the committee on elections, general legislative taxes and tax laws each be increased to thirty-one members, three from each of the nine congressional districts and four at large. No member to serve on more than one committee.

DELEGATES TO DEM. STATE CONVENTION

St. Paul.—Returns gathered from the Minnesota county Democratic conventions indicate a disposition on the part of the Wilson adherents, who easily carried the Minnesota caucuses, to leave their delegates to the Duluth convention uninstructed, so that if they see fit they may swing into line for Bryan. Champ Clark delegates carried few counties. The figures follow:

CREAMERY A SUCCESS

Country About Akeley, Minn., Ideal for Dairying.

Akeley. — The Akeley creamery, which opened its doors last week, is doing a larger business than was expected by its most optimistic supporters. The butter produced is of excellent quality. Farmers are buying good milch cows. Several carloads are expected the next ten days. The country tributary is ideal for dairying purposes and it is expected Akeley's creamery will grow to large proportions.

The Akeley Automobile club has purchased six split-log road drags and is co-operating with the good roads committee of the Commercial club in the work of building fine roads into this city. Every automobile is equipped with an ax and shovels, and wherever the owner or driver finds a bad spot he is supposed to repair it. The supervisors have also purchased a road planer and are doing splendid work. The Akeley-Brainerd road is said to be one of the best in the state.

STATE WILL PLAT LAND.

Forty-Acre Tracts Will Be Put on Sale in Northern Section.

St. Paul.—Forty-acre tracts of land belonging to the state and adjoining such towns as Virginia, Chisholm, Hibbing, Ely and other thriving little cities in the northern part of the state, probably will be platted soon and placed on the market, according to S. G. Iverson, state auditor, who returned to his office yesterday after a trip of inspection.

In some instances the land will be platted into city lots, while in others it will be sold in five-acre and ten-acre tracts, for use as small farms. Mr. Iverson will hold a conference with the Attorney General, State Treasurer and Governor Eberhart before taking action.

$3,500,000 MORTGAGE.

Pittsburgh Company Pays Duluth County Treasurer $11,200 Fee.

St. Paul.—Mortgage executed by the Pittsburgh Coal Dock and Wharf company to the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh, has been received at the office of S. G. Iverson, State auditor, to be recorded. The mortgage is for $3,500,000 and 64 per cent of the company's property is at Duluth. The holdings there are worth $1,979,534. On this the company will pay a mortgage registry tax of $11,200.

EXPERTS DRAW CROWDS.

Agricultural Special Greeted by 3,600 People at Fourteen Stops.

Brainerd.—The agricultural special train operated by the Northern Pacific railway in conjunction with the state agricultural college was in Brainerd.

"The trip," said Daniel E. Willard, development agent of the Northern Pacific, "has arroused the greatest interest and enthusiasm among the farmers. The fourteen stops made drew 3,600 people. Thirty-five per cent of the farmers have asked that the agricultural propaganda be continued and that personal visits be made to their farms."

C. H. Welch, in charge of the farm machinery, and lecturing on strawberries and small fruit, tabulated the attendance at different points: Wrenshall, 150; Wright, 160; Tamarack, 270; McGregor, 300; Aitkin, 490; Deerwood, 230; Pillager, 240; Motley, 275; Staples, 235; Philbrook, 240; Lincoln, 60; Randall ,350; Little Falls, 350; Fort Ripley, 300. In McGregor, Rev. Lavoy, the Methodist minister in charge of twelve churches, had farmers present from all congregations.

Prof. Thomas Shaw lectured on alfalfa and clover, laying particular egress on the fact that alfalfa is adapted to this section. He also lectured on live stock. W. H. Tomhave lectured on horses, the train carrying Percheron and Clyde horses, also cattle and sheep. The cattle include Shorthorn, Holstein and Guernsey. F. H. Scribner covered dairy improvement and the elimination of poor cows. R. M. Washburn spoke on the feeding of cows. C. E. Brown, the Elk River "potato king," paid special attention to the raising of potatoes and the growing of uniform varieties for shipment. N. E. Chapman and C. E. Brown of Crookston lectured on poultry.

In Brainerd the staff was joined by O. M. Olson of St. Paul, who will speak on soil and farm management. A. B. Hostetter of the Duluth Commercial club spoke on clover and potato marketing and co-operation. The office car of General Manager Gemmell of the Minnesota and International railway was attached in Brainerd and he will accompany the special on its trip north on the line. Lectures are given in two, and sometimes three, coaches simultaneously.

To Hold Good Roads Session.

Taylors Falls.—June 12th and 13th is booked for a state Good Roads convention. An invitation will be extended to the special session of the legislature and every improvement league throughout the state to have representation at this first Good Roads meeting since the decision favoring the constitutionality of the Elwell law. June 26th and 27 the St. Croix River Improvement association will hold their annual convention at the park, and an effort is under way to have this the best waterways convention ever held.

Minister's Residence Burned.

Eagle Lake.—The residence of Rev. N. B. Foote, pastor of the Methodist church, was destroyed by fire, and Mr. Foote and wife and Miss Dorothy Watts, who lives with them, had a narrow escape. They were asleep and did not know of the fire until aroused by neighbors. The dwelling burned at a loss of $5,000, and insurance of $2,900. Mr. Foote's fine library was consumed, as also $500 in cash his wife had saved during many years.

Thief River Falls Papers Merge.

Thief River Falls.—An important business deal was closed in this city today, whereby two newspapers consolidated and will hereafter be issued as one. M. C. Cutter, who recently purchased the Thief River Falls News, bought the Press. The material in the Press office will be moved to the News and as a newspaper the former will cease to exist.

Fined for Illegal Fishing.

Little Falls.—Deputy Game Warden Grest caused three arrests for the illegal catching of fish in the Mississippi river at this point. The fishermen were charged with catching croppies with a net. One man pleaded guilty and paid a fine of $25 and costs. The two others had their cases continued.

Four Horses Killed; Driver Escapes.

St. Peter.—Christian Larson, employed as a hired man on the farm of Andrew Pehrson of New Sweden township, narrowly escaped death while at work in a field. He had four horses hitched to a drag and a bolt of lightning struck the animals, killing all of them. He was stunned by the shock, but received no other injury.

REBELS NEARING SANTIAGO

PRESENCE OF U. S. VESSEL IS DEEMED ADVISABLE.

Constitutional Guarantees Suspended in the Province of Oriente.

Havana, June 5.—The senate committee on laws reported a recommendation for the passage of a law empowering President Gomez to suspend the constitutional guarantees, but only in the province of Oriente. The suspension of the guarantees in the other provinces was considered unnecessary and inadvisable, especially on account of the approaching elections. The bill doubtless will pass both houses.

The text of the report of the committee was communicated immediately to the American minister, Arthur M. Beaupre. The American consul at Santiago, Ross E. Holaday, expressed to General Monteagudo, the Cuban commander in chief, that in his opinion it would be advisable to have an American warship stationed at Santiago where there is acute alarm on account of the presence of strong bodies of rebels which have advanced and exchanged shots with the police and volunteer guards. It is reported that the United States gunboat Paducah will arrive at Santiago soon.

Sixteen negroes who were confined in jail at Guanajay, on the charge of conspiracy escaped. They were pursued and eight were killed and one captured.

Extraordinary police precautions continue at Havana in consequence of the persistence of the rumors of an intended negro uprising. Many American families are arriving at Havana from the outlying districts.

Minneapolis, June 5.—Wheat, July, $1.14¾; Sept., $1.08¾; No. 1 northern, $1.15¾; No. 2 northern, $1.13¼; No. 1 durum, $1.10; No. 3 corn, 68c; No. 3 white oats, 51c; barley, malting, $1.16; No. 2 rye, 83½c; No. 1 flax, $2.28.

South St. Paul, June 5.—Cattle—Steers, $4.50@4.75; cows, $4.00@6.50; calves, $8.00; hogs, $7.00@7.35; sheep and lambs, $3.50@7.50.

Chicago, June 5. — Wheat prices showed a tendency to rise today on account of the continued absence of moisture in Nebraska and Kansas. Reports indicated that the condition of the crop in the first named state had fallen off 9 to 30 per cent as compared with a week ago. Whole sections were said to have been killed outright by hot winds. Suspension of a prominent concern in Liverpool led also to an uneasy feeling on the part of shorts. On the other hand, foreign crop prospects were generally favorable. The opening here ranged from ½c lower to ¼@½c up. September started at $1.06⅛@1.06¼, a gain of a shade to ¼@½c, and mounted to $1.06⅝.

Statements that wheat in the western part of Nebraska was a failure caused a further advance, but the market eased off on reports of rain in a few points in both Kansas and Nebraska. The close was easy at $1.06⅜ for September, a net gain of ¼@⅜c.

Although corn appeared easy at the outset as a result of the fine weather the market later hardened with wheat. Trade, however, was not large. July opened a sixteenth off to a like advance, at 72⅞@73c and ascended to 73⅜c.

Moderate buying independent of a leading house gave firmness to oats. The big cash sales here yesterday helped the bulls. July started a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at 49⅜@49½c, touched 49⅝c and railed to 49⅜c.

Selling pressure on ribs depressed the provision market as a whole. Demand for pork and lard was decidedly slow. Initial sales varied from last night's level to 10c below, with September delivery $18.75@18.82½ for pork, $11.07½@11.10 for lard, and $10.57½@10.60 for ribs.

AFTER THE GRIP PURIFY THE BLOOD

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are the Best Blood Builder and Will Cure You as They Cured This Woman.

It is of the utmost importance to your health, if you have suffered from the grip, that you cleanse the blood of the lingering germs and put it in condition to resist disease.

After the acute attack the sufferer is left with a debilitated system, is short of breath upon the slightest exertion and is affected by every change of weather. The system is in such a weakened condition that it is powerless to resist the attack of such diseases as pneumonia and bronchitis.

This is a condition which emphatically calls for a tonic for the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best medicine for this purpose for they act directly on the blood which they cleanse of all impurities. They tone up the nerves and give health and strength to the debilitated system.

The debility which follows an attack of the grip can only be cured by making the blood rich and red. This Dr. Williams' Pink Pills never fail to do promptly and it explains how they cured Mrs. F. R. Boyd, of No. 607 South Ninth street, Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"I was never well after an attack of the grip a few years ago until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before this I had found nothing that helped me. I was all run down, pale and thin. My appetite was poor and my head ached continually. I didn't feel like myself at all.

"Someone finally recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to me and I found them just the medicine for my case. They gave me a hearty appetite and a good, clear color. I got back my vitality and was soon a well woman. I can safely say that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do all that is claimed for them. I heartily recommend them."

If you are suffering from after-effects of the grip or other wasting disease, try the remedy that has cured so many stubborn cases, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. A copy of our booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," is free on request.

Senator Rockne of Zumbrota has a name for the extra session. He calls it "a post mortem investigation of a political suicide."

Two men, J. A. Peterson, of Minneapolis, and Congressman Lindbergh, of Little Falls, are both after Nelson's senatorial shoes, though Knute has not yet signified his intention to doff them without a fight.

A decision of the supreme court of Minnesota just handed down renders void a law passed by the last legislature prohibiting the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine colored in imitation of butter.

This will be a good year to revive interest in the Fourth of July as a national birthday. But omit the deadly firecracker and other explosives. Let there be picinics and sports, together with patriotic speeches and other programs of popular interest, but cut out the maiming and killing of boys and men.

Alvah Eastman, veteran St. Cloud editor, is out to succeed Congressmen Chas. A. Lindbergh, who is an avowed candidate to succeed U. S. Senator, Knute Nelson. Mr. Eastman has for years been one of the leading and most forceful editors in the state and if elected to the national house would undoubtedly soon rank high among the Washington legislators.

County politics seem to be warming up and it will, probably not be long before things are moving at a lively pace. Only four filings have been recorded so far at the auditor's office but there are several candidates who have signified their intention of filing later and who are already doing a little campaigning. The conditions in this county do not warrant many changes in officials but it is hard to tell at this early date just what the outcome will be.—Times.

The first case in the state under the new law which grants action for damages against saloonkeepers who sell liquor to persons who afterward become injured and killed, was tried at Ada last week. The widow of John Choudek, at Seaforth, Minn., received $1000. Her husband was killed by an automobile near Wanda last September, after he had been sold liquor by the saloonkeepers of that place.

This would be a good time to settle the southern delegate question. States that maintain no bona fide republican state, district or county organizations should have no voice in a republican national convention. As a rule, those chosen delegates in those states are a venal lot, with no concern in republican success except the federal patronage it will enable them to dispense among themselves and their personal friends. A reform in the constitution of our national conventions has been needed for many years. Every time there is a contest for the presidential nomination scandals arise in connection with the election of the delegates from most of the southern states. The Chicago convention will be derelict in its duty. if it fails to take this matter up and properly dispose of it.

Express vs Parcels Post

The house of representatives favors an express bill fixing rates on express shipments according to zones. For example, for distances between points 2,000 miles apart, or less, the rate would be 12 cents a pound; 1,200 miles apart, or less, 7 cents a pound; 800 miles or less, 5 cents; 600 miles or less, 4 cents; and 250 miles or less, 2 cents a pound. The minimum charge would be 10 cents.

While this is a desperate effort to head off parcels post, it is a great improvement over present conditions. It would not allow any extra charge when a shipment required to be transferred from one express company to another; the total distance would be the only basis of rate, and the express companies would have to divide pro rata. The rural mail routes would be utilized in connection with express companies under this law. The bill has passed the house and is now up to the senate.

We do not fully endorse it, by any means, as a substitute for parcels post. Under parcels post, packages weighing not to exceed eleven pounds could be mailed between any two postoffices, no matter what the distance. Besides, the postal service, including the carrying of small packages, ought to belong to the government; we have had enough of private express monopolies.—Northwestern Agriculturist.

Will Build Road

The decision of the supreme court upholding the Elwell road law was received in no county with more enthusiasm than in Pennington, as the test case originated in this county, arising out of application for a grant for the construction of a state highway running from Thief River Falls east to the extreme end of the county.

The application was made for $20,000, which is now available and which will be expended under the supervision.

The county commissioners have been called into special session to complete the formality incident to the securing of the loan. All papers connected with the application have been in the correct form and nothing now remains but to complete the proceedings.

The proposed highway will be twenty miles long and running direct east without any bend or turn. The country is all settled and is very rich level prairie land, every foot of which is under cultivation, or else is possible of such action. The farmers welcome the new era of road making, though in this section of the state are found the famous ditch grades, which are considered the most modern roadway now constructed. They are broad, level and well packed and run for hundreds of miles all through the drained region.

Historical Literature

Have you noticed a series of articles running in The Spectator under the above heading? If not, turn over the pages at once and read the two which appear this week. When you have done this you will be on the look out for next week's issue to read more of them.

These fascinating historical sketches consist of about forty-eight articles which will be run two each week. The stories were written by Albert Payson Terhune for the New York World and were copyrighted by that paper. We have secured the right to insert them in The Spectator and feel sure our readers will find them instructing and entertaining.

Found Dead in Bed

At six o'clock Sunday evening Dr. Clark was found dead in bed in a room at the hotel at Plummer, to which he had retired about an hour earlier. Death was due to acute alcoholism and the cause of death was so evident that an inquest was not considered necessary.

No indications of suicide were found upon examination of the body. Depositions of a few witnesses were taken. These brought out the fact that Dr. Clark went from Thief River Falls to Plummer Wednesday and from that time until his death he had been drinking heavily and had taken no nourishment. Because of excessive indulgence he had become a nervous wreck and his body could no longer withstand the assault.

The deceased was formerly located at Plummer, but had recently moved to Thief River Falls.

Worst Enemies and Best Friends

According to dispatches from Washington, Col. Roosevelt's worst enemies in the present campaign are about to prove themselves his best friends. That is, provided there is a sound basis for the statement that the republican national committee intends to steam-roller the colonel out of as many delegates as possible, and, in the language of the correspondent, "give him ample excuse" to bolt the Chicago convention.

Truly "whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." No more suicidal idea than this ever was conceived by a passion-blinded political tyranny. If there has been any one thing in the campaign thus far that was entitled to the adjective "marvelous," it has been the hold that Col. Roosevelt has shown himself to have on the minds—and votes—of the people, where the people have had an opportunity to express their preferences. All the attacks and innuendos, all the cajolery and patronage that the backers of President Taft and the president himself could bring to bear, have served only to intensify the remarkableness of the colonel's position.

Now picture what would happen if the Taft men, by the exercise of simple power and opportunity, override the Roosevelt delegates, deny them rights to which they could show themselves entitled, if they were given a chance, seat the administration men in place of their opponents irrespective of the merits of the two hundred and some odd contests—in brief, if the Taft forces give their rivals "ample excuse" to bolt.

That there would be a bolt in such a case hardly anybody will doubt, if he has watched and studied the fighting nature of the ex-president. And if Col. Roosevelt, already possessed of a powerful following, be given an opportunity to go before the people next November with a clear case of personal and political grievance, nothing on earth can keep him from getting more support than he possibly could command were he to make a campaign as the duly accredited and recognized candidate of the republican party. It is not impossible to conceive that in such a case he could even overcome democratic opposition of any character.

If President Taft permits his followers to adopt any such tactics at Chicago as manifest unfairness in the seating of delegates, he will be doing himself the greatest wrong of his administration. He cannot be reelected. That is certain. And by meeting his political end bravely and with insistent adherence to honest principles, he can at least leave in the public mind a confidence in his personal integrity that it plainly does not have in his official ability.—Duluth Herald.

Extra Session

The legislature convened in extra session Tuesday. It was apparent from the very start that a seirious difference of opinion exists between the house and senate as to the work to be done.

The house members favor a program which includes action on the following:

Statewide primary.
Corrupt practices.
Reapportionment.
Increase in railroad gross earnings.
Ratification of the federal constitutional amendment providing for the income tax.

Much more than a majority of the senators are signers of a pledge limiting work of the senate to the state-wide primary and the corrupt practices act. This means, if it means anything, that if the house sends over other measures than these, the senate will vote them down, and this attempt to throttle reapportionment and the increase of railroad taxes is not to be cordially received by the house.

ALL IN THE GOLDEN FUTURE.

Beautiful Picture of What Life on the Farm is to Be Like.

The future farmer will subirrigate his land, and defy drought as well as floods. He will become a scientific forester, and every farm will produce wood and lumber as well as wheat and apples. A single acre will produce what ten acres yield now. Women will work out doors as heartily as men; in fact, they will be the horticulturists and the truck gardeners. There will be closer relation between the producer and the consumer ignoring a horde of middlemen who frequently waste more than is destroyed by ignorant help and insect foes combined. Under the alliance with the school the farm will be valued not only for its gross weight of products, but for its poems and its education. As our schools become places for applying as well as acquiring knowledge, our farm homes will become integral parts of the garden school and the school farm. The alliance between the home and the school will become very close. A valley full of farms is already the nearest to paradise that we have, but the future will tenfold its wealth and hundredfold its delights.—Independent.

AS EXPLAINED BY THE GUIDE.

Garrulous Old Woman Found Out What Caused Streak on Water.

The garrulous old woman in the stern of the boat had pestered the guide with her comments and questions ever since they had started. Her meek little husband, who was hunched toad-like in the bow, fished in silence. The old woman had seemingly exhausted every possible point in fish and animal life, woodcraft and personal history when she suddenly espied one of those curious paths of oily, unbroken water frequently seen on small lakes which are ruffled by a light breeze.

"Oh, guide, guide," she exclaimed, "what makes that funny streak in the water—No, there—Right over there!"

The guide was busy rebaiting the old gentleman's hook and merely mumbled "U-m-mm."

"Guide," repeated the old woman in tones that were not to be denied, "look right over where I'm pointing and tell me what makes that funny streak in the water."

The guide looked up from his baiting with a sigh.

"That? Oh, that's where the road went across the ice last winter."—Everybody's Magazine.

Work and Life.

I was much impressed by what the head of a large and prosperous bourgeois French family said to an American friend: "During the day we are all busy with our various avocations. The evenings are devoted to more serious things—reading, music, conversation, society." This is surely the normal point of view of a civilized man living in a civilized society.

In Italy, where social life, as in France, is taken somewhat more seriously than with us, it is usual for the women prominent in society to receive in the evening. One evening a week (sometimes two, in a few cases every evening) is set apart for receiving the friends and habitues of the house. In Rome, where society is more crystallized, where the social game is better played than in any community I know, one or two of the great houses are open to visitors on every evening of the week.—Maud Howe, in Harper's Bazar.

Causes of Blindness.

The dangers to which the modern eye is exposed fall into two great classes—disease and overuse from near work. Here another great consoling fact faces us, and that is that while overwork and consequent eye strain are by far the commonest troubles that befall the modern eye, discomfort and inefficiency are as far as they go in 99 cases out of 100. It is a fact that 99 9-10 per cent. of all blindness is due to disease and not to overwork.

More significant yet, seven-tenths of the diseases which produce blindness are the acute infections, against which civilization wages an unceasing and victorious conflict.—Woman's Home Companion.

Question of Precedence.

Recently a dispute was raised as to whether a certain lawyer or a certain doctor was to have precedence at a function at which both were to play prominent parts. It was impolitic to allow either of these two men to be offended. While the discussion was under way as to which was to be seated next the speaker, an old politician in the room, said the discussion was one which he thought he could settle by giving them the words of the great Diogenes who had said upon an ancient occasion: "Let the thief go before; let the executioner follow after." The politician said he thought that mean the lawyer should have first place and the doctor come next.

The Old English "Tumbler."

The old-fashioned English tumbler, which insisted on reverting to an erect position, no matter how frequently it was knocked over, possessed merits. This was the original form of drinking tumbler—hence the name. They were made of thin horn and weighted with a bulbous mass at the bottom. The idea of their use was a double one. The old drinking custom required that the ale should be drunk at a draft—for its presence in the tumbler would cause it to overbalance and spill its contents—and there was the advantage possessed by the tumbler of not rolling out of reach when knocked about during orgies.

Prohibition Convention

The prohibition party will hold a county convention and public rally in Thief River Falls on Monday, June 10, following arrangements made last Monday by Wm. C. Dean of Minneapolis, who was here under the direction of the state central committee.

The convention will be held at 2 p. m. in the auditorium. Delegates to the state convention to be held at Minneapolis July 4 and 5, will be selected, and the matter of county and legislative tickets will be considered. The convention will be addressed by Hon. E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria, representing the state central committee. Mr. Lobeck is talked of as the party's candidate for governor this year, and as he has many friends and admirers in this section his coming to Pennington county at this time may be considered significant.

Anomaly of the Sidewalk.

He stood before the Bowery Savings bank. His trousers ran to shreds below and the folds at the top end, where a string held them, proved that they had been made for an ampler girth. The dog had slept on his hat and perhaps brushed it in the gutter. He had worked his elbows shiny, his armpits ragged and gravy spots of diverse shades and sizes showed that whoever had eaten in that coat in other days had been too ravenous to mind slopping over. The barber and he were strangers and he looked through bleared eyes into vacancy as the busy sidewalk traffic trooped past him and thrifty depositors hurried in and out of the bank. In front of him he held a tray of [illegible] from which hung a placard [illegible]

Deer Seeks Mail Carrier's Protection.

A deer ran close to the mail wagon of Edward Cassidy when near the home of H. P. Bliss, in Sheffield, recently, and willingly gave itself into the custody of the mail carrier, who drove off the dogs.

The several dogs which followed close upon the trail of the frightened and almost exhausted deer had evidently followed their coveted prey many miles, for the deer, though nearly full grown and very fleet of foot, was almost ready to drop from sheer exhaustion when Uncle Sam's mail distributor happened along.

Since the law protecting deer from hunters at all seasons has been in effect they have been exceptionally numerous throughout southern Berkshire, and have frequently been seen in village streets, as well as with herds of cattle, but this is the first one that has been captured alone in the open.—Berkshire Courier.

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

ECONOMICAL SOUL WAS THIS

Hebrew's Attempt to Save Fare Probably Went Astray, but the Idea Was a Brilliant One.

Arthur W. Marks of Washington tells this story to illustrate the talent of the Hebrew race for economy.

A little Hebrew got on a train in New York to go to Philadelphia, but had no ticket. In the car with him were the members of several theatrical companies and he noticed that, when the conductor asked them for their tickets they would reply:

"Company."

"What company?" the conductor would ask; and the actors would reply by announcing the title of the theatrical company under whose name all their transportation had been paid for.

"Give me your ticket," the conductor finally reached the Hebrew.

"Comp'ny," said the little fellow, looking carelessly out of the window.

"What company?" asked the conductor.

Said the Hebrew: "The Pittsburgh Cloding company."—Popular Magazine.

THE SAFE LAXATIVE FOR ELDERLY PEOPLE

Most elderly people are more or less troubled with a chronic, persistent constipation, due largely to lack of sufficient exercise. They experience difficulty in digesting even light food, with a consequent belching of stomach gases, drowsiness after eating, headache and a feeling of lassitude and general discomfort.

Doctors advise against cathartics and violent purgatives of every kind, recommending a mild, gentle laxative tonic, like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, to effect relief without disturbing the entire system.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the perfect laxative, easy in action, certain in effect and, withal, pleasant to the taste. It possesses tonic properties that strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels and is a remedy that has been for years the great standby in thousands of families, and should be in every family medicine chest. It is equally as valuable for children as for older people.

Druggists everywhere sell Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried it send your name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and he will be very glad to send a sample bottle for trial.

Consoling Thought.

"Do you believe, doctor?" asked Mrs. Wumps, "that men become what they eat?"

"Yes, madam, I do," said the bishop.

"What a comfort that must have been to those early missionaries when they were eaten by the cannibals!" sighed Mrs. Wumps.—Harper's Weekly.

A star's job is a hard one. The mental strain is even greater than the physical. For what he undergoes the fabulous salaries are not fabulous.

Before going into details let us define a star—the ball player's definition:

"A star is any player who, through individual excellence, achieves a reputation for brilliant work, thus attracting fans to the park to see him play."

He is a star only so long as his performances stand out. He is paid the salary of a star as long as his reputation brings fans to the stands and money to the box office. The day that sees the waning of his sensationalism also sees the waning of his salary.—Edward Lyell Fox in Outing.

Since the Slugger, Coffee, Was Abandoned.

Coffee probably causes more biliousness and so-called malaria than any one other thing—even bad climate. (Tea is just as harmful as coffee because it contains caffeine, the drug in coffee).

A Ft. Worth man says:

"I have always been of a bilious temperament, subject to malaria and up to one year ago a perfect slave to coffee. At times I would be covered with boils and full of malarial poison, was very nervous and had swimming in the head.

"I don't know how it happened, but I finally became convinced that my sickness was due to the use of coffee, and a little less than a year ago I stopped coffee and began drinking Postum.

"From that time I have not had a boil, not had malaria at all, have gained 15 pounds good solid weight and know beyond all doubt this is due to the use of Postum in place of coffee, as I have taken no medicine at all.

"Postum has certainly made healthy, red blood for me in place of the blood that coffee drinking impoverished and made unhealthy." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Postum makes red blood.

Historic Blackguards

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

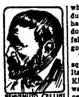
Benvenuto Cellini, Swashbuckler and Genius



BENVENUTO CELLINI

GENIUS and homicide; modest of his wondrous art and vain of his low vices; probable thief and certain liar; swashbuckler and musician-sculptor. Such in a nutshell is the character of one of history's strangest blackguards—Benvenuto Cellini.

Cellini was born at Florence, Italy, in 1500. His father, a maker of musical instruments, wanted his son to follow the same trade. Benvenuto would not do it, but became a goldworker and engraver. As a mere lad his exquisitely chased metal ornaments and sword hilts won him fame.

With his sword at his side, rare genius in his brain, and very little money in his pocket, young Cellini set out to bring a fortune from the world. He drifted from one Italian city to another, falling constantly into trouble, leading a grossly dissolute life, fighting as he went, and incidentally turning out miracles of artistic work.

He reached Rome at length, where his talent as an engraver attracted Pope Clement VII.'s attention. He also became one of the pope's court musicians and executed, in spare moments, some beautiful seals and medallions. When Rome was attacked by the Imperial army, Cellini fought bravely in the Eternal City's defense. According to his own unproved statement he slew, single handed, the prince of Orange and the constable de Bourbon during this siege. (There is no reason to believe this boast is not one of the countless like that strew Cellini's story of his own life.)

Back to Florence he went, the news of his Roman exploits winning him pardon and a welcome. There, he settled down and devoted himself to engraving and sculpture. It was during this period that he made his celebrated "Hercules," "Atlas Supporting the Earth" and "The Numidian Lion." He returned to Rome, after a time, where he promptly slew one man in a duel and wounded another. Scarcely had high influences secured his pardon for these offenses when Cellini fell into fresh difficulties by killing a goldsmith who chanced to offend him.

Then after a series of political squabbles he found it wise to leave Italy, and journeyed to the court of King Francis I. of France. There he was received into high favor, but proceeded to get into a rather unpleasant scrape which sent him back to Italy again. He went to Rome, and was arrested on a charge of having stolen precious jewels from the pope's tiara.

Cellini was condemned to death and was thrown into prison at the Castle of Saint Angelo. He managed to escape, but was soon caught and put back in his cell. The friendship of the powerful cardinal of Ferrara won a pardon for him, and he set forth again upon his wanderings.

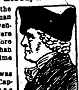
His quarrelsome nature and the rivalry of great men made Cellini's next few years miserable. Every man's hand seemed against him, though none denied his splendid genius. In fact, Cellini the Genius was forever saving Cellini the Blackguard from the punishment of his misdeeds.

He died, in his native city, December 15, 1569. Eleven years before his death, Cellini began to write his autobiography. This is one of the most delightful books of its sort in existence; not only for the picture it gives of a life of struggle and the era in which that struggle was waged, but because of its portrayal of Cellini's monstrous vanity, his total lack of truthfulness and his absence of conscience.

He writes with calm satisfaction about the killing of his victims, tells of his alleged power to raise demons before him at will and assures the reader that he himself was so utterly under divine protection that once or twice he awoke in the morning to find his head crowned by a glowing halo.

The man died. By the world at large his character and his misdeeds became half forgotten. But his work is immortal.

Colonel Blood, a "Dime Novel Hero" in Real Life



CAPTAIN BLOOD

THIS is the story of a man whose adventures were wilder and more dramatic than those of a dime novel hero.

The man was "Colonel" or "Captain" Thomas Blood, a soldier of fortune, born in Ireland about 1628. When parliament went to war against King Charles of England this young adventurer joined the Parliamentary army and won a reputation for reckless courage. After parliament had overthrown and beheaded the king and had put Oliver Cromwell in charge of England's government, Colonel Blood found himself without any occupation thrilling enough to satisfy him. But his time came soon after Charles II. (son of the beheaded monarch) mounted the British throne.

Blood then stirred up an insurrection in Ireland, planning to begin the rebellion with the capture of Dublin Castle and the seizing of the Duke of Ormond, lord-lieutenant of Ireland. It was a clever plot. But it failed. Blood escaped. Many of his friends and fellow-rebels were hanged. Blood vowed revenge upon the Duke of Ormond for these executions.

He fled to Holland, but soon ventured back to England. There he proceeded to work out his revenge. Ormond was driving home, on the night of December 6, 1670, through the dark London streets, when his carriage was surrounded by Blood and a party of unknown men. Ormond was seized, dragged from his coach and hustled off in the direction of Tyburn Hill (London's official place of execution and the spot where some of Blood's friends had been hanged).

Blood coolly informed the duke that they intended to hang him from the gibbet on which the conspirators had perished. The threat would have been carried out then and there had not a party of Ormond's followers ridden up in hot pursuit and rescued their struggling master.

Blood once more escaped unsuspected. His next plot was the most daring of all. Disguised as a clergyman and followed by one or two accomplices, he wandered into the Tower of London. From room to room he and his friends went, gazing in open mouthed wonder at the sights, as any party of simple country folk might have done. At length they came to the apartment where the crown and "orb" and scepter and other royal jewels of England were kept.

At a signal, Edwards, the guardian of the treasure, was attacked. He defended himself and was nearly murdered. Leaving Edwards bound on the floor, Blood snatched up the jeweled crown of England, hid it under his long clerical cloak and strolled peacefully out of the room. One of his followers stole the "orb" and followed him.

But the alarm had been raised. The thieves were chased and caught. Thus England was spared the unspeakable humiliation of losing its royal crown by a thief. Blood was thrown into jail. No one doubted that he would be put to death at once. People wondered what tortures would be inflicted on the man who had dared to lay unholy hands on the royal regalia.

But Blood's luck held good. He managed to get word to King Charles II. that if he were executed there were hundreds of friends who would avenge his death. He is also said to have been in the secret employ of the dissolute Duke of Buckingham, who was a favorite of the king and who hated the Duke of Ormond. It was even whispered that Buckingham had inspired Blood's attack on Ormond and that he perhaps counted on paying some of his own ducal gambling debts out of the sale of the stolen crown jewels.

In any case, instead of ordering Blood's immediate execution, Charles II. actually visited him in prison. No one knows just what took place during the interview or what royal scandals Blood threatened to expose if he were killed. To every one's surprise, Charles not only set Blood free, but placed him in high favor at court and granted him a pension of $2,500 a year.

For the next ten years Blood was a personage of importance in London. The thief and blackmailer waxed rich (while poor Edwards was refused even a petty reward for his plucky defense of the crown jewels.) At last, the lucky man went too far. He spread scandalous stories about his patron, Buckingham—probably by way of blackmail—and was arrested.

He was released on bail. In August, 1680, he died under somewhat suspicious circumstances while waiting to be tried.

Sterilizing With Light

Ultraviolet light has been employed to sterilize water on a large scale in France. The apparatus utilizes the copious emission of these short waves from a mercury vapor lamp having a quartz tube. More than three-quarters of the rays coming from the special lamp are utilized, and sterilization to the point of leaving one germ to the cubic centimeter is accomplished by causing the water to traverse a zigzag path close to the lamp, thereby exposing it to the repeated action of the waves.

The test showed that the process was highly efficient for municipal purposes. It is low in cost and simple in operation, occupies little space, uses a very small amount of electric current, and imparts no taste to the water, which remains fresh, since it retains its dissolved air and has not been heated in any way.

For municipal water service the apparatus may be applied to the outside of the ordinary main, the radiations being transmitted through quartz windows in the main.

Prussian Soldier and Mont Blanc.

A story of a Prussian lieutenant who stood at the foot of Mont Blanc and with a haughty eye contemplated the mighty mountain, delightfully illustrates the arrogance of the youngsters of the German army. "Donnerwetter!" he said, stroking the vestige of a mustache. "How ridiculously small a civilian must feel!"—Youth's Companion.

Relic of Cruel Rome.

One of the most impressive of all the old ruins in Rome is the great Coliseum. It was in this open air amphiteater that the cruel spectacles were witnessed—gladiators fought in mortal combat, Christians were made to fight starving lions and tigers. Death was inevitable. The Coliseum had a seating capacity of 87,000 persons.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

HEART NEEDS ESPECIAL CARE

Strain on the Vital Organ Must Be Avoided When Middle Life Has Been Passed.

"The death by heart failure of Gen. Frederick D. Grant," says the Medical Record, "emphasizes the repeated warnings of the medical profession that we should treat a senile heart with respect. As far as we know there is not the slightest disagreement on this one point—every human heart over fifty, and perhaps over forty-five, cannot stand much internal pressure without being ruined or at least damaged. A very slight man may go through severe muscular exertion with but little damage, but a heavy man, like the general, places on the heart and arteries a hydrostatic pressure beyond the safety point, and it never recovers.

"The pitiful feature of this deplorable death is the fact that Gen. Grant in his last annual report had called attention to the opinion of life insurance examiners that army officers were becoming poor risks on account of the increasing strain on their profession. It is safe to predict more deaths like Gen. Grant's, unless we treat the heart of a man over forty-five with more gentleness.

CUTICURA OINTMENT HEALED BAD SORE ON LIMB

"Some time ago I was coming up some steps when the board crushed under me like an egg shell, and my right limb went through to the knee, and scraped he flesh off the bone just inside and below the knee. I neglected it for a day or two, then it began to hurt me pretty badly. I put balsam fir on to draw out the poison, but when I had used it a week, it hurt so badly that I changed to ——— ointment. That made it smart and burn so badly that I couldn't use it any more, and that was the fourth week after I was hurt.

"Then I began to use Cuticura Ointment for the sore. It stopped hurting immediately and began healing right away. It was a bad-looking sore before Cuticura Ointment healed it, and I suffered so I couldn't sleep from two days after I fell until I began using Cuticura Ointment.

"Cuticura Soap is the best soap I ever saw. I have used all kinds of soap for washing my face, and always it would leave my face smarting. I had to keep a lotion to stop the smart, no matter how expensive a soap I used. I find at last in Cuticura Soap a soap that will clean my face and leave no smarting, and I do not have to use any lotion or anything else to ease it. I believe Cuticura Soap is the best soap made." (Signed) Mrs. M. E. Fairchild, 805 Lafayette St., Wichita, Kan., May 8, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Joke on the Doctor.

The physicians in Mankato had agreed that during their Chautauqua assembly they would employ a call boy, and each was to pay his share of the expense. This boy was to call any doctor who was wanted, without disturbing the speaker, as it was embarrassing to him and looked as if they were doing it to advertise without expense. So it all went well until the afternoon when Strickland W. Gilliland spoke. As he was talking away a certain doctor had a call from the platform, and he walked out rather ostentatiously. Some of the people who knew of the arrangement laughed or snickered, and the speaker got it. He said: "Don't laugh, folks. That is the way my brother got his start." And everybody roared.

And Then All Symptoms of Kidney Trouble Vanished.

C. J. Hammonds, 1115 E. First St., Fort Scott, Kans., says: "I was operated on for stone in the kidney but not cured and some time after, was feeling so bad, I knew there must be another stone that would have to be cut out. I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and the kidney action improved right away. Large quantities of sediment and stone particles passed from me and finally the stone itself, partly dissolved, but still as big as a pea. With it disappeared all symptoms of dizziness, rheumatism and headache. I have gained about 50 pounds since and feel well and hearty."

ST. HILAIRE SPECTATOR

MINNESOTA HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

VOLUME XXXI. ST. HILAIRE, MINNESOTA, SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1912. NUMBER 49.

DOINGS OF THE SOLONS

Minnesota Legislative Affairs of the Past Week—Law Makers Hard at Work.

St. Paul, June 10.—The Rhines-Warner gross earnings bill was passed by the lower house of the legislature by a vote of 101 to 5.

The bill provides for the submission to the people of a constitutional amendment which would raise the rate of the railroad gross earnings tax from 4 to 5 per cent, make the tax payable semi-annually instead of annually and impose a tax on the income of railroads from investments as well as from operation, which would increase the revenue from this source by $1,000,000 a year.

John G. Lennon attacked the constitutionality of the bill and raised the point that by taxing the earnings on the investments of railway companies a double tax would be imposed which might invalidate the entire law. He argued that it would not be an equitable tax, pointing out that the three railroads whose home offices were in this state would be affected by the tax and that all other railroads doing business in Minnesota whose home offices were in a foreign state would not be affected by the law.

"It is not an equitable tax and might be declared unconstitutional," argued Mr. Lennon. "Let us have the opinion of the attorney general."

Speaker Dunn and Representatives C. H. Warner, Henry Rines, L. C. Spooner, Thomas Kneeland conferred with Assistant Attorney General James and Edward T. Young, former attorney general, who is in charge of the Minnesota rate cases. Both attorneys gave an opinion that the bill was valid in the form that it was introduced, and that the state had a right to tax railroads on the income from general sources as well as on the income from operation only. Mr. Young held that the only question that could be raised was the reasonableness of the amount of gross earnings tax rate levied.

These opinions seemed to settle the dispute. Lennon then raised the point that the legislature at its last session had passed the same bill, without imposing the increase in the tax rate. He declared that Attorney General Smith had given the opinion that the legislature did not have the right to repeal that law, under the provision of the constitution that any constitutional amendment proposed by the legislature "shall be submitted to the people.' Under the ruling of the attorney general both measures would need to be submitted at the next general election. The amendment adopted at the 1911 session provided that railways be taxed on their earnings from both operation and general sources and that the rate of tax be four per cent. The law passed by the house is identical, only it provides for a five per cent tax. The question was raised that if both amendments had to be submitted and both were adopted, which would prevail, the four or five per cent rate? The attorney general has not given a written opinion on this question.

Members who opposed the bill on the grounds that it was unconstitutional voted for the final roll call. Only R. J. Clark, T. J. Green, S. N. Lee, J. J. Hurley and C. E. Stone voted in the negative. Represenatives Green and Clark explained that their constituency was made up mainly of railway employes who had asked them to vote against the bill.

St. Paul, June 11.—Breaking of the senate "stand pat" slate which was organized at the opening of the special legislative session to shut out all legislation except a state wide primary law and a corrupt practices act, the senate passage of a resolution ratifying the constitutional amendment for the election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people, and the introduction in the house of the Old Congdon re-apportionment bill were the features of an all day session.

The resolution providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people carried unanimously. Another proposed constitutional amendment for a federal income tax received the unanimous support of the senate reception committee.

Other developments of the day were the introduction of a bill by A. V. Anderson providing that the state be re-apportioned on the basis of the number of registered votes instead of general population, the passage of a resolution inviting William Jennings Bryan to address the legislature, further consideration of the controversy of the Modern Woodmen of America, hearing of an address by J. E. McConnell of the Wisconsin legislature on the first and second choice provisions of the state wide primary law and the introduction of a senate resolution memorializing congress to repeal the Canadian reciprocity pact.

The house committees on elections and general legislation put in a busy day attempting to perfect bills up for consideration.

W. A. Campbell succeeded in getting the committee approval of his amendment to the state automobile law, cutting out the provision which required the carrying of lights on horse drawn vehicles.

Frank M. Anderson of the University of Minnesota has asked the legislature to include a provision in the proposed state wide primary law, changing the method of elections of district court judges in Minneapolis. Under the present law, when the terms of two or more judges expire all candidates run at large. Prof. Anderson would designate each office—as Judge No. 1, judge No. 2 and so on.

The senate committee for the reception of bills held its first meeting and recommended for passage the resolution providing for a constitutional amendment allowing the income tax. The resolution has already been passed by the house. Senator Putnam, one of the committee members, said he was opposed to the principle of an income tax, but would vote to have the measure sent to the floor of the senate for consideration. Senators Rockne, Cashman and Boyle, members of the committee, were absent and such action as was taken will be subject to their approval later.

St. Paul, June 12.—Governor Eberhart notified the senate that he was awake and very much on the job. The information came in the form of a message submitted to the upper body. The message was an answer to the request made by the senate last week that the governor submit his recess appointments. The governor comes back with the suggestion the senators would be better engaged in performing the work for which they were called in special session.

The state wide, second choice primary election bill, written by Senator Julius Haycraft and introduced in the senate as an elections committee measure, was passed by a vote of 61 to 1. The bill is a copy of the Wisconsin law with some modifications to suit Minnesota conditions. It contains the elimination feature and is otherwise trimmed.

Senator Dwinnell secured an amendment so the congressman, city and county officials are eliminated from the second choice provision in Minneapolis, thus allowing the use of voting machines for these officers. The regular ballots will be used for state officers. At the request of Senator Dunn the amendment was made to include St. Paul where he said voting machines would soon be in use.

Senator Sageng offered the first amendment, which carried, by which all judges, county superintendents of schools and municipal officers in cities of the first class are to be elected on a separate non-partisan ballot. The latter provision includes the Minneapolis officials. Another amendment, adopted, eliminated the St. Paul officials from the provision of the bill because of the commission form of government decided upon there at the recent city election.

A minor amendment by Senator Haycraft changed the punctuation of the bill in a few places and made provision for ballots to be on the continuous sheet the same as under present election laws. Senator Haycraft then offered a second amendment which was debated for nearly an hour. It was found that the second choice cannot be used in cases where officials are grouped and in some instances where elected at large. Officers effected in this way are supreme court judges, some representatives and district court judges. In order to obviate the difficulty the Haycraft amendment provided that the candidates be required to file in classes.

Senator L. O. Cooke voted alone against the bill on final passage. In explaining his vote he said he thought the second choice feature was ridiculous and that the whole bill would result in the playing of a lot of politics. Senator Handlan was absent. The remaining senators voted for the bill.

Members of the house representatives, who for several days were practically unanimous in their support of the O'Neil bill prohibiting the Modern Woodmen of America from raising its insurance rates in Minnesota without the consent of a majority of its members, have become divided in their positions on the measure, and its passage has become an uncertainty.

A provision in the proposed statewide primary law providing for a non-partisan nomination and election of all officers in the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth and of all judges through the state was adopted by the senate. A similar amendment will be offered in the house by the Hennepin county delegation.

To Review Minnesota Case.

Washington, D. C.—The supreme court of the United States has announced that it will review the question raised in Minnesota federal courts as to whether the vow of a Catholic monk to transfer all his property to his religious order was void as aginst public policy. The lower court had held it was void and that property in the man's possession at his death went to his relatives and not to the order of Saint Benedict of which he was a member.

Flight of Dirigible a Success.

Freidrichshafen, Germany.—The dirigible balloon Zeppelin III, returned here from Hamburg the time occupied in actual flight, going and coming, being 42 hours.

Coal Trust Inquiry Asked.

Washington, D. C. — "An anthracite coal trust" investigation was recommended to the house by the interstate commerce committee, which favorably reported the resolution of Representative Diefenderfer (dem., Pa.)

CANGRESSIONAL REAPPORTIONMENT

LUNDEEN OF MINNEAPOLIS WOULD PROVIDE FOR TEN DISTRICTS.

COMMITTEE HITS RECALL

Changes in Legislators Districts Are Denied By Committee.—Princeton to Have An Armory Building.

St. Paul, June 13.—Representative Lundeen of Minneapolis introduced a bill in the house of the Minnesota legislature providing for 10 congressional districts in Minnesota, an increase of one. The proposed congressional reapportionment would place Minneapolis in two congressional districts. The proposed reapportionment follows:

First District — Dodge, Fillmore, Freeborn, Houston, Mower, Olmsted, Wabasha, Waseca and Winona counties.

Second—Blue Earth, Brown, Cottonwood, Faribault, Jackson, Martin Murray, Nobles, Pipestone, Rock, Watonwan, Lyon and Lincoln.

Third—Carver, Dakota, Goodhue, Le Sueur, McLeod, Nicollet, Rice, Scott, Sibley and Washington.

Fourth—Ramsey.

Fifth—First, second, third, Fourth, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Thirteenth wards of Minneapolis and town of St. Anthony.

Sixth—Sixth, Seventh, Eleventh and Twelfth wards of Minneapolis and the remaining township of Hennepin county and the counties of Wright, Anoka, Sherburne, Isanti, Kanabec, Mille Lacs and Chisago.

Seventh — Big Stone, Chippewa, Grant, Kandiyohi, Lac Qui Parle, Redwood, Renville, Stevens, Swift, Traverse, Douglass, Pope and Meeker counties.

Eighth—St. Louis, Lake, Cook, Carlton, Aitkin and Pine.

Ninth — Beltrami, Hubbard, Cass, Itasca, Koochiching, Crow Wing, Wadena, Todd, Morrison, Stearns and Benton.

Tenth — Becker, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Marshall, Norman, Otter Tail, Polk, Red Lake, Pennington, Roseau and Wilkins counties.

The house elections committee engaged in a lively debate over the merits of the recall of the judiciary in the Lundeen recall bill and finally by a vote of 12 to 10 decided to strike it out. The bill was then recommended for passage.

The bill as adopted provides for an amendment to the constitution allowing the recall of any officer if a petition signed by a maximum of 33 1-3 per cent of the voters who voted for the office be filed. In this shape the proposed amendment would allow the legislature to fix the actual per cent necessary.

The Lundeen congressional reapportionment bill was ordered returned to the house with the recommendation that it be referred to the reapportionment committee.

The house sub-committee on re-apportionment sat in judgment to listen to the requests of legislators for changes from the old Congdon bill in their own legislative districts, which would satisfy them sufficiently to draw their vote for the measure when it comes up for final passage in the house.

Practically every request for changes in districts was denied. G. W. Brown succeeded in having Sibley county joined with Scott to make one senatorial district and McLeod county joined with Carver for another. Under the old Congdon bill Carver and Scott counties were joined. He argued that under the new arrangement, railroad facilities through the new senatorial districts would be bettered.

Fillmore county was given two representatives and Houston one. Under the old Congdon bill, three representatives at large were allowed the two counties.

R. C. Dunn succeeded in persuading the house to suspend its rules and pass a bill authorizing cities of the third and fourth class to appropriate money to assist in the building of national guard armories. The bill is a local one, intended to allow the village of Princeton, the home of Mr. Dunn, to build an armory.

The Knapp state-wide primary law was recommended for passage by the elections committee. The house agreed to wait until the bill was printed before setting a time for its final passage.

W. A. Campbell offered an amendment to the state child labor law forbidding children under 14 years from participating in any professional theatrical production without the written consent of the mayor. It was referred to the committee on general legislation.

J. J. Moriarity of Belle Plaine objected to the introduction of any bills outside of the original house program. He said that if the house continued its present program the legislature would be in session all summer.

Representative Burnquist introduced a bill authorizing the city of St. Paul to issue $600,000 worth of bonds to build a public library. The rules were suspended and the bills passed by a unanimous vote.

In the senate the house bill appropriating $35,000 for the expenses of the extra session was amended on motion of Senator Clague and reduced to $25,000. In this form the measure was passed under suspension of the rules and sent back to the house for concurrence.

GOV. WILSON GETS MINNESOTA

LYNCH INDORSED FOR NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN.

Effort to Stampede Duluth Convention for Bryan Is Failure.

Duluth. — The Minnesota Democrats elected a delegation to the Democratic convention at Baltimore, instructed for Woodrow Wilson, and indorsed Frederick B. Lynch of St. Paul for national committeeman.

Former Mayor Daniel W. Lawler, opposed to Lynch, and a candidate for United States senator, succeeded in preventing the indorsement of any other candidate for the senate.

An effort to stampede the convention for the Nebraskan met with the opposition of the men closest to Bryan, and did not receive the support of delegates.

The following delegates to the Baltimore convention were selected:

Delegates-at-Large.

S. A. Stockwell, Minneapolis.
W. F. Weis, Le Sueur.
T. J. Knox, Jackson.
H. L. Buck, Winona.
A. C. Weiss, Duluth.
Con O'Brien, Brainerd.

Alternates—M. A. Tisdale, Pipestone; Harry S. Swenson, Minneapolis; John Dwan, Two Harbors; John Morgan, Thief River Falls; T. A. Tuller, Warren; A. A. Poehler, Henderson.

District Delegates and Alternates.

First District—J. D. E. Mieghen, Albert Lea; T. E. Cashman, Owatonna.

Alternates—Julius Reiter, Rochester; W. W. Belden, Caledonia.

Second District—L. L. Champlin, Mankato; S. B. Nelson, Luverne.

Alternates—T. S. Ferris, Fairmont; D. J. Stone, Pipestone.

Third District—P. H. O'Keefe, South St. Paul; H. S. Bonniwell, Hutchinson.

Alternates — W. S. Weiss, Red Wing; Martin Shields, Faribault.

Fourth District—Otto Bremer, St. Paul; R. T. O'Connor, St. Paul.

Alternates — Paul Doty, St. Paul; William Smithson, Stillwater.

Fifth District—E. Purdy, Minneapolis; J. F. Williamson, Minneapolis.

Alternates—Otto Hadlen, Minneapolis; E. S. Corser, Minneapolis.

Eighth District—Alfred Jaques, Duluth; C. M. King, Deer River.

Alternates—J. J. Shahen, Mille Lacs; W. V. Kane, Koochiching.

Ninth District — Martin O'Brien, Crookston; M. J. Daly, Perham.

Alternates—P. J. Russell, Bemidji; G. C. Thorpe, Ada.

COLDWATER AUTO TOUR

Prohibition Party Begins Five Months Cross-Country Campaign.

Minneapolis.—The prohibition party in Minnesota launched its active campaign by sending out its campaign automobile on what is designed to be the longest automobile political tour ever undertaken. The trip will last five months and a day and will include nearly all the principal towns of the state and hundreds of small communities.

W. G. Calderwood, chairman of the prohibition state committee, prophesied a good year for the party. "Because," he said, "there has never been a time when the general public has been so stirred on the liquor question as it is today, and the brewers are being called to account for their hand in the politics of the state."

The automobile carried the spellbinders of the party, who for the present are W. G, Calderwood, Stanley B. Roberts and J. H. Morse, to Afton, Lakeland, South Stillwater, Stillwater, Marine Mills, Scandia and Forest Lake. Later, Wyoming, Chisago City, Lindstrom, Center City, Stacy, North Branch, Harris and Rush City will be visited.

SONS OF THOR MEET.

Festival of Song and Music in Program of "Sognagalet."

Owatonna.—Many were here to attend the Norwegian "Sognagalet," the convention of the Sons of Thor of five states, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa and Wisconsin. Ample accommodation had been made for all guests.

A brilliant festival of song and music is conducted during the sessions of the "Sognagalet," and Scandinavian musicians of national reputation always are present. Local arrangements were in charge of O. E. Williamson, secretary of the association. All halls in the city were used by the convention.

GOOD TEMPLARS TO MEET

Grand Lodge of Minnesota to Hold Session in St. Paul.

St. Paul.—The national grand lodge of the International Order of Good Templars of the United States, of America will meet in the old capitol, St. Paul, the last week in July. The headquarters for the convention will be at the old capitol, with delegates and visitors located at nearby homes of the Twin Cities. Details are being [illegible]

TO BRING LAND SUITS

Cases Against Purchasers of Indian Allotments.

Minneapolis.—According to M. C. Burch, special attorney for department of justice the government will enter more than 500 more suits against owners of former Indian lands purchased under the provisions of the Clapp act. Mr. Burch at the West hotel said that agents of the Indian bureau had reported the sale by full-blooded Indians of more than 1,800 allotments of land. Suit has already been brought against approximately 1,200 owners of these lands.

Mr. Burch has been in Minneapolis for two weeks to prepare the government's side of the cases. He said the first of the 1,200 suits would be heard in the district court at Fergus Falls within two or three weeks, and that they probably would reach the circuit court of appeals sometime this autumn.

In all the suits, the government claims that the land was not sold by mixed-blooded Indians as provided in the Clapp act. The present owners of the land, Mr. Burch said, must prove that the Indian owners were not full-blooded as contended by the government.

MANY VIST FARM TRAIN

More Than 10,000 Persons See Agricultural Demonstration in 33 Towns.

St. Paul.—More than 10,000 persons visited the agricultural special, run by the Northern Pacific and Minnesota and International railroads in co-operation with the Minnesota agricultural college, which ended its ten days' tour of Northern Minnesota last week. The train left Duluth May 27 and visited thirty-three towns, with an average attendance of more than 275. The train was made up of one devoted to livestock demonstrations, one of poultry and marketing of farm products, and one of farm machinery and feeds. Besides these, there were a baggage car, three sleeping cars and a dining car. Lectures were given by Professor Thomas Shaw of the Minnesota agricultural college and Professor D. E. Willard, formerly of the North Dakota Agricultural college. According to those interested in the project, it proved a greater success than was expected. The trip ended at International Falls, Thursday.

IT'S WINDOM COLLEGE

Institution at Montevideo Takes New Name and Elects Trustees.

Montevideo.—At the annual meeting of the trustees of Windom institute, held here, the name of the school was changed to Windom college, with a view to continue preparatory academic work as heretofore and to begin instruction in college branches to such an extent only as means and equipment will warrant. The following trustees were elected: Dr. J. H. Morley, Turners Falls, Mass.; Frank E. Holtan, H. N. Leighton, Judge Cray and C. L. Sawyer, of Minneapolis; L. R. Moyer and E. H. Crandall, of Montevideo, and W. B. Gerry, St. Paul. The school graduated a class of eleven Wednesday evening. The address was made by Dr. J. H. Morley of Turners Falls, Mass. Professor R. E. Nichol, who has been at the head of the school for two years, has resigned and Calvin E. Buswell of Minneapolis has been elected to fill the office.

THIEF IS IDENTIFIED

Youth Under Arrest is Escaped Inmate of New Jersey Reformatory.

New Ulm.—It develops that William McDowell, the young man who it is alleged stole a Knight Templar sword from a man at St. Peter, a $35 cornet from a Mankato student and went through five rooms in his boarding house and took goods to the value of $250, is an escaped inmate of the New Jersey state reformatory. County Attorney Erickson has received a letter from Dr. Frank Moore, Rahway, N. J., saying he is willing to let the law take its course in Minnesota and to secure McDowell's return after he has served his sentence. McDowell was arraigned and bound over to the grand jury. It is thought he will ask permission to plead guilty and receive his sentence before court convenes.

ST. OLAF GRADUATES 42

Thirty-nine Receive Bachelor of Arts Degree From College.

Northfield. — Thirty-eight annual commencement exercises at St. Olaf college closed with the graduation of a class of forty-two. Thirty-nine received the degree of bachelor of arts and three received diplomas from the college of music. Rev. Gustav Stearns of Milwaukee, Wis., delivered the commencement address. Junior scholarships of $60 each were won by Edward Wicklund, Lewis Larson, Albert Mykland and Ragna Opjorden. Marie Tangjerd, a freshman, won the prize for excellence in Norwegian.

Commencement exercises consisted of a baccalaureate address by the Rev. O. C. Farseth of Fargo, a band concert and the Luther league address by the Rev. A. J. D. Haupt of Albert Lea.

TEDDY AWARDED ONE

ONE KENTUCKY DISTRICT SPLIT, OTHER DELEGATE GOING TO TAFT.

TAFT TOTAL NOW 101.

Seventeen for President Is Net Result of Day's Hearings—Heney and Borah For Colonel.

Chicago, June 12.—One delegate for Colonel Roosevelt, the first awarded him since the national committee began hearing contest cases last Friday and seveteen for President Taft was the net result of the fifth session of the Republican national committee. In all 101 delegates have been accorded President Taft since the commitee opened its hearings.

The one placed in the Roosevelt column was D. C. Edwards from the Eleventh district of Kentucky. The Taft forces on the committee refused by a vote of 33 to 19 to seat both of the Roosevelt delegates whose places were contested, but agreed to a split which gave Colonel Roosevelt and President Taft each one delegate from the district.

The half-victory for Colonel Roosevelt came at the end of a day in which all of the other much-discussed contests from Kentucky had been decided in President Taft's favor. In some of these the Roosevelt men had acquiesced, in other they had mustered a vote of from 11 to 17 against the Taft decisions.

Senator Borah the most active Roosevelt figure on the committee, protested against the spliting of the Eleventh district delegation.

President Taft's four contested delegates at large from Kentucky, headed by Senator W. O. Bradley, were seated with only 11 votes in the negative. He was given the six from the First, Second, and Tenth districts unanimously.

The contest against the two in the Fourth District was withdrawn and the five from Seventh, Eighth and Eleventh districts were won against the votes of the Roosevelt forces.

Sharp interchanges between Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, and Taft members of the committee, characterized the long day's session over the Kentucky contests. Mr. Heney, who will appear in the hearing of the California contests, repeatedly referred to frauds in Kentucky elections and compared conditions to those that existed in California under Abe Ruef.

Early objections to his remarks were followed late in the afternoon by sarcastic replies of "thanks" from Taft members of the committee when he criticized their decision. Governor Hadley of Missouri, who is to come before the committee this week as a Roosevelt contestant from Missouri, was also in the committee during the day on the proxy of another member.

Democrats Plan For Battle.

Baltimore.—Plans are being formulated by members of the Democratic national committee, it was learned here to create a new office to be known as chairman of the campaign committee. This new officer, who will work with the national chairman, may or may not be a member of the national committee and his selection will be made by the presidential candidates after a conference with the new national committee members. The national chairman will continue in general charge of the campaign.

Child Loses Life in Shaft.

St. Paul, Minnesota. — Gail Walker, two-year-old daughter of George B. Walker, right-of-way agent for the Northern Pacific railroad, fell two and one-half stories to instant death from an elevator cab in a St. Paul department store.

THE MARKETS.

Twin City Markets.

Minneapolis, June 12.—Wheat—July, $1.12¼; September, $1.04⅞; No. 1 northern, $1.14⅝; No. 2 northern, $1.12⅝; No. 1 durum, $1.10. Corn—No. 3, 73c. Oats—No. 3 white, 50½c. Barley—Malting, $1.12. Rye—No. 2, 88½c. Flax—No. 1, $2.27.

Duluth, June 12.—Wheat—July, $1.13⅝; September, $1.06⅝; No. 1 northern, $1.14⅝; No. 1 durum, $1.12¼.

South St. Paul, June 12.—Cattle—Steers, $7.00@7.25; cows, $4.25@6.50; calves, $7.75@7.35. calves, $7.75@7.35. Hogs—$7.25@7.50. Sheep and Lambs—$2.50@8.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

Chicago, June 12.—Wheat prices rushed upward today as a result of the bullish nature of the government crop report. There was considerable selling on the advance. Rain in Nebraska and the northwest tended in some degree to offset the decrease in the Washington estimate of the season's yield of winter wheat. Opening quotations were 1½c to 2@2½c higher. September started at $1.06⅝@1.07¼, a gain of 1½@1½c to 2@2½c, and reacted to $1.06⅝@1.06¼.

Rumors that much corn in elevators here had become out of condition led to an upturn, but the effect wore off. Closing prices were weak at 73⅝c for July, a loss of ½@¾c net.

Offerings of oats turned out to be less than expected, in view of the government report making the probable crop 12,000,000 bushels in excess of previous ideas. July started ¼@⅜c off to 1-16c advance, at 51¼@51½c, and held fairly well within those limits.

Vogue in Outer Garments.

According to the Dry Goods Economist, at the present time retailers are featuring wraps of charmeuse and satin. The best sellers are the medium-priced numbers retailing from $10 to $30. These are usually attractively lined in some bright color, giving a pleasing contrast. Lace collars and cuffs are often used as a finishing touch and are very effective, while white lace is used largely for this purpose. Some garments are shown trimmed with black lace, which is cut away to show the lining underneath.

Slow Travel.

Down in Oklahoma they have a railroad called the Midland Valley, which is noted for its slow trains. It is told that a young man of Tulsa asked the hand of a daughter from her parents and was refused on the ground that the daughter was too young.

"My daughter is going to Pawhuska tomorrow for a visit," said the father, who is a traveling man, "and if she doesn't remain more than a day or two she will be old enough when she gets back."

"But she may be an old maid by that time," protested the young man.—Kansas City Star.

He was picked up by the strong hands of the conductor and about twenty passengers.

"Collision?" he asked in a dignified tone of voice.

If Taft is not nominated it will not be the fault of the national republican committee.

The state-wide primary with second chance provision passed the senate Wednesday and is now before the house.

Wall street is offering odds that Taft will not be the country's next president. But Wall street is not betting a cent that any other republican will have the honor.—Kansas City Journal.

The Northern Minnesota Development association will meet at International Falls June 20, and 21. This will be a most important meeting. A just reapportionment will be the principal subject of discussion.

A successful raiser of potatoes in St. Louis county claims that a flax seed dropped into each hill of potatoes is an effective protection against potato bugs. A field treated in that manner last season was entirely free from the pest, while adjacent fields swarmed with them.

It is now easier than ever to acquire a homestead. The new law passed last week, and hereafter only three years residence is required, with the cultivation of ten acres the second year and twenty acres the third. Five months absence from the claim is allowed each year.

A trip out in the country in any direction from town, convinces any thinking man of the crying need of reform in our system of road maintenance. From the lack of a small expenditure of split-log drag work grades are becoming hollowed out on top and cut up in ruts and chuckholes.—Middle River Pioneer.

Same here.

Based on reports from correspondents in various counties of the state H. J. Maxfield, state immigration commissioner, estimates that between 3,000 and 5,000 new settlers have come to the state this spring. This represents a good growth for Minnesota as a whole. The settlers are of a better class financially than those who have come in other years according to the report. This means that the state will be developed still more rapidly. Most of them have settled on farms and their coming has boosted the average price of state land. Real estate men in various parts of the state report renewed interest in lands and at better prices.

The southern delegates scandal is a disgrace to the party which was "dedicated to freedom." It represents the very abrogation of freedom and, if it is to be given sanction either by the continued employment of the delegate power or by silence, the organization can no longer boast it is the party of liberty, "not profession, but of performance." The national republican convention should go on record this year as pledged to a reform of the system of choosing delegates—pledged to make all conventions in the future representative of the voters of the party and not of the postmasters, collectors of internal revenue and federal judges of the party.

The Primaries

A first and second choice and even a third choice provision in the primary law now under consideration is due to be fought out with vigor by the members of the legislature and there is no telling what will be the outcome, but the general feeling is that something along this line will be incorporated. Those candidates now outside the pale of the administration are demanding it and are starting a campaign for its adoption. Governor Eberhart and his followers are credited with opposing this first and second choice feature, but State Insurance Commissioner Preus, who is as close as anyone to his excellency, says this is not so. He holds that Governor Eberhart would be benefited and bases his belief on talks had with officials in other states where such a law is in force. He holds that the man in office has the best of it under a first and second choice provision. [illegible]

Births and Deaths Not Being Reported

The state board of health has had an agent investigating the condition of the registration of births and deaths in the southern part of the state. To date the work has been completed in Fillmore and Dodge counties.

In both of these counties it was found that a great number of births and some deaths were not being reported as the law requires. The result of this investigation was that a complaint was filed against nine physicians in Fillmore county. In Dodge county four physicians and two parents plead guilty to having failed to make the reports of births as required by law and were assessed one dollar and costs each. At the same time a complaint was filed against a sexton for having permitted the burial of a body without a burial permit. The punishment in this case was a little more than that of the physicians and parents, as the penalty for the physician and parent make it a misdemeanor, while in the case of the sexton there was a special penalty which made the minimum fine twenty dollars. In both counties all of them have pleaded guilty.

This is only the beginning of a campaign which will cover the entire state. The special agent of the state board of health will leave for the northern section of the state and will no doubt file complaints against every violator of the law.

Dr. H. M. Bracken, secretary and executive officer of the state board of health, says that the general impression seems to be that these records are required merely for the purpose of compiling statistics. While it is true that they are used for this purpose, yet, the most important part is these are permanent records and will often be required in future years, for the purpose of establishing school age, age of consent, the age for practice in various professions, for voting, for jury service, as well as identifying the individual for the purpose of securing inheritance. The board is now enforcing this law so that the records may be complete, having for the first time in its history been able to secure a special agent to personally follow up these cases.

Yes, The Merchant Has a Snap

"Yes," remarked the country merchant to the newspaper man, "I certainly have a snap. The wholesale houses send me duns every month and draw on me at sight; but if I send a bill to a farmer he comes in swearing mad and quits trading at my store. While I am hard up for money, many of those who owe me are sending cash in advance to the mail order houses. If I contribute money to any cause, people say I am bidding for trade; if I don't, they say I am a hog. Every day I am expected to dig up for everything that comes along from a raffle ticket to a church fund, by the people who say I ought to because they do their trading here; but my friend, Sheers and Chawbuck, neither buy tickets nor help the church funds, and yet get cash in advance business, and if I were to circulate a subscription paper among the wholesale houses I trade with I would get the laugh proper. If I sell a pair of pants I must treat the family to candy and cigars; if I buy a load of potatoes I must do the same. Customers who are able to pay, hang on to their money, while I pay 8 per cent at the bank to get ready cash. I have a big business during hard times and poor crops, from people who are willing to trade with me providing I duplicate catalogue prices and wait until after harvest for my money.

"My scales weigh too heavy when I sell sugar and too light when I buy butter. I am a thief, a liar and a grafter. If I smile, I am a soft-soapy hypocrite; if I don't smile, I am a grump.

"Yes, this is certainly a snap."

And then he looked over $10,000 worth of book accounts, all good, and wondered how he could raise $350 to meet a sight draft tomorrow.—Thief River Falls Times.

Examination for Chauffeurs

There will be an examination for licenses for chauffeurs at the following places, and on the following dates: Warren, Tuesday, June 18, at 9 a. m; Barnesville, Wednesday, June 19, at 10 a. m; Paynesville, Thursday, June 20, at 10 a. m; St. Paul, Wednesday June 26, at 10 a. m.

No more examinations will be held in this section of the state, after the the above dates, this year. If you propose being a licensed chauffeur be present at one of these places and take the examination, which will be in charge of the state automobile board.

Rural School Notes

Program for school officers convention to be held in the court room at the court house in Thief River Falls on Saturday, June 22, at 11 o'clock a. m.

1 Opening remarks by E. A. Mostue, county superintendent of schools. Organization.

2 "Some Needed Improvements," Supt. J. A. Hay.

Noon recess.

3 "What Advanced Steps along Sanitary and Hygienic Lines should be Taken to Increase the Efficiency of Our Schools," Dr. F. W. Hill, state board of health.

4 "The School Board as a Factor in Building up Our Rural Schools," Supt. C. G. Selvig, school of agriculture, Crookston, Minn.

5 Address, Hon. C. G. Schultz.

Closing remarks, E. A. Mostue.

School officers are paid by their respective districts for one day and for mileage in going to and returning from the meeting. Let us have a full attendance and thus make this meeting the largest and most interesting one ever held in the county.

Program and announcements have been sent out the past week to teachers in this and adjoining counties relative to the training school that is to covene here on June 24, and to continue for five weeks.

Let me again urge upon our teachers to plan for a complete attendence upon this school. It is essential to the success of the school as well as for the individual teacher in her work to be present at roll call on the first day. This applies equally as well to the high school graduates intending to teach this year. The state department makes this obligatory and we have no recourse.

We have all reasons to believe that we will have a most successful training school. Thief River Falls will exert itself to the utmost for the entertainment of teachers, and we hope for the best in all lines.

Respectively submitted,
E. A. MOSTUE.

Animals Left Unburied

Every person who shall deposit, leave or keep, on or near a highway or route of public travel, on land or water, any noisome or unwholesome substance, shall be guilty of a gross misdemeanor and be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, or imprisonment in the county jail for not less than three nor more than six months.—Sec. 5007, Revised Laws of Minnesota.

WORRIED THE YOUNG MOTHER

Lack of "Progress" Might Have Proved a Serious Thing.

"When people in our part of the country select a family physician they stick to him," says an Illinois physician. "If he goes away they won't call in some one else if they can possibly help it. They have faith in nobody but their own man, so long as he manages to be fairly successful. Last spring I went up to Chicago for a few days, much to the distress of a young mother in our town, who expects me to inspect her only baby every other day at least. The second day of my stay she telegraphed me to come home at once. Baby was sick—she told me the trouble—she didn't know what to do. It wasn't an urgent case, I knew, so I wired back a reassuring message, told her to give the baby a dose of some medicine she had at hand, and to fill out the ten words I put in 'Prognosis admirable.' I always like to use large words when I'm telegraphing—makes me feel that I'm getting the worth of my money, you know. When I got home two days later I went to see the baby.

"'She's all right now,' the mother told me, 'but we were awfully worried. We had to rely on the medicine you left, though. The boy at the drug store didn't have a bit of prognosis in the place.'"

The Useful Hen.

"Country constables who make a living arresting speeding automobiles wouldn't have half so much trouble stopping the scorchers if they used a little ingenuity," says one of the offenders. "Chains across the road and moving vans blocking the highway are all right to accomplish the purpose, but they're cumbersome. My idea for causing a prompt slow-up is to scatter a lot of grain in a road and turn a lot of hens loose. They would block the road all right, and if there's one thing that will make a chauffeur slow up it's a hen. Dogs are bad enough, but a hen always runs the wrong way, and if the machine is going at any speed usually ends up under the wheels. Hitting a hen will sometimes throw the front wheels out of line and cause the car to swerve, so drivers almost invariably slow up and give poultry a chance to get out of the way. A hen speed trap is a great idea, to my way of thinking, and, of course, if one of the birds were killed the cost could easily be added to the driver's fine."

SAM WAS CHANGED

GREAT LIGHT SUDDENLY DAWNED ON YOUNG MAN.

Brief Interview with Consumptive Peddler Turned His Thoughts Away from Foolish and Carnal Things.

"During the harvest time," said the old farmer who had brought a load of potatoes to market, "I hired on three extra men, and one of them turned out to be a boxer. He and my son Sam took to each other, and Sam bought a pair of boxing gloves and took about 20 lessons in what they calls 'the art.' When harvest was over and he had got through he jest flapped his wings and crowed and said he could lick anything that traveled our highway. I didn't say nothin' either way, but jest waited. When a young feller of 20 gets a chip on his shoulder somebody's purty sure to come along and knock it off. One day a tin peddler drove up, and I saw Sam steppin' high and spittin' over his shoulder. Bimeby he got up a row with the feller and knocked him out in one round. For two weeks after that it was brag from mornin' till night. He got sassy to me and to the nayburs, and one could see what he was achin' for. We was diggin' 'taters one day, when the same peddler's wagon drove up, and Sam turns to me and says:

"'Dad, that peddler has come back after more. Come along and see me put him to sleep.'"

"We went up to the house to diskiver that it was the same hoss and wagon, but a different man. He said he was a consumptive who was peddlin' for his health, and that he doesn't exert hisself much for fear of a hemorrhage of the lungs. Sam was mightily disapp'inted and was going back to the 'taters when the stranger said somethin' about his bow legs. Purty soon they was passin' hot words, and I was tryin' to quiet 'em, when the stranger got up and called Sam a liar and jumped down from his wagon. Sam went for him and squared off and led with the left, and the next thing I saw was his heels in the air. He scrabbled up and went down again, and the third time he went right to sleep and laid there. Then the stranger laughed and climbed on his wagon and drove away. It took me'n the old woman 30 minutes to revive Sam, and we found him a changed young man. He's read 40 chapters in the Bible in the last 30 nights, and has committed 12 hymns to memory, and when I ask him how he feels he rolls his eyes and answers:

"'I'm a-feeling, Dad, that I'm not long for this wicked world, and I'm a-hopin' that you and ma'am will so live that you kin jine me in that better land.'"

The Food Faddist.

Manager Plummer of Briarcliff Lodge, a hotel at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., has erected on the hotel roof a flying stage for the use of aeronauts and balloonists.

"Ours is the first public flying stage," said the enterprising manager the other day, "but we shall all live to see the day when flying stages will be as common as horse blocks. For the air, thanks to the Wrights, is conquered.

"But at this stage—this flying stage, so to speak—the greatest caution is needed in aerial matters, or innumerable, innumerable, will be the deaths of aeronauts."

He smiled.

"In fact," he said, "the aeronaut, to pursue safely his experiments, should be as cautious as a Philadelphia food faddist who lunched here yesterday. The man lunched on a raw turnip, a handful of nuts and a lemon. He interested me.

"'Then, according to you,' I said jestingly, at the end of a food talk, 'as long as I eat nothing I shall be healthy?'

"'Yes, if you chew it thoroughly,' was the cautious answer."

To Fight Airships.

An armored automobile, designed specially to attack and destroy airships, is under construction at Berlin for the German army and is to be tried presently. It has a four-cylinder motor of 60-horse-power and can make about 16 miles an hour, climbing easily a 20 per cent. grade. Its armament consists of a rapid-fire five-centimeter gun capable of firing 24 times a minute, and it carries ammunition for 102 shots. The crew comprises a driver and three assistants. Evidently the Germans are determined to be foremost not only in the military use of dirigible balloons, but also in devices to spoil the usefulness of any that may be brought against them by other nations.

Pleasant Fiction.

"What are you reading?"

"The story of Cinderella and the prince," answered Mr. Cumrox.

"What nonsense!"

"I know it's nonsense. But after reading the newspapers of late, it's a sort of a relief to come across a story of a nobleman who went ahead and eloped with the girl without stopping to discuss a marriage settlement."

Making of a Star.

"I can whistle through my teeth," pointed out the comedian.

"And I made you a leading man on the strength of that," responded the eminent manager. "Now, if you'll learn to wiggle your ears I'll make you a star."—Kansas City Journal.

More Fitting.

The brass band was serenading the candidate who, according to the early returns, had been elected.

He opened it and read it.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice is hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage containing power of sale, executed by Harley L. Quist and Judith A. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, dated 15th day of April, A. D. 1910, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the [illegible] day of April A. D. 1910, at [illegible] p. m. in book [illegible] of mortgages on page [illegible] thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and after the division of said Red Lake county at [illegible] of Pennington county, transcribed into the records of Pennington county, Minnesota, and that the same is transcribed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds in Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 33 of mortgages on page 37 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and on the 4th day of June A. D. 1912, for a valuable consideration and by an instrument in writing, dated on that day, duly executed and acknowledged by said Johnson Van Sant Co, said mortgagee, was duly assigned and transferred to C. L. Hansen, which said written assignment was thereafter and on the [illegible] day of June A. D. 1912, at [illegible] o'clock a. m., of that day filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, and duly recorded in book [illegible] of mortgages on page [illegible] thereof, and that at the date of this notice there is claimed to be due and is actually due and payable upon said mortgage, according to the terms thereof, the total sum of [illegible] dollars, to-wit, the amount of an unpaid balance of one hundred twenty ($120.00) dollars on the note secured by said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from and after May 1, 1911, and of two interest [illegible] 1911, and May 1, 1912, on a prior mortgage on the land hereinafter described, with interest [illegible] the rate of six (6) per cent annum [illegible] action or proceeding [illegible] at law or otherwise to recover the debt secured by said mortgage or any part thereof.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in said mortgage and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises therein described at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the main front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on Monday the 29th day of July A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage with interest thereon from the date hereof and the costs and expenses of such sale and the sum of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold is all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Pennington, and state of Minnesota, described as follows: Northeast quarter (ne¼) of section thirty-four (34), township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-one (41).

Dated June 10, 1912.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proved to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

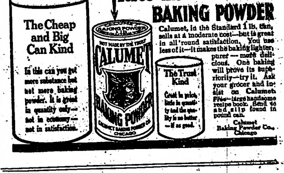
Mrs. Housewife:—There's a Happy Medium in Everything

Anything that is overdone or underdone is not good.

This is especially true of baking—and it is just as true of baking powder. If you use the cheap and Big Can Kinds you are getting quantity at the sacrifice of quality. It cannot be as good—or as economical as Calumet—the medium price kind. If you use the High Price Kind, you are paying tribute to the Trust—the quality is no better.

Here's the "Full Value" in BAKING POWDER



The Cheap and Big Can Kind
In this can you get more substance but not more baking powder. It is great in quantity only—not in economy—not in satisfaction.
CALUMET BAKING POWDER
NOT MADE BY THE TRUST
CALUMET BAKING POWDER CO. CHICAGO
The Trust Kind
Great in price, little in quantity and the quality is no better—if as good.

Calumet, in the Standard 1 lb. can, sells at a moderate cost—but is great in all 'round satisfaction. You use less of it—it makes the baking lighter, purer—more delicious. One baking will prove its superiority—try it. Ask your grocer and insist on Calumet. Free—large handsome recipe book. Send to and slip found in pound can.

Alum baking powders are classed by physicians detrimental to health.

Many consumers use alum baking powders unaware. They are allured to the danger by the cry of cheapness, by fake tests and exhibitions and false and flippant advertisements in the newspapers. Alum baking powders do not make a "pure, wholesome and delicious food" any more than two and two make ten.

If you wish to avoid a danger to your food,

IT IS CRIMINAL TO NEGLECT THE SKIN AND HAIR

Think of the suffering entailed by neglected skin troubles—mental because of disfiguration, physical because of pain. Think of the pleasure of a clear skin, soft, white hands, and good hair. These blessings, so essential to happiness and even success in life, are often only a matter of a little thoughtful care in the selection of effective remedial agents. Cuticura Soap and Ointment do so much for poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, and cost so little, that it is almost criminal not to use them. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere, a postal to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston, will secure a liberal sample of each, with 32-page booklet on skin and scalp treatment.

It's a question whether women grow old, or merely catch up with their age.

Oddities of Justice.

That the whole theory of penal codes is practically unsound and opposed to the modern conceptions of the relation of the state to crime, is the contention of Eugene Smith of the New York bar, writing in the May number of Case and Comment, the lawyers' magazine. Illustrating the absurdity and disparity between penalty for crimes in different states, Mr. Smith says: "The average sentence for perjury in Florida is ten years, in Maine one year; for larceny, in Delaware ten years, in the District of Columbia ten months; the penalty for arson in Pennsylvania is twice that of burglary, but in Connecticut the guilt of burglary is twice that of arson; the guilt of counterfeiting in Ohio is twice that of perjury, but in Rhode Island the guilt of perjury is twice that of counterfeiting.

QUEEN SEEKS REST

Wife of King Haakon of Norway Is Tired of Court Life.

Her Highness Would Gladly Surrender Title, Wealth and Attentions to Again Live the Simple Life in England.

Christiania, Norway. — Income $200,000 a year. Everybody says "Your majesty." Power to do as she pleases. A husband who is devoted to her. A son who is growing up full of life and spirits, yet a model of what a son and a future monarch ought to be. Subjects universally adoring her. And, withal, Queen Maud of Norway isn't satisfied. She is content with her husband; Norway's King Haakon VII., and she is rejoiced over her son, the Crown Prince Olaf.

But she doesn't care for the $200,000 a year Norway grants to monarchs; she'd rather have the $40,000 she used to skimp along on and be poor. She is tired of being her majesty, and would infinitely prefer being a princess, poor at that, says a writer. She would welcome her earlier life, when she was picked on by a mother-in-law—and where can woman find a more malign fate? She is willing enough that the Norwegian people shall adore her; but she would delight in exchanging her coach of state for the top of a London omnibus, with Norway forgetting all about her.

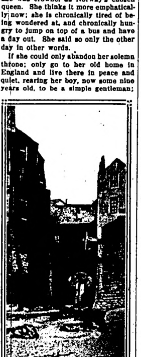
So there, enthroned by a whole nation's deliberate choice, victorious over all misfortune after years of harsh subjection, is a queen who resembles no other queen alive, and a woman who is homesick for the very things which millions of other women are breaking their necks and their husbands backs to get away from.

She has had her grandeurs now for half a dozen years, and the longer they have been thrust upon her the sicker she grows of them.

"I sometimes get tired of being royal, especially when I am looked at and wondered over like one of the Tussaud waxworks. I often think how glorious it must be to be able to jump on the top of a bus and have a day out. I think I shall some day."

That was what she said soon after she was crowned as Norway's chosen queen. She thinks it more emphatically now; she is chronically tired of being wondered at, and chronically hungry to jump on top of a bus and have a day out. She said so only the other day in other words.

If she could only abandon her solemn throne; only go to her old home in England and live there in peace and quiet, rearing her boy, now some nine years old, to be a simple gentleman; if she could only enjoy her outdoor life as she used to, without any one noticing her and with her husband at her side, to be called Carl instead of Haakon.



Street in Quaint Old Christiania.

She calls him that anyway; but she wants to hear everybody else speak of him by the familiar name, and she longs to hear herself called Harry by the voices of her own family, as she used to be when her father, King Edward, was alive and was skimping out a few thousand pounds a year from his royal income to keep her from being too hard up over in Denmark.

She is different from her mother, Queen Alexandra, who has been moving heaven and earth to retain some vestiges of the royal authority she wielded before Queen Mary so mercilessly relegated her to dowagership and obscurity. She is different from Queen Amelia of Portugal, who braved assassination to hold her tottering throne for the sake of Manuel, the one son the assassin left to her; different from Italy's queen, who assumed a throne in the face of royal contempt and popular dissatisfaction, and fought her battle for respect and obedience through years of suspicion and unkind criticism; different from almost all other queens, who have lived and, having once reigned, have abandoned the royal prominence and prerogatives only at the bayonet point—and even then if we recollect, Marie Antoinette remained resolved to wait for the guillotine.

Skirt Prevents Wreck.

Mobile.—Pulling off her red flannel underskirt, Laura Jones, an aged negro mammy, signaled an incoming passenger train on the Bay Shore railroad in time to prevent the train from dashing into a serious washout.

The train was returning from an Alabama coast resort, and was heavily laden with passengers.

When the passengers learned that the old ex-slave had perhaps saved their lives they took up a collection.

"Dis is de mos' money I'se ever had in my born days," she exclaimed as she shuffled from the scene.

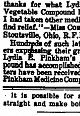
HOW GIRLS MAY AVOID PERIODIC PAINS

The Experience of Two Girls Here Related For The Benefit of Others.

Rochester, N. Y.—"I have a daughter 13 years old who has always been very healthy until recently when she complained of dizziness and cramps every month, so bad that I would have to keep her home from school and put her to bed to get relief.

"After giving her only two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound she is now enjoying the best of health. I cannot praise your Compound too highly. I want every good mother to read what your medicine has done for my child."—Mrs. RICHARD N. DUNHAM, 311 Exchange St., Rochester, N.Y.

Stoutsville, Ohio.—"I suffered from headaches, backache and was very irregular. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of two bottles I found relief. I am only sixteen years old, but I have better health than for two or three years. I cannot express my thanks for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I had taken other medicines but did not find relief."—Miss CORA B. FOSNAUGH, Stoutsville, Ohio, R.F.D., No. 1.



Hundreds of such letters from mothers expressing their gratitude for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished for their daughters have been received by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company, Lynn, Mass.

The Worm's Way.

"The Hon. Stephen Coleridge, the English anti-vivisectionist," said an anti-vivisectionist of Philadelphia, "is delighted with the recent English vivisection report, which promises to abolish even the use of the live bait in fishing.

"Mr. Coleridge once argued here in Philadelphia about the cruelty of fishing with worms.

"'Oh,' his opponent said, 'the mere fact that a worm writhes and wriggles when impaled on a hook is no proof that it is actually suffering pain.'

"'No, oh, no!' said Mr. Coleridge, sarcastically. 'Beyond doubt that is just the worm's way of laughing at being tickled.'"

NICE MAN.

Miss Charming—Really, Mr. Softly, you've had nearly all so far and—

Softly—Yes; you know, it's just to spite Miss Lovely. We've had a quarrel.

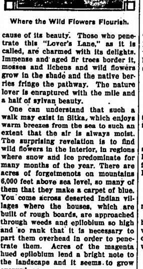
ALASKA HAS MANY FLOWERS

Immense Fields of Yellow Poppies Grow as Far North as the Seal Islands.

Nome, Alaska.—One of the impressions left with the tourist in Alaska is of the luxuriance of the summer verdure, the rich green that suggests an English landscape. This verdure seems strange in a land associated usually with snow capped mountains and glaciers. The profusion of varicolored flowers and grasses, the result of from eighteen to twenty hours of sunshine a day, makes this country in summer a surprise and delight.

Every one who goes to Alaska takes a promenade along the famous Sitka walk, laid out by the Russians years ago, on the shore of Sitka Bay and the beautiful Indian river. It is noteworthy, not alone because good roads are scarce in this country but also because of its beauty. Those who penetrate this "Lover's Lane," as it is called, are charmed with its delights. Immense and aged fir trees border it, mosses and lichens and wild flowers grow in the shade and the native berries fringe the pathway. The nature lover is enraptured with the mile and a half of sylvan beauty.



Where the Wild Flowers Flourish.

One can understand that such a walk may exist in Sitka, which enjoys warm breezes from the sea to such an extent that the air is always moist. The surprising revelation is to find wild flowers in the interior, in regions where snow and ice predominate for many months of the year. There are acres of forgetmenots on mountains 6,000 feet above sea level, so many of them that they make a carpet of blue. You come across deserted Indian villages where the houses, which are built of rough boards, are approached through weeds and epilobium so high and so rank that it is necessary to part them overhead in order to penetrate them. Acres of the magenta hued epilobium lend a bright note to the landscape and it seems to grow everywhere.

Far up to the north, near the snow line on the high mountains, are willows, dwarf alders and birches, while below are firs and spruces, some of them hundreds of years old. Under them is verdure clothing the mountainsides so rank and so green that in imagination one is transplanted to tropical climates. This is especially pleasing to the eye, after the long, hard winter.

This luxuriance is the result of the long summer days and the fact that for ages the forests have been undisturbed. One log has fallen upon another and decayed, producing a rich vegetable muck in which almost everything will grow. The richness and softness of the soil makes Alaskan wood difficult to obtain and when any large enterprise has been undertaken, as building railroads, the timber, for the most part, has been shipped from Puget Sound.

The wild flowers in this northern country, along the coast and back toward the Yukon, delight with their beauty and fragrance. Far up, near the Seal Islands, are immense fields of yellow poppies, and in other sections there are wild geraniums of a bluish tint, yellow moccasin plants, saxifrage and bluebells.

FIND PART OF FAMED TEMPLE

Large Stone, Found in Excavations Said to Have Been Part of Aztec Building.

Mexico City.—A huge monolith was unearthed in the capital a short time ago during excavations which are being carried on for the extension of water mains. The stone is in the form of a plumed serpent, and it is thought may have been one of the corner stones of the ancient Aztec temple of Tenochtitlan. The find has been turned over to the National Museum with accurate measurements as to the place in which it was found. A committee will be chosen to study the stone and the place of its discovery, with a view to fixing the exact location of the ancient temple.

FINAL RESULT OF IMPURE BLOOD

The System Is Left Weak, Run Down and Helpless Against the Attacks of Disease.

If you need strength, if your blood is thin, your digestion disordered, it will pay you to investigate the merits of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the remedy that has transformed so many weak, anemic, dyspeptic, ambitionless people into strong, healthy, hungry men and women.

Mrs. Lena May Roberts, whose address is R. F. D. No. 3, Aberdeen, So. Dakota after several months of suffering finally found the right tonic in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:

"For months after the birth of my baby, I suffered terribly from a general breakdown in health. I was in bed for three months and after that was able to be up only part of the time. I was sick all over, being pale, weak and thin. My appetite was gone and my head ached most of the time. Oftentimes there seemed to be a rush of blood to my head and I would faint away. I was very nervous and was not strong enough to do any work.

"As the treatment I was taking did not help me, I began to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which a friend said had helped her. After taking a few boxes, I began to get well rapidly. I continued using them for a time and am now as well and strong as ever in my life."

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in general debility lies in their direct response to the needs of the blood. Their work is to make new blood. That they do this well is shown by the gradual disappearance of the symptoms and the return of color and health. They lay the foundation for permanent health in the future.

For the same reason these pills have cured anæmia, after-effects of the grip and fevers, rheumatism, indigestion, and nervousness, dizziness, neuralgia and St. Vitus' dance, and are recommended wherever a tonic for the blood and nerves is needed.

A valuable booklet, "Diseases of the Blood," containing fuller information about rheumatism and other diseases of the blood will be sent free upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Delicate Point.

They are a happy Sewickley couple. They haven't been married very long. In fact, the honeymoon has barely waned. An elderly friend met the bridegroom downtown yesterday and slapped him on the back.

"Well, happy as a lark, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes."

"Oh, yes."

"How's the cooking?"

"I have one trouble there. It's just this, my wife has been preparing angel food every day for dinner."

"You must be getting tired of it."

"I am. Yet I feel a hesitancy about saying anything. How soon after the honeymoon would it be proper to ask for beefsteak and onions?"—Pittsburg Post.

Still Hoping.

"Life is a series of disappointments."

"Yes. I know a man who has been hoping nearly all his life that he would some day come into possession of a coin worth more than its face value."

The Worst of It.

"Do you keep a cook, Mrs. Subub?"

"Madam, I not only keep the cook, but also her entire family."

The old friend is better than the new. Garfield Tea is not only old but tried and found true. Made of pure wholesome Herbs.

No amount of culture will make a man stop snoring in his sleep.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

800 Bushels from 20 acres of wheat was the thresher's return from a Lloydminster farm in the season of 1910. Many fields in that as well as other districts yielded from 25 to 35 bushels of wheat to the acre. Other grains in proportion.

LARGE PROFITS are thus derived from the FREE HOMESTEAD LANDS of Western Canada.

This excellent showing causes prices to advance. Land values should double in two years' time. Grain growing, mixed farming, cattle raising and dairying are all profitable. Free Homesteads of 160 acres are to be had in the very best districts; 160 acre pre-emptions at $3.00 per acre within certain areas. Schools and churches in every settlement, climate unexcelled, soil the richest; wood, water and building material plentiful.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

This is the age of research and experiment, when all nature, so to speak, is ransacked by the scientific for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides during the past century, and among the by no means least important discoveries in medicine comes that of Therapion, which has, we understand, been used with great success in the French Hospitals and that it is worthy the attention of those who suffer from kidney, bladder or nervous diseases, chronic weaknesses, ulcers, skin eruptions, piles, &c., we think there is no doubt. In fact it seems evident from the big stir created amongst specialists, that THERAPION is destined to cast into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. It is of course impossible to tell sufferers all we should like to tell them in this short article, but those who are interested and would like to know more about this remedy that has effected so many—we might almost say—miraculous cures, have only to send addressed envelope for FREE book to Dr. Le Clerc Med. Co., Haverstock Road, Hampstead, London, Eng. and decide for themselves whether The New French Remedy, "THERAPION," is what they require and which they may have been seeking in vain during a life of untold misery, suffering, ill health and unhappiness.

ROOT NAMED AS CHAIRMAN

Taft Forces Win First Blood in Organizing the Chicago Convention.

Chicago, Ill.—Against the threats, charges and bitter invection of the Roosevelt forces, the Taft supporters in the Republican national convention put through the first portion of their program by electing Senator Elihu Root, of New York, temporary chairman. In spite of the fact that Victor Rosewater, chairman of the national committee, consistently ruled out of order every motion made by the Roosevelt forces, it required more than five hours to reach a vote on the chairmanship.

Vote 558 to 502.

The calling of the roll was beset with difficulties from the first name on the lists of delegates, but in the end, when the tumult died away, Senator Root was found to have won by the vote of 558 to 502 over Governor Francis E. McGovern, of Wisconsin, with 13 scattering votes and five not voting or absent.

Both Forces Claim Victory.

Both the Taft and Roosevelt forces claimed that this vote indicates that their candidate is absolutely sure to win. The advantage appears to be with the president, however, for, while he is sure to lose some of the votes that were cast for Senator Root, it is claimed that he will gain, of instruction are lived up to, some of the votes indenpendently cast for McGovern.

This leaders who have been urging a compromise candidate ever since they arrived in Chicago are pointing to another angle in the figures and claim that they show that it is essential to name a so-called "dark horse" to save the day for the Republican party.

While Mr. Root was made chairman and managed to deliver his "keynote" speech, the fighting will be renewed when the motion of the Roosevelt leaders to substitute a new list of delegates for those seated in some of the contested cases heard before the national committee, will be taken up as the unfinished business. No committees were named and none will be until this motion to "purge" the convention of "fraudulent delegates" is disposed of.

It was defeated on a point of order but the Roosevelt forces declare that the parliamentary practice will not be permitted to stand in their way.

The Roosevelt people and the Taft people carried out their programs as announced in advance, almost to the letter. The Roosevelt people declared that they will fight every inch of the way.

The cry of "bolters" was hurled at the Roosevelt delegates at times during the session, but the contingency of a bolt seemed to be far distant.

California Belligerent.

California, under the leadership of Governor Hiram Johnson, assumed a belligerent attitude almost with the start of the roll call, when the two Roosevelt delegates from the Fourth district, unseated by the national committee, were not allowed to vote. Two votes for Root was the only encroachment in that state up the vote cast for McGovern. Later, Pennsylvania made a fierce protest against the vote of an alternate.

There is prosect of a bitter struggle when as "unfinished business" the convention will take up a motion of Governor Hadley of Missouri to strike from the temporary roll of the convenition, as prepared by the national committee, the names of 92 delegates seated by the national committee in contested election case and substsiute those of the Roose-contestants.

Taft and Roosevelt leaders burned the midnight oil analyzing again and again the first test vote of the Republican national convention with respect to its bearing in the presidential nomination.

It was inevitable that conflicting claims should be put out from the two headquarters—claims far in excess of the vedrock figures which the leaders are attempting to keep a close secret within their inner councils.

The Taft forces in the convention elected Senator Elihu Root as temporary chairman, 558 vote being cast for him. This was 18 more than a majority of the 1,078 delegates in the convention. It was realized from the first that the vote on Senator Root, however, would not reflect the actual strength either of Mr. Taft or Mr. Roosevelt.

At a conference of the Taft leaders it was said that they had scaled down and cut out the doubtful votes from the Root total and their final analysis showed 542 votes for the president, two more than enough to nominate. Even these figures, it was said, included a few "wobbly" delegates and might be changed.

SENATOR ELIHU ROOT

The Roosevelt leaders said they were surprised at the Root vote and that they expected him to poll between 575 and 580 votes. They professed to be jubilant over their view of the situation, but at the same time it was impossible for them to figure out on a paper majority for the colonel.

Governor Hadley of Missouri under direction of Colonel Roosevelt himself, will continue the fight begun to substitute 92 Roosevelt delegates for an equal number of Taft delegates seated by the national committees in contest cases. The Taft leaders say that ample opportunity will be given for a discussion of this proposition, but at the same time they characterize it as entirely without the bounds of reason and declare that any other person might just as well present his idea as to who should compose the temporary roll call of the convention.

Cochem Resigns.

Henry F. Cochem, the Wisconsin delegate, who nominated McGovern and thereby clashed with Houser and the La Follette delegation from his state, resigned as a member of the delegation. He issued a sharp attack on La Follette in which he accused the Wisconsin senator of having pursued a "selfish and perversely/ narrow policy."

The Taft managers privately admitted that the vote on the election of Senator Root as temporary chairman was "too close to be comfortable" although they insisted they would be able to maintain control of the convention.

"The vote showed unmistakably that we have control," said Director McKinley as he hurried into conference with his aides.

Seek to Hold Margin.

Every effort to the Taft captains was drected toward holding firmly that narrow majority of 18 by which Senator Root's election was accomplished. Estimates by Taft partisans placed the real Taft majority in the convention at between six and ten.

William Barnes, Jr., who led the fight for the Taft forces was jubilant in the belief that he had made certain the defeat of Roosevelt. He claimed strength for Taft but pointed out no specific accessions to the Taft column.

Urged "To Follow Hadley."

Colonel Roosevelt and his leaders decided to make the contest over the report of the credentials committee a decisive test of strength.

Governor Hadley of Missouri received a commission to exercise a free hand in directing the fight on the floor of the convention. Word was passed to all the Roosevelt delegates "to follow Hadley."

Talk of a bolt as a result of the decision to disregard the action of a majority of the convention unless it be composed of uncontested delegates was said to be unfounded.

Colonel Roosevelt addressed a caucus of Roosevelt delegates for a quarter of an hour. He congratulated them on the stand they had taken in the convention and urged them to stand by Governor Hadley.

Illinois Delegates Confer.

Chicago, June 19.—The Illinois delegation which gave nine votes to Root for the temporary speakership held an informal conference. The defection of seven of the nine was discussed.

Committees Named.

Chicago, Illinois. — Some of the Northwest delegates to land places on the various committees for the republican National convention are:

Rules.—D. J. Charles, Montana; A. J. Larson, Minnesota; Emil Scow, North Dakota.

National.—I. A. Caswell, Montana; Thos. P. Marshall, North Dakota.

Credentials.—Hugh T. Halbert, Minnesota; W. S. Lander, North Dakota.

Platform.—J. F. Jacobson, Minnesota; Geo. T. Baggs, Montana; P. O. Thoeson, North Dakota.

Thaw Again Faces Jerome.

White Plains, New York. — Harry K. Thaw was a witness for 30 seconds in the proceedings which he has brought in the supreme court to have himself declared sane and free to leave the Matteawan hospital. He was called to the stand by William T. Jerome, who has opposed Thaw's every move to regain his liberty. Most of the session was devoted to reading into the record testimoney taken at previous hearings and at Thaw's trial in 1908. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will be on the stand.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE SECOND DAY.

Chicago, Ill — Wednesday Governor Herbert S. Hadley of Missouri might have had the presidential nomination at the hands of the Republican convention for the asking. Twenty minutes later the delegates, won by the caprices of a woman, were wildly cheering for Colonel Roosevelt and seemed to the casual observer anxious to present the gift to him. In just half an hour later, however, the same delegates, exhausted from cheering and through with spontaneous enthusiasm, were back in line with the Taft machine.

They voted as they did Tuesday, almost to a man. The one notable exception to this was that the Hawaiian delegation switched its six votes from the Roosevelt side to President Taft. The one vote of the day showed the strength of the Taft forces to be 564 and that of the combined opposition to be 510.

Test Vote Taken.

The test vote was on a motion to table an amendment made by Governor Deneen of Illinois, the motion of James E. Watson.

Under the amendment the Illinois governor had hoped to prevent certain contested delegates from participating in the temporary organization of the convention. This would have left the Roosevelt forces in control of the convention. The then sane delegates refused to do this, however. When the convention adjourned for the night it left the followers of the president apparently exactly six votes stronger than they had been when the night adjournment came the previous night.

The spark that set the convention on fire was dropped by the merest chance by James E. Watson, floor leader for the Taft contingent, while opposing Governor Hadley's motion.

Mr. Watson's Sally.

"I do not believe that the convention is in any mood to pass upon the right of the contested delegates to hold their seats here, even if its members knew the merits of the cases, which they do not," said Mr. Watson. "Why, do you know that even Governor Hadley favors passing the whole question on to the credentials committee, with certain reservations."

Governor Hadley, who was standing near Chairman Root, back of Mr. Watson, showed that he did not agree with this statement. He started to interrupt the speaker to say so, but decided not to do so.

Meanwhile, this little by-play had not been lost on the delegates. They wanted to hear the explanation of the Missouri executive and they made known their wants in a vociferous manner. Mr. Watson yielded the floor and Governor Hadley advanced down the platform to make his explanation.

Vent to Pent-up Yearn.

What followed may have been because it was the psychological moment for a demonstration or because the long-pent-up feelings of the delegates refused to be suppressed longer.

At any rate a storm of applause greeted the Roosevelt leader. Like all storms, it began in distant rumblings that increased in volume until it seemed that the roof of the Coliseum would be lifted from its iron supports.

Delegate after delegate, state after state, was struck by the noise-making mania and it seemed that nobody could make noise enough to express his feelings. Men who at first had only cheered began to leap up and down in their places. Then these decided to have a real convention demonstration, which cannot be had without marching about the building, hands on shoulders, perspiring, shouting, waving state signs and in other ways acting like men bereft of their reason.

The convention was called to order shortly after 11 a. m. with Senator Elihu Root, elected temporary chairman, presiding. Governor Hadley renewed his motion for the unseating of the contested Taft delegates and three hours were allotted for debate. Among those who had been heard up to 2 p. m. were Governor Hadley, Senator Hemenway, Henry J. Allen of Kansas, W. T. Dovell of Seattle, and George E. Record of New Jersey.

Band Gives Concert.

The Coliseum was a sea of empty chairs at 9:30 a. m., when the band, in its perch near the foor, struck the opening note of the morning concert. A file of policemen came in through a side door, stepping lively to the march time. The bluecoated guardians took their places across the front of the hall, where the line held back surging crowds yesterday and delegates and spectators began to filter in through the doors.

Not Afraid of Situation.

The air of nervousness that hung over the convention, police and employees before the opening of the first session was curiously absent. No one knew then what to expect, but now the patrolman chatted and laughed, secure in the belief that they could handle easily any situation that might develop.

The first delegate to enter the hall was a negro from Mississippi. He dropped into a chair directly on the aisle and promptly proceeded to go to sleep.

In the box reserved for special guests there were several early arrivals. At 10 a. m., an hour before the time for opening the session, less than two hundred spectators were in the hall and but eight of the delegates were present. Although the convention faced the real struggle of the Roosevelt leaders to obtain control of the permanent roll of delegates, there was a noticeable lack of excitement or enthusiasm about the convention hall.

James D. Preston, in charge of the press section in the convention hall, came in with a big bundle of mail in his hand.

"The Coliseum postmaster wanted me to help him get out the newspapermen's mail," he said. "Its all for one reporter—William Jennings Bryan."

Clapp Is an Early Arrival.

Senator Moses E. Clapp of Minnesota, one of the Roosevelt delegates-at-large from that state, was an early arrival at his place on the vonvention floor.

Soon after Chairman Root had arrived on the platform he was flanked on one side by Governor Hadley, the Roosevelt leader, and on the other by James Watson of the Taft forces. As a preliminary to the day's expected hostilities all three shook hands and "retired to their corners."

Governor Hadley and Watson arranged for an equal division of the three hours' debate that was to be allowed on the Roosevelt proposition to substitute a roll containing ninety-two Roosevelt delegates in place of ninety-two Taft followers seated by the national committee.

Before calling the convention to order Chairman Root and the other officers of the convention posed for a series of pictures. This helped to delay matters several minutes beyond the scheduled hour, 11 a. m. At that time many delegates' seats still were vacant.

When California's delegation appeared it again bore the banners which were barred from the hall previously. The sergeant-at-arms forced the removal of the flags, leaving only the poles surmounted by the gilt California bears.

Roosevelt Leaders Confer.

Surrounding Governor Deneen's seat on the floor for fifteen minutes before the call to order were the Roosevelt leaders in earnest consultation. In the group were Senator Dixon, Governor Hadley, William Flinn and Governor Johnson of California.

Another fifteen minutes passed before Chairman Root again took up his gavel and with emphatic blows on the table insisted upon quiet and order. Much of the confusion was due to late comers in the galleries.

Estimates Are Made.

According to the estimates of very careful observers, the vote in the republican national convention, resulting in the election of Senator Root, as the Taft candidate, to be temporary chairman, does not by any means indicate with certainty that President Taft will be renominated. The victory is important to the Taft people as far as it goes. When it is recalled, however, that it was achieved by the help of at least 21 votes which are instructed for Roosevelt, it will easily be seen that it does not necessarily point to a final Taft victory.

The Taft leaders are hopeful, and if they can hold the strength which they are counting upon at this time, they will pull through, but, at the best, it will be a tight squeeze and it is unsafe to prophesy regarding the outlook.

Nor has the Root vote added anything to the joy of the Roosevelt leaders. Colonel Roosevelt's strength, as shown by that vote, was 502, from which there must be deducted 13 votes which he got from Wisconsin and 9 which he got from North Dakota, a total of 22. When it comes time to vote on a candidate for the presidency, those 22 votes will be cast for La Follette.

Deducting them from the Roosevelt column, therefore, the Roosevelt total is brought down from 502 to 480, which is 60 short of a majority of the convention. Conditions may arise which will give Colonel Roosevelt a gain of 60 votes above the 480, but there is an inclination to wonder if he did not touch high-water mark and to believe that his nomination will be much more difficult than early estimates have indicated.

WOMEN LIKE TO GO.

Society Folk Attend Convention in Numbers.

Chicago, Ill. — There were very few visiting women who were willing to forego attending the second day's show at the Coliseum, where the Republicans are making an endeavor to nominate a president. Society folk were there in great numbers, and even the inconveniences of basket luncheons and dependence upon drinks of varying degrees of coolness did not deter them.

UNCLE JOE SILENT.

Hasn't the Slightest Idea. What the Convention Will Do.

Washington, D. C. — There is one man in Washington who says he has no idea of what the Chicago convention may do and he differs from all other Republicans in congress by refusing to guess. He is Joseph Gurney Cannon, many times speaker, and present at all other Republican conventions since the nomination of Abraham Lincoln. He got no ticket to the Chicago convention from his district.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN

One Million Words Handled in Dispatches.

Chicago, Ill. — Figures compiled by the telegraph companies here today show that all records for outgoing dispatches were broken, the opening day of the republican national convention. It was said that approximately one million words were handled. This does not include dispatches sent on leased wires.

SPECIAL SESSION HAS ADJOURNED

CORRUPT PRACTICES ACT NARROWLY MISSES DEFEAT AT CLOSE.

THE NEW PRIMARY LAW.

Has Many New Features.—Second Choice Provision Makes It Possible to Get Majority Nomination.

St. Paul, June 18.—The extraordinary session of the Minnesota Legislature came to an end at nine o'clock this morning, when the journal of Monday's proceedings was read and final adjournment taken. Although in session only two weeks, the legislature wheel turned unusually fast and half a dozen measures of unusual value to the people were passed by practically non-partisan action. Of the three measures asked by the governor, two, a state-wide primary and a corrupt practices act passed and re-apportionment was turned down. The next subject that attracted most attention was a bill prohibiting the Modern Woodmen raising their rates in Minnesota until a referendum vote is taken. This was demanded by a considerable dissenting element in the lodge.

The last bill passed was the corrupt practices act.

Controversy between the two houses over this took an unexpected turn when, after the conference committee had agreed on the features of the bill, it became known that enough senators had been procured to vote against the measure to make its defeat certain.

While the conference committee was drawing up a unanimous report on the measure, and members generally believed that on this report it would pass both houses by a unanimous vote, the opposition had interviewed ten members of the upper house and secured their pledges to vote against the act. Advantage was taken of the fact that only 36 members were present and as it required 32 to pass the measure the opposition of only five would defeat it.

The opponents of the bill were enough in number to defeat the measure, but were hopelessly in the minority when the advocates of the measure threatened to adjourn, and to keep the senate in session all summer if necessary until a full attendance could be forced and the bill passed. One by one the opposing senators changed position. The bill finally passed by a vote of 35 to 0.

Discovery of defects in the primary bill led to the reconsideration of the measure and the passage of amendments. It was discovered that the section governing voting machines was not clear and the right of the city of Minneapolis to use its machines under the law as first enacted was questioned. To make certain that Minneapolis was protected C. R. Fowler secured the adoption of an amendment, providing that voting machines could be used in certain cities and that where it was not practical to use them for all elections, that they be used as far as possible and that the ballot system be reverted to for other officers.

Among the minor acts of the closing day was the appropriation of $14,000 for the usual publication of the new laws as supplements to the legal newspapers throughout the state.

The New Primary Law.

The most important work of the session was the passage of the state-wide primary law, known as the "second choice" law.

The new law simply extends the present primary law to all officers in the state with the exception of officers in towns and villages and cities of the third and fourth class and to members of the school, park, and library boards in cities of population less than 100,000, and provides for a second choice in the nomination of such officers. In addition to this, it places the judges of the supreme, district, probate and municipal courts, municipal officers in Minneapolis and county superintendents of schools on a non-partisan basis.

Legislators were practically unanimous in their support of the general idea of a state-wide primary law. They differed only on the second choice provision. The bill as passed provides for the elimination feature.

The purpose of it is to compel nomination by a majority. Under the present system, if three or four candidates run for a nomination, the man receiving the highest number of votes is nominated. He might have more votes than any one of the other candidates, but still receive less than one-third of the entire vote cast. By this method a minority would nominate.

The second choice is provided to correct this defect. Under the new plan each voter has the privilege of casting a first and second choice vote. His first choice would, of course, go to the man he desired nominated, and his second choice to the man he desired, in case his first choice could not win. At first count of votes for any office, the first choice vote are counted. If one man has the majority of the first-class votes cast for that office, he is declared the nominee. But if not, then the man receiving the lowest number of first-choice votes is eliminated.

Every man who voted for this candidate also has a second choice expression. The first choice votes are abandoned and the second choice votes taken. They are applied to the first choice votes of the other candidates, as they were cast.

Then another count is made of the first choice votes that each surviving candidate received, combined with the second choice votes that he received from the voters who had cast a first choice expression for the man eliminated. Then if none had sufficient votes to make up a majority of the first choice votes originally cast the next lowest man is eliminated and his votes applied. By this method it is held that the man nominated receives either a first or second choice expression from a majority of all the voters who voted for that office. He holds intact the first choice votes he originally received. In addition to these he receives the second choice votes from enough of the voters who voted for the other candidates to give him a majority. A ballot under this rule would look like this:

	First Choice	Second Choice
A. B.	X
C. D.
E. F.		X
G. H.

The voter in this instance cast his first choice vote for A. B. and his second choice for E. F., the theory being that he wanted A. B. nominated in preference to all others, but that if A. B. could not win his second choice was E. F.

Carried out to a final count after all the voters had been counted the tally sheet would look life this:

Candidates	First Choice	Second Choice
		AB	CD	EF	GH
A. B.	50		30	15	5
C. D.	40	25		10	5
E. F.	25	15			3
G. H.	5	3	1	1

This total would show that A. B. received 50 first choice votes, more than any other single candidate. But the total number of first choice votes cast numbered 120, so he would not receive a majority.

Sixty-one votes would give a majority. As no candidate received a majority of votes, G. H., who received the least number, would be eliminated. He received, but five first choice votes. Each of these, however, would express a second choice vote. The table shows that three expressed a second choice for A. B., one for C. D., and one for E. F.

Then, under the rule, the first choice vote of A. B., C. D. and E. F. would be combined with the second choice votes each received from those voters who originally voted for G. H., A. B., having received three votes, this total would be increased from the original 50 first votes to 53. This would not be a majority so the next lowest man, E. F., would be eliminated, and his second choice votes applied. Of these, A. B. received 15 and C. D. none. A. B. at this point has increased his original first choice vote of 50 to 68 by the three second choice votes he received from the voters who had voted for G. H., first choice and 15 from those voted for E. F., first choice. On the other hand, C. D., who stood next highest in the race, received but one second choice vote, from G .H. and none from E. F. Then his original 40 first choice votes would be increased by but one. A. B., in other words, has a total of 68 votes or more than a majority of the total of the original first choice votes cast and he would be declared the nominee.

The theory carried further is this, that A. B. received either a first or second choice vote from the majority of all the voters voting at the election. He received 50 first choice votes at the outset. To this was added the second choice votes of 15 who voted for E. F. and three from those who voted for G. H. His nomination would be by majority.

As applied to the three largest cities the law means that as far as the nominations for state legislative, congressional, United States senators, and county officers are concerned the second choice rule would apply. The nominations of all judges, municipal officers in Minneapolis and the county superintendents of school are placed on a non-partisan basis.

Here the second choice provision does not apply. But the two men receiving the highest number of votes for each office at the primary election are declared the non-partisan nominees. They will oppose each other for the office at te general election.

In Minnesota.

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

Mankato.—District Judge Pfau has sentenced Gust Eichhorn and Harry Chittenden to the state reformatory for their part in the robbery of the Mint saloon.

Brainerd.—Plats of the park addition to Oreland, Raymond's addition to Crosby, have been filed. These are all additions to towns on the Cuyuna iron range.

Cass Lake.—W. W. Goog, proprietor of a summer hotel fifteen miles from Remer, was found dead in his boat. A hemorrhage caused death. The body was taken to St. Paul for burial.

Truman.—At the annual stockholders' meeting of the Truman Farmers' Elevator company, the treasurer's report showed a net profit of $3,200. L. Smith was re-elected president for the ninth time.

Windom.—Distrirt court, which has been in session two weeks, came abruptly to an end, as many of the cases upon the calendar were continued or dismissed. No criminal case were tried.

Owatonna.—Within a short time after attending the funeral of his brother, C. H. Reineke was stricken with the same ailment and died within a few moments. Both died of heart failure and both were aged pioneers.

Brainerd.—The Crow Wing county Sunday school association will hold its convention here June 25 and 26. The annual convention of the W. C. T. U. of the fifteenth district met yesterday and will continue in session today.

Owatonna.—The barn of U. G. Jensen near Ellendale, was struck by lightning and with all its contents, burned to the ground. Seven horses were burned to death. The loss is estimated at $4,000, partly covered by insurance.

Belgrade.—Mrs. Annia Froehler of this city was buried at New Munich. She was 91 years old, and was one of the oldest settlers, being one of the first to settle between St. Paul and here. She is survived by two sons and one daughter.

Minneapolis. — Grace Presbyterian church's silver communion set, valued at $100, was stolen from the pastor's study and the individual glass cups thrown on the floor and smashed by thieves who came and departed in an automobile.

Mankato.—While a party of autoists were touring this county, their car went down a seventy-five foot embankment into the lake above the Rapidan dam, and sank in fifteen feet of water. All jumped to safety just before it went over the bank. They refused to give their names.

Cass Lake.—W. W. Goog died in a rowboat near his home about 15 miles from Remer and the body has been brought to Cass Lake. Corner Miskella visited the place and ascertained that Goog, who was on the other side of the river from his home, had evidently been taken with a hemorrhage.

Winona.—The petition for the appointment of a board to frame and draft a new city charter with the commission form of government has been filed 600 signatures, or more than the required number. It is expected Judge Snow will shortly appoint the commission and it will complete its work so it can be submitted to the voters at the November election.

Fergus Falls.—Two merchants filed bankruptcy petitions in the United States court in this city. Forest H. Hillard, who has been in the drug business at Crookston, places his assets at $8,897.02 in real estate and stock in trade, and his liabilities at $4,635.52. Louis A. Wideman, who has been in the general merchandise business at LaPorte, Hubbard county, places his assets at $625, of which $275 is exempt, and his liabilities at $3,159.32.

Minneapolis.— Dr. Herbert W. Hill, epidemiologist for the state board of health, has resigned to accept the office of director of the institute of public health, and the chief executive office of the medical faculty at Western university at London, Ontario. He will assume his new position in August. Dr. Hill has been with the state board of health seven years. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto and Johns Hopkins university, and was previously engaged in public health work in Louisville and Boston.

Minneapolis, Minn., — The annual session of the Minnesota grand lodge of the Odd Fellows and the Daughters of Rebekah has ended. Miss Ella Kohn of St. Cloud, was elected president of the Rebekahs. Three candidates contested the secretaryship with Miss Lucy Bolton of St. Paul, but she finally triumphed over the others. Miss Lena Waber of West Concord was elected vice president, Mrs. M. McGilaroy warden and Mrs. Lulu Baker of Kasson treasurer. A present of $100 was voted to Mrs. Milville, retiring secretary.

Winona.—The twenty-second spring meeting of the Southeastern Minnesota Baptist association was held at the First Baptist church in this city Tuesday and Wednesday, June 18 and 19., Rev. T. L. Ketman of Chicago will made an address on Tuesday afternoon and the speakers at the Tuesday evening session were Rev. E. R. Pope, of Minneapolis and Rev. V. N. Robbins who preached the annual sermon. Saturday, June 22, 1912.

The democratic national convention convenes at Baltimore next Tuesday.

What our national republican convention is going to do is largely a matter of conjecture. At present writing the affair —on which, by the way, the eyes of the world are focused—appears to have degenerated into a mere svuabble, and to rival, if not equal, the fracases in ward heeling caucuses in the cities.

In a day or two an announcement is expected of the senatorial intentions of Senator Nelson. Discretion would suggest to him that he delay his announcement until after the national convention period, lest it be lost in the hubbub. Local politics are drowned out by the turmoil from the presidential battles.—Dispatch.

The Extra Session

When The Herald was advocating an extra session of the legislature this argument was made in opposition.

A legislature of the character of that which adjourned in April, 1911, would accomplish nothing and it would be a waste of public money and a public calamity to call it together again.

While this newspaper admitted that the legislature of 1911 had faults in plenty, it took the position that it was nowhere near so bad as it was painted. If it had thought for a moment that an extra session would be a fruitless expense, The Herald never would have advocated calling one.

Though from the governor down the line many declared that there would be no extra session and that if there should be one nothing would come of it, there WAS an extra session, which has just adjourned, and much of value came from it.

These things have resulted from the session just closed, besides several others of minor importance:

1. A measure proposing to the people an increase in the railroad gross earnings tax rate from 4 per cent to 5 per cent, from which the state will gain about a million dollars a year.

2. A statewide primary bill which take the political power out of the hands of the bosses who have abused it and restore it to the people, with a second choice provision which prevents the bosses from regaining that power by bringing about the nomination of minority candidates.

3. A corrupt practices act which will curb the power of money in politics.

4 and 5. The ratification by this state of the income tax amendment to the Federal Constitution, and of the amendment providing for the popular election of United States senators. The ratification of the income tax amendment redeems the legislature's failure of 1911, and the ratification of the amendment granting the people the right to elect United States senators gives Minnesota the high honor of being second among the states to approve this amendment.

6. The adoption of a joint resolution calling upon the state tax commission to see to it that all railroad property not used for railroad purposes, and therefore contributing no taxes through the gross earnings system, be placed on the tax rolls, including back years.

7. The senate also passed a resolution asking the tax commission to investigate and report upon the advisability of abandoning the gross earnings plan of taxing railroads and reverting to the ad valorem system, taxing railroad property exactly as other property is taxed, according to its value; and a resolution providing for an investigation of the question of brewery ownership of saloons.

All this in a session of exactly two weeks, with no unseemly altercations or disgraceful bickerings.

It is a record which will go far to redeem the legislature of Minnesota from its disrepute following the regular session, and the fact that all these progressive measures were adopted by votes that were practically unanimous shows that the people of Minnesota are awake and determined and that their public servants—some of them, at least—realize it.

The conspicuous failure of the session, of course, was reapportionment. It was evident from the first day of the session that no reapportionment bill could be passed, as the senate was even more firmly determined to defeat it than it was at the regular session. The knowledge of this, coupled with the fear of house members that consideration of the measure would prolong the session without accomplishing anything more, prevented the bill from coming to a final vote in the house.

The Herald is proud of the legislature because it has amply justified the confidence in it on which The Herald's extra session campaign was based.—Duluth Herald.

The Old Guard Dies

The Honorable William Lorimer has been the storm center for some time past, and before this reaches the reader it is likely that the body which he profaned will be rid of his presence forever. This in spite of the "whitewash" resolutions in which, F., S. & H. regrets to say, the senior senator from Minnesota joined.

But enough of Lorimer. Consider for the moment the price that has already been paid by his defenders for their betrayal of the public, and its not over-squeamish sense of official decency One by one those who have constituted the "Old Guard" in the senate, have been called before the bar of public opinion, and have been found wanting.

This has been the deliberate judgment of a people not too curious about technicalities, but filled with the idea that the senate should be clean, and that those chosen to that high body should represent the will of the people. Cullom sits in the senate no longer endorsed by Illinois; Paynter, has been repudiated by his own people; and such a fate has been the lot of Senator Foster. Bailey, who but a few years ago looked like a leader of the people, like Judas of old, has hanged himself politically thru voluntary retirement. Guggenheim will leave the senate at the end of this term. Crane and Penrose and Oliver and Briggs all go into oblivion, so far as the political life of the national is concerned. The last of the "Old Guard" to suffer defeat at the hands of the people is Gamble of South Dakota, and the rejection of Layfayette Young by the voters of Iowa is an emphatic assurance that there will be no reinforcements to the ranks of standpatism from that state. These were the defenders of Lorimer. This is their fate.

Will Senator Nelson, who stood by both Lorimer and Stephenson, be endorsed by Minnesota?—Farm Stock and Home.

Who is to Blame?

If there is, as Prof William Burdick told the St. Paul College of Law last night, "a storm of criticism from pulpit press and people against the bench," how can it be unjust as he asserts? It is wholly improbable that these three great estates should unite in a storm of criticism without a solid foundation. Prof. Burdick would acquit the bench and lay the trouble at the door of the system. In a lagre measure he is right in this. But the chances are that the storm of criticism to which he refers is really directed at the system and not at the judidiary itself. But the pulpit, press and people probably again unite in holding the judictary and the legal fraternity responsible for the continuance in the system of the abuses which stir up the storm. The profession should be the first to move and the most active to provide the remedy.—Dispatch.

Why We Fight Tuberculosis

People used to think tuberculosis was inherited. If your parents had it, you were sure to have it, was the idea. When it was studied more this proved false and it was also found that tuberculosis killed more people than any other disease, and that it can be prevented. There is no need of getting tuberculosis.

Cleanliness, light and air in the house do much to prevent development of germs which may lodge there from those who already have the disease.

There were 1,535 people killed on the Titanic and yet in Minnesota each year over 2,000 people die of tuberculosis. Most of these lives can be saved. Isn't it worth fighting for?

Tuberculosis very often takes the man of the house when he is in his prime and children are dependent on him. And yet tuberculosis is easily controlled.

The state spends three cents per capita to keep the public healthy and $1.50 per capita to educate the children. It spends more to protect and develop the game and fish of the state than it does to guard public health.

Pathfinder Car Here Thursday

The Pathfinding party for the annual reliability run of the Minnesota State Automobile association passed through here Thursday afternoon. In the party were J. H. Prior, official pathfinder; H. H. Clark, representing the Scaroborough Co., Indinapolis, Ind., making maps; George Murphy, veteran automobile driver; R. E. Tucker, representing the Frederick E. Murphy Automobile Co., Minneapolis, northwestern distributors of Mitchell cars. Jos Helm accompanied them from Red Lake Falls as a pilot.

The annual reliability run of the state association is to be from Minneapolis to Winnipeg. The start will be made on Wednesday, July 24, and the cars are scheduled to reach Winnipeg Saturday noon, July 27. About 25 cars carrying 115 people, will make the run. The party will arrive at St. Hilaire Friday July 25, at about 6 p. m.

The pathfinding is done by a Mitchell "Baby Six" 48 h. p. stock touring car An accurate road map of the entire route is being made for the 1,000 mile run. This map will be used by the tourists and will later be incorporated in the official route book of the association.

Minneapolis Excursionists

The Minneapolis trade extension excursionists arrived here Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and remained about 15 minutes.

The First regiment band, accompanying the excursion marched up on main street and rendered a few selections.

The Minneapolis men are traveling in a special train of eight coaches. They left Minneapolis Monday and went to Winnipeg by way of Crookston. Thence to Bemidji and International Falls.

Save the Boys

The conservation of the created resources of the state and nation is one of the big problems of the American people to solve. The Minnesota fire marshal department is putting forth its best endeavors along this line in persistently calling the attention of the people of the state to reduce the annual ash heap by the elimination of hazardous fire condition.

If the people of Minnesota could be brought to realize the enormous and unnecessary fire loss, amounting in 1911 to nearly $6,000,000, fully seventy per cent of this loss could have been saved to the people if proper care had been used. The stupendous fire waste in this country every year has been justly termed "Our National Folly." The annual per capita fire waste in the United States is estimated at $2.51. In Minnesota in 1911 it reached nearly $3.00 per capita, while in Europe the loss was only 33 cents. The sense of the criminality and immorality of needless fire waste is not yet fully realized by the people of Minnesota. In France for instance, there is a law dating from the time of Napoleon, providing that if a fire starts in your house or property and damages the property of your neighbor you will be held liable to the owner thereof. In other European countries a heavy liability rests on the party on whose promises the fire starts. In this country the fires are fought bravely by the fire department, regular and volunteer, the ashes are viewed when the waste is completed, the insurance companies settle the policies and all is over.

Minnesota will no doubt celebrate July 4, in a manner which befits the occasion. Practically every village and hamlet will have on display and for sale the dangerous and death dealing fire cracker. For several years a concerted movement has been made in the cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis looking to the reduction of loss and property from this source to the minimum. And the results obtained have been most gratifying, demonstrating that it would be possible to absolutely eliminate the fire caused by this agency. The insurance rates in Minnesota are entirely too high and they can only be materially reduced by the people of the state taking hold of the matter. In preventing or curtailing the use of the fire cracker and other sort of fire works the mayors and councils of various municipalities of the state can assist very materially.

The small boy of course enjoys the fire cracker for the noise it makes and the element of danger in their use. From the year 1903 to 1910, 37,282 people of this nation were either killed outright or badly wounded by the careless handling of fireworks. The annual slaughter is fast approaching and it is largely up to the people of this state as to the number that will be sacrificed by this false idea of patriotism. The annual property loss as the result of 4th of July fires reaches astounding figures. These losses increase the fire tax on the people because the insurance companies must recoup their losses from those who are responsible for them.

City and village authorities are urged to co-operate with the Minnesota state fire marshal in eliminating the losses caused by the careless use of fire works. Aside from the small profit that dealers make in handling these wares no one could possibly lose, and the welfare of the masses should not be jeopardized for the benefit of a few.

An ordinance or resolution absolutely prohibiting the sale and use of fire crackers or other fire works in every municipality in this state is justifiable and would have a most wholesome effect.

Chapter 28, General Laws of 1907, regulates the size of fire cracker, and prohibits the use of blank cartridge fire arms as follows:

"Section 1. Every person who shall manufacture, use, sell or keep for sale within this state any blank cartridge pistol, blank cartridge firearms, blank cartridges, caps containing dynamite, and fire crackers exceeding three inches in length, and exceeding one-half of an inch in diameter, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

Village authorities and city councils will be doing the public a signal service if they will forthwith pass an ordinance absolutely prohibiting the use and sale of these goods.

C. E. KELLER,
State Fire Marshal.

Annual Meeting

Annual Meeting

Wylie Minn., May 29, 1912.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Wylie Farmers' elevator and Mercantile company will be held at Wylie, Minn., on July 1, 1912, at 1 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing nine (9) directors for ensuing year and to transact such other business as may be properly done at such meeting

EARNEST J. AKERLAND, j15-3t Secretary.

Bids for Manager

The board of directors of the St. Hilaire Farmers' Co-operative Elevator company will receive sealed bids for manager of the elevator and feed grinder for the term of one year, commencing August 1, 1912.

Bids to be opened July 15, 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

Address R. J. McKERCHER, Secretary.

District Court

The annual spring session of the district court will convene in Thief River Falls next Monday with Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren on the bench. It is expected that this term will be an unusually long one as there are a number of cases that will be tried, some of which will be hard-fought and interesting. There are twenty-eight civil cases on the calendar and one criminal case. Another criminal case will be moved on and there may be more when the grand jury brings in its report.

Municipal Court

Judge Tarrant and the municipal court was busy Tuesday afternoon with the case of Daniel Patterson against G. W. Hooper, both of St. Hilaire. The case was tried by a jury and a verdict rendered in favor of Mr. Patterson.—Thief River Falls Times

Road Work

The town board of Black River will meet at the home of Arthur Aubolson on Friday, June 28, 1912, for the purpose of letting contracts for work in constructing a highway on the town line between Black River and Sanders.

DAN I. WHALEN,
j15-j22 Chairman.

Could Play Base Ball

The celebrated Tenessee minstrels gave an entertainment Saturday evening to a light house, the affair not having been very well advertised, which was lucky, as they charged 50 cents admission to what proved to be a poor speciman of the typical negro minstrel show. However, they were some ball players. They defeated the Gophers with a score of 12 to 2, the Thief River Falls first team made a score of 3 to their 14; they "shut out" the Warren team by 6 to 0. In fact, they beat everything they played with in this section of the country.

Fierce Hailstorms in England.

Large stories are told of the damage done by hailstones in Minnesota recently. However, Old England itself has some statistics to show. On May 30, 1897, a terrific hailstorm visited Seaford, Sussex. Some of the "bolts" measure 4½ inches in circumference, after lying on the ground for fully seven minutes. On June 24, in the same year, the most disastrous visitation of the kind in modern times ravaged parts of Essex and the adjacent counties.

Animals and poultry were killed and crops ruined. At Ingatestone the hail broke through a slated roof, and at Baddow it went through windows and cut the blinds to pieces. The damage in Essex alone was at least $500,000.

The latest storm of exceptional violence occurred in Huntingdonshire on August 2, 1906. The "hail" consisted of hard pieces of ice, from three to four inches in length, and killed rabbits and other small animals wholesale.

Hooked a Swordfish.

Eight miles off Newport, Cal., a 12 foot swordfish, with a sword four feet long, caught on an "80" hook by Hugh McMillan and G. G. Shoemaker, towed the fishermen's launch two miles, after having charged the boat repeatedly and scarred the stern in numerous places. The monster was killed after half an hour's fight. It weighed several hundred pounds.

When the big fish was first caught it charged to the surface, endangering the lives of two men and of other men in two near-by launches. The captors of the monster were towed almost out of sight of the men in the other boats Persons ashore refused to believe that the two men caught the fish on their 27-strand cotton line until the story was vouched for by the men in the other launches.

Bear Wanted to Play with Children.

While the children of John Herron were playing in front of their home, at Duryea, Pa., a she-bear and her cub appeared on the scene. The baby bear ran up and wanted to play with the children, kitten-like, but the mother bear called it back, while the youngsters ran into the house. As Mr. Herron was not at home and no one who could shoot was around the visitors remained unmolested. After sniffing about the yard for a while and eating a few apples and potato peelings at the back door, the bears rambled away.

Breakfasting with Whistler.

There was a foreign painter who used to breakfast at Chelsea, and when Mr. Carr asked him if he had been there lately he replied: "Oh, no; not now so much. He ask me a leetle while ago to breakfast, and I go. My cab fare, two shilling, 'arf a crown. I arrive, very nice. Goldfish in bowl, very pretty. But breakfast—one egg, one toast—no more! Oh, no. My cab fare, two shillings, 'arf a crown. For me no more!"—London Telegraph.

Preferred the Insomnia.

A story is told of the late bishop of London, Dr. Creighton, and Lord Rosebery. Lord Rosebery complained to the bishop of want of sleep, to which the bishop replied that he never suffered from insomnia. The earl observed that he wished he knew the remedy. The bishop's formula was very simple. If he felt drowsy he started to write a sermon and in a few moments he was wide awake. On the other hand if he wanted to sleep all he had to do was to start to read a sermon. Then sleep came in a few seconds. Lord Rosebery replied that it was his practice to choose the lesser evil, and he preferred want of sleep to reading sermons [illegible]

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice is Hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage containing power of sale, executed by Herby L. Quist and Judith A. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, dated 18th day of April, A. D. 1910, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April A. D. 1910, at 5:00 p. m. in book 8 of mortgages on page 619 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and after the division of Red Lake county at the organization of Pennington county, transcribed into the records of Pennington county, Minnesota, and that the same is transcribed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 23 of mortgages on page 37 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and on the 4th day of June A. D. 1912, for a valuable consideration and by an instrument in writing, dated on that day, duly executed and acknowledged by said Johnson Van Sant Co., said mortgagee, sold, assigned, and transferred to C. L. Hansen, which said written assignment was thereafter and on the 10th day of June A. D 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m., of that day filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, and duly recorded in book 8 of mortgages on page 91 thereof, and that at the date of this notice there is claimed to be due and is actually due on the said mortgage, according to the terms thereof, the total sum of three hundred ten and 54-100 (310.54) dollars. Said sum consisting of an unpaid balance of one hundred twenty (120.00) dollars on the note secured by the said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of six, (6), per cent per annum from and after May 1, 1911, and of two interest payments for the sum of eighty-eight (88.00) dollars each, due respectively May 1, 1911, and May 1, 1912, on a prior mortgage on the land hereinafter described, which said interest payments were paid by the mortgagee herein, and of interest on each of the said interest payment from the respective due dates thereof to the date hereof, at the rate of six (6) per cent annum and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt or any part thereof secured by said mortgage.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises therein described at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the main front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on Monday the 29th day of July A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage with interest thereon from the date hereof and the costs and expenses of such sale and the sum of twenty-five (25.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold is all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Pennington, and state of Minnesota, described as follows: Northeast quarter (ne¼) of section thirty-four (34), township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-one (41).

Dated June 10, 1912.

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

Anything that is overdone or underdone is not good.

This is especially true of baking—and it is just as true of baking powder. If you use the cheap and Big Can Kinds you are getting quantity at the sacrifice of quality. It cannot be as good—or as economical as Calumet—the medium price kind. If you use the High Price Kind, you are paying tribute to the Trust—the quality is no better.

THE PEEVISH CHILD NEEDS TREATMENT

When a child sulks drowsily, or is fretful, it is usually due to some slight disorder of the digestive organs, and a mild laxative is very often all that is necessary to restore cheerfulness and buoyancy of spirits.

In cases where the use of a gentle, effective laxative stimulant is indicated, many of the best physicians are now prescribing Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This preparation is admittedly the perfect laxative, being mild, yet positive in its action on the bowels, and far preferable to violent cathartics and purgative waters. It is very pleasant to the taste and is an ideal remedy to regulate and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels. Its easy, natural action makes it especially desirable in the case of children, a dose at bed-time being sure to have the desired result next morning, with no attendant unpleasantness or discomfort.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere in 50c and $1.00 bottles. If you have never tried this splendid remedy, write to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 201 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., for a sample. He will be very glad to send a trial bottle without any expense to you whatever.

They Must Make Ananias Jealous.

"Oh, we have had just a delightful time at your party. We want you to come and take dinner with us just as soon as you can."

"Honestly, I think you have got just the cutest baby I have ever seen."

"Gee, I can sing a lot better when I haven't got a cold."

"My husband is just as sweet as he can be around the house. He never gets cross and never scolds when dinner isn't ready, and is so neat that a piece of lint on the carpet almost drives him crazy.

"We expect to spend next summer abroad."

U. S. STILL HOLDS APACHES

Only Six of Tribe Ever Fought Government, but All Held in Bitter Captivity.

Phoenix, Ariz.—In the early 80's Colorado-Magnus, Victoria, and Gochie had made the very name Apache a synonym of terror, and then came Geronimo, the superlative savage. Neither sentiment nor friendly feeling can minimize the shocking cruelties of his career, which history has recorded as the high-water mark of bloodthirsty brutality. The extreme hatred and fear felt toward him in the southwest may be guessed from the following incident:

Some years ago the writer was a member of a little group gathered at a ranch in the desert near Phoenix, Ariz., when the conversation turned to Geronimo and his recent conversion to the Christian faith. A lady of the party, the wife of a prominent citizen, immediately flushed with anger and burst out hotly: "If I should see Jacob's ladder let down from heaven, with the angels walking up and down, and Geronimo with his harp in the middle, still I would not believe that he was a Christian." When asked to explain the intensity of her feelings, she said: "When I was a young girl I lived at Tombstone, Ariz., in rooms over the undertaker's establishment, and from time to time had to go down to help prepare the mutilated and desecrated bodies of Apache victims, and you needn't talk about Geronimo being a Christian." This is the sentiment of most of the old-timers—so much so, indeed, that the war department never thought it safe, even in his later years, for the old man to return to Arizona. Let us then be fair and admit the untold and untellable miseries inflicted by him and his band in those dreadful days of raid and massacre.

"Civilized" Apache.

However, did the space of this article allow, we might tell of brilliant generalship, dauntless courage and incredible endurance on the part of the leader and his band, that forced the United States army and their Mexican and Indian allies into one of the most difficult campaigns in the history of Indian warfare—a campaign that tested to the utmost men like Crook, Miles, Wood, Lawton and Chaffee, and that came to an end only when, exhausted by famine, thirst and continuous marching through mountains and deserts, the bedraggled fragments of the worn-out band of men, women and children came in and surrendered. No man who fought in that campaign will sneer at the Apache as a soldier.

REINDEER QUEEN OF ALASKA

Woman Successfully Competes With Men in Breeding Animals—She Speaks Eight Languages.

Nome, Alaska.—When a woman in an enlightened country makes her way to a front rank in the industrial world, the fact soon becomes known and people are eager to learn something of the conditions that brought it about and of the character of the one who accomplished it. That a woman with a brown skin should also successfully compete with the men of her race is less generally understood. Out of the 260 Eskimos who own reindeer in Alaska, two are women. One of these, Mary Arisarlook Andrewnk, has received the title of "Reindeer Queen of Alaska."

"Queen Mary" owns a herd of 1,303 deer, which she manages with judgment and intelligence. According to the usual contract made with the government she is required to train three apprentices and to give to each the customary number of deer. She has done better than this. She has trained and rewarded eight or ten apprentices, and at the present time has another under her care. She long since discarded the igloo, or native hut, half underground, in which she was born, and is now comfortably housed near Nome, in a cabin of logs. She speaks seven or eight Indian languages, and this has enabled her to be of considerable service as an interpreter.

Queen Mary has brought up a number of helpless children, and having none of her own, has not only cared for them physically, but has also given them a place in her heart. Surely, according to her light, "she hath done her part."

FAMILY OF 11 ON LONG HIKE

Carry Camp Supplies in Wagon, Expecting to Reach Los Angeles by November 1.

Kansas City, Mo.—A family of 11—C. C. Cousins and children, Maude, and Audrey, and Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Cousins and children, Harry and Irene are walking to the Pacific coast. The journey is being made for the health of several members of the party.

The Cousinses walked here from St. Louis. All are musicians. Their kit contains violins, mandolins and guitars, with which the family plan to give concerts, partly to defray expenses.

Two small wagons carry camp supplies. All the walkers are dressed in heavy khaki and thick soled shoes. They plan to walk about 20 miles a day and reach Los Angeles November 1.

RHEUMATISM A DISEASE OF THE BLOOD

The Treatment Which Is Most Successful Is Directed Toward Building Up and Purifying the Vital Fluid.

That rheumatism is a disease of the blood is shown by the fact that it is hereditary in certain families, and that there is a marked thinning of the blood immediately following its attack.

In the following brief statement are described symptoms which every patient will recognize and the means by which a cure was effected in this case is described with equal fidelity.

If you are suffering from any form of rheumatism with loss of flesh and strength, and thinning of the blood, the remedy that was so effective here deserves a thorough trial.

"About fifteen years ago," says Mrs. Rhoda Pettit, of Louisville, Neb., "after exposure to dampness and wet and being in a run-down condition from overwork, I began to suffer from inflammatory rheumatism. Both my father and mother were sufferers from the same disease. My right side was afflicted and had I no use of my right limb. The cords of the limb seemed to be drawn up. Often the pains would shift from one part of the body to another and, while they were worse in my right limb, they were very severe through the small of my back. There was a sensation as though I was being cut with a knife. My limbs and feet were swollen so that I could not put on my shoes. I suffered intense agony all of the time and when the attacks were severe I was confined to bed for weeks. My stomach was in bad shape. I was troubled with heartburn and gas. I lost weight and my strength was all gone.

"I took medicine from a doctor and tried several other remedies and liniments but nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had taken them only a short time before I could feel the new blood and after a fair trial I was able to walk. The pills made me a strong, healthy woman and I am entirely cured of the rheumatism. I know I would not be living today if I had not tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. The genuine are sold only in packages bearing the full trade-mark.

Accounted For.

"Why are there so many men in this jail?" asked the philanthropic reformer.

"I guess," answered the guide, "it's chiefly because they can't get out."

Garfield Tea the International Remedy for all irregularities of stomach, liver and kidneys is composed entirely of pure herbs.

Some men are bashful when it comes to meeting their obligations.

RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

Doctors Could Not Help Mrs. Templeton—Regained Health through Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

Hooper, Nebraska.—"I am very glad to tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped me. For five years I suffered from female troubles so I was scarcely able to do my work. I took doctors' medicines and used local treatments but was not helped. I had such awful bearing down pains and my back was so weak I could hardly walk and could not ride. I often had to sit up nights to sleep and my friends thought I could not live long. At my request my husband got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I commenced to take it. By the time I had taken the seventh bottle my health had returned and I began doing my washing and was a well woman. At one time for three weeks I did all the work for eighteen boarders with no signs of my old trouble returning. Many have taken your medicine after seeing what it did for me. I would not take $1000 and be where I was. You have my permission to use my name if it will aid anyone."—Mrs. SUSIE TEMPLETON, Hooper, Nebraska.

The Pinkham record is a proud and peerless one. It is a record of constant victory over the obstinate ills of woman—ills that deal out despair. It is an established fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has restored health to thousands of such suffering women. Why don't you try it if you need such a medicine?

BUILDINGS IN CHINA

Homes and Temples Have Original and Unique Style.

Ideas Were Not Borrowed—Basis of Construction, Both External and Internal, Is That of the Nomad's Tent.

Pekin, China.—Isolated from other nations by geographical barriers, such as seas, deserts and mountains ranges, the Chinese developed a civilization which was entirely their own. Their customs, arts and sciences were indigenous and original. They borrowed little or nothing from other peoples, but built upon their own foundations. The architecture of the Chinese is typical of the originality of their civilization; it contains no borrowed elements, no exotic features.

The Chinese house exhibits certain features which can be traced directly back to the tents of the barbarian ancestors of the Chinese, who wandered into China from the west. The roof of a Chinese house, though made of rafters and tiles, still retains the shape of a tent. It hangs in graceful curves and is caught up at the corners like canvas. It does not rest upon the walls of the house, but upon wooden pillars, which are placed in the same position as the poles of a tent. The process of construction reminds one of the erection of a tent; the pillars and the roof are erected first and the walls are filled in afterward.

It is not only externally but internally that the Chinese house reminds one of a tent. There is no ceiling to hide the inner surface of the sloping roof and its supporting rafters. Instead of a wooden floor there is only a layer of bricks to cover the cold earth. The brick floor is covered with mats and rugs, which also remind one of a tent. The furniture is portable and makes one think of the desert. Most of the movables in a Chinese house, even the stove, could be loaded on the back of a camel or carried on a pole. A Chinese house is a composite affair, consisting of a number of buildings arranged around squares or courtyards, much as one would pitch tents around campfires.

Chinese Architecture.

Comparing the buildings of the Chinese with those of the ancient Egyptians we find that Chinese architecture is weakest in that quality which the Egyptian buildings possessed in the highest degree, namely, stability. The buildings of the Egyptians were satisfying and restful to look upon because they had the appearance of being built to stand till doomsday. Those of the Chinese, on the contrary, seem to have been built for one generation only.

The Greeks were the first people to produce a type of architecture which combined delicacy of design and stability in such a way as to secure a maximum quality.

The quality of purity, for which the Greek architecture has been so much praised, is also characteristic of the Chinese. The buildings of the Chinese display no unnecessary or exotic features. They are true to themselves and have borrowed no elements from other styles.

The roof, with its graceful curves, is the most beautiful part of a Chines house. In fact, besides the Japanese, who have learned from them, the Chinese are the only people who build beautiful roofs. Following out the theory that one cannot have too much of a good thing, they often ornament their buildings with several roofs, one above the other, thus producing a very beautiful effect.

EXCAVATE IN AHAB'S PALACE

Savants of United States Dig Up Kitchen Utensils of Ancient Palestine King.

Cambridge, Mass., May 28.—An expedition under Prof. George Reisner of Harvard has just completed a series of excavations in the palace of King Ahab in Palestine. One of the most remarkable finds was the kitchen of the palace, where more than 5,000 ancient household utensils were uncovered. Dr. Reisner is preparing a complete report of his work of excavation, illustrated with plans and photographs, which is expected to arrive soon in this country.

ECZEMA DISFIGURED BABY

"Our little boy Gilbert was troubled with eczema when but a few weeks old. His little face was covered with sores even to back of his ears. The poor little fellow suffered very much. The sores began as pimples, his little face was disfigured very much. We hardly knew what he looked like. The face looked like raw meat. We tied little bags of cloth over his hands to prevent him from scratching. He was very restless at night, his little face itched.

"We consulted two doctors at Chicago, where we resided at that time. After trying all the medicine of the two doctors without any result, we read of the Cuticura Remedies, and at once bought Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Following the directions carefully and promptly we saw the result, and after four weeks, the dear child's face was as fine and clean as any little baby's face. Every one who saw Gilbert after using the Cuticura Remedies was surprised. He has a head of hair which is a pride for any boy of his age, three years. We can only recommend the Cuticura Remedies to everybody." (Signed) Mrs. H. Albrecht, Box 883, West Point, Neb., Oct. 26, 1910. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

OUTDOOR LIFE.

Will Not Offset the Ill Effects of Coffee and Tea When One Cannot Digest Them.

A farmer says:

"For ten years or more I suffered from dyspepsia and stomach trouble, caused by the use of coffee (Tea contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee), until I got so bad I had to give up coffee entirely and almost give up eating. There were times when I could eat only boiled milk and bread; and when I went to the field to work I had to take some bread and butter along to give me strength.

"I doctored steady and took almost everything I could get for my stomach in the way of medicine, but if I got any better it only lasted a little while. I was almost a walking skeleton.

"One day I read an ad for Postum and told my wife I would try it, and as to the following facts I will make affidavit before any judge:

"I quit coffee entirely and used Postum in its place. I have regained my health entirely and can eat anything that is cooked to eat. I have increased in weight until now I weigh more than I ever did. I have not taken any medicine for my stomach since I began using Postum.

"My family would stick to coffee at first, but they saw the effects it had on me and when they were feeling bad they began to use Postum, one at a time, until now we all use Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Ten days' trial of Postum in place of coffee proves the truth, an easy and pleasant way.

Warm Compliment.

A fancy-dress ball was held in a certain garrison town recently, at which many military officers and men attended. A soldier attired as a lady was spoken to by the regimental chaplain.

"Well, young man," said the parson, "you are very well got up. Did you win a prize?"

"Yes, chum; I got second prize. Did you get a prize?"

"Me? Oh, no; I——"

"Well, now, that's rotten bad luck, I call it," said the Tommy, warmly, "for you are about the best get-up of a parson I've seen lately."—London Tit-Bits.

HARD FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

It's hard enough to keep house if in perfect health, but a woman weak, tired and suffering with an aching back has a heavy burden. Any woman in this condition has cause to suspect kidney trouble, especially if the kidney action seems disordered. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured thousands. It is the best recommended special kidney remedy.

Mrs. John Robinson, 908 Burney St., Modesto, Cal., Says: "My back was so lame and sore I was practically helpless. My feet and ankles swelled, puffy spots appeared beneath my eyes and I became so dizzy I had to grasp something to keep from falling. Relief quickly followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills and it was not long before I was enjoying good health."

TAFT GETS IN ON FIRST BALLOT

HAS 21 MORE THAN MAJORITY—SHERMAN HIS RUNNING MATE.

ROOSEVELT IN BOLT

Rump Convention Nominates Colonel And Plans For "Regular" Meeting Some Weeks Later.

Convention Hall, Chicago. — With nearly 350 of the Roosevelt delegates declining to vote and hastening away at adjournment time to tender to Colonel Roosevelt the nomination of a new party, the 15th Republican national convention at the end of a long and tumultuous session renominated Wm. Howard Taft of Ohio for president, and James Schoolcraft Sherman of New York vice-president.

President Taft received 561 of the 1,078 votes in the convention, or 21 more than a majority. Vice President Sherman's vote was 579.

The decision of the Roosevelt people under direction of their leader, to refrain from voting, left no other candidate near the president. The announcement of the Taft victory was greeted with cheering from his adherents and groans and hisses from the opposition.

Agreed on Sherman.

When it became absolutely certain that Mr. Taft would be nominated without great difficulty, the leaders in control of the convention decided to give him as a running mate his companion on the ticket in 1908.

All others dropped from the race and Mr. Sherman was the only candidate regularly placed before the convention. A motion from New Hampshire to make the nomination by acclimation was declared out of order. There were many scattering votes on the roll call that ensued.

William H. Taft.

The convention, amid much confusion, adjourned sine die.

At no time was there any indication of a walk-out of Roosevelt delegates. They expressed their revolt by silence. The revolt was open from the moment the permanent roll containing the names of contested delegates was approved.

A "valedictory" statement was read in behalf of Colonel Roosevelt, asking that his name be not presented and that his delegates sit in mute protest against all further proceedings.

Roosevelt Forces Divided.

A great majority of the Roosevelt delegates in the Illinois and all in the Missouri and Idaho delegations declined to follow this advice, but Colonel Roosevelt's sway over the delegations from California, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and West Virginia was all but absolute.

Most of the delegates from these states announced their purpose of helping to give Roosevelt an independent nomination, at another hall later in the evening.

The split in the convention occasioned no surprise. It was but a fulfillment of predictions that had been made during the past several days.

The closing scenes of the convention were marked by counter demonstrations for President Taft and Colonel Roosevelt.

The first test vote after the announcement of the Roosevelt valedictory came on the adoption of the party platform. The affirmative vote was 666. Roosevelt delegates present and not voting numbered 343. There were 53 nays, 36 of them from the La Follette states of Wisconsin and North Dakota.

The name of Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin was placed before the convention, but Colonel Roosevelt's wishes were carried out by his followers and they remained silent during the call of the state for nominations.

COL. THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Many of the delegates, however, carried out their primary instructions and voted for the colonel.

On the voting for president the Roosevelt delegates again as a rule remained silent. The detailed vote was: Taft, 561; Roosevelt, 107; La Follette, 41; Cummins, 17; Hughes, 2; not voting, 344; absent 6.

In the confusion just before adjournment a resolution was adopted giving the national committee power to declare vacant the seat of any man on the committee refusing to support the nominees of the regular convention of 1912.

Former President Theodore Roosevelt was nominated for president on an independent ticket, in the dying hours of the Republican national convention in which he had met defeat.

The followers of Colonel Roosevelt gathered in Orchestra hall, less than a mile from the Coliseum and pledged their support to the former president.

In accepting the nomination Colonel Roosevelt appealed to the people of all sections, regardless of party affiliations, to stand with the founders of the new party, one of whose cardinal principles, he said, was to be "Thou shalt not steal."

The informal nomination of Colonel Roosevelt was said to be chiefly for the purpose of effecting a temporary organization.

Beginning with a call to be issued for a state convention in Illinois, the work of organization will be pushed forward rapidly, state by state. At a later time, probably early in August, it is intended that a national convention shall be held. Colonel Roosevelt, in accepting the nomination said he did so on the understanding that he would willingly step aside if it should be the desire of the new party, when organized, to select another standard bearer.

Prendergast Makes Speech.

The speech nominating Colonel Roosevelt was made by Comptroller William H. Prendergast of New York, who was to have presented the colonel's name to the convention.

Dean William Draper Lewis of the university of Pennsylvania law school, who was to make one of the seconding speeches, delivered the address, which he had prepared for the Republican convention.

Representatives of 22 states composed the notification committee which informed Colonel Roosevelt of his nomination, and in a sense stood as sponsors for the movement.

The committee consisted of Comptroller W. A. Prendergast of New York, Meyer Lissner of California, former Congressman Richmond Pearson of North Carolina, Frank Knox of Michigan, Matthew Hale of Massachusetts, A. R. Garford of Ohio, David Browning of Kentucky, Evard Bierer, Jr., of Utah, Walter Thompson of Vermont, Judge Oscar R. Hundley, of Alabama, Judge Ben F. Lindsay of Colorado; Andrew Rahn of Minnesota, Judge Stevens of Iowa, Judge Lowder of the North Dakota, William Allen White of Kansas, John C. Greenaway of Arizona, ex-Governor John Franklin Fort of New Jersey, Col. E. C. Carrington of Maryland, Pearl Wight of Louisiana, Lorenzo D. Dow of Washington, Walter Clyde John of Illinois, and Frank Frantz of Oklahoma.

Although refusing to discuss the matter in detail, Senator Borah made it known that he would stay on the party reservation. Next to Senator Dixon of Montana, he was the leader of the Roosevelt forces in the preconvention battles. He was officially announced as the faction's choice for temporary chairman of the convention and at the last moment its strength was thrown to Governor McGovern of Wisconsin, who was defeated for the place by Senator Root. Whether this fact had anything to do with Senator Borah's change of front could not be determined.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM DEMANDS "UNTRAMMELED AND INDEPENDENT JUDICIARY."

RECALL IS NOT NECESSARY

Platform, However, Provides for Action to Simplify Removal of Derelict Judges—Taft Universal Peace Idea Indorsed—Changes in Anti-Trust Law Favored.

The platform adopted by the Republican convention opens with a preamble reaffirming allegiance to the party's principles and declares its undying, unchanging faith in government "of the people, by the people and for the people."

It expresses in strong language a demand for the continuance of an "untrammeled and independent judiciary."

It declares for a continuation of the constitution of the United States as it stands today.

It promises to continue to be a party of "advance and constructive statesmanship."

The platform promises to strive, not only in the nation, but in the several states, to enact legislation to safeguard the public health, limit effectively the labor of women and children, and to protect wageearners engaged in dangerous occupations and to enact workmen's compensation laws.

Uphold Court's Integrity.

The platform reaffirms its intention to uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, both state and federal, and demands that the power of the courts to protect life, liberty and property, shall be held inviolate.

The platform favors legislation which will bring more hasty decisions by the courts in both civil and criminal cases, and less tedious and costly apeals.

While announcing that the party regards the recall of judges as unnecessary, the platform declares for such action as may simplify the removal from office of any judge who may be found derelict in his duty.

It indorses the Taft peace idea and the settlement of international disputes peaceably and the reference of all justifiable controversies between nations to an international court of justice.

Anti-Trust Laws.

It declares against special privilege and monopoly and recommends amendments to the present anti-trust laws, defining criminal offenses against the law, and providing for the punishment of the violators.

It recommends the creation of a federal trade commission for the administration and enforcement of federal laws governing interstate commerce and enterprises.

The platform reaffirms Republican belief in a protective tariff. It denounces the tariff for revenue only idea, as destructive to many industries. It recommends the reduction of some of the present import duties.

The Democratic party is condemned for failure to provide funds for the continuance of the tariff board.

The Democratic tariff bills, passed by the present house of representatives, are condemned as sectional, injurious to public credit and destructive of business enterprise.

Promises to Lower "High Cost."

There is a cost of living plank. It recommends a scientific inquiry into the causes, which are operative both in the United States and elsewhere, to increase the cost of living. When the exact facts are known the party pledges itself to enact legislation to remove these causes.

A more elastic currency law is demanded. The platform also asks for legislation which will give the farmers better facilities for borrowing money easily and cheaply. It urges on authoritative investigation of agricultural credit societies and corporations in other countries and the passage of state and federal laws for the supervision of organizations having for their purpose the loaning of money to farmers.

The platform urges the passage of a law enabling the president to extend civil service as "far as practicable."

Prohibition of campaign contributions by corporations is urged.

The publication of campaign contributions is endorsed.

Favors Conservation.

The platform favors a continuation of the conservation policy.

It favors the establishment of a parcels post, postal rates to be graduated under a zone system in proportion to length of carriage.

It declares for the existence of an adequate navy and condemns the Democratic house of representatives for refusing to authorize the construction of additional battleships.

It urges a revival of the merchant marine.

It urges the federal government to assume a part of the burden of controlling the flood waters of the Mississippi river.

UNIT RULE IS ABROGATED

NOMINATION OF PROGRESSIVE IS SEEN BY LEADERS—MUCH TALK OF CLARK BOOM.

WILSON STOCK GROWING.

Wilson Adherents Claim Their Candidate Has Made Gains—Friends of Bryan Are on the Alert.

Baltimore, Md. — The Progressives in the Democratic national convention claimed a notable victory when they carried a motion abrogating the rule by which some state delegations were bound to cast their votes as a unit.

The fight for and against the unit rule was waged particularly about the state of Ohio, where 18 district delegates had been instructed by primaries to vote for Woodrow Wilson, but where the state convention, controlled by the Harmon forces, had invoked the unit rule binding all Ohio delegates to the Ohio governor.

The convention, by a vote of 565 1-2 to 491 1-3 voted that no state delegation should be bound by unit control except in such cases where a state law was mandatory on the subject. Wilson supporters in the convention, who earlier in the evening had carried on a demonstration lasting 33 minutes, regarded the vote as distinctly favoring their candidate. The Wilson boom had been growing throughout the day.

Wilson gained and Harmon lost 18 votes from the Ohio delegation as a result of the fight. It was said the abrogation of the rule might lead to breaks in other delegations and this left the presidential nomination race last night in greater doubt than ever.

With the nominations due to be made, the situation in the Democratic national convention with respect to a presidential candidate is as complex and uncertain as at any time since the delegates began to pour into Baltimore. There was much talk of a subsidence in the Champ Clark wave which reached its crest Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning, but the speaker's campaign managers were not willing to admit there had been any wavering in their forces. At the same time they went to the convention hall with the expressed purpose of offering the issue at the first opportunity.

The opposition forces, hearing of this plan, prepared to block it. They did not wish the nomination to be made until later, hoping the situation might clear a little. The adherents of Woodrow Wilson claim that their candidate has made distinct gains during the day. They assert without giving details that some of the Clark sentiment is turning toward the New Jersey governor and are in a more hopeful mood than at any time during the convention period.

"Dark horses" were being discussed everywhere by the leaders and delegates, but there appeared to be some difficulty in crystallizing sentiment as to which one of the "dark horses" was darkest.

Senator John W. Kern of Indiana, Mr. Bryan's choice for temporary chairman of the convention and chairman of the committee drawing the party platform, still appeared to hold the lead among the "dark horses." The coalition of the Bryan and Wilson forces in the first fight of the convention, however, led to talk of the Bryan strength ultimately going to Wilson.

The one outstanding fact in the situation seemed to be the "absolute impossibility of any candidate having a sufficient number of votes on the first ballot to nominate." The two-thirds rule prevailing in Democratic conventions always makes the picking of a candidate in advance a difficult problem.

After the first ballot is taken it remains to be seen how well the Clark managers can hold their vote together. Some of the delegates predicted that the voting would run through a large number of ballots, while others predicted with equal confidence that the "break" would come quickly and a nomination made on the second or third call of the roll.

Friends of Mr. Bryan practically ceased to boom him as a presidential candidate, though they were reported alert to take advantage of any psychological moments that might happen along. It was reported that many Bryan buttons and banners had arrived in town, but they were not distributed.

Mr. Bryan's followers warmly defend the course he has pursued in the convention and declare he still is in a position to dictate the nominee. Mr. Bryan yesterday declined to accept the chairmanship of the platform committee, but his close friend, Senator Kern, was chosen in his place. Mr. Bryan reports the platform as "coming along nicely."

RAP GEORGIA SOLONS,

Spanish-American War Veterans Bitter in Denunciation.

Duluth.—Senator Hoke Smith and Representative Roddenberry of Georgia were rapped in resolutions adopted by the Spanish-American War Veterans, in session here, for their opposition to legislation favorable to veterans.

The resolutions:

"Whereas, the most imperishable good derived through our recent war with Spain has come through the wiping out of the 'Mason and Dixon line,' the uniting of the North and South by the sending of sons of each to the firing line where in sweet fraternity they learned to love each other and to forget the fierce struggle of their heroic dads in the sixties, in so far as they had a bearing on the part of glory of our country; whereas, Senator Hoke Smith and Representative Roddenberry of the great State of Georgia have seen fit to venomously oppose legislation favorable to the Spanish war veterans, going out of their way to injure our cause and keeping us from getting those things which we are morally entitled to; now therefore, be it Resolved, that this encampment refuses to believe that the gentlemen mentioned represent the true sentiment of the people of their state, and that we as men and comrades who offered our lives for the cause of the Union can well afford to forget that Senator Hoke Smith and Representative Roddenberry ever existed."

The veterans' encampment re-elected Carl K. Reckner of Frank A. Morley Camp No. 1, Red Wing, who has served as department commander for the last six months. O. G. Stansted, a member of William H. Crane Camp No. 8, Faribault, was elected senior vice commander; Joseph G. Ligday of W. A. Lawton Camp No. 12, Winona, was elected junior vice commander; Charles V. McCoy of Major A. M. ODESSO WRECK BLAME.

Indictments Returned Against Milwaukee Road.

Ortonville, — The grand jury which investigated the wreck of the Columbian on the Milwaukee road at Odessa, near here, several months ago, has returned indictments against the railway company, L. W. Gillick, conductor of the first section of the train, and Roy Law, flagman for the same section.

The company was indicted for the negligent use of machinery under its control and legal papers will be served upon officials of the company in the Twin Cities. It is said the charge amounts to manslaughter practically in the second degree.

Conductor Gillick was indicted for the negligent use of machinery under his control and was given time in which to plead.

Flagman Law was indicted for willful violation of the rules of the company. He was arraigned and his case continued.

W. J. Noonan, who was dispatcher at Aberdeen, S. D., at the time of the wreck, has not appeared, although he had promised to do so. He is said to be in Regina, Canada.

250 FIGHT FOREST FIRES.

Two Settlements in Koochiching County in Danger.

St. Paul. — Fierce forest fires are raging in Northern Minnesota. More than 250 men in Koochiching and St. Louis counties are fighting the spread of the flames. Two settlements, Margie and Spur No. 157 in Koochiching county are in danger.

The news of the fires came to State Forester W. T. Cox from state rangers. It was reported that five fires are burning near Northome, that a serious fire is in progress thirty miles from International Falls, and that fires are burning near Ely. None of these settlements is reported in danger.

Mr. Cox has ordered rangers to employ all the men necessary to fight the fires.

Congdon, Hibbing, second vice president; Miss Marie Peisinger, New Prague, third vice president; Fred A. Klenert, Minneapolis, secretary, and L. J. Aberwald, St. Paul, treasurer. F. J. Deneck, Minneapolis, C. H. Heller, St. Paul, and Theo. F. Loeb, Winona, compose the executive committee.

The next convention will be held at St. Paul during the month of February, while the legislature is in session. A half day will be set aside for the discussion of commercial pharmacy at the new pharmacy building of the University of Minnesota, which will be completed by that time. The names of Arthur von Rohr, incumbent, R. H. Messing, J. H. Biese, W. S. Smetana and A. J. Clothes and the Man

A colporteur in South Carolina, walking many miles through mud, accosted a passerby and suggested the purchase of the Bible. He was refused. The next day, says the Record of Christian Work, after a night's rest and cleanup, he set up his stand in town and had the pleasure of selling a Bible to the very man who had refused to purchase the day before. "I met a muddy man yesterday with Bibles," said he, "who looked like a Methodist tramp. When I buys a Bible I buys it from a Baptist gentleman."

That Was Different.

A stern father who had repeatedly told a young man who was paying his addresses to his daughter not to visit the house again without his permission, which he never intended to give, was surprised when late one evening ring at the doorbell late one evening to see the young man waiting on the step.

"Sir," said he in anger, "didn't I tell you not to call again, eh, sir?"

"Yes," said the young man. "I know, but I didn't call to see your daughter. I came on behalf of our firm about that little bill."

"Oh—er—er—," stammered the stern father, "call again, will you?"

DOCTOR'S SHIFT.

Now Gets Along Without It.

A physician says: "Until last fall I used to eat meat for my breakfast and suffered with indigestion until the meat had passed from the stomach.

"Last fall I began the use of Grape-Nuts for breakfast and very soon found I could do without meat, for my body got all the nourishment necessary from the Grape-Nuts and since then I have not had any indigestion and am feeling better and have increased in weight.

"Since finding the benefit I derived from Grape-Nuts I have prescribed the food for all my patients suffering from indigestion or over-feeding and also for those recovering from disease where I want a food easy to take and certain to digest and which will not overtax the stomach.

"I always find the results I look for when I prescribe Grape-Nuts. For ethical reasons please omit my name." Name given by mail by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The reason for the wonderful amount of nutriment, and the easy digestion of Grape-Nuts is not hard to find.

In the first place, the starchy part of the wheat and barley goes through various processes of cooking, to perfectly change the starch into dextrose or grape-sugar, in which state it is ready to be easily absorbed by the blood.

The parts in the wheat and barley which Nature can make use of for rebuilding brain and nerve centers are retained in this remarkable food, and thus the human body is supplied with the powerful strength producers, so easily noticed after one has eaten Grape-Nuts each day for a week or ten days.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. [illegible]

It is stated that the socialist convention this week named a full set of candidates for county office; but we have been unable to obtain a list.

There is a rumor in the air, but which we have been unable to verify, that the democratic convention at Baltimore has nominated Woodrow Wilson for president.

The Grygla Eagle was issued last week under new management having been purchased two weeks ago by Harvey E. Mussey, until recently senior editor of the Times, from Otto Johnson.

Perhaps the Minnesota progressives may profit by the omission of the primary law. If they can get on the state ticket it must be without a party quarrel and minus hard feelings.—Dispatch.

A farmer near Wadena who has raised potatoes for six years says his crops have averaged 150 bushels per acre and he has received an average price of 38 cents a bushel, or $57 an acre. It cost him $19.50 per acre for all expenses, leaving him an average net profit of $37.50 an acre.

A careful perusal of the speech of Judge Parker will convince the most skeptical that Bryan was right in objecting to anything the sage of Esopus might say as worthy the keynote pitch of the party of great past record and great future opportunity. We always can say "great past record," but "great future opportunity" may not be applicable in a few days.

The new statewide primary law will bring into existence one new feature, and that will be a state central committee somewhat different from what has existed in the past. This committee will be named by the party nominees and its make up will be dominated by the members of the legislature. They will figure by force of numbers. The state ticket nominees, who have made the selection in the past, will simply not be in it. The selection of the committee will be made on the second Thursday after the primary election.

No innovation in the government has brought forth so much adverse criticism as the commerce court, and both branches of congress have voted to put it out of business. The worst part of the whole matter is that in order to save the court Mr. Taft will have to veto the big executive and judicial appropriation bill which carries millions of dollars for the expense of running the government. The big money measure is a necessity and should the president adopt the drastic course of vetoing the bill, the appropriation measure would have to again be brought before congress in order to provide for fixed expenses. Senator Poindexter of Washington was the author of the resolution to decapitate the commerce court. Senator Bailey of Texas characterized the bill of repeal as "a sort of legislative recall," and added that if it was to be enacted into the law it would render "respectable and conservative the proposition of an ex-president to recall judges and their decisions."

An Unconstitutional Senate

At its International Falls convention the Northern Minnesota Development association provided for the appointment of a committee to find out whether, under the provisions of the state constitution, half the seats in the state senate are not open to be filled at this fall's election.

The N. M. D. A. recognizes, evidently, that the fact that the terms of all the senators expire at the same time was a fatal obstacle to reapportionment at the regular session of 1911. If, as the constitution-makers intended, half the senate terms expired this year, there would have been that many senators who would not have come to the session with a reason-proof determination to oppose reapportionment.

The constitution in section 24 of Article 4, says: "The term of senators and representatives shall be the same as now prescribed by law until the general election of the year 1878, at which time there shall be an entire new election of all the senators and representatives. * * * The senators chosen at such election by districts designated by odd numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the second year, and senators chosen by districts designated by even numbers shall go out of office at the expiration of the fourth year, and thereafter senators shall be chosen for four years, except that there shall be an entire new election of all the senators at the election of representatives next succeeding each new apportionment provided for in this article.

That last provision, by the way, has a bearing on the question whether the legislature at the 1911 regular or the 1913 special sessions could have provided a reapportionment effective only after this election, and it seems to have been generally overlooked. However, this is beside the point.

The intent of the constitution is clear. Half the senators were to go out of office every two years, though all were to have four year terms after 1880. Then there would be no session when all the members of the senate, secure in the knowledge that election day was nearly four years away, felt free to do about as they pleased and to give little heed to the public will. What keeps the house of representatives the more responsive body is that at every session it faces an election less than two years away. What has kept the senate a far less responsive body is that at every other session the election is four years away. The constitution makers were wise.

But some way this intent never was carried out. All the senators took four year terms, regardless of the constitution, and they have kept them ever since. All the senators go in and out of office together.

In 1890 Moses E. Clapp, then attorney general, ruled on the point, and held that the provision that after the election of 1878 senate should be chosen for four years was then the governing principle. This ruling still stands, and apparently it has never been challenged in court.

Whether it is by reverting to the provisions of the constitution or by a new law, unquestionably it should be arranged, as soon as possible, to have half the senate terms expire every two years. Then the senate will be more responsive to the public will than it ever has been yet.—Duluth Herald.

Rural School Notes

The following returns have been received from the state high school board examination held May 21-29th.

District No. 37, Herbert Swift, teacher, Herbert Cousins, credit in English Grammar; Myrtle Hunt, credit in 8th grade Composition

District No. 73, Robert Jackson, teacher, Fridtjof O. Hanson, credits in Spelling and arithmetic; Myrtle E. Satre, credit in Spelling.

District No. 219, Miss Clara L. Barker teacher, Mabel Simonson, credits in English Grammar and American History.

Well done for these young students.

A very successful meeting of the school officers was held on Saturday the 22nd. In anticipation of a large attendance, the meeting was held in the auditorium. There were upward fifty members present representing a great majority of the schools.

Ex Supt. of Public Instruction J. W. Olson "broke the ice" by some well directed remarks on the importance of the school officer.

Supt. J. H. Hay followed with remarks on "Some Needed Improvements." He showed what was needed in our schools and how to get these things; among other things a free traveling library could be procured in any rural community and other agricultural litrature could be had by writing our senators and representatives in congress.

The state board of health was ably represented by a lecture on the public health by Dr. Hill, the state epidemiologist. A most interesting talk. J. W. Olson closed by a lecture on the work and policy of the state department of public instruction.

The meeting was a whole inspiration from beginning to finish.

Today, Monday, begins our summer training school. Some over fifty have already enrolled.

Roosevelt's Refusal

Colonel Roosevelt said in an interview on his way home that he could have had the nomination at Chicago if he had been willing to take it from a convention which contained seventy eight illegally-seated delegates. He says the tender was made to him by a body of southern delegates; that he refused it on the conditions imposed, but agreed that if they would bring from those whom they represented a pledge signed by thirty delegates agreeing to combine with the Roosevelt delegates to start over again, reorganize the convention and unseat the seventy-eight contested delegates, he would accept. The emissaries thought such an effort would be hopeless and the attempt to secure the pledge of thirty failed. A considerable number of signatures were obtained, he says, but not enough to comply with his conditions.

This is an important development. It is entirely consistent with conditions which were understood to exist in that convention. It is well known that the danger which threatened Mr. Taft until the final vote was taken was a break by southern delegates to Roosevelt, inspired by the fear that it would be useless to nominate Taft and that their positions would be more secure if Mr. Roosevelt were nominated because of the probability that he would be elected. The wonder is that it didn't happen. That he might have had the nomination on the terms proposed and that he refused it for the reason given constitute an important development calculated to strengthen Colonel Roosevelt very materially with the people.

Says 'Twas Great Meeting

Dr. Watson returned to Red Lake Falls this morning after attending the Chicago convention. He denies that it was he who carried Mrs. Davis to the platform in the convention hall after she had kissed Roosevelt's picture, but attributed it to another heavy-weight who also happened to be good looking—thus starting the rumor about the doctor. He said the convention was certainly a warm number all the way through, with an abundance of excitement at every turn of the road.—Gazette.

A Trip to Vega

Mr. Editor:—I am glad to have the honor to write a short letter, and let your readers know what is going on among the young folks in the northwest.

Thursday morning, June 20, it was quite a pleasure to see how young and old were getting ready to go somewhere. We left St. Hilaire at 15 minutes to 7 in the morning. We were nine—Rev. Fred Peterson, Andrew Bjornquist, Esther Person, Gust Larson, Alfred Anderson, Albert Larson, Elsie Erickson, Tyra Wallin, and Annie Fellman all heading for Thief River Falls, in Fellman and Satterberg's cars. But where is Thief River Falls going, I asked myself, when I saw all the people at the station, and a whole lot bought tickets for Mars Siding. It was not the star Mars, but a small station on the Soo Line, the first west of Warren. The conductor had not seen so many going to Mars Siding at once, and he asked if there was a wedding. We were seven loads of people that went out to the town of Vega, at Mr. Rodquist's farm, to the first convention of the Mission Friends Young People's society of the Red River Valley. It shows that our young people are taking a great interest in the religious work in the northwest, and may God bless them in the work for a better Minnesota and for the winning of souls for God and heaven. We had a splendid time. I will send a hundred thanks from the St. Hilaire bunch to the people that had the trouble of taking care of us during the time we were there.

Then came Sunday evening, and off we go, on our road home. We stop at Warren and take in the Mission service in the Mission church at that place, where Rev. Frank L. Larson is pastor. Lots of people were gathered in the church to hear the gospel. We stayed in Warren until Monday evening and were entertained by Rev. F. L. Larson and his wife.

Rev. Larson has a big congregation at Warren, and is well liked by the people. Rev. Larson and his wife took us out in the park, and we had such a lovely afternoon. But what is this? It is the passanger train on the Soo line heading for Thief River Falls, and we must go so goodbye friends and thanks for all the trouble we have made you. At 9 o'clock we were sound and safe home, and feeling none the worse after the vacation.

ALFRED J. ANDERSON.

The Shrinker

The railroad and warehouse commission is sending out illustrated circulars describing what it terms a new form of "shrinker" which has been discovered in extensive use throughout the state. The "shrinker" is a little piece of steel used on the beams of scales when weighing up live stock and grain so that the seller is beaten out of a large percentage of the actual weight of his produce. While but few of the devices were actually found yet it is safe to presume that more of them were actually used as they are small enough to be readily concealed in the vest pocket and inserted underneath the fulcum of the beam at a moment's notice. Under the law every seller has the right to examine the scales of the buyer to such an extent as will satisfy himself of their correctness.

All Nations Ball Team at Red Lake Falls

The base ball fan who is looking for a chance to enthuse will have a world of opportunity next Tuesday afternoon, when the local base ball team will take on the All Nations. The All Nations team is composed of a Chinaman, a Jap, an Indian, a Mexican, a Cuban, a Turk, a Greek, a negro, a white man and a woman. But this motley crowd can show up some smooth work in the great American game. The All Nations team has been up against the best of them with a good string of victories to the credit of the strange aggregation.

The All Nations team will arrive in a private car attached to the 10 o'clock Great Northern train, Tuesday. The game will be called at 2 o'clock to make it possible for the visitors to finish the game and get out of town on the 5 o'clock train.

The game will be umpired by Louise Dacre, the famous woman umpire.

No doubt there will be a great crowd of spectators on hand to witness the work of this most unusual aggregation of base ball players.—Red Lake Falls Gazette.

HUSBANDS AND CHILDREN NOT FOR MILL GIRLS.

Have Little Choice But to Become Old Maids—One Glad Because She Misunderstood the Meaning of License.

There were four Carroll girls, all over 18. Their father, a small, white-haired, dignified man, was in the room and smiled a timid welcome. The girls were still in black for the mother who died a year before, says Rheta Dorr in the Broadway Magazine. "It is much harder for us now that mother's gone," said Sallie Carroll. "But she made us promise on her deathbed that we'd keep things just as she always had and we're certainly bound to do it. We all work in the mill. We are weavers, except Nannie there, the youngest. She is a warper. We don't let father work any more. We make enough for us all and him, too, and somebody's just got to be at home to look out for things or else where's your home?"

"Why do poor folks have such big families?" demanded Nannie Carroll, indignantly. "They've got no business to. Why do poor folks marry at all?"

"Don't you expect to?" I asked.

The faces of all the girls were sober. "We can't figure out that there's any choice for us between breaking up our home and being old maids," said the oldest Carroll girl. "It may be a disgrace to be an old maid. People say it is, but at least we are comfortable and happy. Why, what would become of father if we married?"

I instantly thought of a girl I knew in Fall River. She was a weaver, too, and earned $11 a week, which made her an object of desire to more than one young man in the town. But at 25 she was still single. In the course of a confidential talk I asked her why she had never married and she told me with much laughter the reason.

"When I was 18," she said, "I was foolish enough to fall in love with the timekeeper in the clothroom at the iron works mills. He was better looking then than he is now. Well, he asked me to marry him and I said I would. Then he said we ought to go and get the license. 'What license?' I asked, flaming mad. You see, we girls had a dog we were awfully fond of and one day the poundkeeper came around and said we'd have to take out a license or he would kill the dog. So we skimped and saved and went without carfare until we had enough to pay for the dog's license.

"Well, somehow, the word license seemed to me to be connected with a dog. I didn't know that people had to have licenses. I told my young man that if he couldn't marry me without a license, as if he were paying for a dog, I wouldn't marry him. He argued and argued and we both got madder and madder, and finally we broke it off. Mother was glad enough. She always hates to have one of us marry. Less money carried home, you see." She added thoughtfully: "Of course, I was a silly goose, but somehow, when I see him with his wife, she looking ten years older than she is, with care and raising children whose only future is in the mills, I think a marriage license and a dog license are not so very different."

TWO FAULTS COULD BE CURED.

Prospective Husband and Wife Both Full of Confidence.

An Irish boy marries when he has a rid house, and an Irish girl just when she pleases, says Seumas MacManus, in Lippincott's. Sometimes she so pleases while yet her years are few; at other times she is content to wait upon wisdom. In the latter case, of course, she makes a wise choice, but in the former almost always a lucky one—for luck is the guardian angel of the Irish.

"You're too young to marry yet, Mary," the mother said, when Mary pleaded that she should grant Laurence O'Mahony a particular boon.

"If you only have patience, mother, I'll cure meself of that fault," was Mary's reply.

"And she's never been used to work, Laurence," the mother said to the suitor, discouragingly.

"If you only have patience, ma'am," was Laurence's reply to this, "I'll cure her of that fault." And he did, too.

Albanian Customs.

Some strange customs exist in Albania. To compliment an unmarried woman, for instance, is provocation for death. A bloody enemy is under amnesty while in the company of a woman. A woman may shoot a fiance who breaks his betrothal or call upon the young man's father to kill him. If a man commits murder, and, flying for his life, enters the house of another, friend or foe, he is safe. This is the case, even if he takes refuge in the house of a brother of the man he has slain. He may not remain there forever; but for three days he can live on the best that the house provides. When that time is up, he is shown on his way. Twenty-four hours is given him to make his escape, after that the amnesty [illegible]

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice Is Hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage containing power of sale, executed by Harby L. Quist and Judith A. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, dated 18th day of April, A. D. 1910, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April A. D. 1910, at 6:00 p. m. in book 8 of mortgages on page 519 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and after the division of Red Lake county at the organization of Pennington county, transcribed into the records of Pennington county, Minnesota, and that the same is transcribed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 23 of mortgages on page 87 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and on the 4th day of June A. D. 1912, for a valuable consideration and by an instrument in writing, dated on that day, duly executed and acknowledged by said Johnson Van Sant Co., said mortgagee sold, assigned, and transferred to C. L. Hansen, which said written assignment was thereafter and on the 10th day of June A. D. 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m., of that day filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, and duly recorded in book 8 of mortgages on page 94 thereof, and that at the date of this notice there is claimed to be due and is actually due on the said mortgage, according to the terms thereof, the total sum of three hundred ten and 54-100 (310.54) dollars. Said sum consisting of an unpaid balance of one hundred twenty (120.00) dollars on the note secured by the said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from and after May 1, 1911, and of two interest payments for the sum of eighty-eight (88.00) dollars each, due respectively May 1, 1911, and May 1, 1912, on a prior mortgage on the land hereinafter described, which said interest payments were paid by the mortgagee herein, and of interest on each of the said interest payment from the respective due dates thereof to the date hereof, at the rate of six (6) per cent annum and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt or any part thereof secured by said mortgage.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises therein described at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the main front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on Monday the 29th day of July A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage with interest thereon from the date hereof and the costs and expenses of such sale and the sum of twenty-five (25.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold is all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Pennington, and state of Minnesota, described as follows: Northeast quarter (ne¼) of section thirty-four (34), township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-one (41), [illegible]

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal-Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

FIRECRACKERS

Not Qualified.

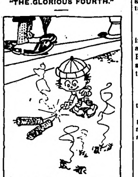
The Ladies' committee on the celebration of the Fourth was discussing the proposed program of exercises.

"I think," suggested a dimpled blonde, "that it would be awful nice to have some man with a good voice read the Declaration of Independence."

At this juncture a woman with a square jaw and deepset eyes observed:

"It might be well, but I am opposed to having a married man read the document. It does not do to allow them to encourage themselves too much.

"THE GLORIOUS FOURTH."



Mr. Prosy—My boy, do you know why you are celebrating this grand day?

Their Busy Day.

"Who," shouted the impassioned orator, "who among us has any cause to be happier than his neighbor on this glorious day of the nation's birth?"

"The doctors!"

The Girl and the Flag

Oh, here's to the girl and the flag we love—
And nothing our love can sever,
No matter the trail of our wayward feet,
Our girl and our flag—forever!

She sits on her throne in the mottled shade,
A crown on her curly tousles,
And over her gaily the old flag floats,
In a flutter of love's carousals!

And always I see them with tear-dimmed eyes.
The maid and the flag—but never
For me shall exist but these—
Our girl and our flag—forever!

KEEPING BABIES IN HEALTH

Success of Tent Scheme Last Summer So Pronounced that It Will Be Repeated.

Mothers of little babies that suffered much from the intense heat in the early part of July last summer will be interested in the success of the "baby tent" scheme adopted in some of the big cities.

The tents are placed on flat roofs of tall buildings and in open lots, with eight little cradles or cots in each tent. When all was ready mothers of babies under two years were invited to leave them at the nearest available tent over night, so that the youngsters, in addition to enjoying the privilege of sleeping out of doors, could also receive the attention of trained nurses and doctors free.

Some of the tents have a perforated iron pipe extending along the ridge pole and connected with the city water supply. On very hot nights the water was turned on and allowed to stream down over the canvas. By evaporation it greatly reduced the temperature inside the tents. Some of the tents were also kept cool by the use of large blocks of ice in tubs before the entrance. Electric fans blew the cold air from the ice into the tents sufficiently to keep the babies comfortably cool.

This is the way some of the poor babies are being cared for, but the ideas could be utilized by any one who had the welfare of the baby at heart.

BURNING ITCH WAS CURED

"I deem it my duty to tell about a cure that the Cuticura Soap and Ointment have made on myself. My trouble began in splotches breaking out right in the edge of my hair on the forehead, and spread over the front part of the top of my head from ear to ear, and over my ears which caused a most fearful burning itch, or eczema.

"For three years I had this terrible breaking out on my forehead and scalp. I tried our family doctor and he failed to cure it. Then I tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them for two months with the result of a complete cure. Cuticura Soap and Ointment should have the credit due, and I have advised a lot of people to use them." (Signed) C. D. Tharrington, Creek, N. C., Jan. 26, 1911.

Itching Scalp—Hair Fell Out.

"I will say that I have been suffering with an itching on my scalp for the past few years. My hair fell out in spots all over my head. My scalp started to trouble me with sores, then the sores healed up, and crusts formed on the top. Then the hair fell out and left me three bald spots the shape of a half dollar. I went to more than one doctor, but could not get any relief, so I started to use the Cuticura Remedies. I tried one bar of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment, and felt relieved right away. Now the bald spots have disappeared, and my hair has grown, thanks to the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to all that are suffering with scalp trouble." (Signed) Samuel Stern, 236 Floyd St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Natural Query.

Gen. F. D. Grant, when discussing military neatness, used often to tell a story about his father.

"My father was talking to General Sherman in his tent one day," he would begin, "when a third general entered, a brigadier notorious for his slovenliness. After the brigadier left my father blew forth a cloud of smoke and said: 'Sherman, I wonder whom that man gets to wear his shirts the first week?'"

A Prediction.

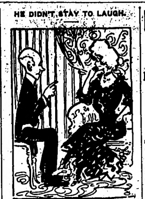
"Do you think Biffels will ever reach a green old age?"

"He surely will, if he lives long enough and doesn't know more then than he does now."

A postal card to Garfield Tea Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., asking for sample will repay you.

If there was a tax on stupidity the wise guys would all be tax dodgers.

HE DIDN'T STAY TO LAUGH.



Chinner—I had to laugh at the ball game today. It always makes me laugh when anybody's caught napping.

Miss Wearyone—Really? Then I'm afraid you'll be laughing at me in a few minutes.

Needed No More Help.

An American gentleman got acquainted with a Frenchman who was very anxious to acquire the English language. The American in order to help him said that if he would send his exercises to him he would willingly correct them.

Nothing was heard from the Frenchman for some time, but finally a letter came couched in the following choice English:

"In small time I can learn so many English from his text-book and her dictionary as I think I will to come at the America and to go on the scaffold to lecture."

The First Consideration.

At St. Andrews some years ago an old farmer and his plowman were carting sand from the seashore. They were behind the target on the rifle-range, but hidden by a bank of sand from a party of volunteers, who were then on foot, at practice. A stray bullet struck the plowman on the leg, and he immediately dropped, exclaiming: "I'm shot!"

Without more ado the farmer scrambled up the bank and, waving his hand to the volunteers, shouted:

"Hey, lads, stop that, will ye? You've shot a man, and it micht hae been the horse!"—London Tit-Bits.

The Shorter Route.

Lady Duff-Gordon, at a luncheon at Sherry's in New York, told an anecdote apropos of the divorce evil.

"Two girls," she said, "were chatting over a cocktail and a cigarette.

"'Marriages are made in heaven,' said the first girl, and she blew a cloud of smoke into the air and regarded it with dreamy eyes.

"The second girl with a light laugh replied:

"'Yes, that is true; but, thank goodness, to unmake them we have to go only as far as Reno.'"

Makes a Difference.

"What is this?"

"As you see, it is a badge demanding votes for women."

"You wearing such a badge?"

"Yes, I."

"But you always told me you could never see any reason for women's suffrage."

"Yes; but I didn't know it was going to become a rather stylish fad."

The Paxton Toilet Co. of Boston, Mass., will send a large trial box of Paxtine Antiseptic, a delightful cleansing and germicidal toilet preparation, to any woman, free, upon request.

GOV. WILSON IS NOMINATED AT BALTIMORE

GOVERNOR OF NEW JERSEY IS NAMED AS THEIR CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT AFTER MUCH BALLOTING.

PLATFORM IS ADOPTED.

Party Declaration Prepared and Approved by Bryan Selected With a Whoop—Delegates Get Away In a Hurry.

Baltimore, Md. — Governor Wilson was nominated at 3:15 p. m. Tuesday, when Pennsylvania cast vote making total 723, breaking the long deadlock that had existed in the Democratic convention since early Friday.

The final break to Governor Woodrow Wilson as the nominee for president of the United States came at the beginning of the forty-sixth ballot. Wilson had received 633 votes on the forty-fifth, with only 725⅓ necessary to nominate.

Senator Bankhead of Alabama quickly withdrew Underwood.

Senator Stone of Missouri, in behalf of Champ Clark, released all Clark delegates, at the same time saying Missouri would vote for him to the end. Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston then withdrew Governor Foss from consideration.

WOODROW WILSON.

By this time it was apparent Wilson would win on the forty-sixth ballot and the convention was in an uproar, delaying the call for a long while.

Wilson gained 108 votes on the forty-third ballot, the first cast today, and the hoped-for break appeared at hand. Illinois' 58 delegates propelled the movement and gains were made also from Connecticut, Idaho, Iowa, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Wisconsin and Hawaii.

Wilson's vote was 602, a majority of the convention. It was the highest vote he had received and the vote of 329 cast for Mr. Clark was the lowest received by him during the prolonged balloting. When the result was announced the demonstration for Wilson was as enthusiastic and protracted as the weary delegates could make it.

Dr. Woodrow Wilson was born at Staunton, Va., on Dec. 28, 1856. When Woodrow was 2 years old his father took a pastorate in Augusta, Ga., and soon became one of the most noted ministers of the South. "Tommy" Wilson, the Augusta schoolboy, is described by Prof. John T. Derby, one of his teachers, as quiet and exceptionally studious. The most important instructor of young Wilson, however, was his father.

The Wilsons moved from Augusta to Columbia, S. C., in 1870, Dr. Wilson resigning his pastorate to take the chair of pastoral and evangelistic theology in the Southern Presbyterian Theological seminary. At Columbia Tommy attended Charles Parnwell's private school. At the age of 17 he entered Davidson college at Davidson, N. C.

At the age of 22 he signalized the closing of his undergraduate days at Princeton by breaking into the International Review, in its issue of August, 1879, with an article entitled "Cabinet Government in the United States." The article contrasted British and American systems of government, pointing out advantages in the British.

In the fall of 1878 Wilson took up the law course at the University of Virginia, where he indulged in a long, drooping moustache and in membership in the glee club. "She Sleeps, My Lady Sleeps," is shown by old programs of university concerts to have been one of Wilson's tenor solos.

In May, 1882, he carried his law diploma and an oratorical prize to Atlanta, Ga., where he opened an office for the practice of law. The office, however, did not prosper, and after 18 leisurely months he gave up. The Atlanta experiment, however, was far from eventless. Although litigants gave him nothing to do, he was not idle. He improved his time by securing the promise of Miss Ellen Louise Axson to be his wife. The Axsons were a prominent Georgia lowlands family. The young couple were married in 1875.

In the fall of 1885 Mr. Wilson began teaching political economy to the girls of Bryn Mawr. From this institution he went to Wesleyan university, where he remained until called to Princeton in 1890 to occupy the chair of jurisprudence and politics. In 1902 he was elected president of Princeton.

THOMAS R. MARSHALL.

In May, 1910, the graduate college of Princeton university became the legatee of a $3,000,000 estate, which could not be accepted without sacrificing Wilson's policies. The money was accepted. The president's resignation did not come, however, until after the New Jersey state Democratic convention on Sept. 15, 1912, had nominated him for the governorship. In the following November New Jersey went Democratic for the first time since 1892 and elected Wilson by a large majority.

The earliest recorded mention of Woodrow Wilson as a presidential possibility is in the form of a letter written by someone in Indianapolis to the News of that city at the time of Wilson's inauguration as president of Princeton. This faint boom was revived on Feb. 3, 1906, at the Lotus club, New York, where Mr. Wilson was the guest of honor. On that occasion Col. George Harvey mentioned him as a possible candidate for the presidential nomination.

Colonel Harvey's magazine, Harper's Weekly, for a time gave ardent support to Wilson's campaign for the nomination, but at the beginning of 1912 this support was withdrawn.

For vice president, Governor Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana was nominated by the Democratic national convention at 1:56 a. m., Wednesday.

The nomination of Governor Marshall for vice president came as something of a surprise for when the night's balloting for vice president began it seemed that the Bryan-Wilson contingent in the convention had definitely settled upon Governor John E. Burke of North Dakota.

There was not much of a fight, however, and when two ballots disclosed Marshall easily in the lead, Governor Burke's name was withdrawn and Marshall was proclaimed the nominee by acclamation. A minute later the convention had adjourned sine die.

Colonel Bryan delivered what he called his "valedictory" and, in happy vein, turned over the mantle of his former leadership as a presidential condidate to Governor Wilson.

He pledged himself to the full support of the presidential nominee and ended by urging that either Governor Burke or Senator George Chamberlain of Oregon, be nominated for vice president.

When, after the first ballot some one moved to make the nomination of Marshall unanimous, Mr. Bryan started for the stage to make a statement. The motion was withdrawn before he could speak. When the motion was renewed after the second ballot, Mr. Bryan did not protest.

The platform hewed out in committee several days ago, and warmly praised by Mr. Bryan, was adopted with a whoop.

Prominently mentioned for the vice presidency were: Governor Marshall, of Indiana; Governor Burke of North Dakota, Representative Henry of Texas, and Senator Kern of Indiana.

WANT LOWER TARIFF

Taxes for Revenue Only Is Leading Plank of Democratic Platform.

FAVORS VIGOROUS TRUST WAR.

Income Tax and Popular Election of Senators Is Commended—Government Supervision of Interstate Business Demanded.

The leading plank of the platform adopted by the Democratic national convention at Baltimore calls for an immediate downward revision of the tariff. On this subject the platform says:

The Tariff Reform.

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government under the Constitution has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government honestly and economically administered.

"The high Republican tariff is the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth; it is a system of taxation which makes the rich richer and the poor poorer; under its operations the American farmer and laboring man are the chief sufferers; it raises the cost of the necessities of life to them, but does not protect their product or wages."

The action of President Taft in vetoing the bills to reduce the tariff in the cotton, woolen, metals and chemicals schedules and the farmers free list bills is denounced.

Issue is taken with the Republican platform and much of the present high cost of living is laid to the high tariff laws.

Anti-Trust Law.

The platform declares that a private monopoly is indefensible and intolerable and says:

"We therefore favor the vigorous enforcement of the criminal as well as the civil law against trusts and trust officials, and demand enactment of such additional legislation as may be necessary to make it impossible for a private monopoly to exist in the United States."

"The action of the Republican administration in compromising with the Standard Oil company and the tobacco trust and its failure to invoke the criminal provisions of the anti-trust law against the officers of those corporations after the court had declared that from the undisputed facts in the record they had violated the criminal provisions of the law" is denounced.

"We regret that the Sherman anti-trust law has received a judicial construction depriving it of much of its efficiency and we favor the enactment of legislation which will restore to the statute the strength of which it has been deprived by such interpretation."

The platform urges people to support proposed constitutional amendments, providing for an income tax and election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. As justification of the demands of the party for publicity of campaign expenditures, attention is directed "to the enormous expenditures of money in behalf of the president and his predecessor in the recent presidential contest."

Asks Presidential Primaries.

Following is a summary of some of the more important planks:

Declares for presidential preference primaries. Directs national committee to provide for selection at primaries of members of national committee.

Pledges party to enactment of law prohibiting campaign contributions by corporations and unreasonable campaign contributions by individuals.

Opposes Aldrich Bill.

In connection with a demand for such a revision of the banking laws as will give temporary relief in case of financial distress there is a denunciation of the Aldrich bill prepared by the monetary commission. The present method of depositing government funds is condemned and the party is pledged to the enactment of a law for the deposit of such funds by competitive bidding in state or national banks without discrimination as to locality.

Recommends investigation of agricultural credit societies in Europe to ascertain whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States.

Pledges party to enactment of legislation to prevent devastation of lower Mississippi valley by floods and the control of the Mississippi is declared to be a national rather than a state problem. The maintenance of a navigable channel is also recommended.

Refers to Russian treaty and renews pledge to preserve "sacred rights of American citizenship at home and abroad.

Favors single presidential term and making president ineligible to re-election.

Denounces Republican administration on charge of extravagance and demands return to simplicity and economy befitting a democratic government.

Favors efficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines and a valuation of these companies by the interstate commerce commission, [illegible]

GREAT FALLS IN TASMANIA

Water Power That Will Develop Electricity for Use of Manufacturers on Island.

A big hydro-electric engineering scheme now being constructed in the middle of Tasmania will revolutionize the industrial life of that island. The area of Tasmania is a little over 26,000 square miles, and its present population is 191,000. Situated in the middle of the island at an altitude of 3,400 feet is the Great Lake, a storage reservoir provided by nature herself.

The area of this sheet of water is forty-one of Tasmania's square miles. The outlet of this lake is the River Shannon. At this outlet a new company, which has recently been formed, is constructing a weir to regulate the flow. The water will then be diverted from the Shannon into a lagoon, from which steel pipes will be laid so as to create an effective fall of water for over 1,000 feet vertical.

Tasmanian Niagara.

Nature's disposition in this region allows of the mechanical connivance of engineers in this manner both simply and cheaply. It is calculated that in the power house to be erected at the foot of this fall electricity of the value of 85,000 horse power can be generated all the year round, sufficient to work the developing industries of the whole island.

Hobart (the capital) in the south and Launceston in the north will be supplied from it, and there will be ample power to work the important mineral fields of the west coast as well—the copper mines of Mount Lyell, the tin mines of Bischoff, and the silver mines of Zeehan.

OCEAN MOVED NEAR CITY

By Means of a Ship Canal Forty Miles Long Manchester Is Now Called a Port.

London.—Though it is eighteen years ago since the Manchester ship canal was inaugurated, few people beyond the radius of Lancashire realize the importance of this great inland waterway, that carries ocean-going ships into the heart of one of our largest cities.

The ship canal is a trifle more than 35 miles in length, and has a depth of 26 feet, while it is 300 feet in width, or as wide as the Suez. In places the canal is 60 feet above sea level, and it cost considerably more than $75,000,000 to build.

In cities like Bristol, Ipswich or Chatham, approached as they are by tidal waterways, one expects to find ships, but hardly in a city more than 40 miles from the open sea.

At the Mouth of the Suez.

The biggest canal in existence is that connecting Pekin and Canton in China, 1,000 miles in length. The Suez canal is 99 miles long, the Caledonian 60 miles, and in Great Britain and Ireland the inland waterways total no fewer than 3,907 miles, more than 3,000 of which are in England.

HUNDREDS DIE IN CYCLONE AT REGINA

LATEST REPORTS PLACE THE CASUALTIES AT BETWEEN 400 AND 500.

WOUNDED HELP RESCUE.

Disaster Is Worst of Its Kind Ever Visited Upon Western Country—Scenes of Desolation Beggar Description.

Regina, Saskatchewan.—Between 400 and 500 persons are believed to be dead, scores of others injured, and millions of dollars in property destroyed as a result of a cyclone which struck this city, cutting a wide swath, beginning at the southern and central residential sections and extending into the very heart of the business district, converting whole blocks into masses of tangled wreckage.

At the present time no complete estimate can be made of the actual number of deaths but every ambulance in the city has been working since six o'clock carrying the bodies to the hospitals which were filled to their utmost capacity early in the evening. Numbers of improvised hospitals were hastily constructed in some of the larger buildings left standing after the storm had passed.

Crowds of volunteers all over the city are assisting in the work of searching the wreckage and for hours hardly a minute went by that a dead body or the mangled form of some living victim was not uncovered. Hurrying men and women, speeding on their errands of mercy filled the streets as the night wore on, while the authorities strove to bring order out of confusion, succoring the living and to determine as best they could as to the identity and number of dead. The sweep of the storm, the worst in the history of the Canadian Northwest, was over a city which only a short time before had completed the work of decking itself in gala attire for the celebration of Dominion day. Bunting and flags covered the buildings everywhere and networks of colored electric lights were strung and ready for illumination. Through these gaily decorated streets the tornado swept and within a half-hour, Regina had been turned into a city of mourning. In the track of the storm building after building lay in ruin, shrouded in its gay colored bunting.

Everywhere are men and women with heads and hands swathed in bandages, but all thinking of others' troubles, forgetful of their own.

Except where it is necessary for the rescue of bodies, the ruins were left lying where they fell.

No one knows how many are dead on this side of the city.

Husbands are hunting for wives, mothers for their children, men stop from time to time in their work of rescue to ask acquaintances passing for news of friends and relatives.

Many families were separated at the time of the storm, as the day was a hot one, and some sought comfort in the parks, while others remained at home.

Numbers were out on the waters of Wascana lake. Five are known to be drowned, failing to reach the shores in time. Every house in the city that is standing has been thrown open to the homeless.

One of the large grain elevators was picked up and thrown a distance of 50 feet from its foundation, falling on a freight train of goods and cattle cars.

One house barely on the edge of the storm was picked off its foundation and settled squarely on the vacated site.

BALLOON EXPLODES KILLING FIVE

MELVIN VANIMAN, BUILDER OF DIRIGIBLE, AND CREW OF FOUR LOSE LIVES.

COST A HALF MILLION

Air Craft, Not Unlike the America, Was Built to Cross Atlantic—1000 Feet High When Explosion Came.

Atlantic City, July 1. — In view of 3,000 spectators, the big dirigible balloon Akron was shattered by the explosion of the gas bag a half-mile off shore of Abscon Inlet.

Melvin Vaniman, who had built the airship with the idea of flying across the Atlantic ocean; Calvin Vaniman, his younger brother, Fred Almos, Walter Ghest and George Brilliant, his crew, were instantly killed.

The dirigible was sailing at a height of 1,000 feet and had been in the air since 6:15 o'clock when the accident occurred and was a quarter of a mile south of Brigantine beach, which is across the inlet from this city. The large envelope containing thousands of cubic feet of gas was rent by the terrific force of the explosion, probably caused by expansion from the sun's rays. It burst near the middle.

A mass of flames hid the ship from view. For a space of probably 10 seconds the half-million-dollar dirigible was invisible while the air about the spot where she had been hovering seemed to be all flames. The fire dissipated and then the ship, outlined against the sunrise, was seen to fall like a plumet.

In the descent something, which appeared to be the body of a man, shot out to the left of the wreckage and hit the water before the rest of the descending mass. It was reported that this was the headless body of Calvin Vaniman.

Thousand of persons from every part of the resort gathered along the inlet board walk and about the Vaniman cottage, just across from the hangar at the inlet where Mrs. Vaniman became unconscious from the shock. A physician was in attendance.

The flight was the second that the airship had taken this year. After tinkering all winter on the ship Mr. Vaniman took the Akron out for a short flight on Saturday morning June 1. At that time the balloon was nearly wrecked by some of the mechanism going wrong, but it was landed without serious mishap.

The longest flight the balloon made was last fall when it spent the greater part of the day in the air in the vicinity of this city. At that time the gas in the bag was not sufficient to keep the big ship constantly in the air and it had to make several landings. During the winter Vaniman improved the ship through lessons learned in that flight.

In general appearance the Akron was not unlike the America, in which Walter Wellman and Vaniman attempted to cross the Atlantic ocean in October, 1910, but there were many differences in the construction. The gas bag was 30 feet longer than that of the America, but was smaller in diameter. The dimensions were: Length of bag, 258 feet; diameter, 47 feet. The bag was made of a composition of rubber and was constructed in Ohio.

HAIL WILSON PRESIDENT.

Army of Reporters and Neighbors Stampede Him.

Sea Girt, New Jersey. — Twenty newspaper reporters sitting coatless and hatless on the lawn of New Jersey's "Little White House" saw an operator come from the telegraph tent with a yellow blank in his hands. He stood for a moment in silhouette against the canvas background, and read:

"Wilson is nominated."

When he looked up, twenty chairs were rocking vacantly in the breeze and the twenty men who had faced him a moment before were half a hundred feet away, scampering in a straggling line for a spot on the governor's porch where a short time before he had been sitting.

"Mr. President," they shouted with one voice, "we congratulate you."

Gov. Wilson was laughing and chatting with his wife and daughters. The news had come a moment before over the long distance telephone after days of anxious waiting and the few seconds he had spent with his family were his first of real relaxation during the week.

GOPHER NEWS NOTES.

Minnesota Events of the Week in Condensed Form.

Camp Lakeview. — A terrific storm coming off of Lake Pepin, struck camp. No members of the First artillery were injured and no damage to property was done. All ceremonies were suspended, however.

Barnesville.—Martin L. Stadum of Everett, Wash., who is here on a visit, reports that conditions in the west are much better than last winter. He says that the shops are now working full time, and that the lumber mills are rushed with orders.

Minneapolis. — Eleven persons, four of them women and one a small girl were saved from drowning in White Bear lake by two men, said to be George and William Geist, after their motor boat had collided with the boat owned by Eugene Ramaley, in which the women were.

Winona. — The Northwestern Telephone Exchange company has started work on the construction of conduits and placing its wires underground in the business district of Winona. It is the pioneer in this movement, but before the close of 1912 all wires will be underground in the business section.

Fergus Falls.—Vivian Correll, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Correll, was bitten by a bulldog belonging to a neighbor. The child was petting the dog when it sprang upon her, biting her through the lip, cutting through her nose and taking out a piece of it and cutting through one eyebrow. The dog has been tied up to see if rabies develops.

Pipestone.—The program for Pipestone's annual chautauqua to be held July 6 to 14 has been completed. Colonel William J. Bryan will be the topliner at the chautauqua and will be here July 9. Other speakers who will appear are George L. McNutt, "the dinner pail man;" Dr. A. W. Lamar, the southern orator; Henry Joy, James F. Bryan, Dr. George R. Stuart and Dr. Edwin R. Stucker.

Marshall.—Crop conditions here at this time indicate an abundant harvest of small grain. Barley is headed out and many fields stand four feet. Wheat is also heading out. It is thought there is enough moisture in the ground if no more rain falls. Many farmers have begun using the new crop of potatoes. Corn is somewhat backward, but the warm weather is bringing it along rapidly now.

Faribault.—The twentieth annual convention of the Young People's Alliance of the Minnesota conference branch of the Evangelical association was held in Faribault, Rev. P. A. Lang, president, of Hutchinson, presiding. About 100 delegates were in attendance and [illegible] the prominent speakers in attendance were Bishop W. Horn and Rev. C. Stoebler, both of Cleveland, Ohio.

Luverne.—The expert accountants from the state public examiner's office have been auditing the city recorder's books. Their report was filed with the county auditor July 1. They made a careful examination of the books since the organization of Luverne as a city. A shortage of more than $200 in last year's accounts of the late city recorder led to a demand on the part of the citizens that the books be examined.

Mankato.—Yeggmen blew the safe of J. M. Karmany's meat market and secured $150. They also robbed the cash register in the adjoining grocery store of Pugh & Brockleyer of $35 or more. There is no clue except that two burglar tools were left and a part of a last Sunday's Sioux City paper. One of the tools had part of another Iowa paper wrapped around it. The police believe Sioux City crooks did the work.

Glenwood.—The telestevne brought about 2,000 people to Glenwood. The speakers were Rev. J. O. Sather of Fosston, James Peterson of Minneapolis, G. I. Gullickson of Fargo and Torkel Oftelie of Fergus Falls. In the evening the main part of the program was a violin contest in which eight took part. The first prize, a $100 violin donated by Helland Bros. of Chippewa Falls, Wis., was given to Hans Fykerud. Ole Ormbrek, Hans Rygh, Tosten Odden and Austen Einung received the other prizes. National songs were sung by girls in costume and an exhibition was given of folk dances and an original farce comedy staged.

Minneapolis. — A bottle of gasoline on the window sill of the Bertillion room of the city jail caught fire from the heat of the sun and sent a lively flame creeping up the wall. Several members of the police and fire departments were kept busy with hatchets and water pails, while jail prisoners kept up a wild singing and yelling from behind their prison bars. Detective John Galvin, keeper of the Bertillion gallery, saw the flames running up the wall. He ran for a pail of water and turned in a fire alarm. Jailor Needham also grabbed a pail of water. Firemen came up the jail elevator with tarpaulin and axes. The combined efforts of the officers and firemen put out the fire with only a damage of $20.

Luverne.—Chicken stealing has become a matter of importance in some parts of this county. Albert Anson of Clinton township had 300 of his best chickens stolen from his poultry house. Other thefts are reported and no trace of the thieves has been found. A reward of $100 has been offered for the capture of the thieves. [illegible]

Many of Theodore Roosevelt's best supporters of strongest politicians in the ranks of his friends think that the attempt to form a third party would, in the light of the democratic action, be folly.

Tuesday, after a session of over a week and a deadlock of several days, during which time apprehensions had been strong that the reactionaries would succeed in capturing the nominations, the democratic convention at Baltimore nominated Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey for president, and Gov. Tom Marshall of Indiana for vice president.

Consolidation of Schools

So much is being written and said about the consolidation of rural schools that a statement of the law showing just how liberal provision is being made to encourage the improvement of the rural schools will be read with interest. George F. Howard, who has probably had more experience than any other man in the state in solving rural school problems, offers the following statement:

Consolidation of schools is steadily gaining ground in Minnesota. The farmers are coming to realize that the one-room country school does not offer opportunities that are good enough for their boys and girls; and besides, the farmer is able to have the best of everything for himself and family. The last legislature, by offering generous and substantial state aid to consolidated schools, has put new life into the movement; and in hundreds of homes and communities the matter is being given careful, thoughtful consideration.

Many mistatements are made and wrong impressions given, by both friends and foes of the movement, due in many cases to lack of definite knowledge of the law and its application. Perhaps a clear statement of facts will serve to clear up a number of disputed points.

The law provides that, when two or districts unite and form a district including at least twelve sections of land, and maintain a school of two departments, the district shall receive special state aid to the amount of $750, for consolidation, in addition to regular aid of $300, as a semi-graded school, making $1,050 in all for the support of such a school. With a district of eighteen sections, and three departments in the school, the aid for consolidation becomes $1,000 in addition to the regular aid of $300, and, with four departments in the school, the aid become $1,500 for consolidation and $600 as a state graded school. In each case the state will give one-fourth the cost of a new building not to exceed $1,500 to any one district.

The proceedings in effecting consolidation as follows:

1 The county Superintendent shall cause to be made a plat of the new district, showing size, boundaries, location of school houses, location of adjoining districts and schoolhouses, and submit the same to the superintendent of public instruction for his approval.

2. If the plat is approved, petitions signed and acknowledged by at least twenty-five per cent of the resident freeholders of each district shall presented to the county superintendent asking for the formation of such a district.

3. The county superintendent shal within ten days, upon ten days posted notice, give notice of a special meeting to vote on the question of consolidation, and fix time and place for holding such meeting.

4. The meeting to vote is held not less than twenty-five voters being present, and a vote taken by ballot on the proposition of consolidation.

5 The officers of the meeting shall certify the result of the vote to the county superintendent.

6. If the majority of the votes cast be in favor of consolidation, the county superintendent shall transmit a copy to the county auditor, to the clerks of the districts affected, and to the superintendent of public instruction, and:

7. Shall cause ten day's posted notice be given of a meeting to elect the officers of the new district. When consolidation is effected with an already existing independent district, the officers of the new district until the next annual meeting.

Such, in brief, are steps in consolidation under the new law. Enemies of the movement make all kinds of misrepresentations and false statements to to gain their ends and defeat the movement. For instance, they will write the clerk of a semi-graded school and ask how much state aid the district has been receiving. Of course, the reply comes back, $300, the new aid of $750 not yet having been distributed. This letter is shown throughout the district and the impression is created that the $750 is a pipedream of the [illegible] consolidation [illegible]

Black River Ball Team

Dear sir:—I herewith report the news of the Black River base ball team. The Black River base ball team has done very good work so far. Has played six games as follows:

Game with Bray, May 26. The score was 4 to 20 in favor of Black River.

Game with Wylie June 2. The score was 9 to 0 in favor of Black River.

Game with Brown Creeks, June 9. The score was 1 to 6 in favor of Brown Creeks.

Game with St. Hilaire June 16. The score was 5 to 7 in favor of St. Hilaire.

Game with Wylie, June 24. The score was 4 to 4 in favor of Black River. But Black River had another turn at the bat.

Game with St. Hilaire June 30. The score was 8 to 11 in favor of Black River.

Black River has had good luck—nobody hurt and no trouble between the players—so the organization has turned out to be a great success.

Yours truly,
EDWARD ERICKSON,
Wylie, Minn.

GOLLMAR BROTHERS' CIRCUS

Different from Other Shows

There are many ways in which the Gollmar Brothers' shows differ from other circuses, and a visit to the monster tented entertainment when it comes to Red Lake Falls or Thief River Falls will cause people who have been complaining that all shows were alike as to quality to deny this statement by adding, "excepting the Gollmar circus."

Gollmar Brothers' shows resemble other tented enterprises inasmuch as the performance is given under a tent, When it comes to the circus acts themselves it differs widely from other institutions which are heralded as "great" shows.

The menagerie is more than twice as large as that carried by other circuses. The biggest hipp in captivity is in this department. The only hybrid lion-tiger, with the lion's stripes on the tiger's skin, is another rare feature.

A great street parade is given in every city visited, and the turn out is the biggest free feature offered with any circus of the present day.

At Thief River Falls Wednesday, July 17.

Why Women Tolerate Men.

"You see that old woman and the young one in the corner of the room," said he. "They come here every night for dinner. I don't know whether they are mother and daughter or a rich woman and her attendant, but I wish you could hear their comments upon the men in the place. Critical as to their manners, their looks, their talk. I get quite discouraged when I happen to sit near enough to hear. Ever any man with them? Not that I ever saw, but it is the women who never go with men who are most critical. Those who do are lenient with their little foibles. They excuse them for the sake of whatever good traits they might chance to possess."

A Dangerous Roll.

H. Engels, an Oakland, Cal., boilermaker, met with an experience which nearly cost him his life, while at work inside a 28-inch water pipe. The line of pipe ran along a steep hillside and was held in position by wooden supports. While Engel was riveting two sections together the supports gave way and the section in which he was working started down the hill at a terrific speed. It rolled several hundred feet and finally dropped into a ditch in which a stream of water was running. Engels' companions supposed, of course, that he had been killed, but rushed to the ditch. The in-piped man was taken out alive, but seriously cut and bruised and almost drowned.—Detroit [illegible]

TREASURE PROTECTED BY MUD.

Effort to Be Made to Reach Stored Riches in India.

A good story of hidden treasure comes from India on the authority of the late tutor to the heir apparent of Bhopal.

In the hills of Amarkantak, in the central provinces, close to the sources of the Narbada and the Son, there stands an old deserted fort called Rän Bakalli, wherein, so tradition says, are collected vast stores of treasure and jewels formerly the property of the Hindu rajahs of the country, but for ages no one has been able to gain access to the fort because it is surrounded by miles of impassable mud.

The late Sir Richard Temple when lieutenant governor of Bengal tried to reach it, but his elephant stuck deep in the mire and he was forced to abandon the quest. It is now suggested that a syndicate should be formed to exploit this treasure house by means of balloons, and a Calcutta capitalist has promised a large subscription toward the enterprise.

The question which puzzles most people is how this ocean of mud ever came to invest the fort. An effort will be made to enlist the co-operation of the maharajah of Rewa, the ruler of the district, who is said to be an enlightened prince, though how it comes that he has not already taken steps to solve the mystery is not stated.

INTO SERE AND YELLOW LEAF.

Eighteenth Century Women Seem to Have Willingly Settled Down.

In an English novel of the eighteenth century the author thus refers to a certain woman: "She had reached the age of 25, an age beyond which no woman can hope either to feel or inspire deep affection." In one of George Meredith's early novels he refers to a character as a woman "on the criminal side of 30." A Boston woman in the last century, after reaching the age of 30, put on, over her abundant natural hair, a false front and a cap. These were the outward and visible signs of the matronly maturity she had reached. She gave up at the same time all the gayer forms of social intercourse. She confined herself thereafter to the mild and elderly variety. She had "come out" into Boston society at 15. After two years of social gayeties she had married. At 30 she was the mother of eight children. She had lived the active part of her life. In accordance with the conventions of her time she settled down to a life of vegetating domesticity. She was not an exception. She was the normal woman of her day, registering its customs, just as a good thermometer registers the temperature.—Appleton's Magazine.

Simple Remedy for Lockjaw.

Cal Johnson, an old-time printer, was in the city recently and claims to have a simple and effective cure for lockjaw, one that never fails. Remembering his boyhood days when the rusty nail was always lying in wait for the barefoot boy and serving as a menace to all who attempted to pass the summer months without shoes on their feet, Mr. Johnson thinks that his advice may be of some use to the fathers and mothers who still have barefoot boys.

The remedy is to smoke the wound caused by the rusty nail or other implement of torture to the small boy, with a woolen cloth. Twenty minutes with this kind of treatment, it is said, will take out the worst case of inflammation and cause a speedy healing of the wound without disagreeable results.—Kansas City Journal.

APPETITE AND THE EMOTIONS.

Why Shouldn't One Eat, Even If Very Happy or Very Sad?

The following really happened on board a pleasure steamer in the Kyles of Bute. A young honeymoon couple were sitting side by side, gazing on the lovely scenery around them.

"Isn't it heavenly, George?" she murmured. "I feel thrills all over me."

Then without a pause, as if still carried away by the inspiration of the moment: "Dearest, if there are any left, I think I would like a chocolate."

No good reason exists why [illegible] emotions should [illegible] hungry. The bride [illegible] sweets was wiser than [illegible] remained starving [illegible] her room after the departure of her lover for India.

At last an amateur Hebe ventured upstairs with a cup of coffee and a plate of toast. Yielding to persuasion, the afflicted maiden was induced to eat and drink and began to look somewhat less dejected.

CAUSED LISTENERS TO SMILE.

Clergyman's Announcement Tickled the Risibilities.

As may be inferred, each profession has its stock jokes—its stories innumerable—each of which having a flavor of its own. That the point of a joke or jest lies not in the tongue of him who makes it, but in the ear that hears, is the testimony of the great dramatist.

The doctor on his rounds, and the judge upon the bench have both an audience ready and willing to accept as the highest wit the bon mots of the speakers; and there is no club or gathering of men that does not acclaim one of its members as supreme in this respect, and are ready to yield due recognition of the gift.

It must be admitted that the blunders and jests clerical stand for some reason pre-eminent both in number and in mirth producing qualities. The reason, of course, is not far to seek—the very surroundings, in which they occur—the very upsetting of one's preconceived notions of reverence, all tend to cause a reaction in the ordinary mental equilibrium, and the simplest mistake or accident under such circumstances assumes the proportions of a huge comedy.

Recently a divine, in drawing the attention of his congregation to a special communion service on the following Sunday informed them that "the Lord is with us in the forenoon and the bishop in the evening."

WORLD'S CITIES HARD TO KILL.

Rome Twice Burned, Six Times Starved—Paris' Eight Sieges.

Few of the world's great cities have not faced, at one time or another, total destruction. But a city is hard to kill.

Take Rome, for instance. She has been swept by pestilence no fewer than ten times. She has been twice burned and six times driven to submission by starvation. Perhaps it is on account of her great vitality that she is called the Eternal city.

Paris has gone through eight sieges, ten famines, two plagues and one fire which devastated it.

Constantinople has been burned out nine times and has suffered from four plagues and five sieges. In addition, she has been ruled by monarchs who were worse than a plague. Yet Constantinople still flourishes.

London has been decimated five times by plagues, in addition to visitations of typhus, cholera and other epidemics. She has been burned more or less severely several times.—Stray Stories.

WENT BACK ON BENEFACTOR.

Philanthropic Women Disappointed In Their Protege.

The late Mrs. Clara Dewey How of Philadelphia, whose philanthropic work among immigrants made her well known, had a trenchant wit, and one afternoon in Philadelphia, discussing the woman suffrage movement with a clergyman, she said:

"You men are all alike. You all resemble the orphan that Mrs. Stanton and her friends brought up. Mrs. Stanton and a body of ladies from her church, all interested in woman suffrage, once took a little newsboy from the gutter and educated him superbly. They sent him through school and college and finally made a minister of him.

"This young minister, the work of their hands, preached his first sermon in their church. That was a proud Sunday morning for the good ladies. They thought they had at last firmly planted among the male sex a strong and splendid supporter. So, in their best bonnets, they filled the church that Sunday morning. They were on tiptoe with expectation. Who could tell but that their young charge might preach in their honor a woman suffrage sermon?

"Imagine their emotions when the youth arose in the pulpit, looked calmly and even sternly over the congregation and announced that his text would be from St. Paul:

"'Let the women keep silence in the church.'"

TOOK THEIR MATES ON TRIAL.

One-Year Marriages Once a Common Thing in Scotland.

They who talk glibly of short-term marriages and affinities do not know that in Scotland a one-year marriage, termed a handfasting, was once legal and fairly common. It was abandoned on account of its injustice to the woman.

Scott, in "The Monastery," mentions this one-year marriage, making Sir Julian Avenal say:

"We take our wives, like our horses, upon trial. When we are handfasted, as we term it, we are man and wife for a year and a day; that space gone by, each may choose another mate, or at their pleasure, may call the priest to marry them for life."

There was no disgrace attached to handfasting. It was, indeed, more often practiced among the great than the lowly. But the poor girl whose trial husband rejected her at the year's end rarely found it possible to secure a permanent mate.

Hooked a Swordfish.

Eight miles off Newport, Cal., a 12-foot swordfish with a sword four feet long caught on an "80" hook by Hugh McMillan and G. G. Shoemaker towed the fishermen's launch two miles after having charged the boat repeatedly and scarred the stern in numerous places. The monster was killed after half an hour's fight. It weighed several hundred pounds.

When the big fish was first caught it charged to the surface, endangering the lives of the men and [illegible] the captors [illegible] monster was towed almost [illegible]

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice Is Hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage containing power of sale, executed by Herby L. Quist and Judith A. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, dated 18th day of April, A. D. 1910, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April A. D. 1910, at 6:00 p. m. in book 5 of mortgages on page 519 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and after the division of Red Lake county at the organization of Pennington county, transcribed into the records of Pennington county, Minnesota, and that the same is transcribed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 23 of mortgages on page 87 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and on the 4th day of June A. D. 1912, for a valuable consideration and by an instrument in writing, dated on that day, duly executed and acknowledged by said Johnson Van Sant Co., said mortgagee sold, assigned, and transferred to C. L. Hansen, which said written assignment was thereafter and on the 10th day of June A. D. 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m., of that day filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, and duly recorded in book 8 of mortgages on page 94 thereof, and that at the date of this notice there is claimed to be due and is actually due on the said mortgage, according to the terms thereof, the total sum of three hundred ten and 54-100 ($310.54) dollars. Said sum consisting of an unpaid balance of one hundred twenty ($120.00) dollars on the note secured by the said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from and after May 1, 1911, and of two interest payments for the sum of eighty-eight ($88.00) dollars each, due respectively May 1, 1911, and May 1, 1912, on a prior mortgage on the land hereinafter described, which said interest payments were paid by the mortgagee herein, and of interest on each of the said interest payment from the respective due dates thereof to the date hereof, at the rate of six (6) per cent annum and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt, or any part thereof secured by said mortgage.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises therein described at public auction to the highest bidder for cash; at the main front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on Monday the 29th day of July A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage with interest thereon from the date hereof and the costs and expenses of such sale and the sum of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold is all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Pennington, and state of Minnesota, described as follows: Northwest quarter (nw¼) of section thirty-four (34), township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-one (41).

Dated June 10, 1912.

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

DREADED ATAXIA

What Active Treatment With Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Accomplished in a Recent Case.

Mr. Francis M. Poole, a harness maker, of Garvin, Lyon Co., Minn., says: "My illness started in 1902, with sharp pains all through my limbs. At first I thought it was rheumatism but the pains kept getting more and more severe and I grew steadily worse. Later a numbness came over my feet. It gradually extended up my legs to my spine and waist. By this time I had lost all control of my legs. Next my bladder and bowels were affected and I lost all control of them. At this stage of the disease I was perfectly helpless and from November, 1905, to April, 1906, I was confined to the bed. My memory was so affected that I thought I would lose my mind. I looked just like a dead person. My lips and finger nails were blue. I suffered with terrible sharp, shooting pains and could get relief only from the use of morphine.

"I was treated by five St. Paul doctors. All of them pronounced my case locomotor ataxia. One said I could not live a year and another told my wife all he could do for me was to give medicine to relieve the pain. I was discouraged and, when my brother-in-law urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I did so willingly for he had read of their curing a case similar to mine. I started to take the pills in March, 1906, while I was still confined to bed. I took several boxes when I felt a slight change for the better and had a healthier look. I was finally able to go to the country but kept on with the treatment. The bluish color left my lips and my eyes became brighter. I took the pills a long time and the next spring in May I could walk around. In June I went to work although still weak. I kept on gaining and am now working without the return of a symptom of my former trouble and without losing a days' work. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People absolutely cured me and I want all fellow sufferers to know of my wonderful recovery."

Those who are interested in the treatment which cured this case should have our booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System," which will be sent to every nervous sufferer upon request.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Rather an Open Secret.

A very important citizen was drawn on a jury, a week or two ago, and I met him after he had been discharged. He seemed to think that he was entitled to be on the bench, at the very least.

"What was your verdict in that case?" I asked.

"'The defendant was unanimously acquitted on the first ballot.'

"'Indeed? And how did you vote?'

"'That, sir, is one of the sacred secrets of the juryroom.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Melody Sometimes Becomes Malady.

That persons have very diverse ideas and tastes in music was exemplified in an incident at a pupil's vocal recital lately. A young woman was having quite a struggle with a song and one woman in the audience said to her companion:

"Isn't that a beautiful melody?"

The other looked bored and said:

"It sounds more like a malady to me."

CONCRETE IS FAVORED.

Winona Commissioners Find Ideal Highway Construction.

Winona.—The plan for using concrete for the construction of the proposed state highways to be built in Winona county, under the provisions of the Elwell law, is now practically agreed to if the bids for the work come at all within the range of the money available. This decision follows the return from a trip to Detroit, Mich., of Commissioners Roth, Guidinger and Voelker, who were accompanied there by Engineer Cooley of the state highway commission and his first assistant, Engineer Mullen, and Donald B. Prichard, president of the Winona Automobile association.

Engineer Cooley and all the members of the party were strongly impressed with the concrete road improvement work as developed in Wayne county, Michigan. Mr. Cooley even went so far as to say, in his indorsement of this method of road improvement, that two years ago he had gone to Europe in the interests of the highway commission of Minnesota, and had inspected parts of ten thousand miles of road in eight different European countries, and in all this observation he had seen nothing better than the concrete roads near Detroit. Only one road equals these and that is the Great Northern road out of London, which is surfaced with tarmac, and cost much more than the concrete highway around Detroit.

SCANDINAVIANS ELECT.

Fraternal Body Will Meet in Minneapolis in 1913.

Virginia. — The Minnesota Scandinavian Grand Lodge, I. O. G. T. convention chose Minneapolis as the place of meeting in 1913. They passed a resolution disapproving the work of the last legislature for indifference as to temperance legislation. A gain of 22 lodges and 500 members in last year was made.

The new officers elected were: Grand chief templar, H. M. Jacobson, Minneapolis; grand counsellor, Gust Erickson, Spooner; grand vice templar, Carl G. Carlson, Chisholm; grand superintendent juvenile work, John Grieff, St. Paul; grand secretary, A. M. Wold, Minneapolis; grand treasurer, O. Brevik, Climax; grand marshall, Ingelberg Paulrud, St. Paul; grand chaplain, O. P. Oyen, Shelley; grand guard, R. O. Wistrand, Minneapolis, grand sentinel, John Berg, Minneapolis; grand electoral superintendent, August Bredin, Akeley; grand chancellor, James Carlson, Chisholm; assistant grand secretary, Ivar Olstad, Minneapolis; assistant grand marshall, Ragna Fossum, Minneapolis; Deputy international chief templar, A. P. Peterson, Minneapolis; grand messenger, Thomas Wangsner, Minneapolis.

BIG REUNION A SUCCESS.

Sigdalslaget Attracts People of Three Norway Districts to Fergus Falls.

Fergus Falls.—The Sigdalslaget, a reunion of people from Sigdal, Eggedal and Kroshera, Norway, was held in this city. Over 500 visitors attended. Officers were elected as follows: President, G. T. Braatelien of Rothsay; first vice president, O. C. Olson of Underwood; second, F. T. Gronvold of Rugby, N. D.; third, T. E. Risbrudt of St. Olaf; secretary, G. T. Hagen of Crookston; treasurer, Ed Mobraaten of Wednell. The meeting closed with a banquet at Our Savior's church followed by an open-air session, with toasts, on the courthouse lawn.

It was decided to arrange for a special gift for Sigdal at the time the "Mindegaven," or million-dollar gift, is presented to Norway on the 100th anniversary of that nation's independence in 1914. About $6,000 has already been raised, and committees were appointed to solicit for additional funds. The money will be used to build an old people's home in Sigdal.

PASTOR WEDS LANDLADY

Minneapolis. — The marriage of Rev. John H. Rosen and Mrs. Mary E. Bell, both past three score years, comes as a sequel to the Methodist general conference.

Rev. Mr. Rosen came to Minneapolis to attend the conference. Mrs. Bell is a rooming house keeper. He took apartments in her home. He did not return to Kansas City after the adjournment of the conference, but remained to press his suit. As a result a marriage license was issued.

This is the third matrimonial venture of the minister. His first wife died in Kansas City many years ago. He was divorced from his second wife. The preacher is 64 years old and Mrs. Bell 60.

Auto Party Entertained.

Redwood Falls.—An auto party consisting of 10 cars arrived from Montevideo to view the new state park dedicated here last week. The party left Montevideo at 8 o'clock, reaching here at noon and were escorted into town and about the park by members of the Redwood Falls Auto club, led by Drs. Lyman and Aslesen of the local club. The words of welcome were responded to by A. E. Henry and Alfred Claggett, president and secretary of the Montevideo club.

Boys Burn Owatonna Barn.

Owatonna.—A large barn belonging to Mrs. Mary Whitney was destroyed by fire. The blaze threatened near-by residences and business houses. The origin of the fire is believed to have been from fireworks with which small boys were playing. The loss was $2,000 partly covered by insurance.

RAPS ALL PESSIMISTS.

Dr. Foster Says Those Who Try Discover Bad in Life.

Owatonna.—"This world is growing better, not worse, despite the pessimistic croaks of those who would have us believe this in an age of degeneration," said Dr. Lewis B. Foster, president of Lombard university, speaking before the Universalist state convention.

"Those who continually discover the bad things and bad people of this world are those who are looking for the worst in life. The honest, good men and women outnumber the unprincipled, ten to one, and this is a mighty good world when we make it so."

Dr. Foster's address was delivered to an audience which filled the church.

The Sunday school convention decided to begin a strenuous campaign for the enlargement of Sunday school activity in this country, and appointed a committee to head this work. James Buchanan of St. Paul and Mrs. Percy Lord of Minneapolis took prominent parts.

Reports were read on the condition of the churches at Stillwater, Rochester, Anoka, Austin and Fergus Falls. An appeal was made for aid of a substantial sort for All Souls' church, Minneapolis, which is said to be experiencing a run of hard luck and reversals.

BEMIDJI GROWS GRAPES.

Experts Will Plant Vineyards on Banks of Lake.

Bemidji.—Grapes grown under the supervision of an expert with training in the vineyards along the Rhine in Germany, is the latest innovation of agriculture development in this vicinity, J. J. Opsahl of this city having completed arrangements with Chris. Schroeder and F. R. Styner, to plant vineyards on the sunny banks of Bass lake near here.

Mr. Schroeder comes from Lisbon, N. D., but he has had European experience in growing grapes. Mr. Styner comes from Minneapolis and also is a grape expert. In addition to raising grapes, arrangements will be made to accommodate summer tourists. Until the vineyards begin to bear, potatoes will be depended on as the main crop.

VETERAN STILL ALIVE.

William Branham of Litchfield Passes Eighty-third Birthday.

Litchfield. — William Branham of this city is one of the few survivors of the Mexican war. During the Indian outbreak in 1862 he was orderly sergeant in Captain Whitcomb's company stationed at Forest City, and was wounded in an arm in the battle there. Later he enlisted in the Second Minnesota cavalry under Sully and went with the expedition which pushed the reds beyond the Missouri river and fought the largest body of Indians ever assembled at one time. He would be taken for a man of seventy years, but recently passed his eighty-third milestone.

BETRAYED BY PARTNER.

Escaped Convict from Wisconsin Captured in Northern Minnesota.

Hibbing.—A chance friendship made in a boxcar while beating his way from Duluth to Hibbing was responsible for the downfall of Fred Clark, burglar and escaped convict from the Wisconsin state prison at Waupun. Clark is held at Hibbing.

Clark is one of the several convicts who broke jail at Waupan on June 8. On his way to Hibbing, Clark unfolded to a companion the story of his escape. The other man remembered that a reward of $100 hung over Clark and upon arriving at Hibbing he gave up the escaped man and claimed the reward.

MAY WIN AN EDUCATION.

Boy Who Saved Two Lives Gains Attention.

Minneapolis. — The heroism shown by Clarence Haggerty, 14 years old, in saving the life of Reuben Smith, and attempting to rescue William Horn in the Mississippi river may result in his securing an education in the high school and university.

Young Haggerty is on probation from the juvenile court, where he appeared on a charge of incorrigibility. When Miss Sarah Fitzgerald of the probation office, who has always taken an interest in the lad, learned of his heroism she began a movement to secure funds with which to educate the boy.

Freight Handlers' Strike Off.

Minneapolis. — After several weeks of skirmishing, the freight handlers' strike in Minneapolis was called off. Acting on instructions from Chicago, James Kelly, vice president of the International Union of Freight Handlers, formally notified those men who had struck that the strike was at an end and that all were free to return to their jobs. Mr. Kelly said he had received no information as to the terms on which the strike had been settled in Chicago.

Taylor's Death a Mystery.

Pipestone.—The body taken from the Sioux river at Flandreau has been positively identified as that of Ceylon E. Taylor of Holland, this county. The remains were brought to Pipestone and the funeral was held the next day. Taylor's wife died a year ago and since that time he has been ailing. His relatives did not know that he had returned [illegible]

Man's Usefulness.

Mrs. Edward R. Hewitt, president of the Woman's Municipal league, was discussing in New York the movement for cleaner streets.

"Now that women have gone in for cleaner streets," she said, "we'll probably get them. Don't mistrust woman's influence. It is everywhere at work."

Then, with a smile, Mrs. Hewitt uttered this epigram on her sex's behalf:

"Few are the men who would have reached the top of the ladder if their wives hadn't steadied it for them."

Wanted to Know the Culprit.

The following story was told recently by Austin Haines to a party of friends he entertained at luncheon:

"Down in a little Florida town two negro families live in shanties about a stone's throw apart. They obtain their drinking water from a shallow open well located midway between the two houses. A fence which separates the two yards is built up to the well on both sides. Every evening after her day's work is done, it is the custom of one of the negro mammies to pick up buckets and go to the well for water. One day the owner of the property moved the fence back about ten feet from where it originally stood. That evening when Eliza started out with her pail she fixed her eye on the fence and made straight for it. Walking hurriedly along the beaten path, she plunged into the shallow well with a splash. Her screams brought immediate assistance, and as she climbed out and spied the fence ten feet away she indignantly exclaimed:

"'Now, who done moved dat well?'"

DUBIOUS

About What Her Husband Would Say.

A Mich. woman tried Postum because coffee disagreed with her and her husband. Tea is just as harmful as coffee because it contains caffeine—the same drug found in coffee. She writes:

"My husband was sick for three years with catarrh of the bladder, and palpitation of the heart, caused by coffee. Was unable to work at all and in bed part of the time.

"I had stomach trouble, was weak and fretful so I could not attend to my housework—both of us using coffee all the time and not realizing it was harmful.

"One morning the grocer's wife said she believed coffee was the cause of our trouble and advised Postum. I took it home rather dubious what my husband would say—he was fond of coffee.

"But I took coffee right off the table and we haven't used a cup of it since. You should have seen the change in us, and now my husband never complains of heart palpitation any more. My stomach trouble went away in two weeks after I began Postum. My children love it and it does them good, which can't be said of coffee.

"A lady visited us who was usually half sick. I told her I'd make her a cup of Postum. She said it was tasteless stuff, but she watched me make it, boiling it thoroughly for 15 minutes, and when done, she said it was splendid. Long boiling brings out the flavor and food quality." ONCE MORE WORLD'S GRANARY

Turkish Government Indulges in Ambitious Schemes for Development of Mesopotamia.

In spite of its external troubles, the Turkish government is engaged in advancing the big schemes for the development of Mesopotamia, which, when completed, will result in the transformation of an arid desert region as extensive as the Nile valley into smiling cornfields.

The sum involved in the huge irrigation works which will be necessary to accomplish this transformation is put at some $150,000,000, and the immediate concern of the Turkish authorities is to place a contract for the initial stage of the schemes, which provides for irrigation works in connection with the barrage which controls the flood water of the River Euphrates, at present under construction.

Some idea of the vast importance of these schemes may be gathered from the fact that their accomplishment will enable sufficient grain to be grown to affect the wheat markets of the whole world. In the olden days the whole of the Euphrates delta was irrigated, and the luxurious growth of grain excited the wonder of Greek travelers, who visited the East. According to Herodotus, the soil yielded three hundred-fold, and there is no doubt that these alluvial flats were one of the chief granaries of the world.

The whole story of these regions is a romance. It is still the popular belief that the Garden of Eden was situated here. In any event, in Chaldean times the delta was one vast garden; the whole plain was studded with prosperous and populous cities, set in the midst of engirdling areas of wheat. Indeed, it was from this very region that wheat, at first found in a wild and uncultivated state, was taken and gradually transplanted all over the world.

ALMOST FRANTIC WITH ITCHING ECZEMA.

"Eight years ago I got eczema all over my hands. My fingers fairly bled and it itched until it almost drove me frantic. The eruption began with itching under the skin. It spread fast from between the fingers around the nails and all over the whole hands. I got a pair of rubber gloves in order to wash dishes. Then it spread all over the left side of my chest. A fine doctor treated the trouble two weeks, but did me no good. I cried night and day. Then I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment but without much hope as I had gone so long. There was a marked change the second day, and so on until I was entirely cured. The Cuticura Soap we have always kept in our home, and we decided after that lesson that it is a cheap soap in price and the very best in quality. My husband will use no other soap in his shaving mug." (Signed) Mrs. G. A. Selby, Redonda Beach, Cal., Jan. 15, 1911. Although Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere, a sample of each, with 32-page book, will be mailed free on application to "Cuticura," Dept. L, Boston.

Too Much Repetition.

"In America," says a contemporary, "we need more things. Be it ever so homely, Smith's pond, if the original name, is better than Fairy Glen lake, or any other fanciful appellation. The difficulty is, there may be a dozen Smith's ponds or Smithvilles in the same state. Even a good name may be used too often. For instance, there are said to be ten Lincoln streets and avenues in the newly amalgamated city of Pittsburg. It is the confusing repetition of names, quite as much as the lack of invention shown in bestowing them, that often causes dissatisfaction with familiar names."

Ancient Mexico.

We know nothing of Mexico, of course, prior to the year 1517, when it was discovered by Fernando Cortez. The history of the City of Mexico, as preserved in the native annals, goes back to the year 1325, when it was founded by the Aztecs, the master race of the country at the time of the coming of the Spaniards. Of the "civilization," so-called, that existed prior to the Spanish conquest, it can be authoritatively asserted that it was simply the "higher type of barbarism" and in no sense civilization as we understand the term at the present time. While considerably removed from savagery, the social state of the Aztecs was characterized by much that was crude and cruel and was far inferior to the social conditions found in contemporary Europe. A very good account of the old Mexican civilization is found in Fiske's "Discovery of America."

Quite Too Much for Used Words.

The value of advertising was pointed out to a man with a budding business, and he agreed to give a writer $50 for a full page. The copy was submitted and the merchant looked it over coldly. "Fifty dollars is too much," he commented. "You've used a lot of words I've seen before."

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

In this age of research and experiment, all nature is ransacked by the scientist for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides in the past century, and among the—by no means least important—discoveries in medicine is that of Therapion, which has been used with great success in French Hospitals and that it is worthy the attention of those who suffer from kidney, bladder, nervous diseases, chronic weaknesses, ulcers, skin eruptions, piles, &c., there is no doubt. In fact it seems evident from the big stir created amongst specialists, that THERAPION is destined to cast into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. It is of course impossible to tell sufferers all we should like to tell them in this short article, but those who would like to know more about this remedy that has effected so many—we might almost say, miraculous cures, should send addressed envelope for FREE book to Dr. Le Clerc Med. Co., Haverstock Road, Hampstead, London, Eng., and decide for themselves whether the New French Remedy "THERAPION" No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 is what they require and have been seeking in vain during a life of misery, suffering, ill health and unhappiness. Therapion is sold by druggists or mail $1.00. Fougera Co., 90 Beekman St., New York.

NOT WINNING EVERYTHING, ALTHOUGH STARS AND STRIPES GO UP THREE TIMES.

BRITON SETS A RECORD

Wins 1,500 Meter Race and Yankees Lose Out—U. S. Advocates Fail to Place in 5,000 Meter Run.

Stockholm, Sweden. — Thrills in abundance were furnished in the stadium on the fifth day of the Olympic games.

It was another big day for the wearers of the stars and stripes, although they did not win everything in sight. Their principal cause for elation was a clean sweep in the shotput made by Pat McDonald, Ralph Rose and L. A. Whitney. There was a big noise in the American section of the stadium, when three United States flags were raised in token of the victories and the cheering increased when it was announced that McDonald had shattered the Olympic record made by Rose in 1904.

The finals in six events were completed at the Olympic and of the 36 points, the United States scored 13, England, 6; Germany, 6; Canada, 3; Australia, 3; Finland, 3 and France, 2.

The United States and Germany had the honor of making a clean sweep in the weight putting and 200 metres swimming back-stroke, respectively. Finland won the 5,000 metres in a splendid struggle against France, while the Canadian Hodgson brought glory to the Dominion by his victory in the 1,500 metres swimming contest on which hung three records.

The scores to date are:

United States, 72 points; Great Britain, including the colonies, 65; Sweden, 57; Germany, 24; France, 18; Russia, including Finland, 20; Denmark, 7; Norway, 7; Italy, 5; Hungary, 4; Belgium, Greece and Austria, 2 each; Holland, 2.

American distance men met trouble in the 1,500 and 5,000-meter runs. Both races were bitterly contested throughout and John Paul Jones of Cornell, who was picked as winner in the 1,500 was beaten by Jackson of England. The Briton established a new Olympic record in this event, 3 min. 56 4-5 sec., clipping 6 3-5 seconds off the mark made by Mel Sheppard in 1908.

The 5,000-meter race was the most gruelling that has been staged since the beginning of the present games. As expected, Kolehmainen of Finland won. Scott of the United States quit before the race was over and Bonhag had a hard time getting fourth place.

The Americans also made their presence felt in the trial heats of the 200-meter flat race. In the eighteen heats of this event, Yankees to the number of ten qualified for the semi-finals. Eight of these were winners of heats and two took seconds. Two also qualified in the first heat of the semi-finals.

McDonald's shot-put was 15 meters, 34 centimeters (a shade over 50 feet 4 inches) in the final of the shot-putting. The old Olympic record of 48 feet 7 inches made by Ralph Rose in 1904, also was exceeded by Ralph Rose himself, who today put the weight 15 meters 25 centimeters (a fraction over 50 feet.) Third honors went to L. A. Whitney, who was not though good enough to have his expenses paid by the American committee and who came over on the supplementary list. Summary:

Putting the weight—Final, P. J. McDonald, Irish-American A. C., first, 15 meters, 34 centimeters; Ralph Rose, Olympic A. C., second, 15 meters, 25 centimeters; L. A. Whitney, Boston A. A., third.

Ten Americans qualified in the first fourteen trial heats of the 200-meter flat race. They were: Ralph Craig, Charles Reidpath, J. Ira Courtney, Harold W. Helland, Carl Cooke, P. C. Gerhardt, D. F. Lippincott, Alvah T. Meyer, Donald Young and Clement Wilson. The best time was made by Cooke of the Cleveland A. C. He negotiated the distance in 22 1-5 seconds.

ONE-CENT MILITIA RATE.

Supreme Court, However, Questions the Civic Righteousness.

St. Paul.—Railroads in Minnesota must transport the state militia at the rate of one cent per mile for each person, in conformance with a law passed in 1909, according to a decision handed down by the state Supreme Court. The high tribunal says "Naughty! Naughty!" however, to the Legislature that passed the bill prescribing the lower rates, and questions the civic righteousness of it.

After the passage of the law, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road refused to issue transportation to Adjutant General F. B. Wood to Lake City, declaring the law was void because it contravened the state and federal Constitutions, because it provided for illegal discrimination and because, "the act seeks to deprive the railway company of the right to acquire cash payment to be made in advance, and invades the right of the company to manage its own affairs."

The district court rules against the company and the Supreme Court upholds the ruling. In commenting upon it, the Supreme Court, in an opinion written by Associate Justice Holt, says:

"It is singular that a state apparently keenly sensible of the justice of compelling all railway companies to treat all persons alike, as induced by the anti-pass act, should, for itself, exact more favorable terms than the general public enjoys from these companies. For the transportation it requires, the great State of Minnesota is undoubtedly able to pay the same rate that it permits the carrier to charge its citizens, or the traveling public. But while the example of civic righteousness set by the state may be bad, the law may, nevertheless, be valid. The decision is not against the railway company, because under the facts in this case, it receives all it may legally demand. It is not discrimination in favor of one class against another, for the state pays the transportation when the national guard or any of its members travel under orders. At other times, the railway company must require the same rate of the members belonging to the state military force as is demanded of the public generally. If this be discrimination at all, it is against the traveling public generally, and in favor of the state."

Adjutant General Wood said, after the opinion had been given by the court, that the state would now probably bring suit against the St. Paul road to collect about $15,000 it has paid for transportation to Lake City for the militia, in excess of the amount required under the 1-cent fare.

PROGRESSIVE RALLY.

Candidate Predicts Disaster if Partisans Follow Mr. Taft.

Minneapolis. — Lieutenant Governor Gordon, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, issued a statement calling for a convention of Progressive Republicans of Minnesota. He opposes Edward T. Young's advice that Progressive Republicans support Woodrow Wilson.

He says: "When thievery is committed, political or otherwise, the culprit should be brought to book. The time for the mass of the party to revolt is now. If the Republican party of this state wallows in the mire prepared for it at Chicago it will die of its own stench. I believe in washing the linen right now. I believe we should stand solidly in our own state on all local tickets and join hands for the purpose of purging the party of the deadly weight cast upon it by the national organization at Chicago. I cannot concur in the statement made by Mr. Young, that Progressive Republicans support the Democratic nominee."

PASTOR IS ACCUSED.

Emelius Charged With Shooting His Father-in-Law.

Litchfield.—Rev. Charles Emelius, under arrest at New Sweden, Me., is a son of Nels T. Nelson of this city. He is accused of murdering his father-in-law, August Jacobson, on June 12, 1911. Jacobson was last seen on June 11 of last year, and his dead body was found with four bullet holes upon it.

Jacobson's son was first arrested for the crime, but was released. In a letter Emelius denies any connection with the affair. He is 34 years of age and a graduate of Augustanna college at Rock Island, Ill.

BISHOP O'DOHERTY HERE

Head of Catholic Church in Philippines Is Guest at Villa Maria.

Frontenac. — The Rt. Rev. M. J. O'Doherty, D. D., bishop of Zamboanga, Philippine Islands, is spending a week at Villa Maria, the guest of Rev. J. Hurst, chaplain of the villa, a schoolmate of his lordship.

For eight years Bishop O'Doherty has been rector of the famous Hiberno Spanish institution, the Irish college in Salamanca, and he is a personal friend of King Alphonse, from whom he received a decoration.

The diocese of Zamboanga, to which the bishop is on his way, includes the large island of Mindanao and several smaller islands, together with the Zulu and Tawi groups. In this diocese there are upwards of 300,000 Catholics, ministered to by about 100 priests. In addition, there are about half a million un-Christian Moors. The conversion of this hostile multitude is only one of the difficulties the young bishop has to cope with.

The bishop is accompanied by his secretary, Rev. Stanislaus Hughes, D. D., a pupil of his own in the Diocesan college.

RECKLESS AUTO DRIVER.

Business Man Gives Chase And Two Are Run In.

Minneapolis. — After running down two men with their automobile shortly before midnight, and failing to stop, J. W. Taylor and R. S. Stone were chased for several blocks by H. W. Baker, manager of Butler Brothers, and his brother, H. D. Baker, American consul at Hobart, Tasmania, in another machine, until Taylor drove his car into the curb and broke one of the front wheels. Taylor and Stone then rain into a building and were later arrested.

Dan Pomeroy, and George Johnson were crossing the street on their way home when both were struck by the automobile driven by Taylor, who seemed to have poor control of the car. Johnson was thrown to one side and only slightly bruised but Pomeroy fell directly under the machine, which passed over him; but as he fell between the wheels he escaped with severe bruises and an injured leg.

SAMARITANS HAVE WAR.

Duluth Police Interferes in a Stormy Meeting of Board.

Duluth. — A bitter warfare has broken out in the executive board of the Modern Samaritans, the headquarters of which are located here. Imperial Scribe W. A. Hicken, Imperial Treasurer O. F. Collier, General Counsel A. E. McManus, H. J. Aschenbach and C. E. Lovett, it is alleged are arrayed on one side, in opposition to Imperial Good Samaritan John Christie, Z. H. Austin of Minneapolis, F. M. Bombach and W. H. Salter, the other member of the council.

A meeting of the board was called, but was, it is claimed, such a stormy affair that no business was transacted. The calling of the police to eject one member and locking the doors to keep other members out were features of the meeting, according to statements made by those present.

SUES INSURGENT ORDER.

Fred a Reuterstrom Goes to Court to Collect $334.

Minneapolis. — Fred A. Reuterstrom has sued the National Modern Woodmen assembly, the insurgent woodmen organization formed to fight the higher insurance rates adopted in Chicago, for $334 for services. Mr. Reuterstrom alleges that he was employed by John L. Sundeen, insurgent campaign manager, at a salary of $25 per week. He charges that he has been paid only $116.

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

Red Wing.—Walter Sieg, the 12-year-old son of Mrs. L. Sieg, fell three stories from the upper floor of the Reitman barn on Sixth street. He was unconscious when he was picked up and was at once taken to his home and medical aid summoned. It was found that no bones were broken. He soon became conscious.

Minneapolis. — Ingratitude in its basest form is the charge made against one of the automobile boy bandits by Dr. C. E. Mills, who alleges that one of the boys, Frank McCarthy, after being received in his home on the footing of intimate freindship, used the opporunity thus afforded to rob him of property valued at $500.

Owatonna. — In a belated exhibition of some fireworks at a private residence, Mrs. Emil Lippert, wife of a local business man, was badly injured. A skyrocket flew backward, a heavy stick striking Mrs. Lippert in the elbow and causing a bad fracture. The head of a rocket flew through the window of L. Y. Inmann's residence, setting fire to the bed clothing and furniture.

Minneapolis. — James A. Peterson, a candidate for the United States senator, characterized the high cost of living as the real issue in the coming campaign when he delivered his "keynote" speech at the Palace theater. Mr. Peterson first told his audience that he was a Republican and that he intended to stay within the party. He made it evident that the "third party" did not appeal to him.

Duluth. — Because he robbed a thief, John B. Lessard, 23 years old, a railroad man, was sentenced to 90 days at hard labor in the county jail. "I saw the thief hide some stolen revolvers, knives and other articles which he had taken from a store at Proctor," said Lessard to the court. "I made away with the plunder of the real thief and when I was taken into custody the goods were found on me."

Brainerd.—The struggle between the Cuyuna Northern railway and the Soo line is becoming acute in mining territory near Deerwood, from which point the Cuyuna Northern has condemned a right of way to the Cuyuna-Mill Lacs mine, six mones north. After the arrest of right of way laborers by the land owners' agent in section 10, near Crosby, the Cuyuna Northern at midnight threw its tracks across a point ten feet west of the present terminus of the road north of Ironton, thus stealing a march on its rival.

Brainerd.—A tornado struck seven miles east of Brainerd leaving a path of destruction in its wake. Trees were uprooted and swept against the buildings of A. M. Peterson, a farmer, completely demolishing them and strewing the wreckage about his farm. All roads into Deerwood were blocked with fallen trees and the blacksmith shop of William Elmore was struck by lightning. A heavy wind and a drenching rain marked the entrance of the storm into Brainerd, doing much damage to crops in this vicinity. So far as learned, no lives were lost.

St. Paul. — Saint Luke's hospital, has a patient who has lived within its walls for nine years. He is Charles J. Murphy of Marshfield, Minn., 24 years old. Nine years ago he limped into the hospital on crutches and was put to bed. He is suffering from a disease as mysterious as any which ever baffled medical science. He is slowly ossifying, turning to solid bone. According to the physicians when this ossifying process reaches the heart he will die. It may be in a year; it may not be for a number of years.

Minneapolis. — Reports show that 2,231 women went in swimming at the park bathing beaches during the last two weeks in June, when the bathhouses were open. This demonstrates a marked increase in interest among women in beach bathing as compared with three years ago, when women first began to go in swimming in public places in Minneapolis. Three years ago about 350 women donned bathing suits during the entire season. There were 645 in swimming at Glenwood lake the last week of June and 372 at Lake Nokomis, while at Camden 1,214 women went swimming in the last five days of June.

St. Paul. — According to an official high in the service of the Twin City Rapid Transit company, that concern is losing thousands of dollars every year through a more or less organized system of transfer exchanging. The offenders are policemen, newsboys, elevator men and the general public. Unless some effort is made by the police to stop the practice, this official says, the street car company will try to have an ordinance passed by the city councils of Minneapolis and St. Paul, making the use of transfers by other than the person to whom they were issued a misdemeanor.

Crookston. — Charles G. Sall of Plummer, administrator for his brother, Oscar E. Sall, an Alaskan miner, who disappeared five years ago in Alaska and is supposed to be dead, has sold the holdings of the missing man for $30,000 to a New York syndicate. Charles Loring has just returned from New York, where he closed the deal.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it?

GOOD NIGHT'S SLEEP

No Medicine So Beneficial to Brain and Nerves.

Lying awake nights makes it hard to keep awake and do things in day time. To take "tonics and stimulants" under such circumstances is like setting the house on fire to see if you can put it out.

The right kind of food promotes refreshing sleep at night and a wide awake individual during the day.

A lady changed from her old way of eating Grape-Nuts, and says:

"For about three years I had been a great sufferer from indigestion. After trying several kinds of medicine, the doctor would ask me to drop off potatoes, then meat, and so on, but in a few days that craving, gnawing feeling would start up, and I would vomit everything I ate and drank.

"When I started on Grape-Nuts, vomiting stopped, and the bloated feeling which was so distressing disappeared entirely.

"My mother was very much bothered with diarrhoea before commencing the Grape-Nuts, because her stomach was so weak she could not digest her food. Since using Grape-Nuts food, she is well, and says she don't think she could do without it.

"It is a great brain restorer and nerve builder, for I can sleep as sound and undisturbed after a supper of Grape-Nuts as in the old days when I could not realize what they meant by a 'bad stomach.' There is no medicine so beneficial to nerves and brain as a good night's sleep, such as you can enjoy after eating Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. [illegible]

John D. Rockefeller is not only 73 and in "better health than ever, thank you," but he is also richer than ever. Every minute adds substantially to his wealth. His money-making enterprises work while he sleeps.

J. J. Opsahl, of Bemidji, has completed arrangements for the growing of grapes under the supervision of an expert from Germany, the vineyards to be planted on the banks of Bass Lake near that city. The experiment will be a success as Minnesota will grow anything.

Senator McCumber of North Dakota defends Lorimer and virtually says he cares nothing for public sentiment. Of course he does not say it as coarsely as that, but it means the same. He is a bold politician who challenges popular sentiment on the subject of Lorimerism.

If that third party is to be organized the promoters of the organization should get a move on and bring about the organization at once. There are a lot of candidates for legislative, congressional, county and minor offices who are anxiously waiting to see which way to jump before announcing their candidacy.

There is a move on foot the object of which is to secure Sunday passenger and mail service on the Great Northern line. Though the officials of the road may not become enthusiastic over the suggestion, there is little doubt that the service may be secured if the business people in the towns along the line make a united effort.—Gazette.

In this issue are given in supplement form, the laws passed at the special session of the legislature. Thes laws comprise some of the best legislation enacted for many years; the state wide primary being of the most importance. All should carefully preserve this supplement so as to familiarize themselves with the working of the new law before the primaries in September.

State politics is in the doldrums, nobody knows what to do and nobody to do it. The republicans are "split up the back," even to the shirt collar and the democrats are anixiously expecting something to bring them back to the "feed trough" where in former times they reveled in the good things of political plunder. But the voter is awake, he knows all the schemes of both the old parties, now struggling in the throes of dissolution, he is no longer tied to the car of party and is proud to say "I am a freeman." There is hope left for a regeneration of the country and a rule of the people is again at hand. It is quite time to hold funeral services over the old pachiderm, and he howling ass; they have had their day and have been condemned.—Cass Lake Times.

Woodrow Wilson Nominated

While the nomination of of Governor Woodrow Wilson by the democrats is an undoubted progressive victory and a rare accomplishment by that once bourbon organization it complicates the political situation for the country at large as well as for those who have been making a fight on the reactionaries in the republican party. At present the outlook is for three candidates. President Taft, as a conservative, has been re-nominated by a republican convention lacking the full party authority. Woodrow Wilson, an acknowledged champion of progressive principles, has been chosen as the standard bearer of democracy. Colonel Roosevelt seems likely to be a third nominee on a platform which will bristle with progressivism.

The political situation will not be outlined in detail, of course, until it is known what the third party proposes. Already steps have been taken in some states for the formation of progressive republican organizations. South Dakota's republicans have gone on record for Roosevelt as their choice for president. With three parties and candidates in the field, one a reactionary, and two standing for progressive principles, it is not plain at present how the votes [illegible] of progressives [illegible] that the progressives will permit themselves to be made the means of bringing about their own defeat.

GOLLMAR BROTHERS' CIRCUS

Different from Other Shows

There are many ways in which the Gollmar Brothers' shows differ from other circuses, and a visit to the monster tented entertainment when it comes to Red Lake Falls or Thief River Falls will cause people who have been complaining that all shows were alike as to quality to deny this statement by adding, "excepting the Gollmar circus."

Gollmar Brothers' shows resemble other tented enterprises inasmuch as the performance is given under a tent. When it comes to the circus acts themselves it differs widely from other institutions, which are heralded as "great" shows.

The menagerie is more than twice as large as that carried by other circuses. The biggest hipp in captivity is in this department. The only hybrid lion-tiger, with the lion's stripes on the tiger's skin, is another rare feature.

A great street parade is given in every city visited, and the turn out is the biggest free feature offered with any circus of the present day.

On motion duly made and carried the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, the sidewalks ordered to be constructed on Waterstreet, Broadway, and Minnesota avenue and completed on or before July 6, 1912, by resolution of the village council adopted May 20, 1912, is not fully done and not fully completed in the manner and within the time prescribed in said resolution and whereas, said resolution was duly served according to law, as appears by the affidavit of service thereof, duly filed with the clerk of the village of St. Hilaire, upon all lot owners fronting on said streets where said sidewalks are ordered to be constructed, whose names with their respective holdings appear therein, be it therefore resolved by the village council of the village of St. Hilaire, County of Pennington and State of Minnesota, that the said sidewalks ordered as aforesaid, be and the same is hereby ordered to be fully done, and fully completed by the street commissioner of the village of St. Hilaire, and the entire expense thereof to be paid out of the general revenue fund of said village.

On motion duly made and carried the clerk was instructed to advertise for bids for sidewalk construction in the Crookston Times, St. Hilaire Spectator and the Thief River Falls News-Press, bids to run two weeks and to be opened July 23, 1912.

On motion duly made and carried meeting adjourned.

J. C. DAHL, Pres.

DR. C. SWANSON, Village Recorder.

Notice for Bids

Notice is hereby given that the village council of the village of St. Hilaire, will accept sealed bids up to and including July 23, for the construction of approximately 1300 lineal feet of cement sidewalk, same to be built 5 feet wide, 5 inches thick, 1 inch of [illegible] gravel on the bottom [illegible] part cement and [illegible] sand, and [illegible] finish of 1 part cement and [illegible] sand. The village [illegible] right to reject any and all bids.

Dated July 8, 1912.

Duluth Boosters Coming

About a hundred [illegible] representing [illegible] the Great Northern railroad, and will remain for ten minutes.

They will be accompanied by the famous Third Regiment Band, one of the finest musical organizations in the northwest.

Leaving Duluth Monday evening, July 15, they will travel over 800 miles through the northwestern part of Minnesota, going to International Falls, west to Warroad and Crookston and back to Duluth over the Great Northern. Stops will be made at sixty towns on the route, and the time at each town must necessarily be short, except where it is necessary to stop for the night. They will return to Duluth Thursday evening, July 18.

The trip was arranged by the Duluth Commercial club so that the Duluth business men might pay a friendly visit to the towns in Duluth's immediate trade territory. The Duluth men want to meet the people and see the towns. They want to establish friendly relations already existing. They want the people in northern Minnesota to know that Duluth is interested in them, as the prosperity and growth of the towns in Duluth's territory is a direct benefit to Duluth.

Bear in mind we do not come to be entertained; simply to get better acquainted.

By virtue of its position at the head of lake navigation, Duluth is favored by nature for becoming a big distributing center. The city is growing, its jobbing houses are among the best in the northwest, and its trade territory is expanding rapidly. Traffic difficulties which have handicapped Duluth in the past have been largely cleared away. Duluth business interests have adopted the policy of mingling friendship and business, and the trips to the towns in its trade territory are the result.

St. Hilaire will do well to meet the Duluth boosters and get some of their enthusiasm for their city. At the same time, say a word for St. Hilaire. The true booster likes to hear the other fellow boost his town.

Farm Stationery

It has been frequently suggested that the farmer would appear better as a business man, and not infrequently gain some pecuniary advantage as well, if he would use letter paper and envelopes neatly printed with the name of his farm and postoffice address. If he deals in any specidities whether of live stock, poultry, dairy, garden or orchard products, these also should be mentioned on his letterhead.

"The Farmer's Wife" suggests that the women of the farm should also have some stationery "bearing the individuality of their homes and lives." But a prerequisite, in both cases, is the adoption of a suitable name for the home or road, or both. One will think more of his home, and of the reputation of his farm products, if it has a name by which it can be identified; and the identification is made more complete if the road also has a name.

In England a pleasing variety of names has been found for local roads, lanes, paths, ways, ridings, alleys, avenues, highways, thoroughfares, or whatever may be the substantive used in connection with the descriptive noun. Why not adopt some equally pleasing for our American roads; and make them "stick," not only by using them on our stationary, but by painting them on much-needed guide-posts at the crossing?—C. R. Barns, Extension Div. Minn. Col. of Agriculture.

The Fourth at Holt

Something we received too late for last week's issue is the account of the St. Hilaire pilgrimage to Holt on the 4th of July.

The account of the hospitality of the people who had cahrge of the celebration had best be omitted from publication, but for the fact that Holt is a "very" small—very "small" place and necessarily contains a few very small people; also a few devoid of fairness.

The St. Hilaire orchestra were engaged to furnish music and were accorded very ordinary treatment.

The game of base ball was arranged with the St. Hilaire team. At the last moment the game was cancelled, leaving the St. Hilaire team without an engagement for the 4th. Most of our players scattered to different towns to celebrate. Some went to Holt. A game was scheduled between Holt and New Folden, but the latter refused to play at the last minute. Four of the St. Hilaire players were called on to get up a team in a hurry and play Holt for the standing purse of $35.00. The St. Hilaire players made up a team in about ten minutes and the game was on. St. Hilaire won the game fairly with the score of 11 against 2. Not one penny was given the winning team and the St. Hilaire players even paid their own expenses, paid money out of their pockets to get out of Holt.

We are all back home, where the atmosphere is clear and pure and a sense of fairness prevails. We all wish Holt success in her next "great" celebration and hope some of her "dear" managers will send us an account of it by mail as none of us will be there.

Identified

The Minnesota republican progressive league formally declared against the third term third party movement, and said that republican progressives would find a complete answer to their needs in "a progressive candidate already nominated."

It is interesting, and worth remembering, that the Minneapolis Journal, the Minneapolis Tribune and the Duluth News Tribune, Taft newspapers which have sought to prove that Mr. Taft is a "progressive," promptly indentified this unnamed progressive candidate as Woodrow Wilson.

So did everybody else; but when these Taft papers later try to delude the voters into belief that Taft is a progressive, it will be well to remember who is in their mind now when the word "progressive" is applied to a presidential candidate.—Duluth Herald.

No Consolidation

At the election Thursday evening to vote on the consolidation of school districts, 102, 21, 54, 178, and 227, the proposition was defeated by an overwhelming vote of 61 to 25. This astounding though not entirely unexpected result, can only be accounted for by supposing that the voters were not very well posted on what consolidation would mean to them. That, as stated by some, sixty farmers would deliberately vote so against their own interests in the effort to spite the people of St. Hilaire, is inconceivable. There must have been a misunderstanding somewhere.

It is rumored that parties from Thief River Falls have been around the districts working against the proposed consolidation for the past week or more.

Fierce Hailstorms in England.

Large stories are told of the damage done by hailstones in Minnesota recently. However, Old England itself has some statistics to show. On May 30, 1897, a terrific hailstorm visited Seaford, Sussex. Some of the "bolts" measure 4½ inches in circumference, after lying on the ground for fully seven minutes. On June 24, in the same year, the most disastrous visitation of the kind in modern times ravaged parts of Essex and the adjacent counties.

Animals and poultry were killed and crops ruined. At Ingatestone the hail broke through a slated roof, and at Baddow it went through windows and cut the blinds to pieces. The damage in Essex alone was at least $500,000.

The latest storm of exceptional violence occurred in Huntingdonshire on August 2, 1906. The "hail" consisted of hard pieces of ice, from three to four inches in length, and killed rabbits and other small animals wholesale.

Simple Remedy for Lockjaw.

Cal Johnson, an old-time printer, was in the city recently and claims to have a simple and effective cure for lockjaw, one that never fails. Remembering his boyhood days when the rusty nail was always lying in wait for the barefoot boy and serving as a menace to all who attempted to pass the summer months without shoes on their feet, Mr. Johnson thinks that his advice may be of some use to the fathers and mothers who still have barefoot boys.

The remedy is to smoke the wound caused by the rusty nail or other implement of torture to the small boy, with a woolen cloth. Twenty minutes with this kind of treatment, it is said, will take out the worst case of inflammation and cause a speedy healing of the wound without disagreeable results.—Kansas City Journal.

The Malacca Wildcats.

In the forests of Malacca and other islands in the Indian ocean may still be found the animal known as a wildcat. The upper parts of it are generally of a clear yellow color, with black spots; the lower parts are white with black spots also. On the back the spots lengthen almost into lines or rings, black on yellow.

The average length of the animal, excluding the tail, is almost two feet; the tail averages nine inches. Its height when standing erect is about 12 inches at the shoulder and 15 inches at the hindquarters. Its temper is mild and gentle; it plays almost like a domestic cat, or rather kitten, chasing its tail and amusing itself with anything that it can roll with its paws.

Had Given It Away.

Lucille's mother had taken her for an outing. Now that the hour for luncheon had arrived, she called to the little girl:

"Lucille, we will now have a little roll and some chocolate, and you shall pay with the two sous I gave you but a short time since."

"Oh, mamma," cried Lucille, "I have already given the two sous away to an old woman!"

"I am so glad you have disposed of the money in such a charitable way. How did you happen to present it to the old woman?" asked the mother.

"Well, you see, I gave it to her in payment for two nice apples," confessed Lucille.

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice is Hereby Given: That default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage containing power of sale; executed by Harby L. Quist and Judith A. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, dated 18th day of April, A. D. 1910, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 19th day of April A. D. 1910, at 5:00 p. m. in book 8 of mortgages on page 619 thereof; which said mortgage was thereafter and after the division of Red Lake county at the organization of Pennington county, transcribed into the records of Pennington county, Minnesota; and that the same is transcribed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in Pennington county, Minnesota in book 32 of mortgages on page 37, thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and on the 4th day of June A. D. 1912, for a valuable consideration and by an instrument in writing, dated on that day, duly executed and acknowledged by said Johnson Van Sant Co., said mortgagee, sold, assigned, and transferred to C. L. Hansen, which said written assignment was thereafter and on the 10th day of June A. D. 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m., of that day filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, and duly recorded in book 8 of mortgages on page 94 thereof, and that at the date of this notice there is claimed to be due and is actually due on the said mortgage, according to the terms thereof, the total sum of three hundred ten and 54-100 (310.54) dollars. Said sum consisting of an unpaid balance of one hundred twenty (120.00) dollars on the note secured by the said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from and after May 1, 1911, and of two interest payments for the sum of eighty-eight (88.00) dollars each, due respectively May 1, 1911, and May 1, 1912, on a prior mortgage on the land hereinafter described, which said interest payments were paid by the mortgagee herein, and of interest on each of the said interest payment from the respective due dates thereof to the date hereof, at the rate of six (6) per cent annum and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt or any part thereof secured by said mortgage.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises therein described at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the main front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on Monday the 29th day of July A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage with interest thereon from the date hereof and the costs and expenses of such sale and the sum of twenty-five (25.00) dollars attorney's fees as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold is all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Pennington, and state of Minnesota described as follows: Northeast quarter (ne¼) of section thirty-four (34), township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-one (41).

Dated June 10, 1912.

Preferred the Insomnia.

A story is told of the late bishop of London, Dr. Creighton, and Lord Rosebery. Lord Rosebery complained to the bishop of want of sleep, to which the bishop replied that he never suffered from insomnia. The earl observed that he wished he knew the remedy. The bishop's formula was very simple. If he felt drowsy he started to write a sermon and in a few moments he was wide awake. On the other hand if he wanted to sleep all he had to do was to start to read a sermon. Then sleep came in a few seconds. Lord Rosebery replied that it was his practice to choose the lesser evil, and he preferred want of sleep to reading sermons.

Delays Are Dangerous.

His years exceeded the allotted three-score and ten, but he was a capitalist with more dollars than sense.

"Ah, my dear," he murmured to the fair girl by his side. "I could die for you."

"Then let us hurry to the minister's at once," replied the practical maid. "I don't want you to give the undertaker a job until I have the right to inherit."

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With
The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proved to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

Hardly the Sunday School Brand.

The young hopeful had secreted some bright buttons in his pocket, which came from the motor car show. When Sunday school was well under way, he took one out and pinned it on his coat, feeling it an ornament. Unfortunately, when the minister came round to speak to the dear children, his near sighted eyes were caught by the color.

"Well, Richard, I see you are wearing some motto, my lad. What does it say?"

"You read it, sir," replied Richard, hanging his head.

"But I cannot see. I haven't my glasses, son. Read it so we can all hear you."

Richard blushed. "It says, sir, 'Ain't it —— to be poor?'"—Metropolitan Magazine.

As they drew near the Sunday school the father gave Johnny his last rehearsal. "Now, son," he said, "let's have the Golden Text once more without any help from me."

This is what he got from Johnny: "Whatsoever a man sews always rips."—Harper's Bazar.

"I hear," said he to Mr. McMicken, "that your wife has a son."

"Yes, my lord," said the man proudly.

"Well, now, look here, McMicken; when I put you here, it was to open and shut a gate, but by the Lord Har-

Mrs. J. L. Story, who has just published a volume of reminiscences, tells of a lady relative who had all her life been afraid of damp sheets. Thos. Conway "Cabal" Against Washington

THOMAS CONWAY

A MIDDLE-aged, jolly, dashing soldier of fortune came to America in 1777 and offered his services to the patriot army. He brought along with him no great military skill, but a most amazing capacity for making trouble. The soldier was Thomas Conway, a British subject, who had lived since early childhood in France. There he had joined the army and risen to a colonelcy. When he came here he was joyfully received. The Revolutionists lacked expert officers and they made him a brigadier-general.

The man's boasts and his dashing ways impressed the simpler statesmen. But George Washington read him at a glance, for a windy, vicious incompetent.

So when congress decided a little later to make Conway a major general the chief sternly opposed such a promotion and gave his reasons for doing so. From that moment Conway was Washington's sworn foe.

He and his associates formed what was known as the "Conway Cabal," and did all in their power to undermine Washington's influence. In a series of anonymous letters Conway ridiculed the chief as a coward and as too feeble of mind as a leader. He suggested Gen. Horatio Gates as commander-in-chief in Washington's place.

It was the Revolution's dark hour. New York and Philadelphia were in the hands of the British. Washington and his army were starving and freezing at Valley Forge after a summer and autumn of repeated defeats. Men's hearts grew faint and their allegiance weakened. Conway's crafty words at such a moment fell on ready ears.

The cabal waxed strong. But for a mere accident it might readily have ended by depriving Washington of power and of placing the command of the patriot armies in the hands of Gen. Gates. And with fussy, inefficient, cowardly old Gates at the head of the American troops American liberty would have been doomed. Here, in brief, is the story of the accident that saved our country:

Gates' aid, Wilkinson, drank too much one night and babbled to a friend of the chief some of the contents of a letter from Conway to Gates in which Conway had spoken insultingly of Washington. The story was told to Washington, who called Conway to account. Conway rushed to Gates for aid, and Gates tried to get out of the difficulty by branding Wilkinson as a liar.

Wilkinson promptly challenged Gates to a duel. Gates wept on Wilkinson's shoulder and implored him to withdraw the challenge, speaking of himself as a feeble old man who loved Wilkinson like a father. In this way the frightened old general wriggled out of fighting.

Meantime, thanks to the first hint, Washington learned of all Conway's anonymous letters and other treacheries. The facts were made known to the people. The cabal was crushed under a storm of public disapproval.

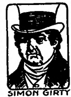
Conway, believing himself dying, wrote one more letter. This time to Washington, asking forgiveness for his villainies and declaring the chief to be a "great and good man." Then he "conditionally" resigned his commission as an officer in the American service. Congress accepted the resignation, unconditionally, and Conway went back to France.

There he styled himself "Count de Conway," and managed to win an appointment as governor of one of France's Oriental provinces. He made such a mess of his diplomatic work in his province of the Orient that he almost wrecked the French interests there. He returned to France and became a general in the royal armies.

During the French Revolution he was condemned to death. He was saved only by an appeal to Great Britain (against which he had fought in the American Revolution), but was compelled to flee from France for his life.

After that Conway disappeared from history. He is supposed to have died about 1800 in poverty and exile.

Simon Girty, the "Indian White Man"



SIMON GIRTY

A NINE-year-old Pennsylvania boy stood cowering and weeping amid a band of Indians one day in 1755, while his stepfather, John Turner, was burned at the stake. The boy was Simon Girty, son of an emigrant who had turned Indian trader. The lad's father had been killed by a drunken Indian. His friend, John Turner, had slain the Indian and married Girty's widow. The Indian's tribesmen in turn murdered Turner and made young Simon a prisoner.

For years the boy lived among the savages, learning their language and customs, until he became at heart more an Indian than a white man. As he grew to early manhood he left the tribe and sought a living among the settlers. His knowledge of Indian ways made him useful in many ways to the British military commanders along the frontier. He enlisted in Lord Dunmore's forces as a soldier and interpreter, and soon became known as one of the cleverest military spies in the colonies.

Then the American Revolution began. Girty joined the patriot army and rose to the rank of lieutenant. Then, in 1777, he suddenly played the traitor, and went over to the British. It is not absolutely known whether he did this because of some quarrel with the Revolutionists or because he thought he could make more money and fame in the enemy's camp. At any rate, the British received him gladly.

When Col. William Crawford, at the head of a little body of patriots, marched against Sandusky, and was captured by the Indians, he begged Girty to save him. Girty, according to most accounts, refused and laughed aloud while Crawford was tortured to death. Girty always denied this, and said he had tried in vain to persuade his Indian followers to spare Crawford. (He did succeed once in saving from torture his old friend, Simon Kenton, the Kentucky pioneer.)

In 1782 Girty invaded Kentucky at the head of 600 Indians, and attacked a fort near Lexington. The plucky little garrison held out until Daniel Boone could come up with reinforcements and drive Girty away. Boone followed the retreating savages. The two forces met at Blue Licks. There a fierce battle, disastrous to the Americans, was fought (the last of many great Indian battles in Kentucky).

Girty, not content with leading savages against men of his own race, next proceeded to drive the gentle Moravian missionaries out of the Indian tribes. He made his headquarters on a Sandusky River farm, which he changed into a trading station, and from which he and his followers crept forth every now and then on cruel marauding expeditions.

At Gen. Arthur St. Clair's defeat, in 1791, Girty played his usual murderous role. In that battle Gen. William Butler was wounded. Girty saw the general lying helpless on the ground. Calling upon an Indian, he ordered him to scalp and kill Butler.

When, in 1793, the United States government appointed a commission to arrange a peace treaty with the Indians, Simon Girty had himself made interpreter. So crafty did he misinterpret, and so brutally did he insult the commissioners, that the treaty fell through.

Then came the war of 1812. Girty once more rushed to the front as the friend of the British and the foe of his own country. Again he marshalled his Indians to the fray, and again the torch, tomahawk and scalping knife wrought havoc along the frontier. Girty's name was cursed by settlers and soldiers alike. His cruelty, his treachery, his genius for evil doing—all combined to make him, perhaps, the best hated man in the west.

Many tales of his atrocities—some true, some exaggerated—are still handed down from generation to generation in the districts he ravaged. He has been described as a human monster, of hideous aspect. This is not true. He was merely a fat, swarthy, bull-necked man, about five feet nine inches tall.

Some historians say Girty was killed at the Battle of the Thames in 1813 (where Gen. Harrison crushed the Indians, and where their leader, Tecumseh, fell); others that he survived the war and died a natural death two years later.

Staggered the Englishman.

The value of J. P. Morgan's possessions which he kept in his London house may be estimated from the following story, which comes by way of England:

There were discontented Americans who used to complain because Morgan left so many of his art possessions in England. The former secretary of the treasury, Leslie M. Shaw, once asked him point blank why he did not bring his pictures and miniatures and other beautiful things to America, where the American people might have a look at them.

Mr. Morgan said: "I can't afford to."

"I knew you were a poor man," said Mr. Shaw, "but I didn't realize you were as poor as that."

"Mr. Shaw," retorted Morgan, [illegible]

"They would amount to at least $6,000,000."

"Six million dollars is £1,200,000, and that for duty alone!" is the amazed comment of the English sponsor for the story.

The West End New York.

What is "The West?" How many various and surprising individualities are included in these words? New York can see through a millstone if it has a hole in it, but she is less apt to jump at conclusions than some other communities; she wants to "be shown" quite as earnestly as Missouri; perhaps she can "understand the West" quite as intelligently as "The West" can understand New York.—New York Evening Sun.

TOWN FOR WOMEN

Little Communities Located in Belgian Cities.

Party of Tourists Attempt to Enter Sacred Village With Auto and Are Stopped by Nun—Making Lace Is Chief Industry.

Ghent, Belgium.—I cannot imagine the dwellers in my "women's towns" feeling in the least oppressed because they have no votes; and yet the keynote of their lives is a desire for self-support and honorable independence. they have merely stepped aside from the course of ordinary life into abiding places that they rule and control and that are shut away from the haunts of men by walls and gates and moats; toy cities so spotlessly neat, so circumspect, so imbued with the hush of perpetual afternoon that time seems to stand still in their sunny precincts.

Nevertheless, on my first visit to a women's town I was eyewitness to a surprising act of self-assertion by one of its gentle guardians. Under conduct of a friend long resident in the old Flemish city of Ghent, which forms the outer shell of this women's town, a little party of us in a motor car turned in one summer morning from the street and ran without stop or parley through the arched gateway into the broad, clean road leading to the interior. There a little, black robed, white coifed woman, with flashing eyes and a flushed countenance, dashed directly into the path of the advancing car and peremptorily ordered us to stop and go back.

Once we were safely across the moat and in our proper place outside the walls our rebuker changed her manner. In silvery accents she begged us to walk in; then, recognizing our chauffeur, she explained that in the tourist season all motors were excluded because of their noise and reek.

The Beguinage they call it, this little community founded by a woman for women. They are two of the kind in Ghent, one in beautiful old Bruges and the others scattered throughout Belgium.

The institution dates from the thirteenth century. But the present buildings are modern, for the Beguinage was in 1875 transferred by city order from its ancient site, which was required for the laying out of new streets. A complete miniature city it stands today, with streets and squares, and entrance gates in the encircling walls, and a church, round which cluster a picturesque congeries of little two-storied brick dwellings, each with the name of its patron saint inscribed above the dor.

Where All is Peace and Rest.

The Beguines here number about 700. Their chief industry is the making of lovely spider web lace, over which you may see them at work on all sides. And as accidents will occur to those costly laces and valued old-time specimens will wear out in unexpected places, it is to the Beguinage that the owners, from royal ladies down, send their treasures to be repaired.

WOMEN CLOTHED IN SMILES

Rich, Rare and Racy Is Current Number of Harvard Undergraduate Publication.

Cambridge, Mass.—The editors of the Harvard Lampoon, the undergraduates' humorous fortnightly publication, are momentarily expecting a call to the president's office to explain why they countenanced the issue of such a paper as the "Improper Number," which was placed on sale. The sale of the magazine started with a rush and before noon it was almost impossible to obtain a copy for love or money. Articles that are rich, rare and racy, with illustrations that are piquant and suggestive, find niches in the pages of the current Lampoon.

Perhaps the most sensational article of all is a story by Robert W. Sameness, presumably Robert W. Chambers. Chambers himself could have done no better. Suggestiveness plays tag with love and passion throughout the whole story, and the situations are, to say the least, delicate. It is Chambers out-Chambered.

Another article which finds space in the Lampoon is an interview with Miss Tillie Touraine, presumably Miss Lillian Lorraine, the actress. The article itself is nothing startling. A photograph of Miss Touraine in tights, one series of curves, is labeled as a picture of that delightful actress in street costume. Another photo is of three beautiful young women clothed in smiles. The picture is cut short, leaving a lot to the imagination.

SKIN ERUPTION ON CHEEK

Kingsley, Mich.—"Last May my thirteen-months-old baby had a sore come on her cheek. It started in four or five small pimples and in two or three hours' time spread to the size of a silver dollar. It spread to her eye. Then water would run from the pimples and wherever that touched it caused more sores until nearly all one cheek and up her nostrils were one solid sore. She was very fretful. She certainly was a terrible looking child, and nothing seemed to be of any use.

"Then I got some Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. She tried to rub off everything we put on so that we would sit and hold her hands for two hours at a time, trying to give the medicine a chance to help her, but after I washed it with Cuticura Soap and then put on the Cuticura Ointment they seemed to soothe her and she did not try to rub them off. It was only a few days before her face was all healed up, and there has been no return of the trouble since. We thought that baby's face would surely be scarred, but it is not." (Signed) Mrs. W. J. Cleland, Jan. 5, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

Springs in Their Brains.

Two Frenchmen, in visiting an art galery, stopped to admire a painting by an American. The artist happened to be in the gallery and, in broken English one of the Frenchmen asked: "How did monsieur ever catch such a wonderful picture?"

"Oh," replied the artist, with a far-away look, "that painting was an off-spring of my brain."

The other Frenchman was greatly interested and asked his friend what that American had said.

"I can hardly explain," whispered the first Frenchman excitedly; "he said ze picture was one spring off of Americans act queerly when they have springs on their brains."

Singing and the Lungs.

It is well known that singing, like whistling, is a fine exercise for the lungs, and some doctors advise those who fear consumption to go in for singing for this reason.

At the same time they, of course, do not advance the claim that singing alone will save anyone from or cure consumption. Acquire the habit of taking the big deep breath, which is a primary requisite of any kind of singing, bad or good, and the physical joy derived from it will never allow you to relapse into lazy breathing.

Same Purpose Accomplished.

"Oh, Georgie!" exclaimed a fond mother, when she saw her small boy considerably battered up and dirty, "you have been fighting again! How often have I told you that you shouldn't fight?"

"Well," said he, "what are you going to do when a fellow hits you?"

"Why, keep out of his way," said the mother.

"I bet," said the youngster, "he'll keep out of mine after this."

MORE HOSPITALS ARE NEEDED

Situation Improved, but Further Work Is Needed to Stamp Out Tuberculosis.

Only four states, Mississippi, Nevada, Utah and Wyoming, have no beds whatever in special hospitals or wards for consumptives. Eight years ago when the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis was organized there were 26 states in which no hospital or sanitorium provision for consumptives existed, and the entire number of beds in the United States was only 10,000.

"While these figures would indicate a remarkable growth in anti-tuberculosis activity," says Dr. Livingston Farrand, executive secretary of the National association, in commenting on the subject, there are still practically ten indigent consumptives for every one of the 30,000 beds, including those for pay patients. In other words, we have from 250,000 to 300,000 consumptives in this country too poor to provide hospital care for themselves. If tuberculosis is ever going to be stamped out in the United States, more hospital provision for these foci of infection must be provided."

EXPLAINS PROTEST

SENATOR O'GORMAN UPHOLDS THE RIGHTS OF AMERICAN SHIPS IN CANAL.

HAVE RIGHT TO DECIDE.

Lodge Says If Case Goes to The Hague Court U. S. Will Lose.—Calls It a Scheme of the Railroad Owned Ships.

Washington, D. C. — Senator O'Gorman of New York made a charge in the senate that railroad influence was behind Great Britain's protest against the Panama canal bill and he joined with Senator Lodge in declaring that the United States possessed full rights under the British treaty to give free passage to ships of American register. These two speeches marked the debate in the senate on the Panama canal bill.

Both Mr. Lodge and Mr. O'Gorman declared that this nation was not bound by the Hay-Pauncefote treaty to give foreign ships all the privileges granted American ships. Mr. Lodge favored a bill to rebate the tolls to American ships, however, while Senator O'Gorman declared the United States possessed the full right to give American vessels free passage, if desired. Senator Lodge conceded that if the case went to The Hague court, the United States will probably lose.

The support for the provision giving free passage to American ships against which Great Britain has protested, was more emphatic than at any time since the senate began consideration of the bill. Mr. O'Gorman, Mr. Cummins, and others, declared that if the United States had to construe the treaty literally in giving the ships of all nations equal treatment, it would by other terms of the treaty be prevented from defending the canal in case of war.

"I do not think British shipping is greatly interested," said Senator O'Gorman. "I believe the railroads of Canada and the railroads of the United States have been enabled to secure the co-operation of the British foreign office to embarrass this government in the attempt we are now making to secure legislation to keep railroad-controlled ships out of the Panama canal."

WILSON PICKS AIDS.

Selecting Men Who Are to Conduct His Campaign.

Sea Girt, New Jersey. — The Democratic campaign committee which will direct the coming presidential campaign is being selected here in part if not in whole by Governor Wilson and National Chairman McCombs, in consultation with nine leaders of the party whom the governor has invited to confer with him.

The men whom the governor has invited to come to Sea Girt and on whose advice he will lean heavily in making his choice are:

Robert Hudspeth, national committeeman from New Jersey; Josephus Daniels, national committeeman from North Carolina; Willard Salsbury, national committeeman from Delaware; A. Mitchell Palmer, national committeeman from Pennsylvania; Joseph E. Davies, national committeeman from Wisconsin, secretary of the Democratic national committee; Senator Gore of Oklahoma; Senator O'Gorman of New York; Representative Burleson of Texas, and William G. McAdoo of New York.

While the power of appointment of the campaign committe is vested in Mr. McCombs, it is understood he will but act as a medium and that the actual appointment will be made by Governor Wilson.

A sharp difference along political lines has developed in the senate over the proposed impeachment of Judge Robert W. Achbald of the commerce court. Many senators, including influential republicans, favor deferring the trial until after the November elections, contending that ample time should be given to prepare for the hearing of the impeachment charges and that many senators are needed at home to look after the political fences.

TO PROSECUTE MILLERS.

Chicago Dealers Are Likely to Charge Rebating.

Chicago, Illinois. — Prosecution of Minneapolis flour mills and several western railroads on a charge of rebating may result form the investigation being made by the interstate commerce commission of complaints filed by the Chicago board of trade, regarding alleged discrimination in freight rates on wheat between Chicago and Minneapolis.

Local dealers assert they are obliged to pay a 10 cent rate on wheat while Minneapolis manufacturers are enabled to buy their raw material in the West, manufacture it into flour and ship the product to Chicago at a rate of 7½ cents a hundred pounds. They also contend that Minneapolis flour manufacturers have been mixing wheat from one section where the low rate is charged with wheat from sections where a high rate is in effect, in violation of the provisions of the interstate commerce law.

JEWELERS' CONVENTION.

Annual Convention of State Association Scheduled.

Fergus Falls.—The annual state convention of the Minnesota Retail Jewelers' association will be held in this city, July 17 and 18. The convention sessions will open at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday and will be called to order by President F. H. Straub of this city. Mayor E. T. Nelson will deliver the address of welcome, which will be followed by President Straub's annual address. Reports from the secretary and treasurer will also be received and new members will be elected.

At 11 a. m. Charles T. Higgenbotham of South Bend, Ind., will address the convention on "The Watch Balance and Its Treatment."

MILK STANDARD SET.

Will Have to Contain Less Than 100,000 Bacteria.

Minneapolis. — Milk, in passing inspection from now on, will have to contain less than 100,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter or come under the ban of the state board of health.

Inspected milk means milk that has passed the local board of health tests and the producers of which have complied with those ordinances covering its production and sale. In a word, the new order of things is the establishment of a standard and guidance in the sale of clean milk throughout the state. It has no application to certified milk.

The action of the state board of health makes the standard of less than 100,000 bacteria state-wide. Municipalities and prosecuting officials from now on will have to guide themselves accordingly. Dr. Bracken, secretary of the board, thinks the new standard will materially aid in the sale of clean milk throughout the state.

The board has had more or less trouble with the compilation of vital statistics and it has ordered that town clerks, local boards of health and others concerned with the certification of births and dealth and diseases must make good or suffer the penalty of a fine.

HIGHWAY IS ASSURED.

Board Takes Steps to Start Laying of Sixteen Miles.

Winona. — The Winona county board of commissioners have formally approved the plans and specifications drawn up by engineers from the office of the state highway commission for the construction of sixteen miles of concrete highways under the new Elwell law. The action will mean the actual beginning of the building of $120,000 of new roads within a month. Bids will be advertised for this morning, and according to the new law three weeks later, on Aug. 1, the contracts will be awarded on the three different roads and the work will be rushed. It is the idea of the promoters of the new roads in this county to have much of the construction under way before the cold weather interferes with progress late in the fall.

The roads to be built in this country, according to the plans adopted will be 16 feet wide. There will be a center of concrete eight feet wide.

Abdul Hamid, Sultan and Scoundrel

ABDUL HAMID II

ON a divan in a room of Yildiz Kiosk, in Constantinople, reclined a lean, hawk-eyed man with dyed beard and gray-yellow skin. His glased black eyes were shut. He was asleep — or pretended to be. A girl, scarcely more than a child, strayed into the room and stared in wonder at its rich furnishings. From one gorgeous bauble to another she wandered, gazing, examining, handling. At length, as she reached a table, she saw lying there a tiny jeweled, silver mounted pistol. It was unlike any other weapon she ever had seen. The girl picked it up, turning it over and marveling at its rare beauty. The man on the divan in the shadowy corner opened his eyes and slowly sat up.

"What are you looking at?" he asked gently.

"At this pistol, sire," answered the girl.

"And what are pistols made for?" he queried in the same pleasant tone.

"To—to shoot people, sire," faltered the girl, a little reassured by his gentleness.

"Quite so," yawned the man. "And I will prove it. Let me show you."

Whipping another revolver from his pocket he shot the girl dead.

This is a typical anecdote of Abdul Hamid, "Commander of the Faithful," "The Prophet's Viceroy on Earth"—the man who until last year was sultan of Turkey. It shows at once his cunning, his heartlessness, his deadly fear of assassination. So deeply did he dread being killed that he usually remained a captive in his own palace, surrounding himself only with those to whom he was more valuable alive than dead, and at once slaying any one whom he even remotely suspected of [illegible] designs upon his life. The Yildiz Kiosk hid thousands of black tragedies.

Fear of death made Abdul's life a burden. It robbed him of slumber. At times the only way he could be put to sleep was by hearing some one read aloud the story of the awful punishments that had been inflicted on some of the slayers of rulers. These tales of torture would lull him to rest.

Abdul Hamid was born in 1842. He was the second son of a sultan and came to the Turkish throne in 1876 when his elder brother was deposed. To make way for Abdul, another brother was murdered and a nephew falsely imprisoned as a maniac. The new sultan began his reign by promising countless reforms—and by performing none of them. His Balkan States in those days were in wild revolt. At home, the "Young Turk" movement was already busy trying to build up the rotten government and to abolish tyranny. The people murmured. The Turkish crown seemed tottering. Abdul Hamid had before him a task that would have crushed most rulers. Yet he performed it with a skill that stamped him as the subtlest and ablest statesman of his day.

At the outset of his career as sultan the atrocities in the Balkans led Russia to declare war on Turkey. Russia won the conflict and might have wiped the stain of Turkish crimes from the earth had not the other European powers grown jealous. They interfered; saved Turkey and deprived Russia of nearly all the fruits of her victory. Already the sultan was beginning to show his rare statesmanlike qualities.

In the peace treaty Abdul made many fine promises. He kept none of them, and he so fooled the European powers that he suffered no penalty from his breach of faith. He choked the voice of liberty, silenced the "Young Turks" by force and made himself sole master of his empire. By playing one nation against another and by owing some of them huge debts that his downfall might cancel, he kept the world at large from interfering with his horrible plans.

For instance, in 1895-1896 the signal was given by him for a wholesale massacre of Armenian Christians. Thousands of defenseless persons were slaughtered. A far lesser series of atrocities had brought on a war with Russia in 1877. Yet this time not one European nation lifted a finger to check the outrage.

But tyranny has always wrought its own destruction. While Europe, bound hand and foot by the web of Abdul Hamid's wily diplomacy, took no step to check his crimes, his own people at length rose against him. The "Young Turks" grew too strong to be put down. There was an almost bloodless revolution in 1908. Abdul was deposed in April, 1909, and was sent to Salonica as a state prisoner. His younger brother, Mehmed, or Mohammed, was taken from a prison palace where Abdul had confined him, and was placed upon the Turkish throne.

That Abdul was deposed is but natural. The only wonder is that he was able to hold his shaky power in so masterful fashion for a third of a century.

Jean Jacques Rousseau, Philosopher and Scoundrel

ROUSSEAU

JEAN JACQUES Rousseau, self-confessed thief, wrote strongly on uprightness. He also preached fiery discourses on the sacredness of domestic affection—and sent his own five children to a foundling asylum. He changed religions as another man would change from summer to winter clothes. A writer on morality, his own morals were unspeakable. He was ever eager to receive aid; and still more industrious in abusing benefactors. He had a genius for philosophic writings—and a far greater genius for making enemies. The kindest thing that can be said about him personally is that he was probably more or less insane.

Rousseau was the son of a Swiss watchmaker. His father in 1722, when the lad was ten years old, became involved in a street row and had to leave his Geneva home, calmly deserting his family. Jean Jacques was brought up by his mother's relatives, who apprenticed him at thirteen to a notary. The boy and his master could not get on together, so Jean was apprenticed over again, this time to an engraver. All his long life Rousseau quarreled with everybody into whose society he was thrown. He began with the engraver. At sixteen he "jumped" his apprenticeship and ran away from Geneva.

He then began a series of wanderings which were more or less interesting, but scarcely profitable either to undergo or tell about. He changed his religion at the outset, encountering some rather doubtful adventures, and at last became a footman in the household of a Mme. de Vercellis. While he was working there he stole a costly ribbon. The theft was discovered. Rousseau saved himself from punishment by falsely accusing a maid servant of the theft. The tale of this wholly shameful affair is found in his celebrated "Confessions."

When his employer died, Rousseau found another situation—and promptly lost it on account of his conduct. His experience for the next few years led him through all grades of society from vagabondage to court circles. It was not until 1745 that he won any fame. Then he became known as a writer [illegible] accepted what aid he could get, then quarreled with his benefactors and usually spoke and wrote ill of them.

In a prize essay, written in 1750, he openly declared that progress and higher civilization had proved a curse to mankind. This essay made him for a time the idol of Paris' artificial and novelty-seeking society. He followed up his literary success by a really beautiful opera. But his attacks on various French customs and ideals made Paris an uncomfortable abode for him. Back he went to Geneva (again changing his religion to fit his surroundings) and met with a cordial reception from the learned men of Switzerland.

Here he took up his literary work again and dazzled the world by his "problem novels" and philosophical treatises. But he continued his life effort of making as many enemies as possible. And such enemies as his personality could not reach were made by his writings. His novel "Emile"—a radical sort of educational thesis in fiction form—was condemned by the Paris parliament; and Rousseau dared not set foot in the French capital for fear of arrest. Other works of his were denounced by the Swiss authorities. His "Contrat Social" (which demanded that governments be ruled by the people and preached universal suffrage) brought down upon him the hatred of conservative thinkers.

He went to England and there quarreled with his patrons, behaved insolently toward the king, and found it convenient to come back to the continent of Europe. This time he was allowed to settle in Paris. His health had become shattered. So had his mind. To add to his woes, he married Therese Le Vasseur, former cook in a third-rate inn. Their five children he sent to a foundling asylum, thus giving his enemies a fine chance to compare his unnatural action with the high sentiments he had written about the sanctity of the home and the education of the young. Therese's mother was the typical comic paper mother-in-law. She rendered Rousseau's home life miserable.

On July 2, 1778, crushed under real and imaginary woes, Rousseau died in a fit. Some historians think [illegible]

Rural School Notes

Attention is called to the notice of teacher's examination found in another column.

At the school officer's meeting the following topics were discussed, among others:

School house sanitation, consolidation of schools, and the work of the state board of health.

A point was made in the discussion of contagious diseases. Parents and school officers should consider the state of the health of their children as a condition for fruitful study. Many defeats exist that might be remedied in time if attended to Let me call attention of the school boards to the following facts:

What can be done to make the school more home like and inspiring to the pupils? Can anything be done about improving the order and neatness of the school grounds? Have the respective school boards a deed to the school property?

Dr. Hill has maintained that a good sanitary well could be kept on the school property. In many schools, children are suffering hardships because of lack of water. Can anything be done to improve these conditions?

The school boards meet as boards of audit three days before the annual school meeting. This will be held on Thursday, and the annual meeting will be held on Saturday. At the first, the finances are considered and statements of the same made. This annual statement is adopted by the meeting and a report made to this office by Sept 10. May we not have this statement even at a earlier date.

The training school has now reached an enrollment of ninety-seven teachers, which must be considered excellent for this locality. It is an inspiration to see all these intelligent and industrious teachers at work and this school means a great boost for our schools.

Special work has been done in agriculture by Prof. Haskins, who took up special work.

Miss Rowe closed Saturday a week's special work in sewing. Prof. Hay will make special efforts to get her back for another week.

The school appreciates very much the aid given by the state department of public instruction in sending us Mr. Linden, who gave a very good lecture on song and music last Friday. He was a very good singer and entertained the school with some very fine song.

The school listened last Saturday to a soul stirring lecture given by Supt. C. H. Denfield of the Duluth schools. It was a heart-to-heart talk with the teachers which inspiredand encouraged all.

Automobile Run Postponed Two Weeks

Announcement is made by Dr. C. E. Dutton, president of the Minnesota State Automobile association, that the annual reliability run, which this year goes to Winnipeg and back to the Twin cities, will be started August 8 instead of July 25 as originally planned. Several things are responsible for the postponement, principally the question of getting the sanction back from the A. A. A headquarters in New York and allowing for the five days which, according to the rules, must elapse between the closing of entries and the start of the tour.

This means a change of dates all along the line. Thursday morning, August 8, the caravan of cars will check out from the St. Paul hotel, St. Paul, and will reach Wadena on the evening of the 8th for over night. August 8 will find the tour at Thief River Falls over night and Saturday, August 10, will see them in Winnipeg, where they will spend Sunday.

Prizes for Good Menus

The patient housewife who is trying to cater to the needs of her family on a moderate income has to solve daily the same old problem, "What shall I cook for breakfast, for luncheon, for dinner?" The very monotony of the question gets on one's nerves and there is a lot of real difficulty in planning a wholesome variety for each day. The Chicago Record-Herald has mercifully come to the aid of puzzled housewives by printing in each issue a set of three menus, with recipes, under the title, "Meals for a Day." What is more, it gives four cash prizes every week for the best of these menus, and women all over the country are invited to compete. The terms of award and the names of the latest winners may be found in any Monday issue of The Record-Herald That is the day, too, when the "Martha's Management" column appears with its helpful hints and advice to cooks and housekeepers. Marion Harland, Sunday page also gives a group of selected recipes which if cut out will make a most valuable collection. Women not familiar with the prize menu feature of The Chicago Record-Herald should investigate it at once. Many have found it a handy means of getting fresh ideas and securing cash for those they already have.

Milk Purity at Last

According to the Minneapolis Journal. which has heretofore been strongly assisting prohibition propaganda, Dr. P. M. Hall, health commissioner of the city of Minneapolis, who has a national reputation for progress, has solved the problem of milk supply that shall be devoid of danger It is well known that thousands of babies die every year because of impure milk. According to the Journal, Dr. Hall advocates very strongly the adoption of new methods in handling the milk. He says it is impossible to reach absolute safety by trying to keep herds healthful. Instead he would insist that "the methods used in handling and bottling golden grain belt beers be adopted by all dairies, as the only way they can make "milk harmless. Hooked a Swordfish.

Eight miles off Newport, Cal., a 12 foot swordfish, with a sword four feet long, caught on an "80" hook by Hugh McMillan and G. G. Shoemaker, towed the fishermen's launch two miles, after having charged the boat repeatedly and scarred the stern in numerous places. The monster was killed after half an hour's fight. It weighed several hundred pounds.

When the big fish was first caught it charged to the surface, endangering the lives of two men and of other men in two near-by launches. The captors of the monster were towed almost out of sight of the men in the other boats. Persons ashore refused to believe that the two men caught the fish on their 27-strand cotton line until the story was vouched for by the men in the other launches.

DECRIES THE PERPETUAL GRIN.

Writer Takes Issue with Man Who Says "Keep a-Smiling."

A favorite motto with many people in these latter days, when the wholesome gospel of cheerfulness is being preached so extensively, is, "Keep a-smiling." It is a very good motto within limitations. In so far as its adoption as a rule of conduct prevents the wearing of a lugubrious countenance when no overwhelming grief or calamity is being endured or is impending, in so far as it overcomes the tendency to look on the dark side and anticipate evil, in so far as it enables one to look for the best in all situations and to keep up his courage when troubles threaten—in all these respects it is a maxim worthy of commendation.

But it should not be interpreted too liberally; its spirit rather than its letter should be observed. Its spirit means a persistent hopefulness, a refusal to be cast down by discouraging or unfavorable circumstances, a sturdy defiance of adverse fate. Its literal observance may include these things, but it means also a perpetual grin, and a perpetual grin leads to thoughts of crime on the part of beholders. No one becomes so irritating or has such a maddening effect upon sensitive associates as the man or woman who wears the "smile that never comes off."—Indianapolis Star.

RABBITS ARE HARD FIGHTERS.

The Charge of Cowardice a Slander—Defeat of a Ferret.

Tell a man that he hasn't the pluck of a rabbit and if he doesn't disprove it by hitting you he is certain at any rate to be extremely annoyed.

Yet the taunt is a libel on the rabbit. A doe rabbit will fight like fury in defense of her young. She will charge like a battering ram and use those long sharp incissors of hers to capital purpose.

An old buck rabbit is not to be lightly tackled by weasel, stoat or even ferret. On the sanded floor of a small public house near Chestnut a ferret of long experience was matched with an old lop-eared buck, the property of the landlord.

The ferret made straight for the rabbit's throat, but the latter was in the air before master ferret could reach him, and leaping clean over the ferret's head let out with those powerful hind legs of his a kick which hurled the ferret bodily against the wainscot. Twice the ferret returned to the attack and twice he missed his grip and went hurtling through the air.

The third repulse was enough for him. He knew he was beaten and could not be persuaded to stand up for a fourth round. — Pearson's Weekly.

For Your Health.

Conquer your moods; don't let your moods conquer you. People who give way to moods never amount to much, because they are never masters of themselves. They never know in the morning whether they are going to do a good day's work or not, whether they are going to be a cheering or a depressing influence on the people around them. If they feel like being good-tempered, they will be; if they feel like "snapping" at everybody, they will snap.

People who suffer from "moods" should be careful about their habits. They should be regular about meals, sleep, exercise and work. The condition of the health has much to do with moods, and there is nothing that contributes so much to health as absolute regularity.

Truly Rustic Bridge.

A rustic bridge at Beach Haven, Ga., contains 56 kinds of wood and vines, grown on the 50 acres of Beach Haven park. Following is a list of the woods and vines: Short-leaf pine, long-leaf pine, post oak, white oak, Spanish oak, water oak, red oak, poplar, sweet gum, black gum, red haw, black haw, red bud, prickly ash, chinquapin, wild plum, persimmon, cedar, wild sloe, wahoo, sumac, red elm, pig hickory, scalybark hickory, hock or sugar berry, willow, china, black elder, crab apple, wild mulberry, wild cherry, dogwood, sourwood, winter whortleberry, black locust, sassafras, cottonwood, buckeye, laurel, beech, holly, ash, ironwood, birch, magnolia, sycamore, walnut, sweet bay, evergreen, spruce. Vines—Grape, muscadine, bellflower, rattan, bamboo.

A Little Case of Telepathy.

There is nothing strange to me in the operation of one mind upon another," the telepathic woman said. "Once when my sister I am very fond of was operated on I went with her and sat in the anteroom a long way off from the operating room. That is I walked up and down there, worried to death nearly about her, when all at once I threw myself into a big arm chair and went sound asleep.

"They had just given her the ether then, so her mind was at rest and rested mine. I slept until she came out from under the influence."

What It Reminded Him Of.

When Gen. Schenck, whose greatest fame rests upon his having introduced the game of poker into England, first arrived in London as American minister to the court of St. James he took a little of his spare time to visit the sights of the British capital. Among other places he visited Mme. Tussaud's wax works.

"And what do you think of our great wax work exhibition?" asked a friend.

"Well," replied the general, "it struck me as being very like the ordinary English evening party."

Beans and Bacon.

An old Scotchman surprised us all by remarking: "Your famous New England dish of pork and beans came directly from England, where for centuries it was the reigning favorite with all classes. The English called it 'beans and bacon.' In New York you have corned beef and beans—the same old beans. I never could understand why beans and bacon were [illegible]

TO SEND COIN BY U. S. MAIL.

Express Companies Rudely Jarred by Discovery of New Clause.

Washington.—The treasury officials have recently discovered a highly interesting fact in regard to the appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government, which escaped general attention at the time it was enacted.

It pertains to the shipment of fractional silver coin from the several subtreasuries of the United States to banks in various parts of the country.

It now appears that in the rush attending the passage of the sundry civil bill, James Wesley Gaines of Tennessee caused to be inserted in the measure a provision that one-half of the $60,000 appropriation for the transportation of coin shall be expended for registered mail. Heretofore shipments of currency have uniformly been made by express, and the express companies have been obliged to make good any loss by theft or other accident in transportation.

The express companies are greatly concerned over the new order of things, especially as Mr. Daskam, chief of the bureau of public moneys in the treasury department, has ruled that the law means that $30,000 should be expended by registered mail before any part of the appropriation is expended for express charges. It is believed at the treasury department that, as the charges for registering a package is only eight cents, $30,000 will be sufficient to pay the entire apparent cost of transporting coins under this system for a year, and the express companies will therefore get none of the business.

ONE STONE FENCES FARM.

Missouri Man Has Land Where No Wheel Ever Rolled.

Jasper, Mo.—Within sight of this town a settler has a farm which probably is unlike any other in the world.

This farm occupies the tableland on the summit of a ridge, and is inclosed with a fence which no animal has ever broken through. It does not rise above the surface of the farm, but falls sheer from the edge a distance of many feet. The man who homesteaded the tableland had a hard climb up the face of a perpendicular cliff to reach the comparatively level summit.

At one point a ledge extends out a few inches and along the face of the cliff at an upward grade. By following this ledge and making use of occasional points of rocks and of shrubs growing in the fissures the discoverer pulled himself to the summit and found a surface well covered with a soft and luxuriant vegetation.

Gradually he improved the ledge until he could carry up tools and seed. By blasting and drilling he cleared a narrow trail, up which he was able to take first some pigs and then a cow. Later on he took up a horse.

And that to-day is the condition of this curiously protected farm. No vehicle has turned a wheel within its limits of palisades. The live stock has multiplied and consumes the grain raised. Some stones thrown across the trail completely fence in the hogs and cattle. When the farmer has stock to sell he drives the animals down the private trail and strikes the road to Jasper.

CATERPILLARS HALT TRAIN.

Three Times Within Mile Crew Shovels Them Off the Tracks.

St. John, N. B.—Moths, caterpillars and other like pests have made their appearance in great numbers in many sections of this province, particularly in York county. There they have caused considerable inconvenience, and several amazing stories are told of experiences when they have met in large bodies. Trainmen manning a freight between Fredericton Junction and McAdams are authority for a statement that appears incredulous. They say that the heavy freight train was stopped three times within a mile by caterpillars which swarmed over the tracks in such numbers as to effectually impede the progress of the train. It was necessary to arm the entire train crew with shovels and scoop the thousands of pests aff the tracks, and smother those on the roadbed by shoveling gravel over them. They report every tree and bit of foliage along the line as being denuded of green.

The Order of Fools.

April 1 is not the only Fools' day in the year. On November 12, 1381, the Order of Fools was instituted by Adolphus, count of Cleves.

Members were not by any means idiots, however, for the word had a different meaning then. They were the prototype of our modern Order of Foresters or Odd Fellows during a similarly benevolent work. Their insignia consisted of a mantle, upon the left shoulder of which was embroidered a jester, or fool, in cap and bells, yellow hose and silver vest. So these cheery, useful jokers had a bright, happy outlook upon life and met together to dispense the earnest of their healthful existence at stated intervals, the chief day of which was November 12.

TIGERS FOND OF HUMAN FLESH.

Many Natives of India Yearly Made Prey of Jungle Monarch.

About 4,000 men were eaten by tigers in India between 1900 and 1904. A large proportion of these unfortunates perished during periods of famine, when the beasts are made bold by hunger and are driven to the plains in search of water. The deaths caused by tigers in India constitute 37 per cent. of the whole number due to wild beasts. All tigers are not man eaters, but when a tiger has once tasted man's flesh he will not be content until he has had more of it. Where flocks and herds abound, however, man is rarely a victim of the tiger. An old man-eater is usually very [illegible] and tricky and can avoid the most skillful hunters [illegible]

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale

Notice Is Hereby Given, That default has been made in the conditions of a certain mortgage containing power of sale, executed by Hurbr L. Quist and Judith A. Quist, his wife, mortgagors, to Johnson - Van Sant Co., a corporation, mortgagee, dated 18th day of April, A. D. 1910, and duly recorded in the office of the register of deeds of Red Lake county, Minnesota, on the 18th day of April A. D. 1910, at 6:00 p. m., in book 8 of mortgages on page 619 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and after the division of Red Lake county at the organization of Pennington county, transcribed into the records of Pennington county, Minnesota, and that the same is transcribed and recorded in the office of the register of deeds, in Pennington county, Minnesota, in book 23 of mortgages on page 37 thereof, which said mortgage was thereafter and on the 4th day of June A D. 1912, for a valuable consideration and by an instrument in writing, dated on that day, duly executed and acknowledged by said Johnson Van Sant Co., said mortgagee sold, assigned, and transferred to C. L. Hansen, which said written assignment was thereafter and on the 10th day of June A. D. 1912, at 9 o'clock a. m., of that day filed for record in the office of the register of deeds of Pennington county, Minnesota, and duly recorded in book 8 of mortgages on page 91 thereof, and that at the date of this notice there is claimed to be due and is actually due on the said mortgage, according to the terms thereof, the total sum of three hundred, ten and 54-100 (310.54) dollars. Said sum consisting of an unpaid balance of one hundred twenty, (120.00) dollars on the note secured by the said mortgage, with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum from and after May 1, 1911, and of two interest payments for the sum of eighty-eight (88.00) dollars each, due respectively May 1, 1911, and May 1, 1912, on a prior mortgage on the land hereinafter described, which said interest payments were paid by the mortgagee herein, and of interest on each of the said interest payment from the respective due dates thereof to the date hereof, at the rate of six (6) per cent annum and no action or proceeding having been instituted at law or otherwise to recover the debt or any part thereof secured by said mortgage.

Now, Therefore, Notice is Hereby Given, That by virtue of the power of sale contained in the said mortgage and of the statute in such case made and provided, the said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgage premises therein described at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash, at the main front door of the court house in the city of Thief River Falls, Pennington county, Minnesota, on Monday the 29th day of July A. D. 1912, at 10 o'clock a. m., to satisfy the amount which shall then be due on said mortgage with interest thereon from the date hereof and the costs and expenses of such sale and the sum of twenty-five (25.00) dollars attorney's fees, as stipulated in said mortgage in case of foreclosure.

The premises described in the said mortgage and so to be sold is all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Pennington, and state of Minnesota, described as follows: Northeast quarter (ne¼) of section thirty-four, (34), township one hundred fifty-four (154), range forty-one (41).

Dated June 10, 1912.

Died

At his home in the town of Sanders on Saturday, July 13, of consumption, Ludvig Anderson.

Mr. Anderson was born in Westmenland, Sweden, in 1868. With his parents he came to America in 1882 and lived first in Indiana. Later they came to Crookston and in 1884 settled on the farm in Sanders, where the family has since resided. Mr. Anderson was unmarried. He had been ill for about five years with the disease from which he died. He leaves two brothers, Herman, superintendent of schools of Red Lake county and Erick, who resides on the home farm; also two sisters, Mrs. H. T. Linsegraf of Alberta, Can., and Mrs. Ernest Swanson of Santiago, Cal.

Funeral services were held Tuesday at the Landstad church by Rev. M. S. Gjerde of this place.

Directors' Meeting

The board of directors of the farmers' elevator met Monday and considered the bids for manager for the coming year, A. R. Jones, who has been manager during the past year, having asked for a considerable increase in salary. Besides Mr. Jones' offer, there were three written bids.

The successful bidder was Bernard Sunden of Elvorado, near Warren. Mr. Sunden has had several years experience as assistant in an elevator, and though he has never acted as buyer, he is highly recommended.

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

In this age of research and experiment, all nature is ransacked by the scientist for the comfort and happiness of man. Science has indeed made giant strides in the past century, and among the—by no means least important—discoveries in medicine is that of Therapion, which has been used with great success in French hospitals and that it is worthy the attention of those who suffer from kidney, bladder, nervous diseases, chronic weaknesses, ulcers, skin eruptions, piles, &c., there is no doubt. In fact it seems evident from the big stir created amongst specialists, that THERAPION is destined to cast into oblivion all those questionable remedies that were formerly the sole reliance of medical men. It is of course impossible to tell sufferers all we should like to tell them in this short article, but those who would like to know more about this remedy that has effected so many—we might almost say, miraculous cures, should send addressed envelope for FREE book to Dr. Le Clerc Med. Co., Haverstock Road, Hampstead, London, Eng. and decide for themselves whether the New French Remedy "THERAPION" No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 is what they require and have been seeking in vain during a life of misery, suffering, ill health and unhappiness. Therapion is sold by druggists or mail $1.00. Fougera Co., 90 Beekman St., New York.

MAY SOLVE MYSTERY

British Yacht to Take British Scientists to Easter Island.

Lonely Dot of Land, Two Thousand Miles From South American Continent, Believed to Have Been a Continent at One Time.

London.—The Mana, a motor auxiliary yacht just launched at Whitstable, is to carry an expedition to the South seas to investigate the origin of the gigantic prehistoric remains of Easter island.

This island, the most easterly of the Polynesian group, is a lonely dot of land 45 miles in area, 2,000 miles from the South American coast. Facing the sea on the island are enormous platforms made of uncemented stones, some of which weigh five tons. Some of the sea walls are 30 feet high and 200 feet long.

Shore Line of Easter Island.

There is no metal on the island, and the only tool found was a prehistoric chisel, with which it would seem impossible to execute such colossal works. Moreover, the island, with its scanty water supply, could not have supported enough people to drag the figures from the quarry where they were made to the platforms. Some of the statues weigh 250 tons.

There is every evidence that some great calamity overtook the island and its inhabitants, for most of the figures are unfinished, some of them never even having been removed from the quarry. A popular theory is that Easter island is the sole remains of a continent which was overwhelmed by the sea after a great seismic disturbance.

The Mana expedition, led by W. Scoresby Routledge and accompanied by geologists and other scientists from the British museum, will make excavations in an effort to solve the mystery.

CURIOUS HOUSES IN CHINA

Celestials Build Their Homes or Palaces Wall-Within-Wall—All Have Beautiful Gardens.

Peking, China.—It is difficult for the occidental mind to picture the wall-within-wall life of a Chinese home. Down a narrow lane one passes between two walls, behind which may be hovels or palaces, there is no telling which, since the one-story roofs beyond are invisible, says a writer in the Century Magazine.

One pulls a string at a gateway, the address of some family of high degree. A servant appears, leads through another gateway, a flowery courtyard, a passageway, perhaps another courtyard, a little room or two, and finally into a reception room, with its carved wood and wainscoting and furniture, its porcelains and jades and brasses, its blue-and-green-and-gold ceiling and its window pattern of paper panes.

Here the hostess appears, offers her occidental guest tea or champagne, or both, with cakes and candied fruit or lotus buds. Then she may lead one through other courtyards, all with the usual one-story rooms around them, and into her secluded garden of rocks and pools, of pretty paths and bridges, of clustering trees and flowers.

In such a palace as this each courtyard, with its surrounding rooms, may be the special home of one of the sons and his wife and children; but somewhere in the maze of walls, under one of the low, tiled roofs, is the common dining room, with the kitchen beyond. Here the men of the family eat together, twice a day, and afterward the women and children. And somewhere also there is a central family hall, with the ancestral tablets, which must have their tribute of incense at proper seasons. These are held in such reverence that no foot may pass above them, and therefore two-story dwellings are unknown in regions uncontaminated by foreign influence.

FOR SCIATIC RHEUMATISM

Try the Treatment That Cured This Pronounced Case in Minneapolis After Other Treatments Failed.

Sciatica is neuralgia of the sciatic nerve. Its origin is generally rheumatic and is the direct result of taking cold. For this reason the disease is commonly known as "sciatic rheumatism." That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure this disease is shown by numerous cases like that of Mrs. J. B. Hansen, of No. 221 Twentieth Ave., So., Minneapolis, Minn. She says:

"A few years ago following an attack of the grip I was taken with sciatica. For six years I suffered untold agony and thought it would be a blessing to me if I could only die. There were sharp, shooting pains in both of my limbs and my shoulders and arms were affected also but not so severely. If I moved about quickly, the pain would catch me so that I had to scream. My limbs would swell until I could hardly walk. I also had a terrible dull pain in my back which was often unbearable. I was confined to bed for a week or two at a time. While suffering from the sciatica I was further run-down by weakness common to women of my age.

"I received so little relief from the doctor's medicine that I became discouraged and quit it. My husband urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as he had read how they had cured cases like mine. I felt better after I had taken the pills a short time but took several boxes until I was certain I was cured. I give this statement of my cure thinking that other sufferers may be helped as I was through using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills succeeds where other treatments fail because it is based on the sound medical principle that the health of the nerves depends on pure, red blood.

Every person who is interested in the home treatment of nervous disorders should send for a new edition of our booklet entitled, "Diseases of the Nervous System, Their Nature, Symptoms and Treatment." Address the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale at all druggists, or will be mailed to any address, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

First Waiter—Did that Arizona ranchman give you a tip?

Second Waiter—I should say he did! He told me if I didn't step lively he'd blow off the top of my head!

Simple Explanation.

To illustrate a point that he was making—that his was the race with a future and not a race with a past—Booker T. Washington told this little story the other day.

He was standing by his door one morning when old Aunt Caroline went by.

"Good morning, Aunt Caroline," he said. "Where are you going this morning?"

"Lawsee, Mista' Wash'ton," she replied. "I'se done been whar I'se gwine."—Kansas City Star.

Mixture of Caution and Economy.

At the Union depot a few evenings ago a mother who had gone to see her daughter, a miss of about 18 years, safely started on a journey, was heard to give the young lady the following words of advice just before the train started: "Now, goodby, my dear. Take good care of yourself and remember not to be too free with strangers on the train. But if a nice looking man should speak to you be polite to him—he may buy your supper for you."—Kansas City Star.

SALLOW FACES

Often Caused by Tea and Coffee Drinking.

How many persons realize that tea and coffee so disturb digestion that they produce a muddy, yellow complexion?

A ten days' trial of Postum has proven a means, in thousands of cases, of clearing up a bad complexion.

A Washn. young lady tells her experience:

"All of us—father, mother, sister and brother—had used tea and coffee for many years until finally we all had stomach troubles, more or less.

"We all were sallow and troubled with pimples, bad breath, disagreeable taste in the mouth, and all of us simply so many bundles of nerves.

"We didn't realize that tea and coffee caused the trouble until one day we ran out of coffee and went to borrow some from a neighbor. She gave us some Postum and told us to try that.

"Although we started to make it, we all felt sure that we would be sick if we missed our strong coffee, but we tried Postum and were surprised to find it delicious.

"We read the statements on the pkg. got more and in a month and a half you wouldn't have known us. We all were able to digest our food without any trouble, each one's skin became clear, tongues cleared off, and nerves in fine condition. We never use anything now but Postum. There is nothing like it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

RECORD OF TIME'S CHANGES

Surely Visitor to the Scene of His Boyhood Could Not Fail to Be Impressed.

"I reckon you see the old town looking some different from what it looked when you left it thutty years ago," said Uncle Eb Skinner to the native returning for a visit to the scenes of his boyhood. "All o' the back part o' Peevy's store is new since your day here, an' that bay winder in the drug store was put in since you left us. The deepo used to be painted yaller instid o' red, an' the town hall is het by steam now instid o' with stoves, like it used to was in your time. Them two iron hitch posts in front o' the postoffice ain't been there more than ten years, and that stone watering trough instid o' the old wooden one you remember is another change. I reckon you've noticed that Hi Greene has raised his house a story an' added a summer kitchen. That plazzy in front o' the hotel is another change in the old town, an', of course, you've noticed the new hoss sheds back o' the church, an' the broom shop wa'n't here when you was a boy with us. It employs five hands reg'lar, an' seven in the rush season. Time makes changes, as I reckon you have seen."—From Judge.

RASH ALMOST COVERED FACE

Warrenville, O.—"I have felt the effects of blood poisoning for eighteen years. I was never without some eruptions on my body. The terrible itching caused me much suffering and discomfort, while the rubbing and scratching made it worse. Last spring I had a terrible breaking out of blistery sores on my arms and limbs. My face and arms were almost covered with rash. I could not sleep and lost nineteen pounds in five weeks. My face was terribly red and sore, and felt as if my skin was on fire. At last I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I found them so cool, soothing and healing, that I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Resolvent. I bathed with hot water and Cuticura Soap, then I applied the Cuticura Ointment every night for two months, and I am cured of all skin eruptions." (Signed) Mrs. Kathryn Krafft, Nov. 28, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

A Question of Names.

In some of the country districts of Ireland it is not an uncommon thing to see carts with the owners' names chalked on to save the expense of painting. Practical jokers delight in rubbing out these signs to annoy the owners.

A constabulary sergeant one day accosted a countryman whose name had been thus wiped out unknown to him.

"Is this your cart, my good man?"

"Of course it is!" was the reply. "Do you see anything the matter wid it?"

"I observe," said the pompous policeman, "that your name is o-blitherated."

"Then ye're wrong," quoth the countryman, who had never come across the long word before, "for me name's O'Flaherty, and I don't care who knows it."—Youth's Companion.

SCENES IN THE CATSKILLS

Writer Describes Wonderful Beauty to Be Found Along Hudson River.

New York.—There is a wealth of Indian lore and Dutch tradition regarding the Catskill region which the skilled romancer may readily adapt to the fertile fancies of his creative imagination, and serve up with graphic detail. Who has not read every line of "Rip Van Winkle" and drunk in every word of the eloquent tales of the immortal Cooper, who made "Natty Bumpo" the most eloquent woodsman that ever lived in a book? Hear him as he stands on one of the crowning crags overlooking the valley of the Hudson:

"If, being the best part of a mile in the air and having views of farms and houses at your feet, with rivers looking like ribbons, and mountains seeming to be haystacks of green grass under you, give any satisfaction to a man, I can recommend the spot. When I first came into the woods to live, I used to have weak spells, and I felt lonesome, and then I would go into the Catskills and spend a few days on that hill to look at the ways of man."

Note this gem which bubbles spontaneously from his lips as he looks into the pretty Kaaterskill stream, which makes that wondrous waterfall at the Laurel house, where the water plunges madly over and down the rocks for three hundred feet:

"A drop for the old Hudson and a merry time it has till it gets down off the mountain. I've sat on this shelving rock many a long hour, boy, and watched the bubbles as they shot by me, and thought how long it would be before that very water, which seemed made for the wilderness, would be under the bottom of a vessel, and tossing in the salt sea. It is a spot to make man solemnize. You can see right down into the valley that lies to the east of the High peak, where in the fall of the year thousands of acres of woods are before your eyes in the deep hollow and along the side of the mountain, painted like ten thousand rainbows by no hand of man, though not without the ordering of God's providence."

In the Catskills.

Washington Irving regarded these mountains as the fairy regions of the Hudson, and he quaintly related many a legend connected with them.

RARE DOCUMENTS OF 1776

Found in Tearing Down a Shack Standing on the Line of the Barge Canal.

Clyde, N. Y.—In constructing the Barge canal a trunk full of valuable old documents has been discovered. Among the documents are two genuine George Washington signatures to furloughs granted soldiers during the Revolution; an old account book of the original John Jacob Astor, and a partial record of Lafayette's journey through New York state after the war. There are also a number of old deeds dating back to a time before public record was made of such papers. Duplicate copies were written on a single sheet of paper and the two were roughly torn apart, and their genuineness was afterward proved by matching the irregular edges.

Among the tracts of land acquired was a small lot on the edge of the Montezuma marshes, on which stood a little two-room shack belonging to a hunter and trapper. In it the trunk was found. It was originally the property of Judge Tremper of Kingston, who lived during and just after the Revolutionary war.

Steps are being taken for the disposal of the records.

DELEGATES CHOSEN BY IOWA 3RD PARTY

ROSSEVELT CHEERED AND TAFT SCORED AMID SCENES OF ENTHUSIASM.

DIRECT VOTE FOR P. M.'s

Platform Very Progressive—Governor Carroll Criticised For Defense of Chicago Convention.

Des Moines, July 25.—Enthusiasm marked the closing scenes in the first Iowa state Progressive party convention here when a platform containing a plank declaring for the direct election of postmasters by their constituencies was adopted with three affirmative cheers. There was no negative vote.

The convention chose a full set of delegates to the national convention at Chicago, headed by John L. Stevens of Boone, organized a working state central committee, and provided for congressional district and county organizations.

The platform, in addition to the proposed reform in the selection of postmasters, is mainly devoted to national issues. It condemns the Republican national convention and Republican national committee at Chicago; severely criticises President Taft as a reactionary and denounces what is allegede to be his subserviency to the special interests; eulogies Theo. Roosevelt as "the foremost man for his nomination and election; urges popular primaries in the selection of United States senators; indorses the initiative and referendum and asks for the physical valuation of railroad properties and a protective tariff suited to the fostering of labor in domestic manufacturers, agriculture and other industries."

A. D. Pugh, a Des Moines Socialist, created considerable excitement by appearing before the convention on a proxy of one of the regular delegates and demanding that the platform declare for the recall. The proposition was quickly referred to a committee upon the motion of Mr. Stevens.

The first enthusiast broke loose a few minutes after the convention opened, when a telegram from Colonel Roosevelt, congratulating Iowa Progressives, was read.

Charles Talmadge of Boston led the delegates into another burst of enthusiasm when he criticised Gov. B. F. Carroll for the latter's recent defense of the Chicago convention.

That portion of the platform referring to President Taft reads as follows:

"We here utter solemn protest against what has been done at Chicago and Baltimore in two national conventions and against what had been done and is being done at Washington by a president who has proven recreant to the trust imposed in him and who long ago definitely and completely abandoned the cause of the people to do the bidding of the bosses."

HOLD HARMONY FEAST.

Hennepin County Democrats Forget Factional Differences.

Minneapolis, July 25.—Harmony was the keynote of the dinner given by the Hennepin County Democratic club at the Commercial club. Leaders of Democracy from all parts of the state urged the "get-together" spirit. The followers of the "houn' dog" were importuned to forget their differences and come into the fold of a united Democracy. Daniel W. Lawler of St. Paul, candidate for United States senator; C. M. Andrist, candidate for governor, Einar Hoidale, Judge H. L. Buck of Winona, T. J. Knox of Jackson, John Jenswold of Duluth, Alderman W. E. Barr, C. W. Bibb, all showed the need of "burying the hatchet." William Jennings Bryan was the idol of the gathering.

Regulars March to Battle.

Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., July 25.—Equipped with "pup" tents two days' rations and hundreds of thousands of blank cartridges, 4,000 United States troops, including 1,800 infantry and 2,200 cavalry, field artillery and hospital corps, all on a war basis, left camp here to engage in what war department experts say will be one of the most extensive mimic campaigns ever held in the United States.

N. P. Stevedores on Strike.

Duluth, Minn. July 25.—Between 250 and 300 stevedores employed by the Northern Pacific, went on strike here tying up the dock. The men have been receiving 30 cents and demand 35 cents an hour.

Tight Skirts Condemned.

Minneapolis, July 25.—Miss Emilie Glorieux, policewoman, says that young society women are responsible in great measure for the continued popularity of indecently tight clothes. "It is not to be wondered at that many girls who work in stores and factories wear improperly tight clothes when girls who should show good taste and more propriety in these things, since they have greater opportunities to acquire refinement, are the most flagrantly offensive in adopting extreme style," Miss Glorieux said.

RUST SCARE IS DISSIPATED

FAVORABLE WEATHER ADVERSE TO THE INFECTION.

Good Report Received From Expert Who Visits Red River Valley.

Minneapolis, July 25.—A return of cooler temperatures over the Northwest grain fields is said to have dissipated the black rust scare that started Tuesday when samples of infested wheat were received from Amenia, N. D.

The weather is now against the spread of the disease and the clearing weather with sunshine will hasten the ripening of late wheat beyond the reach of this infection.

B. W. Snow, crop expert, made a hurried trip into the wheat fields as soon as the report of rust was received. He has wired from Fargo, N. D., that after an inspection trip around Moorhead, Minn., covering 45 miles he found no more black rust than could be found any year and far less than last year:

His message read, in part:

"At Comstock, Minn., in the wheat I examined may be found a few spots where there are rust postules on the top sheaf of a few stalks, but hardly a sample where it was showing on the head straw. Heads in these fields are long well filled and the grain already in stiff dough.

"The earliest wheat is taking on color and cutting will begin next week The wheat seen will average 22 to 25 bushels to the acre and the possibility of rust damage is too remote to be considered as a crop factor."

John Inglis, another crop expert, was on 'Change for a few minutes on his way to Fargo to pass on the rust-infested wheat. Mr. Inglis did not take the news as indicating any serious condition.

"From what I can gather in the report," said Mr. Inglis, "the rust discovered is a sporadic case. This is very usual and I firmly believe that is all that will be found in the North west this year. The crop in this section of the country is big and the chief feature confronting the county is sufficient labor to harvest it."

Chicago Grain.

Chicago, July 25.—Denials of rust damage today pulled the wheat market down. Occasional fields were said to show the presence of the plague, but it was stated that in general no serious harm had yet been shown. Moreover, cables were disappointing to the bulls, firmness on this side being offset by more favorable crop advices from Russia. There were also assertions that the advance here had shut off export business. The opening was ⅝c to 1⅛c lower, September started at 93½c to 94c, the same change from last night as the market taken altogether, and then declined to 93c.

After a little further decline, the market partly recovered. Storm damages in the Pacific northwest was said to be larger than had been estimated and the Canadian crop outlook less satisfactory. Closing figures were easy at 93c for September, a net loss of ⅝c.

Corn took a weak turn on account of the fine weather and because of the backset in wheat. Reduction of short interest counted, too, in favoring of bears. September opened ⅛@¼c to ½@¾c off at 65¾c to 66c, and sagged to 65½c.

Drouth damage reports later from Kansas and parts of Nebraska and Oklahoma brought about a sharp advance. The close, however, was easy, with September ⅛c net higher at 66¼@66⅜c.

Scantiness of elevator stocks here made oats comparatively strong. Nevertheless, depression of other cereals tended to draw prices lower. September started unchanged to ⅛c off at 34c to 34⅛c, and descended to 33⅞c.

FOUR STATES ARE SWEPT BY STORM

WISCONSIN, WEST VIRGINIA, PENNSYLVANIA AND OHIO CITIES SUFFER.

MANY LIVES ARE LOST.

Fourteen Men Caught in One Pennsylvanian Shaft and 37 Narrowly Escape — Much Destruction.

Wausau, Wis., July 25.—Flood damage estimated at $500,000 was wrought from the breaking of several dams on the Wisconsin river, north of Wausau. Two bridges in this city have beeen washed out and a third has been partly destroyed.

All electric power, including streetcar service, has been put out of commission.

The dams which were swept away are that known as the Brokaw structure, at Tomahawk, and smaller dams north of here.

The flood made inroads on the waterworks plant and cut off the city's supply.

A large volume of water swept down the city's front, covering the streets of Wausau near the river, surrounding the city hall. Business is demoralized. No loss of life has yet been reported.

The railroad bridges are the only ones intact here, and these are held in place by cars loaded with logs.

The Prairie river dam, five miles north, is reported to have gone out; also a dam on the Eau Claire river at Kelly. A report reached here at noon to the effect that a dam at Merrill also went out, but this has not been confirmed.

At Shawona, the deluge of rain washed out railway tracks and not a train arrived there. The Wolf river is rising rapidly, but the town is safe because of the protection of high embankments on either side.

Over six inches of rain fell at Manitowoc and one poultry farmer lost 2,000 young ducks when water which the sewer could not carry flooded the barn yard. The streets of Manitowoc were badly damaged.

An incident of the intensity of the storm was shown when a man living in a house located on low-lying ground in Mantiowoc had to use a ladder from a second story window to get out of his home. Railways were compelled to detour trains at Green Bay, Eland Junction, Mantiowoc and other points on account of washouts.

Telegraph and telephone service all through the northern part of the state is impaired and the full extent of the damage cannot be ascertained until wire communication is restored.

Pittsburg, Pa. — Death and widespread devastation from tremendous rains resulted in western Pennsylvania eastern Ohio and West Virginia. From all sections comes details telling of persons drowned or reported drowned; or hundreds of buildings wrecked or completely washed away; street torn up and bridges swept down; crops ruined; light plants put out of commission, and towns left to suffer their misery in darkness, while transportation, telegraph and telephone facilities are seriously crippled.

At Evans station, three miles north of Uniontown, Pa., a cloudburst sent waters raging into the mouth of the Superba No. 2 mines. Fourteen men were drowned, while 37 others had miraculous escapes from a similar death. A few miles away, at Lamont mine No. 2, three other men are reported to have drowned in like fashion.

Up in the Redstone valley, near Brownsville, Pa., it is rumored that at least ten miners were caught while at work, by flood waters, entering the mines and drowned. Verifications of this was impossible.

At Millsboro, Pa., 75 miners had a narrow escape when the waters swept into the mines. All escaped, but not before many were exhausted. There deaths are believed to have occurred in the vicinity of Wheeling, W. Va.

For a radius of 100 miles around Pittsburg last night there was a scene of desolation. Wrecked buildings are visible everywhere, while streets are strewn with debris. In some place the debris is piled 20 feet high.

Hundreds of families have been driven from their homes and last night sought shelter with friends or are encamped on the hill sides.

Connellsville, Pa. —The flood here swept away a score of buildings, damaged many others, made 50 families homeless and caused over $100,000 damage.

Columbus, O. — Torrential rains, accompanied by a severe wind storm, did considerable property damage in Columbus and at various points throughout central and northern Ohio.

In Minnesota.

Important Happenings of the Week Briefly Told.

Rochester. — The harvesting of one of the biggest crops that has been known in southern Minnesota for years is now in full swing.

Shakopee.—W. F. Duffy last week purchased an acre of ground from William Lynch, on the edge of town, for $1,200, and as a result the prices of lots and all near-by pieces of ground have taken a decided boost.

Luverne.—The Rock County Agricultural society has completed arrangements for holding a two days' fair, September 20 and 21. One of the main attractions will be four airship flights. Big crop prospects has created considerable enthusiasm and an unusually good agricultural exhibit is anticipated.

Moorhead. — When Clarence Carlson, 11 years old, failed to catch a "pickup" in a game of "catch" at Mapleton, N. D., the ball struck him back of the left ear and he fell unconscious, dying 15 minutes later. The lad was a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Carlson, residing 20 miles north of this city.

Owatonna. — An automobile driven by E. Imhoff occupied by members of his family went off a 30-foot embankment here near the state public school, but fortunately the members of the party were not seriously injured. The automobile was damaged almost beyond recognition. The machine skidded on leaving a high bridge over the railroad tracks.

Nicollet. — Marshall A. H. Burg, has applied to the postoffice department for a reward for the part taken by him in the capture of two postoffice robbers on the night of July 29, 1911. He caught them in the basement of the postoffice, and they were convicted in the federal court at Mankato and sentenced to serve three years in the federal penitentiary.

Park Rapids.—Anticipating the largest potato crop in years, J. L. Larson has let a contract for a new potato warehouse, to be built near the Great Northern tracks. The building will be 40x60 feet. The basement of concrete blocks, and the first story frame. In the frame part three thicknesses of flax fiber will be used for the purpose of making the building frost proof. It is to be completed September 1.

St. Paul. — Northern Minnesota will have a fine crop of corn, according to Grant Van Sant, who has just returned from a two weeks' trip through the country around Cass Lake and Bemidji. "The crops are looking exceedingly well, and I was greatly surprised at the corn. The homesteaders are coming into that portion of the state rapidly and they each have a number of acres under cultivation," he said.

Eden Valley.—John Hughes, commonly known as "Old Man" Hughes, died here at his farm home, three miles from this village. Death was due to heart trouble. He was an eccentric old gentleman with very abrupt manners. He was known throughout this vicinity and children especially lived in dread of him, although he never was known to hurt any one. He leaves a wife and several grown up children.

Winona. — The attendance at the state convention of stationary engineers reached 100. The kangaroo court furnished much amusement, but its operations were confined to the convention hall. F. W. Raven, national secretary, served as judge. A substantial increase in membership the past year was shown in the report of President F. J. Streiff. The present membership in the state is 402, a gain of 84 in the past year.

Winona.—One man was killed, another slightly injured and four others miraculously escaped death by jumping from a trestle into a ravine when a Northwestern engine on the Stockton hill, two miles east of Lewiston, bore down upon a gasoline speeder on which the six men were riding. John Anderson, 35 years old, of Mankato, was killed and Alfred Sackerite of Lewiston who received a scalp wound, was the only other man hurt.

Winona. — Talking with a number of fellow boarders on the rear second story porch of their boarding quarters in the business section of the city, George McKinstry, 40 years old, leaned against a railing, which gave away, McKinstry falling thirty feet upon a pile of boards. He was picked up unconscious and bleeding. Examination showed he suffered a compound fracture of one leg, a sprained back and possibly internal injuries.

Cloquet. — Cloquet's commercial club is planning an innovation in the line of city celebration and get-together and on August 6 there will be a city picnic at the state experimental forestry station three miles from Cloquet. The affair will take the place of the annual merchants' picnic which has usually been held at Moose Lake. Committees have been appointed to see that a good program is prepared, speeches, music, games, etc., and that there is means of conveyance for all who care to go.

Red Wing.—Chas. Burling, a paroled prisoner from Stillwater walked into the office of Supt. F. A. Whittier at the training school and told him he came from an insane asylum to give the boys their freedom and write a real story of the history of the institution. He was taken in custody by the chief of police and Parole Agent [illegible] Bandard took him back to prison.

SPLENDID OUTLOOK FOR CROPS IN WESTERN CANADA

RELIABLE INFORMATION FROM THE GRAIN FIELDS SHOW THAT THE PROSPECTS ARE GOOD.

This is the time of year when considerable anxiety is felt in all the northern agricultural districts as to the probable outcome of the growing crops. Central Canada, comprising the Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, with their 16,000,000 acres of wheat, oats, barley and flax, of which 6,000,000 acres may be said to be sown to wheat alone, has become a great factor in the grain markets of the world. Besides this, government returns show that every state in the Union has representatives in these provinces, and naturally the friends of these representatives are anxious to hear of their success. It has never been said of that country that it is absolutely faultless. There are, and have been, districts that have experienced the vagaries of the weather, the same as in districts south of the boundary line between the two countries, but these are only such as are to be expected in any agricultural country. The past has proven that the agricultural possibilities of this portion of Canada are probably more attractive in every way than most countries where grain raising is the chief industry. The present year promises to be even better than past years, and in a month or six weeks it is felt there will be produced the evidence that warrants the enthusiasm of the present. Then these great broad acres will have the ripened wheat, oats, barley and flax, and the farmer, who has been looking forward to making his last payment on his big farm will be satisfied. At the time of writing, all crops give the promise of reaching the most sanguine expectations.

In the central portion of Alberta, it is said that crop conditions are more favorable than in any previous year. Heavy rains recently visited this part, and the whole of this grain growing section has been covered. Reports like the following come from all parts:

"Splendid heavy rain yesterday. Crops forging ahead. Great prospects. All grains more than a week ahead of last year. Weather warm last week. Good rains [illegible]."

From southern Alberta the reports to hand indicate sufficient rain. Crops in excellent condition. Labor scarce.

Throughout Saskatchewan all grains are looking well, and there has been sufficient rain to carry them through to harvest.

From all portions of Manitoba there comes an assurance of an abundant yield of all grains. Throughout southern Manitoba, where rain was needed a few weeks ago, there has lately been abundant precipitation, and that portion of the province will in all probability have a crop to equal the best anticipations. A large quantity of grain was sown on the stubble in the newer west, which is never a satisfactory method of farming, and may reduce the general average.

Taken altogether, the country is now fully two weeks in advance of last year, and in all grains the acreages sown are much larger than in 1911. This means that with auspicious weather the west will have the grandest harvest in its history. Two hundred and fifty million bushels of wheat has been mentioned as an estimate of the present growing crop, and it looks now as if that guess will be none too large.

Her Affections Dampened.

ECZEMA CAME ON SCALP

Lebanon, O.—"My eczema started on my thigh with a small pimple. It also came on my scalp. It began to itch and I began to scratch. For eighteen or twenty years I could not tell what I passed through with that awful itching. I would scratch until the blood would soak through my underwear, and I couldn't talk to my friends on the street but I would be digging and punching that spot, until I was very much ashamed. The itching was so intense I could not sleep after once in bed and warm. I certainly suffered torment with that eczema for many years.

"I chased after everything I ever heard of, but all to no avail. I saw the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. Imagine my delight when I applied the first dose to that awful itching fire on my leg and scalp, in less than a minute the itching on both places ceased. I got some more Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After the second day I never had another itching spell, and Cuticura Soap and Ointment completely cured me. I was troubled with awful dandruff all over my scalp. The Cuticura Soap has cured that trouble." (Signed) L. R. Fink, Jan. 22, 1912.

Up to present time the majority of the republican candidates for governor in this state seem to be inclined to favor Wilson for president.

Next Thursday morning the eleventh annual county fair will be officially opened to continue three days, August 1, 2, 3, at the fair grounds at Thief River Falls.

It is said that the first task assigned Mr. Taft's new campaign manager is to prepare a pamphlet showing that the Chicago convention was organized along its proper lines and that the nomination of Mr. Taft was "perfectly proper and honest." Mr. Hilles has undertaken some job!

Subscribers to the Spectator should take notice that all subscriptions more than one year in arrears will be discontinued this month. We cannot afford to pay one cent postage as we will soon have to do on all papers on which subscription has not been renewed within a year. If you cannot pay cash send us your note.

The Association of Northwestern Dairy Officials was organized last week at Bozeman, Mont. Joel Winkjer, dairy and food commissioner of Minnesota, was elected president: Prof. G. Martin of North Dakota Agricultural college, secretary and treasurer. Bismark, N. D., was chosen for the next meeting.

Dixon Emphatic for Third Party

Senator J. M. Dixon, manager of the Theodore Roosevelt's third party, announces emphatically that a third ticket will be put up in every state in the Union, except where the candidates now in the field announce their allegiance to the new party. Minnesota will receive the same treatment as in Illinois and Michigan, unless the candidates here come out flat-footed for Roosevelt.

Dixon announced the new party stood for political revolution; that it was off with the old and on with the new. He delivered the ultimatum that there were to be full state tickets, from top to bottom, in every state. They will be launched under the national progressive appellation, except were the Roosevelt men have able to deliver the entire state election machinery to the new party.

He said this new party was not a personal asset of Colonel Roosevelt. If it were, he declared, it would be futile. He said it was to be a party of the people and one to stand for all time. He predicted that four years hence there would be no republican candidates. He said Taft would hardly get an electoral vote this time.

Senator Dixon said organizations had been effected in every state except South Carolina. He said that state might not be represented in the national convention here on August 5. In all other commonwealths a new party state ticket—and in some states, county, congressional and legislative tickets—will be in the field. In Kansas, California, West Virginia, South Dakota and probably North Dakota, the entire republican machines will be delivered intact to the new party organization.

All eastern states will have third party state tickets under the national progressive party name. Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and all of the western and southern states also will have separate tickets, if not under the new party name, under a name to be decided upon.

Wisconsin is to have a third ticket, and has advanced Governor McGovern's name as a vice presidential candidate. This means war to the knife with the LaFollette forces, who have practically delivered themselves to Governor Wilson.

District Court

District court convened at the Pennington county court house last Tuesday morning for the purpose of hearing the cases not disposed of at the first session of the June term. All jury cases were tried before adjournment on June 29, and the remaining cases were all court cases or arguments on motions.

In all probability the cases still on the call will be finished during the coming week.

Is Overseer Liable

Where a man is elected and qualified as road overseer for one of the districts in his township and then goes out to work and spends a considerable amount of the district's road funds in a feeble effort to repair the roads and at the conclusion of his work leaves them in much worse condition than they were before he squandered the district's road funds, leaving the road in such a rough condition as to render it almost impassible under our state law, is not this road overseer liable for damages for his carelessness and negligence? The law says that anyone who digs or obstructs the public highway lays himself liable to prosecution and damages. Some road overseers appear to try and make the roads as bad as possible. They scrape the sod into the middle of the road and never level off where they have filled in, putting the road in such shape that it is almost impossible to travel on foot, not saying anything about an automobile or a heavily laden farm team. They waste the district's road funds, and in most cases these funds are wasted because the overseers have not common sense enough to put a drag on their roads after they have used the grading machines.

With the large amount of literature and information that has been circulated broadcast by the government which shows simple and inexpensive methods employed to make smooth roads that will remain free from ruts and mud holes, there is no excuse for the reckless road overseers squandering the public funds and spoiling the roads.—Norman County Index.

Council Proceedings

Special meeting of the village council of the village of St. Hilaire held July 23, 1912, for the purpose of opening bids for sidewalks and to let the contract.

Meeting called to order by President J. C. Dahl. All members present, except R. J. McKerener.

Chinese Adopt Modern Dress

There has suddenly sprung up in China a heavy demand for foreign clothing, shoes, hats, etc., resulting from the dislike displayed by the younger element toward the old order of things. This statement is not intended to convey the idea that every man, woman, and child in China's 300,000,000 is ready to step into foreign clothes. Even if they were, the vast majority are too poor to afford this luxury. There are, however, numbers of Chinese throughout the empire, mainly students or young graduates who are desirous of adopting foreign dress. Already they show a marked preference for golden grain belt beer, whenever they try it. Alex Thompson, Crookston, agent.

The Car Supply

The railroad and warehouse commission has issued a circular calling the attention of carriers and shippers to the experience in past years of the shortage of cars in the fall and winter months for the shipment of coal, grain, potatoes, and other farm products. The present indications are that there will be a large crop to handle this fall. Shortage of cars, with all the inconvenience and loss incident thereto, cannot be prevented without the cooperation of the shippers and railway companies.

The commission calls the attention particularly of the coal dealers in this state to the prospective shortage in cars, and asks them to place their orders for coal as soon as possible, in order that it may be shipped and stored before the grain begins to move.

THE PROOF.

Edith Johnson, a graduate of the Mankato Commercial College and now a stenographer at Pierre, recommends the school in the following words: "Your methods of teaching commercial education are unexcelled. That so many of your former students hold responsible positions is proof of the high standard of work required by you."

The fall term of the school opens Sept. 3d. Would our catalogue interest you? Then send for it. Mankato Commercial College, Mankato, Minn.

A Gold Farm.

"Thanksgiving football is one form of gold farm," said a metallurgist; "but gold grows, and when the secret of its cultivation is discovered, we shall have gold farms literally.

"Miners, having set timber braces in gold mines, often find on the timber growths of gold. Growths of gold have, too, been perceived on the rocks of gold-bearing rivers. Gold has been discovered growing on sluice boxes.

"What causes these growths of gold we don't know. We do know that one essential is the percolation of water, a feature without which gold growths are never found. When we discover the other features—and no doubt science will discover them some day—the gold farmer will perhaps be as common as the farmer of fruit or truck."

To Stop Bleeding at the Nose.

A man in traveling from New England to his home in New Jersey had a violent nosebleed on the train. Every aid was rendered, and the usual remedies, such as ice on the neck, a key thrust down the back and all sorts of things, were ineffectually tried. So profuse was the hemorrhage that when New York was reached he was too weak to go to a physician unattended. The application of tincture of eucalyptus promptly stopped the bleeding. This is an exceedingly valuable remedy, and should be indelibly stamped upon our memories. A small vial should be placed in every family medicine chest.

Unsatisfactory Education.

We ought to train our boys to be more methodical and more thoroughgoing in everything they have to do. Constantly we hear complaint from business men that boys from the grammar schools, and even from the higher schools, are very hazy about arithmetic. Now, if there is any subject requiring precision it is that which deals with figures. It boots little that a boy has gone through a high school course if he cannot make out the extensions of an ordinary bill of lading. Yet the latter difficulty presents itself to business men continually.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The Ruling Passion.

The father of a family, all of whom were devotees of bridge and much given to talking the game and holding post-mortems over badly played hands, died rather suddenly. There was a difference of opinion as to whether he should be buried in the family plot or cremated. In the course of the discussion the mother said weepingly to her son:

"John, what do you think?"

"I leave it to you, mother."

"I make it sp-spades," was her reply.—Success Magazine.

Register of Deeds

I am a candidate for the office of register of deeds of Pennington county and solicit the support of the voters at the republican primaries to be held September 17, 1912.

N. J. ANDERSON.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by J. T. Gullingsrud.)

For County Treasurer

I hereby wish to announce my candidacy for the office of county treasurer at the republican primaries to be held Sept. 17, 1912, and earnestly solicit the support of the voters of Pennington county.

JOHN T. GULLINGSRUD.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by W. J. LaBree.)

Sheriff

I wish to announce to the voters of Pennington county that I am a candidate for the office of sheriff, and respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primaries September 17, 1912.

Yours very truly,
W. J. LABREE.
Thief River Falls, Minn.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00 paid by J. M. Bishop.)

For County Attorney

I am a candidate for county attorney for Pennington county on the republican ticket on the first primaries to be held in the county. I have never held a county office although I have been in the practice of law for twenty-two years, but would consider it an honor to be the first nominee of the party for county attorney in the county. I will be delighted to receive your vote and support.

J. M. BISHOP.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by A. H. Fasel.)

County Auditor

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 15, 1912

I wish hereby to announce to the voters of Pennington county, that I am a candidate for the the republican nomination for the office of county auditor, at the September 17, 1912, primaries. Since my appointment to this office, at the time of the organization of Pennington county, I have given the office my whole time and my very best efforts. Should I be favored with the nomination and election, I believe with the experience gained, I will be still better prepared to serve you the coming term.

If our services have met with your approval I earnestly solicit your consideration and support.

Very truly yours,
A. H. FASEL.

Clerk of Court

I wish to announce to the voters of Pennington county that I will be a candidate for the republican nomination for clerk of the district court for Pennington county, subject to the decision of the voters at the republican primary, September 17, 1912.

I have occupied the position since the organization of Pennington county and have tried to the best of my ability to be strictly impartial and as efficient as my ability would allow. I will be pleased to have the votes and support of all citizens who believe that I have filled the position in an honest and efficient manner.

If nominated and elected I hereby promise to give the office my personal attention and my best efforts to honestly administer the affairs of the office in a strictly impartial and efficient manner.

HARRY E. IVES.
Thief River Falls, Minn., July 15, 1912.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by Andrew Trovaten.)

For County Treasurer

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for county treasurer, subject to the ratification of the republican voters at the primaries, September 17, 1912. Being that political parties have always regarded it as important to have their members elected to all offices, it must be for aid in promoting party politics, for so far as the work in the county offices is concerned, it can make no difference whatever, what the officer's political affiliations are, so the idea must be that he is expected to talk and work, and use the advantage of his public position in aiding the party to which he belongs. I believe that it is of the utmost importance to have the republican party control at least one branch of congress, in order to maintain the average of prices. While the price-level does not prove that times are good, theoretically, yet we know that with the enormous debt of the country, it will be harder to pay it with low prices than with high, steady prices. I believe that because one cannot support the whole republican ticket, it is no reason at all to quit supporting candidates for congress and the legislature, which is by far more important than the office of president, so far as party politics is concerned. These are my views, and I shall use my influence to work along on these lines, no matter whether I am nominated or not. [illegible]

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by Wilhelm Michelet.)

Judge of Probate

I hereby announce that I am a nonpartisan candidate for re-election to the office of judge of probate in and for Pennington county, Minnesota. I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primary election to be held on Tuesday Sept. 17, 1912.

WILHELM MICHELET,
Judge of Probate.

TWO FAULTS COULD BE CURED.

Prospective Husband and Wife Both Full of Confidence.

An Irish boy marries when he has a rid house, and an Irish girl just when she pleases, says Seumas MacManus, in Lippincott's. Sometimes she so pleases while yet her years are few: at other times she is content to wait upon wisdom. In the latter case, of course, she makes a wise choice; but in the former almost always a lucky one—for luck is the guardian angel of the Irish.

"You're too young to marry yet, Mary," the mother said, when Mary pleaded that she should grant Laurence O'Mahony a particular boon.

"If you only have patience, mother, I'll cure meself of that fault," was Mary's reply.

"And she's never been used to work, Laurence," the mother said to the suitor, discouragingly.

"If you only have patience, ma'am," was Laurence's reply to this, "I'll cure her of that fault." And he did, too.

Albanian Customs.

Some strange customs exist in Albania. To compliment an unmarried woman, for instance, is provocation for death. A bloody enemy is under amnesty while in the company of a woman. A woman may shoot a fiance who breaks his betrothal or call upon the young man's father to kill him. If a man commits murder, and, flying for his life, enters the house of another, friend or foe, he is safe. This is the case, even if he takes refuge in the house of a brother of the man he has slain. He may not remain there forever, but for three days he can live on the best that the house provides. When that time is up, he is shown on his way, twenty-four hours is given him to make his escape; after that the [illegible] and the blood feud [illegible] Trail.

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slaker, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Parviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

Voice of Conscience.

A western Kentucky negro was in jail awaiting trial for stealing a calf. His wife called to see him. On her way out the jailer, whose name was Grady, halted her.

"Mandy," he inquired, "have you got a lawyer for Jim?"

"No, sah," said his wife. "Ef Jim was guilty I'd git him a lawyer right away; but he tells me he ain't guilty, and so, of co'se, I ain't aimin' to hire none."

"Mr. Grady," came a voice from the cells above, "you tell dat nigger woman down thar to git a lawyer—and git a dam' good one, too!"—Saturday Evening Post.

The Middle-Aged Woman.

Of the many ways in which the middle-aged woman may vary the effect of her afternoon gowns none is simpler than the use of a collar and cuffs of white voile edged with scalloping and embroidery in a floral design. Another change may be the frock set of white chiffon with border of black malines, and still another is the one of black net hemstitched with silver thread. Some of these collars are so long in front that they terminate only at the waist line, where they cross in surplice effect and are tucked away under the girdle. An excellent model of this sort is of light blue lawn embroidered with black dots, and a second is of white agaric trimmed with tiny folds of broadcloth, alternating with eponge.

Meeting Emergencies.

Senator Dixon was condemning a piece of political deception.

"The thing was as flagrant," he said, "as the railway case.

"Two men, one of them very short, were passing through a station toward the train gates when the bigger one was heard to say:

"'I've took a half ticket fur ye, George. Yer so little, ye'll pass, all right.'

"'But,' protested George, 'how about my beard?' And he twiddled his chin beard nervously.

"'Oh,' rejoined the other, 'tell 'em it's a mole.'"

Worth While.

"See here!" cried the boy's father, "if you don't behave I'll whip you."

"I wisht you would," replied the bad boy.

"You do, eh?"

"Yes, 'cause when it's all over ma will gimme some candy."

Job was a patient man, but he never found the cat asleep on the piano just after he had varnished it.

Pittsburg Chivalry.

"What's going on here?" demanded a man as he came upon two little boys battling in a vacant lot on the South side. The lad who was on top was rubbing weeds over the face of the under one.

"Stop it," said the man, grabbing the victor by the neck and pulling him away. "What in the world are you trying to do to his face with those weeds?"

"Do? Why, he swore in front of some girls, and I rubbed some smartweed in his eyes to become a great man like Abraham Lincoln."—Pittsburg Sun.

The Cheerful Color.

Gabe—Do you ever get the blues?

Steve—Not if I have the long green.

For he knows they are healthful and wholesome
And furnish him strength for the fray.

HIBERNIANS RE-ELECT REGAN

JAMES J. REGAN REELECTED PRESIDENT BY ACCLAMATION

Auxiliary Sits All Night—Gaelic Tongue Once Spoken at Avoca, Minnesota.

Chicago, Ill. — James J. Regan of St. Paul was re-elected president of the Ancient Order of Hibernians by acclamation. Mr. Regan had no opposition, although during the first part of the week it was believed that the East would bring out a candidate to oppose him. The easterners, however, could not find a candidate with sufficient backing to make the race against the Minnesotan.

Business of the forty-eighth annual meeting ended with the selection of a place for holding the meeting next year. Norfolk, Va., and Philadelphia were after the next gathering with Norfolk a slight favorite. Neither Minneapolis nor St. Paul made an effort to land the next meeting.

Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Joseph McLaughlin, Philadephia; secretary, Philip Sullivan, Connecticut; treasurer, Thomas Maloney, Council Bluffs, Iowa; chaplain, Rt. Rev Rev. John P. Carroll, Helena, Mont.

The ladies' auxiliary did not get down to electing officers. An all night session was held. Mrs. Mary B. Daly of Minnesota, who is the present national treasurer, is a candidate for re-election.

That there is a town in the United States where once the Gaelic tongue was spoken was made known to the delegates by Professor Michael G. Rohan, national chairman of the Irish history committee. This town is Avoca, Minn.

"Efforts have been made to change the name of the town," said Professor Rohan, "but they have met with opposition on the part of the Irish residents. New signs have been placed on the railway station, only to be torn down and the original name replaced."

GIVE RIGHT OF WAY.

Fargo and Moorhead Commercial Clubs Will Buy Land.

Moorhead. — The first interurban line to be constructed in either North Dakota or Western Minnesota was assured at a meeting of the executive committees of the Moorhead and Fargo commercial clubs, when those bodies pledged the right of way to the Moorhead & Fargo Street Railway company for its five-mile extension from Fargo to Dilworth. The clubs of the two cities will purchase the right of way.

When the Northern Pacific threatened to remove the shop train running to Dilworth which carries 500 men to work each day, both commercial clubs promised the street car company the right of way. Property owners at that time promised to donate the land. Now some property owners want to sell their right of way, and the two clubs have shouldered the responsibility of raising the funds.

M. L. Hibbard, manager of the H. M. Byllesby company, owners of the street railway company, says that construction will be started at once, and that the line will be in operation September 1. Cars will be run every hour.

Jury Finds Man Is "White Slaver."

Duluth.—John Pluth, a saloonkeeper of Ely, was found guilty on a charge of white slavery before a jury in the United States court. It is alleged that Pluth has made a practice of bringing young girls to this country from Austria.

There are six or seven indictments against him.

Governor's Plans.

St. Paul. — Governor Eberhart will ask the next Legislature to appropriate money for a Minnesota building at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915 and to devote a considerable sum to the suppression of tuberculosis and the advancement of other policies for public health, partly as a result of a visit here by Governor John K. Tener of Pennsylvania and seventeen fellow commissioners, who were on their way home after selecting the site for the Pennsylvania building on the San Francisco fair grounds.

Extreme Humidity.

Minneapolis. — One enormous elephant was half-crazed, several persons were covercome and one woman became so despondent that she attempt to take her own life, by the excessive heat here. It was the most humid day thus far this year, and with a temperature of 89 degrees at 6 o'clock, and and a humidity of 72 per cent, Twin Cityities perspired through the day.

German Saengerfest Starts.

St. Paul. — With practically every detail arranged, and nothing left undone, St. Paul is ready to entertain the thousands of visitors who have taken possession of the city in preparation for the Saengerfest of the Northwestern German Saengerbund, which opened in the Auditorium.

Reports Are Given.

St. Paul.—The main feature of the first session of the Grand Lodge, Minnesota I. O. G. T., held in the old capitol, was the report of the finance committee, which was adopted. The lodge finds itself in better financial condition than for many years past. F. E. Russell, Washington, D. TEMPLARS IN ST. PAUL

National Grand Lodge Meets There This Week.

St. Paul. — The National Grand lodge of the International Order of Good Templars of the United States of America will meet in the Old Capitol, St. Paul, this week. The fifty-fourth annual session of the grand lodge of Minnesota opened for a two-day session prior to the opening of the national meeting.

"The Minnesota Grand, Junior Grand (Scandinavian), Fifth district and twenty-one local lodges of the Twin Cities are co-operating in local arrangements. The executive committee of the National grand lodge will meet Wednesday morning. In the afternoon the National Juvenile Institute will be called, 2 p. m., and in the evening delegates and visitors will be tendered a national birthday party by Edelweis lodge, No. 4, in I. O. O. F. hall, Fourth street and Central avenue, Minneapolis. Thursday to Saturday will be devoted to sessions of the national body. This is a mission body with jurisdiction over unorganized and weak territory where there is no organized grand lodge. All members of the order are welcome at its meetings.

The order now has 1,400 members in the Twin Cities, 4,750 in Minnesota, and 50,000 in the United States out of a total membership of 500,000. It is sixty-three years old non-sectarian, non-partizan, working in seventy different countries. It was the first fraternal organization to allow women full membership privileges. It at present is strongest in northern European countries. The aims of the order are total abstinence, no license, prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors, the creation of sentiment, the election of honest officials to administer the laws and persistent effort to abolish the liquor traffic. The platform was submitted at Hastings, Minn., May, 1858. Rev. John Quigley was chairman of this committee, and William B. Reed, another member, still lives at Hastings and will be in attendance at the week's meetings. The work of the order has been translated into forty different languages. An orphans' home is maintained in Los Angeles, the Washingtonian home in Chicago, and there are a number of similar private institutions. The Good Templars library of Colonel Benjamin Granklin Parker, late of Milwaukee, has been secured by the grand lodge of Minnesota, and will be used as the cornerstone in founding a Templar and temperance library of credit to the Twin Cities.

F. M. JOYCE SUMMONED

Well Known Insurance and Clubman Dies.

Minneapolis. — Frank M. Joyce, who isa well-known Minneapolis insurance man and a son of the late Bishop Isaac W. Joyce of the Methodist Episcopal church, is dead here. His death was not unexpected, as he has been failing for the last two years.

As "Colonel" Joyce, Mr. Joyce was one of the best known of Minneapolis business men. He was prominent in club circles and was a former president of the Interlachen club and one of its organizers, and member of the Commercial, Lafayette and Minneapolis clubs. Aside from business circles, however, Colonel Joyce was best known for his work in behalf of the good roads and his interest in automobiling. He was the organizer and first president of the Minnesota Automobile association and at the time of his death was first vice president of the American Automobile association. Colonel Joyce was very active in civic work in the city and was a leader in the work of the Commercial club in helping the growth of Minneapolis. He was 50 years old.

Colonel Joyce had been suffering from Bright's disease for the last two years, but he had been cheerful concerning his condition and recently at the Methodist géneral conference took an active part in the entertainment of visitors.

HUMAN TORCH ACT.

Presence of Mind of Amateur Players Prevents Calamity at Owatoona.

Owatonna. — A display of rare presence of mind prevented a panic during an amateur preformance in a local theater here when the audience witnessed an act that was not on the program and which might, under other conditions, have caused a calamity.

Roy Steele and Edwin Reardon were giving a vaudeville sketch in which Steele impersonated a steam engine, using sandalwood oil to produce the effect of red fire and smoke. Some of the oil spilled on his shoulder and his clothing took fire.

When the fire started, Reardon began singing a song, and kept the audience engaged while Steele, suffering agony from the burns, walked calmly off the stage.

The theater was packed to the doors and few persons realized what was happening until the act ended.

Girl Walking in Sleep.

Duluth. — Edith Stoickman, eighteen years of age, is at the point of death at a local hospital, as the result of being seized by a policeman while she was walking on the street in her sleep, clad only in her night clothing. The girl left her bed and was five blocks from her home before she encountered the officer. She was walking leisurely toward the business center and the policemen realizing her condition attempted to awaken her gently. She went into convulsions.

LOOK AFTER YOUR HEALTH

If Your System Is Kept Toned Up You Will Escape Many Diseases That Find Easy Victims Among Pale People.

Enough disease germs enter the average human body every day to cause death if the healthful organism did not combat these germs and render them harmless.

Let the human system become run down, or debilitated, and this power of resistance to disease is weakened. Soon the disease germs get the upper hand, an acute sickness follows or the patient becomes a chronic invalid.

It is in the blood that the battle to maintain the health is fought. Keep the blood toned up, the bowels open and observe ordinary care as regards food and rest and you will avoid much sickness.

Debility is not a recognized disease but is a condition in which the sufferer cannot get a good night's sleep, wakes up all tired out, has no strength or ambition, is nervous, has a poor appetite, has trouble with the stomach, and is subject to headaches and backaches. It is most commonly met with in people who have to work hard, are confined indoors, eat improper food or have worries and grief.

The case of Mrs. M. V. McCaslin, of No. 202 South 27th Street, Lincoln, Neb., shows the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic for all run-down conditions of health. She says:

"I gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People a trial for general debility from which I had been suffering about three years. I was thoroughly tired and worn out and had no ambition for anything. I became very weak and kept losing strength. My appetite was poor and I was nervous and had severe headaches.

"I needed a tonic treatment and tried several tonic remedies but none seemed to help me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I was soon much improved in health and able to get around and do my work. I took the pills until cured and am pleased to recommend them to anyone who is run down in health."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are for sale by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Excellent Plan.

"I see," said Mrs. De Jones, while Mrs. Van Tyle was calling, "that you have a Chinese chauffeur. Do you find him satisfactory?"

"He's perfectly fine," said Mrs. Van Tyle. "To begin with, his yellow complexion is such that at the end of a long, dusty ride he doesn't show any spots and then when I am out in my limousine I have his pigtail stuck through a little hole in the plate-glass window and I use it as a sort of bell rope to tell him where to stop."—Harper's Weekly.

Two Enough for Her.

He was a small boy with a dark, eager face and he was waiting at the end of the line of eight or ten persons for a chance to make his wants known to the librarian. When his turn came he inquired briefly: "Have you got 'Twenty Thousand Legs Under the Sea?'"

"No," responded the librarian a little snappily, for she was tired, "I'm thankful to say I've only got two. They're not under the sea!"

MADE BIG PROFIT FOR STATE

Purely Business Argument for the Establishment of Sanitoriums for the Tuberculosis.

According to figures contained in the annual report of Dr. H. L. Barnes, superintendent of the Rhode Island state sanitorium, the earnings of the ex-patients of that institution during the year 1911 would amount to over $266,000. This is a sum three times as large as that spent each year for maintenance of the institution, including four per cent. interest and depreciation charges.

The actual earnings in 1911 of 170 ex-patients were obtained by Dr. Barnes. These ranged from $2 to $31 per week, the total earnings for the year amounting to $102,752. On this basis, Dr. Barnes computes the figures above given. He says, however: "While institutions for the cure of tuberculosis are good investments, there is good reason for thinking that institutions for the isolation of far-advanced cases would be still better investments."

Out of a total of 46,450 hospital days' treatment given, 39,147, or 84 per cent., were free, the treatment costing the state on an average $200 per patient. Out of the 188 free cases investigated, 56 had no families and no income on admission to the sanitorium. Out of 132 patients having homes, the number in the family averaged 5.2, and the average family earnings were 5.46. In 59 cases the families had no income, and in only five cases were there any savings, none of which amounted to as much as $100.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mound St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation.

Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have such terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed.

"Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after taking it for two months I was a well woman."—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent., or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints.

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory.

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

BECKER ORDERED IT

ROSE AND WEBBER FURTHER IMPLICATE POLICE LIEUTENANT IN MURDER.

THUGS WEAKENED ONCE.

This Enraged Becker, Who Called Gangsters Cowards.—Names of Two of the Hired Assassins Given to Whitman.

New York, N. Y. — Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, head of the "strong arm" squad of gambling raiders, who is charged with instigating the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was further implicated in the plot to get rid of the gambler, when "Bald Jack" Rose and "Bridgie" Webber added another chapter to their damaging allegations. They told District Attorney Whitman that Rosenthal was to have been killed by Becker's orders 10 days before he actually met his fate, and that the plot failed because the underworld thugs, selected to do the murder, lost their nerve at the last moment.

The district attorney spent the greater part of the afternoon with Rose and Webber in their cells at the West Side police station and under the promise of leniency, which the prosecutor has given them, they talked freely. They gave little additional information regarding the $2,400,000 fund which they alleged ill resorts paid for police protection in the city every year, but their story of Becker's determination to put Rosenthal out of the way because of his threatened exposures, was amplified to the district attorney and in the prosecutor's opinion he strengthened his evidence against Becker.

The plan which failed was to have been brought to its climax at the Garden restaurant on Fifty-first street on Saturday night, July 6, when Rosenthal and his wife were dining there, according to the account told by Rose to the district attorney, as spokesman for the two gamblers. With Rosenthal and his wife at the time was Jack Sullivan, the newsboy now under arrest for alleged complicity in the murder.

Rose, himself, engineered the "job," and brought to the restaurant "a fleet of thugs" who were to do the actual shooting, according to Rose. Two of the hired assassins were "Gip the Blood," and "Lefty" Louie, who are wanted by the police as two of the men who actually shot Rosenthal 10 days later in front of the Hotel Metropole. Becker at that time was downtown, Rose said, waiting for the murder plot to be consummated.

"Becker had talked with me every day," Rose said. "He kept saying to me, 'why don't you kill this fellow off?' Rosenthal would have been killed off that night if the bunch hadn't lost their nerve. They got the notion after they reached the restaurant that a detective was on to them. After giving up the assassination we went to 'Bridgie' Webber's place and there we met Becker. He denounced us all up and down.

"'You are all a lot of cowards,' he said. 'I'll have to do it myself.'"

Rosenthal, it was recalled by the district attorney, when he heard the story, had but a few days before this made his first complaint against Becker, charging that the police lieutenant was a partner in his gambling house.

Although Becker, still in the Tombs, has thus far refused to make any statement other than that he is innocent, and that his plight is the result of a "frame-up" on the part of his enemies in the gambling fraternity, Rose predicted to the district attorney that the police lieutenant would eventually break down and tell all he knew.

Bridgie Webber told the district attorney that his own payment to Becker for police protection of his gambling house was $200 a month, but that this rate was a small one compared with the sums levied on larger establishments.

Shortly after the murder he said Becker met Rose and Webber in front of the Murray Hill baths and said: "Now Bridgie, you will have to give these boys some money to get out of town. I'll fix it up with you later." Webber said that he then handed $1,000 in large bills to Rose, who later transferred it to Sam Schepps and on that afternoon Schepps gave it to "Gyp the Blood" and Lefty Louie in front of the Times building.

SEN. WASHBURN DIES AFTER A HARD FIGHT

DEATH COMES EIGHT DAYS AFTER RACE FROM EUROPE TO REACH "FAIR OAKS."

LAST WISH IS GRANTED.

Able to See Family Dwelling Again.—Lapses Into Coma After Bidding Wife Farewell.—Stanley Still Missing.

Minneapolis, July 30.—Wm. Drew Washburn, former United States senator from Minnesota and pioneer miller, lumberman and railway builder, is dead at "Fair Oaks," his Minneapolis home. Death was attributed to ailments due to old age, superinduced by a cancerous growth on his left side. He was 81 years old.

For 36 hours Mr. Washburn lay in an unconscious state prior to his death. He died without recognising the members of his family, who were present, excepting Stanley Washburn, a son. Stanley is still in the mountains of British Columbia, it is presumed, as no communication has been received from him.

The former senator's death came after a suspense of eight days following his arrival home from Europe on Sunday, July 21, during which no hope has been held out for his recovery. Doctors said the man's remarkable vitality had prolonged his life for almost a week longer than they had expected.

While making the journey from Quebec to Minneapolis, Mr. Washburn began to sink rapidly. He had expressed a wish to die at "Fair Oaks." B. C. Washburn, who had joined his parents in Canada telegraphed to W. D. Washburn, Jr., telling him of his father's request. Arrangements were made for a special train to bring the former senator to Minneapolis over the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad, which Mr. Washburn himself had founded.

At the senator's bedside, besides his widow were C. E. Washburn, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Washburn, Jr., of Minneapolis, Cadwallader Washburn of Mexico City, Mexico. Mr. and Mrs. Albert Baldwin of Lakewood, N. J., Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Wright of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Stanley Washburn. Mrs. Baldwin and Mrs. Wright are daughters.

Stricken Ill in Europe.

He was taken suddenly ill nearly a month ago while traveling with his wife in Europe. They left Minneapolis last February for Europe, principally in the interest of Mrs. Washburn's health which was poor at the time. After a visit in Naples they traveled to Carlsbad.

Mr. Washburn was taken ill at Carlsbad and consulted physicians there. They advised him to hasten home. He and his wife went immediately to England and sailed on a steamer over the shorter northern route for Quebec.

Funeral Arrangements Wait.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been made. It was said at the Washburn home it probably would be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday at the family home. Rev. Marion D. Shutter, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, will preach the funeral sermon. The burial will take place at Lakewood cemetery.

Mr. Washburn's official and political relations had been varied and important, culminating in the highest official position below the presidency, in the nation—that of senator of the United States. He had a taste for politics like all his brothers and belonged to the radical wing of the Republican party. Strongly anti-slavery in the ante bellum days, when that was an engrossing political question, strenuous for the rights of the freemen, he yet tempered his sympathies by a regard for practical statesmanship. He was a protectionist in theory, and yet recognized the need of practical views in the arrangement of tariff schedules. In short, he subordinated strong sympathetic impulses to practical measures in statesmanship.

As early as 1858 he was elected to the lower house of the Minnesota legislature, but the members elected that year never took their seats owing to a change of apportionment. In 1870 he was again elected to the same position and served through the important session of 1871, giving his influence and vote in favor of subjecting the railroads to public authority. He served on the school board of Minneapolis for two terms beginning with 1866.

In 1878 Mr. Washburn was elected to congress, carrying the district by some 3,000 majority. He was re-elected in 1880 by 12,000 majority, and again in 1882, serving three consecutive terms. He was an influential and much respected member. Through his influence the government erected the present postoffice building and undertook the system of reservoirs at the sources of the Mississippi river.

CROP YIELD PROMISING.

Fergus Falls Sees Equal of the 1895 Record.

Fergus Falls, Minn., July 28.—Unless all signs fail, Ottertail county and western Minnesota generally are going to have a profitable crop. The yield at the present time promises to come close to the bumper yield of 1895, and the prices are just about double what they were in that year. Samples of grain are being brought to the city daily, and much of the wheat looks like thirty or thirty-five bushels to the acre. Oats will probably run as high as seventy-five bushels.

Everybody is watching for rust, and a little of it is found in scattered fields, but farmers are making no complaints, and those who are best posted on the situation are of the opinion that the grain is now so far advanced that there is little danger of any serious damage. The stems of the wheat were never cleaner than they are this year. There is some red rust on the leaves, and here and there a few heads show traces of the dreaded black rust, but this is rare.

The harvesting of barley and rye is largely finished, and some of the early oats have been cut. With favorable weather, the cutting of wheat will begin this week. The wheat is partly in the milk stage and partly in the dough. The kernels are large and well formed, and a count shows as many as sixty-five grains to the head in some fields. The rows are nearly all double this year, the heads carrying four grains where they usually carry only two.

VALUES OF LAND JUMP.

Bountiful Yield in Northwest Adds Millions to Worth.

Minneapolis.—As a result of the wonderful prospects for a bumper crop this year the value of land throughout the Northwest has increased millions of dollars in the opinion of land dealers of Minneapolis. Farmers who were offering their land during the spring at $60 an acre are now asking $75 and $85. Hundreds of them are daily withdrawing their property from the market on the strength of this fall's crop. Land men predict that this year will be the banner year of the Northwest. They say that there never had been better prospects for the farmers and that real estate values were never known to take such decided jumps. Farmers in Iowa and other states are making inquiries about lands in Minnesota and the Dakotas.

Fake Mines are Attacked.

Duluth.—Mine owners, mining engineers, operators and brokers of the northwest have an opportunity to take an active part in the campaign that is being waged on "wildcat" mining schemes and their promoters. The American Congress of Mines is conducting the warfare and Robert W. Thompson of Chicago, assistant secretary of the congress to be held at Spokane in November, is here for the purpose of enlisting the cooperation of local and range mining men. The various branches of the society are called "sections" and Mr. Thompson will organize one here, one at Minneapolis, Hibbing, Virginia and other mining centers in Minnesota.

Soo May Strike Into Far West.

Minneapolis, July 31.—The Soo line will build forty miles of road west from Plaza, N. D., and lay its rails to the east bank of the Missouri river this fall, according to report from Underwood, McLean county, N. D. With President Carl R. Gray, of the Great Northern, in New York, and President Edmund Pennington, of the Soo, back from New York, but non-committal as to Soo line plans, it is the talk in railroad circles that the Soo is about to strike into the new territory that lies between the Great Northern and Northern Pacific main lines in Montana.

Charged With Insulting Women.

Duluth. — Charles Roane, known also as "Jack Williams," the Pullman car colored porter arrested in Duluth Saturday and charged with improper advances toward Mrs. Williams, wife of a theatrical manager, while the sleeper in which she was traveling was sidetracked in the Northern Pacific yards at Staples, was held to the grand jury at Eveleth by Judge Moylan, after a preliminary hearing. The judge fixed the accused man's bonds at $1,500 and in default he was brought to Duluth to the county jail.

SWAT FLY IN COUNTRY

Agricultural College to Send Out Extension Workers.

Minneapolis.—The Minnesota agricultural college has taken up arms in the war that has become country-wide against the fly. The methods used by the college will be new in this part of the country in that it will attempt to check the increase of the pest in the country districts.

Dr. C. C. Lipp, college veterinarian, is of the opinion that the work of exterminating the fly in the cities would be made more effective if some effort was made to check the fly's increase in the rural districts. Men who represent the college in extension work will preach the doctrine of "less flies." Warnings have been sent to many of the country papers for publication. This is thought to be one of the best possible ways of reaching the farmers. A part of the article follows:

"The fly cannot be controlled about the barns by merely removing the manure. All yards should be graded to prevent the formation of puddles, where flies and mosquitoes will multiply. If the puddles cannot be drained or filled, a little kerosene poured upon the water will kill the immature mosquitoes and flies. The windows of the stable should be properly screened.

"The following preparation has been recommended as an inexpensive one, and as satisfactory, probably, as the commercial mixtures: Coal tar dip, any kind, one pint; one-quarter bar ordinary laundry soap; one pint oil—fish, linseed or kerosene; 15 pints hot water. This should be mixed thoroughly to form an emulsion, and should be applied as a thin coat by a brush or a spray."

BALLOONIST IS KILLED.

Bag Bursts During An Ascension At Beaudette, Minn.

Beaudette. — Arthur Otelle, who was a professional balloonist of Oshkosh, Wis., was fatally injured here when he fell a distance of 500 feet from his balloon. The bag was old and burst when it hit the light air stratum. Otelle succeeded in getting the parachute cut loose, but it did not open. The crowd separated under him. One leg was driven over a foot in the earth.

Octogenarian Dies.

Minneapolis.—Though stricken with paralysis three years ago, but cheerful and hopeful to the end William H. Lauderdale, one of the oldest settlers of Minneapolis died. He had long been connected with real estate affairs and was at the head of the firm that bears his name. Mr. Lauderdale came to Minneapolis in 1854 and homesteaded forty acres of land which adjoins the Minikahda club grounds and which is now included in the [illegible] estate. After proving up Mr. Lauderdale sold this property and moved into the city, where he engaged in the real estate business. Several platted additions in this city bear his name.

Miss Isabel Vincent to Accompany

Washington, D. C. — Miss Isabel Vincent, daughter of President Geo. E. Vincent of the University of Minnesota, will be one of a party accompanying Mis Helen and Robert Taft, daughter and son of the president, on a three weeks' camping trip in the Glacier National park. Mrs. Vincent will chaperone the party. The start will be made early in August.

Elopers Held For Stealing.

Moorhead. — Although their elopement ended with their arrest on a charge of horse stealing, Alexina Burchard of Brooks, Minn., and Alfred Fox of Portland, Ore., are happy just to be alive and in love. Locked in separate cells in the Moorhead police station, each smiled and was ready to shoulder all the blame for the crime, that the other might go free.

Hustle to Equip Launches.

Red Wing.—Launch owners in this city are taking the advice of their down river friends and are equipping their boats with lights, sound instruments and life preservers, to comply with the marine laws, before the arrival of the government inspectors who are now inspecting power craft in the waters of Lake Papin.

Organize Under I. W. W.

Duluth. — The striking freight handlers of the Duluth Superior harbor have organized under the Industrial Workers of the World, and resolved to fight the battle for higher wages to the end.

Duluth Strike Disturbing.

Duluth. — Although there has been no great amount of violence, it has been reported the strike of the dock workers employed on the railway docks in Duluth and Superior is assuming an alarming condition. Strikebreakers have been imported by the employers and are being lodged and fed on the docks without charge. [illegible]

Saturday, August 3, 1912.

Governor Eberhart delivered an address at the county fair yesterday. said to be one of the best he has made in this part of the state. He did not allude to politics, but spoke on topics of interest to the farmers.

Why does the young man who rides a bicycle double himself up like a home made doughnut the moment he begins to work the the pedals? Yes, and why does a fellow when he goes to throw a ball first have to screw it into the palm of his right hand with his left, then hop on his right foot while he bumps his chin with his knee before he throws it? And why does a man when he gets a raw-boned plug and a ten dollar plug have to rein the poor crowbait up like a turtle treading water, till it can't see the ground before it and goes stumbling along as if trying to read the answer in the stars? Why does a girl whom nature has given a clear and healthy complexion have to paint till she can't smile for fear of breaking the enamel? Why does she bang her hair like a spitz poodle and make her head look like a window mop? There are a great many other things which we would like to know but will wait until some other time.—Ex.

Who will be our next governor is asked almost daily by dozens of voters and none of us seem willing to hazard a guess. The republicans have timber enough, such as it is, and the list of eligible has not yet been exhausted. Not so with the democrats. It is true that there are hundreds of the "Unterrified" who have the ability to perform all the duties, even to the selection of those who are to represent the military adjunct of the administration, but it does not seem that any of them have the courage to embark upon waters so rough and troubled, and they modestly hang back, waiting for something to turn up. There is an opportunity for the democrats to take control of the the state house next January if the party has the erudition to select the right man, but none of those mentioned so far can be elected. Ringdahl now seems to be in the lead, but he cannot win, he is not and never has been a popular politician, he is too frigid and selfish and his manner repels rather than secures friends. The field is wide open and there are many ready and willing to enter the race.—Cass Lake Times.

The Progressive Convention

The significance of yesterday's so-called third party convention is heightened by recalling the fact that never since the state was organized has Minnesota given an electoral vote for any other than the regular republican nominee for president. This year the probabilities appear to be that Minnesota will give no electoral vote for the regular republican nominee. It is the hope of the democrats, of course, that out of the present unusual political condition the electoral vote of this state may be cast for the democratic candidate. This is a possibility.

And yet the holding of such a convention as that of yesterday does not necessarily imply the result which the democrats hope for. The make-up of yesterday's convention was republican. All the men who were prominent in its proceedings are republicans. The men who are expected to support their action in the national election are mainly republicans. Yesterday's convention was an organized protest against what happened at Chicago, made by men who are just as much republicans today as they were before the Chicago convention was held. What they expect to do and what they may accomplish is to throw the electoral vote of the state in favor of national progressive policies in which they believe and select in the primaries republicans for state offices, men who are entirely in sympathy with their protest against the Chicago result.

If they shall succeed in these things and particularly in the latter, they will have demonstrated that so far as Minnesota is concerned republicanism is strictly progressive; that it is not affected by the reactionary element just now in control of the national party, but is in a position to resume its relation to the republican party as a national organization if that organization is restored to the control of those who are [illegible]

This is indicated by the speeches of the leaders and the treatment of the matter of state candidates, notwithstanding the declaration in the platform in favor of the organization of a national progressive party to meet the present emergency as to national politics.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Resolutions

By "The Red River Valley ministers' conference of the Swedish Evangelical covenant."

The above named organization met in conference in the town o f Jupiter. Kittson county, Minnesota. At which time they, after careful and long consultation, formed the following resolution, in contempt to the subject brought before them: "So Called Innocent Amusements." Inasmuch as it is now-a-days considered by many to be all right, such as dancing, card playing, going to theater, playing ball on Sunday, etc. And inasmuch as as it is by us known that theatrical performances, St. Claus (make ups) and others, by us considered wrong functions, are taking place under the auspices of the church in consideration of raising money for church work;

Inasmuch as possibilities arise wherein we realize that our Scandinavian people—at least our young people—are in danger of being impressed by this, by us considered wrong, at least when in connection with church work and the church. "UNCHRISTIAN LIKE LIFE."

We hereby, in the name of the Lord, bring forth an impressing warning to our people and a request that they take a firm stand to offset the above named amusements; at least so when in consideration of good enough church functions. In our estimation the above named amusements are not conducive to a good Christian life, nor do we believe that they can bring forth the cause of God's work and His kingdom, nor can be done and taken part in to the glory of His name.

"Allt hvad I goren med ord eller gerning, det goren i Herrens namn."

Pennington's Boy Chosen

Several week's ago the Minnesota State Fair association offered the farm boys of Minnesota a chance to visit the annual state fair for the entire week without expanse. One boy was to go from each county, the selection to be based on essays describing "Our Home Farm." The judges selected for Pennington county who recently picked the winning essay were E. A. Mostue, Ed A. Aubol and D. P. O'Neil. Mons Engelstad age 18, a son of Peter Engelstad, who is a well known farmer south of this city has the honor of representing Pennington county at the first state fair farm boys' encampment. Among the essays submitted his was declared the best and consequently he was given the first chance to accept the state fair association's invitation. The object of the association in offering a boy from each county a week at the fair is to create a greater interest in the annual exhibition by spreading throughout the country its real worth through these farm boys. Everything will be provided for the boys free of cost, and they will be given every opportunity to profit as much as possible while there.—News-Press.

Refused to Fly Sunday

"Jimmie" Ward did not fly in Crookston Sunday. A crowd of about 3,000 gathered to witness his performance but all but 120 were on the outside of the fence so at 5:15 Jimmie and his manager, Ed. Bloom, called for those inside to line up and get their money back and the huge gate receipts amounting to $62, were refunded and the crowd was compelled to return disappointed at not being able to get something for nothing.

Saturday afternoon Ward made the prettiest flight imaginable. He started in front of the grandstand and after flying over Carman and river for about 20 minutes made a landing as graceful as a bird directly in front of the grandstand. He has perfect control of his machine.

Ward flies at Regina two days this week for $1,500, and Saturday and Sunday goes to Duluth for flights.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson saw him fly here Saturday, coming down from St. Hilaire. They saw him fly once before, at the fair at Winnipeg the first of the month.—Crookston Times.

Japs Not Fond of Milk

The Japanese have only recently begun to drink milk, and on the whole they do not approve of it. They say that it tastes of the cow, and they prefer drinks of vegetable origin. Cattle have long been known in Japan, however, being used for draft animals. The Japanese show a strong preference always for vegetable diet and vegetable drinks. It is not strange, therefore, that they take kindly to the use of golden grain belt beers, made from the product of the farms, without even a trace of animal or chemical matter, Alex Thompson, Crookston, agent.

To Avoid Taking Cold.

Persons who take cold easily can greatly strengthen the entire respiratory tract by bathing the chest and neck morning and night with cold salt water; by "drawing" the salt water into the nostrils and expelling it from the mouth, and by taking deep inhalations of fresh air before an open window, expanding the chest and holding the air as long as possible, then slowly exhaling it. Do this morning and night for ten minutes and all tendency to colds will [illegible]

TO SEND COIN BY U. S. MAIL.

Express Companies Rudely Jarred by Discovery of New Clause.

Washington.—The treasury officials have recently discovered a highly interesting fact in regard to the appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government, which escaped general attention at the time it was enacted.

It pertains to the shipment of fractional silver coin from the several subtreasuries of the United States to banks in various parts of the country.

It now appears that in the rush attending the passage of the sundry civil bill, James Wesley Gaines of Tennessee caused to be inserted in the measure a provision that one-half of the $60,000 appropriation for the transportation of coin shall be expended for registered mail. Heretofore shipments of currency have uniformly been made by express, and the express companies have been obliged to make good any loss by theft or other accident in transportation.

The express companies are greatly concerned over the new order of things, especially as Mr. Daskam, chief of the bureau of public moneys in the treasury department, has ruled that the law means that $30,000 should be expended by registered mail before any part of the appropriation is expended for express charges. It is believed at the treasury department that, as the charges for registering a package is only eight cents, $30,000 will be sufficient to pay the entire apparent cost of transporting coins under this system for a year, and the express companies will therefore get none of the business.

The Malacca Wildcats.

In the forests of Malacca and other islands in the Indian ocean may still be found the animal known as a wildcat. The upper parts of it are generally of a clear yellow color, with black spots; the lower parts are white with black spots also. On the back the spots lengthen almost into lines or rings, black on yellow.

The average length of the animal, excluding the tail, is almost two feet; the tail averages nine inches. Its height when standing erect is about 12 inches at the shoulder and 15 inches at the hindquarters. Its temper is mild and gentle; it plays almost like a domestic cat, or rather kitten, chasing its tail and amusing itself with anything that it can roll with its paws.

Had Given It Away.

Lucille's mother had taken her for an outing. Now that the hour for luncheon had arrived, she called to the little girl:

"Lucille, we will now have a little roll and some chocolate, and you shall pay with the two sous I gave you but a short time since."

"Oh, mamma," cried Lucille, "I have already given the two sous away to an old woman!"

"I am so glad you have disposed of the money in such a charitable way. How did you happen to present it to the old woman?" asked the mother.

"Well, you see, I gave it to her in payment for two nice apples," confessed Lucille.

She Knew.

Two Chicago women, in New York for a stay of several months, were planning a series of visits to the opera. Their talk drifted to "Lucia di Lammermoor."

"I don't know where the story of the opera comes from," said one. "Of course, I know that it is from one of the old Italian romances, but I am not familiar with the particular source."

The second assumed an air of superiority.

"You need not be ashamed of your ignorance," said she. "It is only by chance that I know. It's from 'Aesop's Fables.'"—New York Evening Post.

Carlyle's Curious Study.

Thomas Carlyle, the noted English philosopher and historian, had a curious study. It comprised the entire third floor of his narrow brick house at Chelsea, a London suburb. The walls of the study were of double thickness, to prevent street noises from annoying the master while at his work, and a skylight afforded the light. Just how fresh air was furnished the room was not apparent to the visitor. There is nothing about the room to suggest comfort, only a close, thick-walled, skylighted long apartment where the great dyspeptic worked and worked ceaselessly, and from where he hurried to the kitchen, in the basement of the house, as soon as his day's labor was done. In the kitchen he received his most intimate friends, and there they smoked their pipes together.

The Order of Fools.

April 1 is not the only Fools' day in the year. On November 12, 1381, the Order of Fools was instituted by Adolphus, count of Cleves.

Members were not by any means idiots, however, for the word had a different meaning then. They were the prototype of our modern Order of Foresters or Odd Fellows, during a similarly benevolent work. Their insignia consisted of a mantle, upon the left shoulder of which was embroidered a jester or fool, in cap and bells, yellow hose and silver vest. So these cheery useful jokers [illegible]

For County Treasurer

I hereby wish to announce my candidacy for the office of county treasurer at the republican primaries to be held Sept. 17, 1912, and earnestly solicit the support of the voters of Pennington county.

JOHN T. GULLINGSRUD.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by W. J. LaBree.)

Sheriff

I wish to announce to the voters of Pennington county that I am a candidate for the office of sheriff, and respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primaries September 17, 1912.

Yours very truly,
W. J. LABREE.
Thief River Falls, Minn.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00 paid by J. M. Bishop.)

For County Attorney

I am a candidate for county attorney for Pennington county on the republican ticket on the first primaries to be held in the county. I have never held a county office although I have been in the practice of law for twenty-two years, but would consider it an honor to be the first nominee of the party for county attorney in the county. I will be delighted to receive your vote and support.

J. M. BISHOP.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by A. H. Fasel.)

County Auditor

Thief River Falls, Minn., July 15, 1912

I wish hereby to announce to the voters of Pennington county, that I am a candidate for the the republican nomination for the office of county auditor, at the September 17, 1912, primaries. Since my appointment to this office, at the time of the organization of Pennington county, I have given the office my whole time and my very best efforts. Should I be favored with the nomination and election, I believe with the experience gained, I will be still better prepared to serve you the coming term.

If our services have met with your approval I earnestly solicit your consideration and support.

Very truly yours,
A. H. FASEL.

Clerk of Court

I wish to announce to the voters of Pennington county that I will be a candidate for the republican nomination for clerk of the district court for Pennington county, subject to the decision of the voters at the republican primary, September 17, 1912.

I have occupied the position since the organization of Pennington county and have tried to the best of my ability to be strictly impartial and as efficient as my ability would allow. I will be pleased to have the votes and support of all citizens who believe that I have filled the position in an honest and efficient manner.

If nominated and elected I hereby promise to give the office my personal attention and my best efforts to honestly administer the affairs of the office in a strictly impartial and efficient manner.

HARRY E. IVES.
Thief River Falls, Minn., July 15, 1912.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by Andrew Trovaten.)

For County Treasurer

I wish to announce that I am a candidate for county treasurer, subject to the ratification of the republican voters at the primaries, September 17, 1912. Being that political parties have always regarded it as important to have their members elected to all offices, it must be for aid in promoting party politics, for so far as the work in the county offices is concerned, it can make no difference whatever, what the officer's political affiliations are, so the idea must be that he is expected to talk and work, and use the advantage of his public position, in aiding the party to which he belongs. I believe that it is of the utmost importance to have the republican party control at least one branch of congress, in order to maintain the average of prices. While the price-level does not prove that times are good, theoretically, yet we know that with the enormous debt of the country, it will be harder to pay it with low prices than with high, steady prices. I believe that because one cannot support the whole republican ticket, it is no reason at all to quit supporting candidates for congress and the legislature, which is by far more important than the office of president, so far as party politics is concerned. These are my ideas, and I shall use my influence [illegible]

Judge of Probate

I hereby announce that I am a nonpartisan candidate for re election to the office of judge of probate in and for Pennington county, Minnesota. I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the primary election to be held on Tuesday Sept. 17, 1912.

WILHELM MICHELET,
Judge of Probate,
Thief River Falls, Minn.

(Paid advertisement, $5.00, paid by E. A. Mostue.)

County Superintendent

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for re-election for the office of superintendent of schools for Pennington county subject to the ratification of the voters at the primary to be held Tuesday, Sept, 17, 1912.

Your vote and support are respectfully solicited.

ONE STONE FENCES FARM.

Missouri Man Has Land Where No Wheel Ever Rolled.

Jasper, Mo.—Within sight of this town a settler has a farm which probably is unlike any other in the world.

This farm occupies the tableland on the summit of a ridge and is inclosed with a fence which no animal has ever broken through. It does not rise above the surface of the farm, but falls sheer from the edge a distance of many feet. The man who homesteaded the tableland had a hard climb up the face of a perpendicular cliff to reach the comparatively level summit.

At one point a ledge extends out a few inches and along the face of the cliff at an upward grade. By following this ledge and making use of occasional points of rocks and of shrubs growing in the fissures the discoverer pulled himself to the summit and found a surface well covered with a soft and luxuriant vegetation.

Gradually he improved the ledge until he could carry up tools and seed. By blasting and drilling he cleared a narrow trail, up which he was able to take first some pigs and then a cow. Later on he took up a horse.

And that to-day is the condition of this curiously protected farm. No vehicle has turned a wheel within its limits of palisades. The live stock has multiplied and consumes the grain raised. Some stones thrown across the trail completely fence in the hogs and cattle. When the farmer has stock to sell he drives the animals down the private trail and strikes the road to Jasper.

CATERPILLARS HALT TRAIN.

Three Times Within Mile Crew Shovels Them Off the Tracks.

St. John, N. B.—Moths, caterpillars and other like pests have made their appearance in great numbers in many sections of this province, particularly in York county. There they have caused considerable inconvenience, and several amazing stories are told of experiences when they have met in large bodies. Trainmen manning a freight between Fredericton Junction and McAdams are authority for a statement that appears incredulous. They say that the heavy freight train was stopped three times within a mile by caterpillars which swarmed over the tracks in such numbers as to effectually impede the progress of the train. It was necessary to arm the entire train crew with shovels and scoop the thousands of pests off the tracks, and another those on the roadbed by shoveling gravel over them. They report [illegible]

LOMBARD PIANOS
The Pianos With The Sweetest Tone

Praised by Press and Pulpit

No Piano has ever been more enthusiastically endorsed. The Artistic Case, the Easy, Responsive Action, and above all the deep, sweet, rich Tone, captivates performer and listener. The united verdict is that

LOMBARD PIANOS ARE THE
BEST IN THE WORLD !!

Mrs. Helen M. Slater, 244 Grand Ave., Aurora, Ill., says: "I cannot find words in the English language to express my appreciation to you for having sold me such a beautiful instrument. I really think it is the most beautiful case I ever saw, and the tone is simply grand. I shall be glad to give you any testimonial, as I think the Lombard should take the lead."

Rev. Geo. Doubleday, Pres. Corpus Christi College, Galesburg, Ill., says: "We are using the Lombard in our College work at Corpus Christi, and it is a pleasure to recommend it. It is a beautiful instrument with a deep, sweet, rich tone."

J. W. Purviance, Editor McNairy County Independent, Selmer, Tenn., says: "The instrument (Lombard Piano) fills our most sanguine expectations. It is not only a rare beauty in its outward finish, but the tone is round, full, rich and sweet. Your firm has proven to be prompt and reliable in its dealings with me."

J. Ernest Paxson, Editor Press, Parkersburg, Pa., says: "I must say that the Lombard sent me is a beautiful instrument, and a credit to a standard firm. We are more than satisfied."

R. S. Knapp, President Federal Charter Co., Washington, D. C., says: "We now realize after a careful and comprehensive trial of the Lombard by many musical artists of Washington, that it stands second to none, regardless of price or make. Every one who has tried this instrument is enthusiastic in its praise."

These are samples of hundreds of enthusiastic letters received in every mail.

BEST DEFENCE AGAINST DISEASE

Is a Supply of Rich, Red Blood and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Are the Tonic to Use When the Blood Is Thin and Weak.

Thin, impure blood is an invitation to sickness. The blood is at work, day and night, to maintain the health and any lack of strength or purity in the blood is a weakness in the defense against disease. Anaemia is the doctor's name for lack of blood. There may be an actual loss in the quantity of the blood or one or more of its constituents may be lacking. Its surest symptom is pallor. Anaemia is particularly common in young girls from 14 to 17 years of age. It is not confined to them for it is this same lack of blood that prevents full recovery after the grip, fevers, malaria and operations and is present in old age and in persons who have been under an unusual physical or mental strain.

Mr. Morgan Bowen, of No. 2631 Fillmore Street, N. E. Minneapolis, Minn., says:

"When I was 15 years old I went into a decline and my parents feared I was going into consumption. I was sick for a year and was not able to do much of anything. The sickness came on me gradually. I was pale and seemed to lose my strength. I was attending school at Winona at the time and became so nervous that I had to give up my studies. My parents were alarmed about my condition as there had been consumption in the family.

"A friend advised my mother to give me Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and before I used them long I was much improved. I gave the pills a thorough trial and was fully restored to health. My health has been good since, but I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in the house and take them when I feel I need a tonic."

The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills by building up the blood so that it can nourish and strengthen the weakened system has made hundreds of cures in the most severe disorders.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People should be used in anaemia, chlorosis or green sickness, sick headache, nervousness and for a general run-down condition of the health.

Send for free booklet, "Diseases of the Blood."

Dr Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes, $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Result of the Primary.

It had been a hard day at the polls. The addition of nearly a thousand women's votes to the poll made the counting a prolonged proposition.

"Well, James," said Mrs. Wallicky, as her husband returned from his arduous labors as a teller, "how did the vote go?"

"Nine hundred and two votes for Bildad, seven hundred and fifty-three for Slathers, eight recipes for tomato ketchup, four wash lists and a milliner's bill," said Wallicky. "It was a mighty interesting vote."—Judge.

Jolt to Romance.

"How about that young doctor? Has he proposed?"

"Not yet. Papa nearly ruined everything last night."

"How was that?"

"Just as the doctor was pleading for a peep at my eyes, papa came in and asked him to take a look at my tonsils."

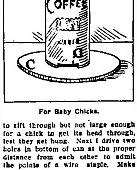
POULTRY

HOPPERS FOR THE CHICKENS

Details and Illustrations for Free Delivery of Feed Into Trays for Young and Old.

I make all my dry-feed hoppers for chicks, from one-pound coffee cans, and covers from five-pound lard pails, says a writer in the Farm and Home. They are very satisfactory as well as cheap.

With a can opener I cut a slit about two inches long, close to the bottom of the can, then at each end of the cut make a half-inch incision toward the top of the can. With a pair of pinchers I bend back the tin, making a hole large enough to allow the feed to sift through but not large enough for a chick to get its head through, lest they get hung. Next I drive two holes in bottom of can at the proper distance from each other to admit the points of a wire staple. Make corresponding holes in the pail cover, insert the staple through the four holes and bend each point outward, fastening cover and can together. Remove top from can and fill with meal or bran and there is not a hopper on the market more useful for baby chicks up to four and five weeks of age.



For Baby Chicks.

The hopper for larger fowls is made from a long but narrow wooden box. Any dimensions which suit the space or wishes of the poultry man may be use. Remove cover and front side from box, saw a small strip from end of the removed front and fit carefully upon cleats placed from front corner of top to back corner of bottom. (See line a b.) Across front of bottom c, nail a narrow strip to prevent feed from being pushed out on floor.

For the cover, hinge top of box to back side and the hopper is ready to hang upon the wall or place on blocks the right distance from floor to allow fowls to eat comfortably. In fitting the front upon the cleats allow half an inch space from bottom and one inch from back of hopper. This gives free delivery of feed into the tray.

SUNFLOWER SEED FOR HENS

Russian Variety Is Most Prolific for Furnishing Good Quality of Rich Oil Feed.

For poultry the Russian sunflower is the most prolific variety. Sow seed early in June. The sunflower is a profitable crop to grow for furnishing a good quality of rich oil feed to take the place of cottonseed or flaxseed meal. Sunflower seed is used in all the poultry mixtures now sold in the markets.

The sunflower is a hardy plant, a vigorous and rapid grower, and a good plant to grow not only for its seeds, but also for its bright, beautiful yellow blossoms. The plant, when in full bloom, makes a good food for honey bees. Have the ground deeply plowed and thoroughly mellowed. The ground should be rich to grow large heads full of seed. Mark the rows off three feet apart and three inches deep. Drop two seeds to the running foot. When plants are up thin out the stand 15 to 20 inches apart. Good culture, free of grass and weeds, must be given through the season.

Vacation for Breeding Stock.

Give the breeding stock, you intend to carry over for next season, a vacation in vacation quarters. If possible, separate the males and females and give each flock outdoor quarters on ample range, well shaded. Let them occupy this summer range until time to house in winter quarters in the fall. You will find that they moult out cleaner and earlier and that they will prove better in breeding condition.

Fatten Cockerels.

As soon as the cockerels weigh three-quarters of a pound they should be penned for ten to twelve days and fed all they will eat of corn chop or a wet mash composed of two parts corn meal, one part bran and one part low grade flour. If this mixture can be dampened with skim milk, it will add much to its fattening and bleaching qualities.

Corn Always Fattens.

A corn ration will put on fat just as fast in summer as in winter. For this reason the flock of laying hens should be fed sparingly of corn and should be made to dig and scratch for the small grain they get. Another excellent way to give them exercise is to [illegible]

WHY PURE BREEDS ARE BEST

Well Kept Flock of Thoroughbreds Costs No More to Feed and House Than the Mongrels.

(By MRS. H. F. GRINSTEAD.)

The person who raises chickens, turkeys, ducks or any other fowl naturally feels a greater pride and interest in thoroughbred stock and, therefore, gives the flock better care than would be given to mongrels. No matter what kind of birds you have, however, the same rule of good care applies. With the right kind of care and interest your flock will yield abundant satisfaction and good profit and both of these are felt to a greater degree by the owner of the thoroughbred fowls.

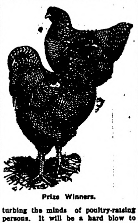
Houses, yards and feed cost about the same for either mongrels or full bloods and a well kept flock of thoroughbreds always attract attention and admiration from neighbors, who are often willing to pay a much better price for eggs for hatching purposes from such stock than ordinary eggs will bring.

Many buyers, every season, get excellent results in the least expensive way by purchasing eggs from which to hatch pure bred stock. The breed best suited to your surroundings and the purpose you wish them to serve should be selected. The best meat producer is not, as a rule, a good egg producer and so on, but with careful study of some of the breeds a buyer ought to be able to know how to select just what will meet his needs.

PLYMOUTH ROCKS ARE FIRST

More Marketable Than White-Feathered Chickens, Says Prof. Lippincott of Kansas.

The most marketable breed of chickens is the Barred Plymouth Rock. This decision, handed down a few days ago by W. A. Lippincott, professor of poultry husbandry at the Kansas Agricultural college, answers a question which long has been disturbing the minds of poultry-raising persons. It will be a hard blow to the popular theory that white-feathered chickens are more in demand on the markets than any other breed. Doubtless you have stood by that belief all your life, and you may take exception to the ruling of the court.



Prize Winners.

But white feathers don't count for all, the poultry professor says. And he has made, in packing centers, an investigation upon which to base his assertions. At to their marketable merit, Prof. Lippincott ranks the various breeds like this: Barred Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes, White Plymouth Rocks, Black Langshans, Leghorns, Brahmas, Cochins, Scrubs.

Yellow shanks and yellow skin are demanded above everything else, the decision says. Further, the shanks must be clean and free from feathers. The body must be plump and of medium size—four to seven pounds, for roasting birds. The breeds that most nearly meet these requirements are the Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, and Rhode Island Reds. The reason such breeds as Buff Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds do not appear in the list just given is because they have not been bred in sufficient numbers to make an impression on the market. Packers are not acquainted with them.

Question of Profit or Loss.

Success or failure with poultry depends entirely upon the management, and in studying the cause of failures the poultry keeper must hold in view the fact that the fowls are creatures in his charge, and that upon his judgment hinges the question of profit or loss.

Reduce Egg-Laying Power.

An egg is a chemical combination, and if hens lack in their feed any element which is found in eggs then the power to produce eggs is lowered.

POULTRY NOTES

Look to the comfort of the fowls.

Never feed whole corn except at evening.

Direct sunlight is a great natural disinfectant.

Don't neglect your chicks and fowls in hot weather.

Hot, close weather brings lots of lice to the dirty pen.

It is a well-known fact that all hens are not good layers.

The hot, sultry weather is trying to both fowls and men.

Don't crowd sleeping quarters. Keep fronts of houses open.

Hens and pullets do not thrive on the same kind of feed.

Heat prostration is common in yards where there is no shade.

Keep things clean. Use lice powder, lice paint and disinfectants freely.

As soon as the hatching season is over all sale birds should be marketed.

Feed little, if any, corn or other heating foods while the temperature is high.

It takes a good poultryman to keep up his enthusiasm when the weather [illegible]

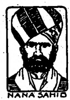
Nana Sahib, a Man of Mystery



NANA SAHIB

THE name "Nana Sahib," a half century ago, was one of terror and loathing all over the civilized world. Today Americans have half forgotten it. Several million dusky Orientals secretly or openly hailed Nana Sahib as a deliverer and a true patriot. A still larger number of white people declared him a fiend. He was the foremost figure in the Sepoy Mutiny. His terrible work ended, he apparently vanished from the face of the earth.

His name was not Nana Sahib. That was merely his title. (His name was Dhundo Punt). He was the son of a high caste Hindoo and was born about 1825. When he was a baby he was adopted by Bhajee Rou, prince of the Maharattas; and in 1851 he succeeded his adopted father as prince. Bhajee had been lord of wide estates and had received a yearly pension of $450,000 from the British government. At his death the pension was stopped and the government seized much of his land.

This angered Nana Sahib, who had hoped to inherit all of Bhajee's wealth. He sent an agent to England to urge his rights. But all he could secure from the British was permission to hold the barren title of prince and to rule the fortress town of Bithoor, near Cawnpore.

If Nana felt resentment at this lopping off of his power he showed no outward sign of it. He came of a race that knew how to hide its feelings and to await the right moment for revenge.

So, instead of sulking in his fortress or joining in the thousand foolish, hopeless native plots that were forever stirred up against the white men, he became as "English" as he could. He spoke the language and tried to follow the customs of the British. He mingled as much as he was allowed to in English society at the India garrison towns. When callow English youths turned up their noses at his pretensions or sneered at him as a mere native, he bore all such slights patiently and redoubled his efforts to copy the ways of his white masters. He succeeded. Every one believed him devoted to England.

Then, in 1857, came the Sepoy Mutiny. Most of England's white regiments had been summoned away from India to the Crimean War, leaving the country chiefly garrisoned by Sepoy, or native troops. The religious fanaticism of these native soldiers was so cleverly worked upon by Nana and other secret agents that they rose in a body against the English.

Nana, when the mutiny broke out, declared himself ready to die in the defense of his British friends. They trusted him absolutely. But as soon as the uprising showed signs of success he cast aside the mask of loyalty, placed himself at the head of a Sepoy army, and proceeded to wreak horrible vengeance for his real or fancied wrongs.

Battle after battle Nana fought with the white troops during the next few months, almost always being beaten in fair fight, but continuing to massacre any small detachments of English he could find. His wily brain and heartless cruelty made him a scourge to the British until the whole Mutiny was stamped out.

Then England wreaked fearful vengeance on her crushed foes. Native leaders were tied to the cannon's mouth and blown to pieces. Other cruelties were inflicted that could be partly excused only when one remembered that the avengers were mad with anguish over the brutal murders of their wives and children.

But, while other and lesser conspirators suffered punishment, Nana Sahib escaped. To this day no Englishman knows what became of him, whether he died years ago or is still living in luxurious safety in some Oriental land.

Philip of Orleans, the Man Who "Made" Money

PARIS swarmed like a beehive. Every house was occupied. People paid as high as $50 a week for the privilege of renting an unfurnished attic. From every part of France, from all parts of Europe, frenzied men and women—money-drunk — thronged to the French capital.

For the greatest "get-rich-quick" scheme on record was in progress. And its promoter and chief backer was Philip, duke of Orleans, regent of France. At his side stood a canny Scotchman, John Law by name. Philip, coached by Law, was literally "making" money. He was manufacturing it for his own benefit as he might have manufactured cigars or tin cans. It was a pleasant and profitable business. When the regent needed money he ordered bills to be engraved and used them at will—regardless of the fact that there was no real cash in the treasury to meet the bills when they should be presented.

Philip was the nephew of King Louis XIV. of France. He began life with splendid prospects. He was brilliant, brave, of attractive personality and with strong talent as a statesman and soldier. But in youth his tutor, Dubois (whom he afterward made prime minister of France), taught him to sneer at morality and goodness and to revel in a life of low dissipation. In spite of these drawbacks Philip made a name for himself. He was so fine a general and so successful in France's wars that Louis XIV. grew jealous of his fame and withdrew him from the field. Next he plotted to seat himself on the Spanish throne. And again court influence checked him. So he devoted himself to the study of chemistry, including the art of preparing poisons. And soon afterward nearly all the heirs to the throne of France suddenly died. Philip was accused of poisoning them in order to gain the crown himself. He denied this and demanded a trial. Old Louis XIV., who hated him, refused Philip even this doubtful chance to clear himself.

When Louis XIV. died, in 1715, the next heir to the throne (Louis XV.) was only five years of age. Philip (brushing by the obstacles Louis XIV. had raised against such an act) had himself declared regent of the kingdom until the new king should be of age. He found France in an almost bankrupt condition through the late king's extravagances, and he tried to start an era of prosperity. Instead, he started an avalanche of misfortune.
